

CONTENTS

|          |                                                                            |           |
|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
|          | Preface and Acknowledgments                                         | page xi   |
|          | Prologue                                                            | xiii      |
| 1 | Making the World Safe for Investment                                | 1  |
| 1        | Introduction                                                               | 1         |
| 2        | Developing the Framework                                                   | 3         |
| 3        | Methodology                                                                | 7         |
|          | a) Concession Agreements and the Internationalisation of Contracts         | 7         |
|          | b) A Split between the Political and the Economic Sphere                   | 10        |
|          | c) Jurisdiction, Temporal Ordering and Self-Authorisation                  | 18        |
| 4        | The Argument                                                               | 21        |
| 5        | Chapter Outline                                                            | 22        |
| 6        | Originality and Limitations                                                | 24        |
| 7        | Conclusion                                                                 | 26        |
| 2 | The Palestine Railway Arbitration 1922                       | 27 |
| 1        | Introduction                                                               | 27        |
| 2        | The Arbitration in Context                                                 | 29        |
|          | a) The Treaty of Sèvres and the Establishment of the Arbitral Tribunal     | 29        |
|          | b) The Work of the Jurisdictional Clause                                   | 32        |
| 3        | The Parties to the Arbitration                                             | 37        |
|          | a) Standing for the Company and Contractual Relations with a State         | 39        |
|          | b) The Temporalisation of Difference: Neither Ottoman Empire nor Palestine | 42        |
| 4        | Conclusion                                                                 | 48        |

|          |                                                                       |            |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 3 | The Lena Goldfields Arbitration 1930                    | 50  |
| 1        | Introduction                                                          | 50         |
| 2        | The Arbitration in Context                                            | 51         |
|          | a) Private Property and Debt                                          | 52         |
|          | b) Concessions for the Private Sector                                 | 56         |
|          | c) The Lena Goldfields Concession Agreement                           | 57         |
| 3        | The Arbitral Proceedings                                              | 60         |
|          | a) The Establishment of the Tribunal andthe Construction of Facts | 61         |
|          | b) Jurisdictional Objection and ‘Kompetenz-Kompetenz’                 | 65         |
|          | c) General Principles as Applicable Law                               | 69         |
| 4        | Conclusion                                                            | 72         |
| 4 | The Sheikh of Abu Dhabi Arbitration 1951                | 74  |
| 1        | Introduction                                                          | 74         |
| 2        | The Abu Dhabi Concession in Context                                   | 75         |
|          | a) ‘So Much to So Few for So Long’                                    | 75         |
|          | b) The Abu Dhabi Concession Agreement                                 | 79         |
| 3        | General Principles in Arbitral Practice                               | 84         |
|          | a) The Arbitral Proceedings                                           | 84         |
|          | b) Making a Precedent                                                 | 89         |
| 4        | General Principles in Scholarship                                     | 95         |
|          | a) General Principles as Rules of Private Law                         | 96         |
|          | b) Acquired Rights and Unjust Enrichment                              | 98         |
|          | c) From ‘Civilisation’ to Development                                 | 103        |
| 5        | Conclusion                                                            | 105        |
| 5 | The Abs–Shawcross Draft Convention 1959                 | 107 |
| 1        | Introduction                                                          | 107        |
| 2        | The Draft Convention in Context                                       | 108        |
|          | a) German Foreign Debt                                                | 111        |
|          | b) German Property Abroad                                             | 113        |
| 3        | The Draft Convention and Its Reception                                | 114        |
|          | a) Formalised Internationalisation                                    | 115        |
|          | b) Scholarly Reactions                                                | 117        |
|          | c) Financing for Development                                          | 120        |
| 4        | The Influence of Liberal Economists                                   | 126        |
|          | a) ‘Peaceful Change’                                                  | 126        |
|          | b) Central Planning                                                   | 130        |
| 5        | Conclusion                                                            | 134        |
| 6 | Conclusions: The World Is Safe for Investment                  | 136 |
| 1        | Introduction                                                          | 136        |
| 2        | Property Protection and Redistribution                                | 137        |

CONTENTS

ix

- |   |                                                          |     |  |
|---|----------------------------------------------------------|-----|--|
| 3 | The Oxymoron of a ‘Modern Law of Nature’                 | 139 |  |
| 4 | Law as a Self-Authorising Practice                       | 140 |  |
| 5 | Recognising the Traces: Depoliticisation and Development | 141 |  |

Bibliography 144

Index 159