

Index

- Adams, James Eli, 126
The Adventures of Roderick Random (Smollett), 96, 112, 124
Advice to his Son on Men and Manners (Lord Chesterfield), 9
- affect affective attachment in celebrity culture, 228 affective distance, 254–56, 259, 261
 affective resonances, 256–59
 in Aurora Floyd, 249–53, 256–59 and gender ideology, 261 and the individual, 262, 266 interface with material world, 261 in Lady Audley's Secret, 261, 263, 265 and madness, 263
 in sensation novels, 244, 254–56, 259, 266
 and the social, 262, 266
 and temporality, 255, 266
- Ahmed, Sara, 255, 257
- Ainsworth, William Harrison. See also Jack Sheppard (Ainsworth) conception of celebrity, 174, 179 conception of crime fiction, 173–76 influence on Dickens, 193, 194 novels' adaptability for the stage, 173 remediation of history, 24–28, 31 Rookwood, 1, 173
 spectacle of violence, 201
- Altick, Richard, 52
- Anderson, Amanda, 113, 244, 255
- Anderson, Benedict, 20, 206
- Anderson, Patricia, 1, 29, 148
The Athenaeum, 66–68, 162, 167, 171
- audience
 for Caleb Williams, 209 and celebrity culture, 21, 205, 218–19
 and class status, 174 consciousness of, 139, 140, 157, 174 engagement with Jack Sheppard, 172 identification with protagonists, 145–46, 203, 204 for Newgate novels, 146, 167, 174, 204 for Paul Clifford, 167 and performance, 224, 225 protagonists' awareness of, 152, 172–73, 217, 224, 231
 and serialized novel format, 204
 spectatorship, 148, 192 temporal and spatial proximity, 254
- Aurora Floyd* (Braddon), 247–53, 256–59
 affective resonances, 256–59
 Aurora's affective force, 249–53
 Aurora character, 256–59
 Aurora's demotic celebrity, 249–50 commercial culture, 251 domesticity in, 258 fashion, custom, and time, 249–53 hypercurrency, 251
 representation of modernity, 244 self-performance and temporality, 250
- Austen, Jane, 55, 186
- Austin, Alfred, 245, 246, 254
- Badowska, Eva, 13, 245, 264, 272
- Balfour, Ian, 24, 98
- Barbauld, Anna Letitia, 39
- Barnaby Rudge* (Dickens), 190–215 ambivalence over the domestic, 211–12 and celebrity culture, 190, 209, 219 crowds in, 199, 208–210 illustrations of, 200 individuals and social collectives, 205 and Jack Sheppard, 193–95, 197, 200–203, 207, 209, 220
 as Newgate novel, 190, 193 political critique in, 196–97 and public character, 199–200, 205 public violence and private life, 212–15 relationship to the past, 135, 214 reorientation toward the middle classes, 198
 visibility, 198–99
- Barrell, John, 15

- Barrett Browning, Elizabeth, 60
Barry Lyndon (Thackeray), 190
 Barthes, Roland, 14, 17
 Baudelaire, Charles, 42, 54
The Beggar's Opera (Gay), 1 Bender, John, 136, 147
 Benjamin, Walter
 on Baudelaire's Parisian flâneur, 54 fashion and history, 14, 23 fashion's citational practice, 5, 98 on history, 23, 98, 141, 160 and modernity, 3, 10
 Bentley, Richard, 71
Bentley's Miscellany, 2
 Berlant, Lauren, 146, 215, 265
Bildungsroman
 as model for novel's development, 93, 97, 108 Pelham as, 93, 108–109
 silver-fork novels as alternatives to, 53, 91, 115
 "Black Box" (Egan), 273, 275
Bleak House (Dickens), 12
Bluets (Nelson), 273
 Braddon, Mary Elizabeth. See also Lady Audley's Secret (Braddon); Aurora Floyd (Braddon) contemporaneity in, 266
 The Doctor's Wife, 263
 gender politics, 258 novelty and obsolescence in, 264 reading historical progress into, 263–65 representation of modernity, 244, 265–66 serialized format of novels, 271
 Braudy, Leo, 5, 21, 89, 134, 137–39, 166, 215, 217
 Brown, Bill, 278
 Browne, Hablot, 200
 Buckley, Matthew, 31, 146, 167, 174, 180, 193, 213, 242
 Buckstone, J.B., 173
 Bulwer-Lytton, Edward. See also Paul Clifford (Bulwer-Lytton); Pelham; or, the Adventures of a Gentleman (Bulwer-Lytton) Byron's influence, 110–13 criticism and praise of, 56, 167 engagement with picaresque, 110–13
 England and the English, 11, 105
 Eugene Aram, 144, 241
 Godolphin, 58, 104
 Godwin's influence, 113
 Lucretia, 144
 melodrama in, 167
 and social reform, 11, 104–105
 Burney, Frances, 18, 74, 97
 Burton, John, 9
 Bury, Lady Charlotte, 67
 Buzard, James, 232
 Byron, George Gordon, Lord celebrity of, 21–22, 141, 209 code-switching, 132
 compared to David Copperfield, 229 criminal protagonists in, 142 Don Juan, 14, 110–12, 132, 142, 164 emergence of celebrity culture, 21, 229 influence on Newgate school, 142 restyling of picaresque, 110, 142 Caleb Williams (Godwin), 148–57 autobiographical narrative in, 151–53 Caleb and Jack Sheppard, 153–55
 demotic celebrity, 148–50 identity and criminal discourses, 156 Kit Williams, 149–50
 publics forming around criminals, 146 self-fashioning identity, 149, 156–57
 Campbell, Timothy, 3, 5, 9, 22, 25, 88, 161, 247, 275
 Carlyle, Thomas
 criticism of Pelham, 110, 124
 The French Revolution, 211
 the prophet figure, 196
 Sartor Resartus, 39, 94, 109, 177, 230
Catherine (Thackeray), 190, 242
Cecil, a Peer (Gore), 115
Cecil: or, The Adventures of a Coxcomb (Gore), 115–20
 character of Cecil, 115 disenchantment with Victorian domestic ideal, 101
 models of selfhood, 115 picaresque narrative structure, 115 plotlessness and class status, 91 relationship to history, 118–19
 celebrity culture. See also visual culture; performance; demotic celebrity; fame and affective attachment, 228 and audience, 21, 219 audience relationship, 21, 205, 218–19 Byron's celebrity, 21–22, 141, 209 and David Copperfield, 191–92, 210, 218, 219, 228 development of, 19–23, 137, 174, 191, 229
 and fashion, 20, 22, 67, 132, 133, 252
 and Jack Sheppard, 169–70, 172–74, 179–80 for a mass-mediated age, 232 and media, 205
 new form of public life, 133
 in Newgate novels, 129 perversion of consuming, 137, 209 pleasure and, 225
 print culture, 5, 21, 27, 133, 154
 public sphere, 137, 218

