

Contents

Foreword	page xv
Preface	xvii
Acknowledgements	xix
1 Rival Paradigms	1
Plato and Aristotle	1
The Atomists	6
The Christians	7
The Machine Metaphor	10
Natural Theology	14
Evolution Arrives	16
Charles Darwin	20
After Darwin	23
Organicism Redux	29
The Twentieth Century	34
2 The Mechanists' God	36
Warfare?	36
Creationism	39
Intelligent Design Theory	43
Revealed Religion	49
Natural Theology	54
Agnosticism	56
Fine-tuning	58
The Problem of Evil	60

xii CONTENTS

Humans Contingent?	62
Arms Races	63
3 The Organicists' God	67
Organicism and Christianity	67
Henri Bergson	70
Omega Point	72
Agnosticism	76
Process Philosophy	79
Coming Full Circle	81
4 Humans	83
Morality	83
Free Will	84
Substantive Ethics: Mechanism	88
Social Darwinism	93
Debunking	97
Progress	99
“Ought” from “Is”?	100
5 Environment	103
Environmental Challenges	103
Gaia	105
Global Warming	109
Two Paradigms Revisited	112
The Green Revolution	113
Christianity – Historical Questions	114
Christianity – Are We Superior?	117
Christianity – Is Technology Inherently Bad?	119
6 Hate	124
The Problem	124
The Darwinian Explanation	125
Just War Theory	126
The Organismic Perspective on War	128
Christian Response	130

	CONTENTS	xiii
Prejudice		134
Despised Outgroups		135
Christianity		142
Is Organicism Superior?		147
Epilogue		151
Summary of Common Misunderstandings		155
The life sciences and Christianity relationship is of interest/ importance only to life scientists		155
The life sciences and Christianity relationship is of interest/ importance only to Christians		155
The life sciences and Christianity are at war		156
Christianity is just about ethics		156
The life sciences are just about facts		156
The life sciences have no debts to Christianity		156
Christianity has no debts to the life sciences		156
Christianity is for people who are scared of reality		157
The life sciences are for people who are tough-minded realists		157
This book is the final word on the topic		157
References and Further Reading		158
Figure Credits		175
Index		177