- publicity, 154, 230
 rites of, 136, 150, 172, 205 Romantic denigration of, 222 satire of, 194–97
 spectacle's role, 5, 136, 217 and violence, 136, 204
 visibility, 5, 193, 199
 Chandler, James, 15, 188, 192, 193, 220 character and characterization. See also criminal protagonists audience identification with protagonists, 192, 203, 204
 awareness of audience, 217, 224, 231 Bulwer-Lytton's narrating protagonist, 112 changes in early eighteenth century, 92 the chaperone, 77–78
 code-switching ability, 163 consciousness of visibility and spectacle, 220
 the dandy, 113, 115, 131
 Don Juan's interiority, 111–12 gender and interpretation, 256–58 innocence and folly, 256–60, 262 mobility, 252
 the novice, 92
 pícaros (rogues), 95–97, 110
 the prophet figure, 196
 self-performance and self-production, 250, 260 in silver-fork novels, 93, 108, 109
 the siren, 257–58, 262
 social acumen, 109
 temporality, 250
 Tyburn Highwayman, 96
 Chesterfield, Lord, 9, 110, 125, 132, 164
 Chittick, Kathryn, 1, 180
 Clark, Peter, 123
 class. See status and class Classical Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue (Egan), 173
 code-switching, 112, 132, 163–65, 180
 Coel, Michaela, 276
 Colburn, Henry, 66–71
 the Colburn brand, 68–69
 criticism of, 66, 68–69 flooding of book market, 58 literary magazines, 68 promotional tactics, 67 publishing silver-fork novels, 66 range of literature published, 69–71 satirized in The Athenaeum, 66–67
 Cole, Teju, 273
 Colley, Linda, 116
 Collins, Phillip, 193
 Collins, Wilkie, 254
 commerce and commercial culture appetite for novelty, 63 consumer capitalism's contradictions, 63
 and fashion, 51, 131
 market uncertainties and identity, 130, 248 revolution in consumption, 4–5
 in sensation novels, 251 shopping, 54
 contemporaneity. See also temporality;
 modernity; fashion
 in Braddon, 266
 creating effect of, 52
 ephemerality of, 10, 65 felt experience of, 181, 255 and Jack Sheppard's image, 173 and melodrama, 166–67
 and new media, 130
 of Paul Clifford, 158–60, 161 phantasmagoria of, 97, 117 problem of, 17
 and sensation novels, 242, 244–47, 255 silver-fork school, 55, 59–62 temporal movement, 266
 time-discipline, 247 contemporary fiction, 273–78
The Contrast (Lord Normanby), 56, 62, 102–104, 108 conversation and commercial modernity, 80 and public opinion, 82
 in Romance and Reality, 80–82 shaping silver-fork novel protagonists, 80, 94
 and social reform, 102, 104 Copeland, Edward, 58, 65, 93, 116 criminal biographies, 28 criminal protagonists. See also character and characterization adaptation to circumstance, 174 audience, 145–46, 152, 172–73, 204, 209, 217
 in Byron, 142
 class status and criminality, 165–66, 175–77
 code-switching ability, 163 consciousness of visibility and reception, 131, 172–73, 179, 207–208
 crowds, 165, 168–70, 172 defined by mobility, 147, 162
 demotic celebrity, 172
 determinants of criminality, 175–77
 Dickens's dismantling of heroization of, 190, 194–96, 201, 204, 206
 female criminals as protagonists, 246, 258–59 and identity, 151, 156, 165, 166, 177–78, 209
 innocence and folly, 256–258, 262 low-born nature of, 142–43
 and madness, 262–63
 as modern fashionable beings, 134, 163

- criminal protagonists (cont.)
 new media and fashion system, 131 pleasure in transgression, 178 print imagery, 133
 psychology of, 144
 romanticization of, 162 as savage prophets, 196–98, 200 search for fame, 142, 143 self-fashioning, 134, 217, 260 spectacle via public visibility, 146, 165–66, 168, 172 tension between individual and commercial society, 130, 175 visibility, 134, 166, 172–73
 Cronin, Richard, 60, 244
 crowds
 in Barnaby Rudge, 199, 208–210
 and celebrity, 199, 207 Hogarth's rendering of, 169–70 from mob to public, 170, 199 modernity and urban life, 54–55, 64 and phantasmagoria, 19, 63, 65 spectacle of the criminal protagonist, 165–66, 168–70, 172, 179 visual rendering of, 168–70
Crudo (Laing), 273–74
 Cruikshank, George
Jack Sheppard illustrations, 1, 24–30, 168–73, 200 Oliver Twist illustrations, 171
 remediation of history, 24–31 rendering of crowds, 168–70 tableau illustration, 30 custom, 15–16, 78, 102, 139
 Cvetkovich, Ann, 260, 265
 Daly, Nicholas, 243, 247
 dandies. See character and characterization; silver-fork novels
 dandy novels. See silver-fork novels
 “The Dandy School” (Hazlitt), 11, 59
David Copperfield (Dickens), 215–32 adaptation of Newgate school, 192 celebrity and public-making, 229–32 as celebrity memoir, 218, 228 communal work of celebrity, 219 critical readings of, 215–16 David Copperfield vs Byron, 229 degradation and shame, 228
 demotic celebrity, 226–32
 new model of celebrity, 192, 217, 228–30 objectification, 222–25 optic drama, 232
 performativity in, 217, 223–24 pleasure of being seen, 221–24 preoccupation with visibility, 216–17 sense of vocation, 230–31 spectacle, 191, 217
 visibility, 193, 223, 227
 Davidson, Jenny, 111
 De Certeau, Michel, 152
 Defoe, Daniel, 1, 28, 95, 153–55
 demotic celebrity. See also visual culture; performance; celebrity culture; David Copperfield (Dickens); fame in Aurora Floyd, 249–50
 in Caleb Williams, 148–49 celebrity for the ordinary individual, 228–29 as communal construct, 148
 contemporaneity, 150
 in Dickens's fiction, 23, 190, 212 domestication of, 204, 206, 210, 218, 228–29, 250 elevation of, 226–29
 heroization of criminal dismantled, 201 integral to public culture, 179 in Jack Sheppard, 30, 172, 179
 new model of, 120, 217
 in Newgate novels, 22, 133, 134, 137 and the novel (genre), 2, 134, 204 permeation of celebrity culture, 22 and public culture, 23, 229–32
 Dickens, Charles. See also David Copperfield (Dickens); Barnaby Rudge (Dickens) Ainsworth's influence on, 193, 194
 audience, 204
Bleak House, 12
 celebrity and the gentleman-in-training, 23, 191–92 celebrity domesticated, 192, 212, 250 criminal protagonist as Good, 143 criminalization of poor and marginalized, 129, 145 critics of, 144
 critique of fashion, 122 dismantling heroization of criminal protagonist, 190, 194–96, 201, 204, 206 objectives in Newgate novels, 194 Oliver Twist, 129, 143–45, 171, 193
 relationship to the past, 214 religion as cover for criminality, 194 role of sympathy, 144 social commentary of, 195 visibility of modern subjectivity, 193 Disraeli, Benjamin, 94, 129
The Doctor's Wife (Braddon), 263
Don Juan (Byron), 14, 110–12, 132, 142, 164
 Duncan, Ian, 61, 188
 East Lynne (Wood), 248
 Edgeworth, Maria, 18

Egan, Jennifer, 273, 275
 Egan, Pierce, 123, 173
 Elfenbein, Andrew, 227
 Eliot, George, 267
England and the English (Bulwer-Lytton), 11, 105
 Entwistle, Joanne, 17
Eugene Aram (Bulwer-Lytton), 144, 241
 Evans, Caroline, 19, 24, 134, 141, 163, 164, 181, 251
Evelina (Burney), 77, 97
The Expedition of Humphry Clinker (Smollett), 96 Fake Accounts (Oyler), 275 fame. See also criminal protagonists; performance; celebrity culture; demotic celebrity; visibility access to the public sphere, 137–38
 in Caleb Williams, 155 vs celebrity, 138, 140, 230
 and fashion, 138
 and identity, 178
 of Jack Sheppard, 155, 172–73 and print media, 206
 as public character, 199 search for, 142, 143
 set in the past, 141
 visibility, 134, 155, 166, 172–73, 230 fashion. See also temporality; contemporaneity; modernity; identity; celebrity culture; silver-fork novels accessibility of, 131, 149 centrality of, 3 citational practice of, 98, 141
 criticism of, 11
 vs custom, 15–16, 102, 139 dual temporality, 12–16, 52, 249
 ephemerality, 4, 65
 Eurocentrism in fashion theory, 42 fashion system, 4, 20
 fashion time, 14, 74, 247–49 idiom of change, 17, 243 inauthenticity, 248, 253 innovation, 57, 131 language of slavery, 39
 as locus for satire, 18 materializes the spirit of the age, 58
 and modernity, 4, 57
 novelty and obsolescence, 4, 10, 13, 57, 98, 105, 131, 251, 278 openness of, 114, 163, 251 as an organizing technology, 132 politics, 58
 principle of currency, 242

 and public consciousness, 22, 103 revolution in consumption, 4 scholarly denunciation of, 278 sense of community, 6, 8 signifier of the present, 10, 13, 248 tension between materiality and immateriality, 9 as transforming the novel, 16–19 unconscious collective fantasies, 63, 160–61 vacuity of fashionable society, 64–65 fashionable novels. See silver-fork novels Ferris, Ina, 9, 20, 21, 25, 61, 103, 133
 Figg, James, 172
 First Reform Act (1832), 11, 58
 flash (criminal slang), 173 Flash Dictionary, 173
Fleetwood (Godwin), 153
 Flint, Kate, 264
 Forster, John, 235
Frankenstein (Shelley), 126
 Franta, Andrew, 145
Fraser's Magazine, 12, 68, 122, 146, 147, 166
The French Revolution (Carlyle), 211 gallows school of literature. See Newgate novels Gaskell, Elizabeth, 129, 211
 Gay, John, 1, 172
 gender. See also private sphere; sensation novels; criminal protagonists; character and characterization category of the gentleman, 200 destabilizing gender norms, 246 female criminal protagonists, 246, 258–59 interpreting character, 256–60 Lady Audley as gender protest, 263–64
 and madness, 262–63, 265–66 novel-reading's dangers for women, 246
 public sphere, 101
 Victorian gender ideology, 260, 263–64
 Gilbert, Pamela, 254, 258
 Gilmour, Robin, 110, 125
 Gladfelder, Hal, 28, 130, 154–55
Godolphin (Bulwer-Lytton), 58, 104 Godwin, William. See also Caleb Williams (Godwin) familiarity with Newgate Calendar, 153 Fleetwood, 153
 influence on Bulwer-Lytton, 113 representations of criminality, 151 sources and inspirations for Caleb Williams, 153 tradition of rogue literature, 150
 Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von, 93
 Goldfarb, Sheldon, 242
 Goodstein, Elizabeth, 88

- Gore, Catherine. See also Cecil: or, The Adventures of a Coxcomb (Gore)
 Byron's influence, 22
 disenchantment of Victorian domestic ideal, 101, 116 elegy for silver-fork schools' hopefulness, 119 historical model of, 117–19 ideas of selfhood in Cecil novels, 116 Pin Money, 52
Granby (Lister), 53, 108, 114
 Gregg, Melissa, 253
 Guest, Harriet, 151
- Habermas, Jürgen, 20
 Hart, F.R., 106
 Hazlitt, William on Byron, 229
 criticism of fashion, 12–13 criticism of fashionable novels, 2, 11–12, 51, 58, 251 custom and fashion, 16
 “The Dandy School”, 11, 59 fame vs celebrity, 138–39, 222 “On Fashion”, 12
 on fashion's authority, 250
 Hazlitt's own fame, 139
 Lectures on the English Poets, 70, 139 literature's need for distance, 254 published by Colburn, 70 on Scott, 139
 The Spirit of the Age: or, Contemporary Portraits, 70, 139, 229
- Heath, William, 75
 Hershinow, Stephanie Insley, 92, 121 highwaymen. See criminal protagonists Hill, Jonathan, 30, 171 historical fiction, 60–62 history and the past. See also temporality; contemporaneity; modernity Benjamin on, 14, 23, 98, 141
 in Bulwer-Lytton, 110–11, 157–60
 contemporaneous history, 59–62
 in Dickens, 135, 214
 and fashion, 3, 13–15, 22–24, 52, 98, 105, 160–61
 in Gore, 117–19
 historical consciousness, 3, 51, 57, 161, 247 historical progress, 263–65
 modern historicism, 160
 in Newgate novels, 118, 135, 141, 160
 in print culture, 27–30, 276 remediation of history in Jack Sheppard, 24–31, 135 in Scott, 60–61
 in sensation novels, 243, 244, 254–56
 in silver-fork novels, 58–62, 98–99, 118
- Hogarth, William, 1, 28–29, 168–70, 172
 Hollander, Anne, 3, 5, 6, 14, 27, 63, 98, 105, 248
 Hollingsworth, Keith, 135, 143, 147, 173 Hook, Theodore, 84
 Houdini, Harry, 209
 “An Hour at a Publisher's” (The Athenaeum), 66–67
 Hughes, Winifred, 91, 115
 Hunt, Leigh, 82
- I May Destroy You* (Coel), 276 identity. See also individuality and the individual; selfhood; performance celebrity as identity formation, 130, 151, 166, 217, 260 and commercial society, 130, 248 and criminal discourses, 156, 177–78, 209 customs and manners fundamental to, 78
 and fashion, 17, 131, 163, 165, 248 and performativity, 114, 165, 178, 217 in the picaresque, 95
 self-fashioning of, 130, 134, 149, 156–57, 163, 217 self-styling, 248, 251
 visibility, 101, 178, 208
 and visual culture, 4, 103, 131, 157, 178
The Importance of Being Earnest (Wilde), 113 individuality and the individual. See also selfhood; identity; performance; visibility Ainsworth on, 175
 boundary of the self, 17, 276 Bulwer-Lytton's utopian individuality, 114 and the collective, 101, 157, 194, 205, 214, 256
 and fashion, 101, 131, 138, 175, 248 fashion and the social, 5, 63, 181, 248 individual taste, 78 public visibility, 149, 205
 self-fashioning, 132
 and the social, 17, 19, 92, 117, 119, 131, 134, 175
 and spectatorship, 194 and structures of visibility, 194 Industry and Idleness (Hogarth), 1, 28–29, 168
- Jack Sheppard* (Ainsworth), 168–81. See also criminal protagonists; Sheppard, Jack adaptability to theatrical performance, 173 audience engagement, 146, 172
 class status and criminality, 175–77 comparison with Paul Clifford, 173 contemporary reception, 1, 145, 146, 171, 180, 241 crowds and spectacle, 168–70, 172 Cruikshank's illustrations, 1, 25–30, 168–73, 200
 demotic celebrity, 172, 179

- heroization of the criminal, 180 identity formation through crime, 177–78 melodrama, 166, 167
 model of public visibility, 174
 pleasure in transgression, 178 proto-mass media culture, 180 relationship with the past, 24–28, 31, 135 social critique, 174 status and criminality, 173 use of flash (criminal slang), 173
 Jaffe, Audrey, 215, 222, 223
 James, Henry, 242
 Jerdan, William, 68
 John, Juliet, 235
 Johnson, Claudia, 59

 Keddie, Henrietta, 246
 Keen, Paul, 3
Kenilworth (Scott), 199
 Klancher, Jon, 236
 Knight, Charles, 29

Lady Audley's Secret (Braddon), 259–67 affective field of, 261, 263, 265–67 gender in, 259–60
 Lady Audley and Aurora Floyd, 259–60 Lady Audley's character, 259–60, 262 madness and gender, 262–63, 265–66 representation of modernity, 244 vitality of fashion, 259
 Laing, Olivia, 273–74
 Lake Poets, 54
 Lamb, Charles, 19, 54
 Lamb, Jonathan, 4, 130
 Landon, Letitia Elizabeth. See also Romance and Reality (Landon) on conversation, 81
 on customs and manners, 78 ephemerality of contemporaneity, 65
 fashion-inflected theory of taste, 76–77 fashion time, the city, and modernity, 73 negligent chaperone tropes, 77–78 on popularity vs literary value, 55–56 Laver, James, 8
 law, 129, 154, 203, 210
 Lawford, Cynthia, 90, 102
Lectures on Female Education and Manners (Burton), 9
Lectures on the English Poets (Hazlitt), 70, 139
 Lehmann, Ulrich, 3, 55
 Leigh, Aurora, 60
 Levine, George, 53, 126
 Lewis, Matthew, 176
Life in London (Egan), 123
 Lipovetsky, Gilles, 4, 10, 57, 114, 163, 278

 Lister, Thomas, 53, 108, 114
Literary Gazette, 68, 159
 Litvak, Joseph, 236
 Lockwood, Patricia, 273–74, 276–78
Lodore (Shelley)
 crowds and phantasmagoria, 19, 63, 65
 and fashion, 71–73
 fashion time, the city, and modernity, 74 individual taste shaped by society, 76 society as dynamic force, 72–73
London Quarterly Review, 241
 “The Londoner” (Lamb), 54
Lucretia (Bulwer-Lytton), 144
 Lukács, Georg, 60, 61, 183
 Lynch, Deidre, 65, 83, 92

 Mackie, Erin, 8, 124, 156
 Madame Tussaud's Chamber of Horrors, 136
 Maginn, William, 12, 16, 110, 122, 198
 Mandeville, Bernard, 4
 Mansel, Henry, 70, 243, 245, 254, 271, 274
 “March of Intellect” prints, 75
 Marx, Karl, 5
Mary Barton (Gaskell), 211 mass media. See also visual culture; print culture mass media culture, 129, 180
 public sphere, 22, 137, 220, 276 and self-promotion, 230
 visibility, 220
 Matus, Jill, 260, 263
 McGann, Jerome, 93, 108, 125
 McKendrick, Neil, 37
 McKeon, Michael, 95–96, 110
 media ecology, 23, 101
 Mee, Jon, 80, 82, 197, 208, 210, 211 Meisel, Martin, 30, 171
 melodrama, 166–68, 171–72, 213
 metropolitan life
 crowds, 54–55, 64
 and fashion, 74
 fashion time and modernity, 73 mobility of urban life, 54–55 as multitudinous moving picture, 19 as phantasmagoria, 63–65, 111 society as dynamic force, 73 violence of, 166
 visually-saturated marketplaces, 54
 Michasiw, Kim Ian, 125, 197, 214
 Miller, D.A., 216, 254, 263, 270
 Miller, Monica, 164 modernity. See also temporality; history and the past; contemporaneity; fashion Benjamin on, 3, 10
 in Braddon, 244
 commercial modernity, 4–5, 80, 96

modernity (cont.)

- crowds and the metropolis, 54–55, 64
- experience of, 243
- and fashion, 3, 10, 13, 57
- historical consciousness of, 98
- and madness, 265–66
- metropolitan taste and fashion time, 74
- new historical sensibility, 57
- print culture, 20
- taste for novelty, 52, 57, 160

Mole, Tom, 21, 36, 67, 103, 133, 155, 157

Moll Flanders (Defoe), 95

The Monk (Lewis), 176

The Monthly Magazine, 158

Montwieler, Katherine, 260, 261

Morning Post, 94

Murray, John, 69

A Narrative of all the Robberies, Escapes, &c. of John Sheppard (Defoe), 1, 28, 153–55

Nelson, Maggie, 273

Nemesvari, Richard, 245

New Monthly Magazine, 68

The Newgate Calendar, 1, 132, 143, 153

Newgate novels. See also criminal protagonists; Jack Sheppard (Ainsworth); Barnaby Rudge
 (Dickens); Paul Clifford (Bulwer-Lytton)

Ainsworth's conception of crime fiction, 173–76

appeal of, 135–36, 147

audience, 146, 167, 174, 204

celebrity culture, 129, 132, 191

centrality of sympathy, 143–45

code-switching, 112, 132, 163, 165, 180

criticism of, 143, 145–147

demotic celebrity, 22, 133, 134, 137, 148

Eugene Aram, 144, 241

individual subjectivity and criminal discourse, 156 individual's relationship to society, 131, 134 influence of Byron, 141–42, 190 influence of Romantic models, 190 influence of Scott's Waverley novels, 25, 135

interrelation of celebrity and fashion, 120, 132 and mass media culture, 129

melodrama in, 166

modern historicism, 161

new consciousness of visibility, 154 new model of history, 118

new model of publicness, 148

performative fame, 141

presentness and the contemporary, 140, 157

public consciousness, 103, 145, 179 relationship between transgression and celebrity, 210

relationship to eighteenth-century crime narratives, 131

relationship to the past, 135, 141, 160

rise of, 119

role of keen observation, 165, 180

and sensation novels, 242

as social critique, 143

social inequality, 143, 157 synchronization with the temporality of fashion, 167

Thackeray's reaction against, 145, 242

use of flash (criminal slang), 173

Nicolazzo, Sal, 130

No One Is Talking About This (2021)

(Lockwood), 273–74, 276–78

Noggle, James, 6, 7

Normanby, Constantine Phipps, Lord, 56, 62, 102–104, 108

Northanger Abbey (Austen), 55 novel (genre). See also print culture; sensation novels; criminal protagonists; character and characterization; audience; Newgate novels; picaresque; silver-fork novels;

Bildungsroman

Bildungsroman as model for, 93, 97, 108 charge of trendiness and frivolity, 11, 18, 51, 58–59, 274

conception of public consciousness, 104 and the contemporary, 2, 3, 17, 31, 93 dangers of novel-reading, 246 defense of, 55, 82, 104, 140

and demotic celebrity, 2, 134, 204

engagement with proto-mass media culture, 190

Hazlitt's criticism, 2, 11–12, 51, 58, 251 history and temporality, 2, 18

literature's need for distance, 254

and modernity, 2

novelty and obsolescence, 161

representations of criminality, 2, 151 responsibility to shape public discourse, 104 serialized format, 204, 247, 271, 274–76

Twitter-novel and public sphere, 276–78

Twitter-novel, overview, 273–74

Twitter-novel's serialization, 274–76

Novels of the Eighteen-Forties (Tillotson), 93

Oliver Twist (Dickens), 129, 143–45, 171, 193

"On Fashion" (Hazlitt), 12

Oyler, Lauren, 275

Paul Clifford (Bulwer-Lytton), 157–68. See also criminal protagonists
 code-switching, 163
 comparison with Jack Sheppard, 173

- contemporaneity, 158–61
 criticism of, 162
 critique of social order, 157, 158 highwayman as knight errant, 159
 melodrama, 166–68
 modeled on Caleb Williams, 157 relationship with the past, 157–60 satire and social critique, 161–62
Pelham; or, the Adventures of a Gentleman (Bulwer-Lytton), 106–15 as Bildungsroman, 93, 108–109
 criticism of, 110, 124
 and fashion, 109, 114–15
 manifesto for manners, 109–10, 112 relationship to the past, 110–11
 role of keen observation, 109–10
 self-fashioning, 111–13
 as shaping contemporary society, 56 and sincerity, 113
 social engagement vs withdrawal, 106–108 on trifling, 56
 Penny, Laurie, 274
The Penny Magazine, 29 performance. See also individuality and the individual; selfhood; criminal protagonists; identity; celebrity culture; spectacle; fame;
 visibility
 and David Copperfield, 224, 225, 232
 and fashion, 248, 252
 performativity of identity, 165, 217, 223–24 in the private and public spheres, 20, 21, 101, 157 and selfhood, 23, 179, 250, 260
 and temporality, 250
 Pettitt, Clare, 19, 28, 30, 160, 186, 275 phantasmagoria, 19, 63–65, 97, 111, 117 Phillips, Mark Salber, 243, 244, 255 picaresque
 in Bulwer-Lytton, 94, 110–13 defined, 95
 in Defoe, 95
 exploration of status and identity, 95 Gore's engagement with, 117 movement and commercial modernity, 96 narrative structure, 110, 112, 115 pícaro's (rogue's) self-sufficiency, 95–96, 110 restyled in Don Juan, 110, 142
 self-fashioning identity, 130 silver-fork novels' engagement with, 93, 97–99
 in Smollett, 96
 and social critique, 96 Spanish picaresque and English writers, 95 temporality in, 95–96 tension between pícaro and narrator, 110
The Picture of Dorian Gray (Wilde), 113 Pin Money (Gore), 52
 Pocock, J.G.A., 65
 Poovey, Mary, 215, 216
 Porter, Roy, 3
 print culture. See also visual culture; mass media; novel (genre); Colburn, Henry celebrity culture, 5, 21, 27, 133, 154 fame, 206
 modernity, 20
 new visual forms, 5, 21, 30
 print imagery, 103, 133 print revolution of 1830s, 148 publishing, 66, 68–69
 seriality and historical consciousness, 276
 private sphere
 domesticity, 78–80, 102, 116, 211–12, 258 domesticity and intimate publics, 215 new conceptions of privacy, 276 and public sphere, 101–102, 205 and public violence, 212–15 Propp, Vladimir, 152
 public character
 in Barnaby Rudge, 199–200, 203–205 earnestness of David Copperfield, 229 fame as, 203–205
 media transformations and, 204, 232
 as public visibility, 205 self-awareness and visibility, 220 public life
 centrality of visibility, 20, 133, 134 inseparable from publicity, 133 performativity of, 20, 157, 179
 print culture, 5
 visuality of modern subjectivity, 179
 public opinion
 conversation's role in, 82
 demotic celebrity, 23
 and fashion, 104–105
 and social reform, 102–105, 230 virtual publics, 147
 public sphere
 access via fashion system, 137 access via proto-mass media, 137 audience and public consciousness, 21 celebrity culture, 133, 218 changes to, 22, 103
 and criminals, 146
 demotic celebrity, 179
 fame, 137–38
 new model of publicness, 148, 206
 performance, 21
 and private sphere, 101–102, 205
 public consciousness, 20, 21, 133, 145
 publicity, 23, 230

- public sphere (cont.)
 selfhood and public culture, 130 visual culture and fashion, 157 visual media, 206 visibility and performativity, 243
- Pykett, Lyn, 263, 270, 271
- religion, 194
- Richmond, Vivienne, 8
- Romance and Reality* (Landon), 73–84 conversation's significance, 80–82, 102 defense of the novel, 82, 104, 140
 ephemerality of contemporaneity, 65
 fashion-inflected theory of taste, 76–77 fashion time, the city, and modernity, 73 gender ideology, 79–80
 narrative form, 53
 narrator's limited role, 99–100 negligent chaperone trope, 77–78 popularity vs literary value, 55–56 role of keen observation, 99–100 and the social collective, 78, 80–81
- Rookwood* (Ainsworth), 1, 173
- Rosa, Matthew, 13, 59, 70, 93
- Rose, Jacqueline, 136, 209, 214, 217, 228, 244
- Rousseau, G.S., 95, 96
- Russell, Gillian, 99, 101, 123
- Sartor Resartus* (Carlyle), 39, 94, 109, 177, 230
- Schroeder, Natalie, 193
- Scott, Walter
 Hazlitt's criticism of, 139 influence of Waverley novels on Newgate school, 25, 135 influence of Waverley novels on silver-fork school, 60, 62, 100, 110, 118 Kenilworth, 199
 London as phantasmagoria, 63 temporality of fashion, 183
- Seigworth, Gregory, 253
- selfhood. See also individuality and the individual; identity; performance code-switching and mobility, 132
 and fashion, 5, 17, 163
 performance, 23, 250
 and public culture, 130
 self-fashioning, 5, 19, 111–12, 156–57, 248
 visibility, 23, 190
 visibility of, 151, 276
- Sen, Sambudha, 123
- sensation novels. See also Lady Audley's Secret (Braddon); criminal protagonists; character and characterization; Aurora Floyd (Braddon) affect and the social, 264, 266
 affective distance, 254–56, 259 class and status instability, 247 and contemporaneity, 242, 244–47, 255
 criticism of, 245, 274
 dual temporality of, 245–47 entanglement of affect and temporality, 255
 and fashion, 242, 247
 history of the contemporary, 244 madness of modern life, 266 narrative hypercurrency, 247, 251 and Newgate novels, 242
 principle of currency, 242 proximity and distance, 243, 244, 253–56 relationship to history, 243, 244, 254–56 serialized form of, 247
- Seymour, Robert, 75
- Shelley, Mary. See also Lodore (Shelley) ambivalence about fashion, 71–73 and Colburn, 69
 crowds and phantasmagoria, 19, 63, 65
 disenchantment of Victorian domestic ideal, 126
 fashion time, the city, and modernity, 74 Frankenstein, 126
 society as dynamic force, 72–73
- Shelley, P.B., 176
- Sheppard* (Buckstone), 173
- Sheppard, Jack compared to Caleb Williams, 153–55
 contemporaneity of, 173 Defoe's 1724 biography of, 1, 28, 153–55 fame of, 1–2, 155, 172–73 historical overview, 153 Hogarth's Industry and Idleness, 28–29 shopping, 54. See also commerce and commercial culture
- Showalter, Elaine, 263
- silver-fork novelists, 59–62, 98–99, 117
- silver-fork novels. See also picaresque; Romance and Reality (Landon); Pelham; or, the Adventures of a Gentleman (Bulwer-Lytton); Cecil; or, The Adventures of a Coxcomb (Gore); conversation; Lodore (Shelley) Bildungsroman alternative, 53, 91, 94, 115
 and contemporaneity, 55, 97
 contemporaneous history, 59–62
The Contrast, 56, 62, 102–103, 108
 criticism of, 2, 11–12, 51, 58, 122, 251
 crowds and the metropolis, 54, 64 cultural currency of, 94
 the dandy, 113, 115, 131 defense of the genre, 55–56 Disraeli, 94
 engagement with picaresque, 93, 97–98, 115

- and fashion, 51–52, 57, 70
 genre innovations, 52, 59, 60
Godolphin, 104
Granby, 53, 108
 influence of Scott's Waverley novels, 60, 62, 100, 110, 118 Pin Money, 52
 plotlessness of, 91 and publishing industry, 66 readership and sales, 58 Reform culture, 58
 relationship to the aristocracy, 103 relationship to history, 58, 60, 98–99, 118 relationship to newspapers, 94 role of keen observation, 56, 83, 99, 109–10
 social acumen, 109
 social participation, 75, 94, 97, 101, 109, 119
 and social reform, 102
 social withdrawal, 72, 74 temporality and time, 52, 53, 58, 94
The Silver Fork School (Rosa), 59
 Simmel, Georg, 3, 10, 13, 105
 Siskin, Clifford, 21, 130, 131
 Smith, Adam, 5–7, 15, 76, 248
 Smollett, Tobias, 18, 96, 112, 124 social reform
 in Bulwer-Lytton, 11, 58, 104–105
 and conversation, 102, 104
 and fashion, 10, 14, 63, 104–105, 114, 181, 248
 First Reform Act, 11, 58
 political reform, 104–105
 public opinion, 102–105, 230
 in silver-fork novels, 102 society
 and affect, 262, 266
 commercial society, 4–5, 130, 175
 and the individual, 17, 76, 119, 130, 248 social organization and fashion, 4–9, 17, 75, 131, 133 and taste, 76
 songs, 166, 173
 Sparks, Tabitha, 248 spectacle. See also visual culture; performance;
 visibility
 appeal of, 147
 celebrity culture, 5, 136, 217 crowds and the criminal protagonist, 165–66, 168–70, 172, 179
 demotic celebrity, 199
 of law and order, 203
 and print culture, 5
 and the public man, 191
 spectatorship, 148, 192, 194
 via public visibility, 146, 165–66, 168, 172 of violence, 136, 172, 201, 242
The Spectator, 158, 159
The Spirit of the Age: or, Contemporary Portraits (Hazlitt), 70, 139, 229 status and class
 celebrity and the gentleman, 23, 191–92, 210, 219 criminality, 129, 145, 165–66, 174–77 crisis of status inconsistency, 95, 130 explored in the picaresque, 95
 and fashion, 6–9, 11, 12, 14, 65, 104, 248 fashion's class associations, 11, 14 instability of, 247
 social inequality, 157
 Styles, John, 7–8
 Surridge, Lisa, 245
 Sutherland, John, 67, 69 taste conveyed through conversation, 81
 and fashion, 76, 78, 248
 Landon's theory of, 76–77
 Smith's theory of, 5–7, 76 society's influence on, 76
 Taylor, Jenny Bourne, 243 temporality. See also history and the past; contemporaneity; modernity; fashion and affect, 255, 266
 constitutive of modern life, 71, 92 of contemporary fiction, 273 dual temporality, 245–47, 249 of fashion, 4, 11, 22, 51, 92, 95–99, 219, 278 fashion time, 14
 in fiction, 51–55, 58
 Thackeray, W. M.
 Barry Lyndon, 190
 Catherine, 190, 242
 criticism of Dickens, 145, 267 on Cruikshank's illustrations, 170 on popularity of Jack Sheppard, 2 reaction against Newgate school, 242, 267 Vanity Fair, 63, 78, 211
The Theory of Moral Sentiments (Smith), 5–6, 76, 248 Things As They Are, or the Adventures of Caleb Williams (Godwin). See Caleb Williams (Godwin)
 Thompson, E. P., 16
 Thornhill, Sir James, 27, 28
 Thrift, Nigel, 261
 Tillotson, Kathleen, 18, 93
 Trelawny, Edward, 69
 Trumpener, Katie, 60
 Tuite, Clara, 21, 124, 133, 136, 141, 147, 150, 192, 203, 204, 209, 252

- Vanity Fair* (Thackeray), 63, 78, 211
 Vickery, Amanda, 123
 Victorian novels consciousness of visibility and performance, 135 domestic angel prefigured, 78–80 domestic space, 126, 211, 260 links to Newgate school, 143, 190 spectacle, 179
 violence and domesticity, 211, 212–15 of the law, 203, 210
 and melodrama, 166–68
 private life and public violence, 212–15
 rites of, 147
 spectacle of, 136, 172, 201, 242 transition from material to symbolic, 204 of urban modernity, 166 visibility. See also visual culture; performance;
 spectacle
 in Caleb Williams, 149–50
 celebrity culture, 5, 193, 199
 consciousness of, 131, 135, 157, 172–73, 179, 207–208, 220
 for criminal protagonists, 134, 166, 172–73
 in Dickens, 192, 193, 220–26
 and fame, 134, 155, 166, 172–73, 230 and identity formation, 178, 208 inseparable from publicness, 20
 in Jack Sheppard, 174 of modern subjectivity, 179, 193 pleasure of being seen, 221–24
 and print culture, 5
 private sphere, 101
 public sphere, 133, 179, 198–99, 208, 220, 227 transformation of public culture, 148 visual culture. See also print culture; spectacle;
 visibility
 boundary of public and individual, 276
 and demotic celebrity, 30
 and fashion, 4, 51, 57, 157
 and identity, 4, 101, 103, 157, 178
 and public consciousness, 103, 157, 178 visual media and the public sphere, 243 visuality, 151, 194, 276–77
Vivian Grey (Disraeli), 94
 Von Mücke, Dorothea, 156
 Wahrman, Dror, 101
 Warburton, William, 39
 Warner, Michael, 151
 Warner, William, 21, 130, 131
 Watt, Ian, 93
 Waverley novels (Scott) influence on Newgate novels, 25, 135 influence on silver-fork school, 60, 62, 100, 110, 118
 model of history, 60–61 wealth, 162–63. See also status and class Welsh, Alexander, 110
 Wild, Jonathan, 182
 Wilde, Oscar, 113
Wilhelm Meisters Lehrjahre (Goethe), 93
 Williams, Raymond, 114, 134
 Wilson, Elizabeth, 9, 17, 63, 64, 248
The Woman in White (Collins), 254
 Wood, Ellen, 248
 Wu, Duncan, 70
The Young Duke (Disraeli), 94
 Young, Vershawn Ashanti, 164