

Index

- aesthetic Idea, 110, 119, 138–41, 145, 168
 Allison, Henry, 20, 110, 114–15, 118, 127, 129–32, 165–68, 189, 204 Ameriks, Karl, 25, 27, 43, 70, 151, 240, 252 analogy (of reflective judgment), 102–10, 233
   and human history, 238, 250
   and inferences of judgment, 199–200
   and “natural ends,” 224–25 qualitative analogy, 103–104 quantitative analogy, 103 antinomy
   of practical reason, 52
   of taste, 146
   of teleological judgment, 15, 225–29, 231, 233–34
Attempt to Introduce the Concept of Negative Magnitudes into Philosophy, 153–54 autonomy, 223–24, 234. See also transcendental freedom

 Baumgarten, Alexander Gottlieb, 119, 148, 158–59, 182
 Beck, Lewis White, 234
Bildungstrieb (formative drive), 239 Blumenbach, Johann Friedrich, 239 categorical imperative, 22, 24 and the concepts of good and evil, 34 as the form of a pure will, 29 its objective validity and reality, 35 and the postulates, 60

   as a priori given, 30–31 as specific to finite human beings, 31–32
 causality
   efficient, 215, 218, 222 final, 227, 229, 232–34 ideal, 219, 222, 224, 227, 229 mechanical, 107–10, 239. See also mechanism practical, 19–21, 33, 41, 50 real, 219, 222, 224, 227, 229 reciprocal, 15, 107–10, 112, 218–24, 233–34 common experience, 22–23, 27–29. See also common sense common sense, 22, 32. See also common experience judgments of, 26

   the rule of, 161
 compatibilism, 21, 236, 251, 262
Conflict of the Faculties, 247, 257
Conjectural Beginning of Human History, 252 contingency
   in the agreement of cognitive faculties in aesthetic judgment, 111–12, 126, 131, 143–45, 148, 166 in the agreement of nature and freedom, 9 in the disagreement of cognitive faculties in aesthetic judgment, 175 intuitive vs. discursive understanding, 232 of natural order, 85, 200–202 in part to whole relation in human history, 238 in part to whole relation in organisms, 209, 214–18 in the relation between happiness and morality, 49 vs. logical and real necessity, 210–12 in works of art, 116, 117
Critique of Practical Reason, 19–22, 28, 29. See also second Critique
Critique of Pure Reason, 68, 117, 179, 181, 198–99, 201, 226. See also first Critique Crusius, Christian August, 153, 155 culture, 122, 254–55, 259 of discipline, 3, 242, 244 of skill, 241

 deduction, transcendental
   A-Deduction of the categories, 132, 136, 138 of the highest good, 59 of the Ideas, 195–96
   of the moral law, 22, 24–27, 43–44 discursive understanding, 5, 48, 196, 216, 222, 228, 232. See also intellectus ectypus disgust, 156–57, 162
Dreams of a Spirit-Seer, 145

- Early Romanticism, 148, 265 epigenesis, 239, 241, 251–53 exaltation (Schwärmerei), 152, 171, 172 exposition
   definition of, 29
   metaphysical of pure forms of intuition, 24, 44 metaphysical of space, 29, 31 transcendental of space, 37
- fact of reason, 20–22, 26, 30–31, 40, 66 faculty of pleasure and displeasure, 158–60 feeling of life (Lebensgefühl), 14, 126, 143, 144 Fichte, Johann Gottlieb, 21, 26, 43, 46 final end of nature, 6, 73–76, 82, 88–89, 98, 207, 229 first Critique, 7, 14, 19, 49–52, 54, 58, 59, 64, 68, 72, 81, 84, 92, 106, 127, 132–36, 168, 179, 200–204, 213–15, 252 free harmony (of the faculties), 13, 36. See also free play (of the faculties) and beauty as a symbol of morality, 111–18 free disharmony (of the faculties), 165, 167
   and the primacy of imagination, 123–26, 130–31, 146–49
   and pure aesthetic judgments of ugliness, 165–68 free play (of the faculties), 126, 143, 146, 166, 174. See also free harmony (of the faculties)
- Gardner, Sebastian, 61, 68–70 genius, 113–22, 258
   and ugliness, 171, 173
 German Idealism, 9, 81, 206, 265
 Ginsborg, Hannah, 170, 217, 219–20, 222
Glaube, 63, 66
   doctrinal, 65
   moral, 4–6, 8–11, 15, 47–48, 62, 66–266
   pragmatic, 64
Groundwork, 20, 31, 41, 234 gulf, incalculable (unübersehbare Kluft), 2, 3, 263 Guyer, Paul, 3, 110, 113–15, 124, 174
- happiness
   empirical, 37–39
   intellectual, 51
   moral, 79–81
   universal, 52–53, 77–78
 heautonomy (of reflective judgment), 201–203
 Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich, 120, 125, 140, 143, 149, 189, 236, 252, 256, 259, 262 Henrich, Dieter, 40, 43, 52, 180
 highest good, 3–13, 15, 47–59, 263, 264
   and aesthetic judgment, 101–102, 113 and anti-realism, 59–62, 91–92 and ethical community, 76–81
   and human history, 245–46, 248–49
   and realism, 66–266
   and works of genius, 115–18, 122
- history
   of culture, 236
   human, 7, 15, 122, 236, 241–42, 246–50 Kant's philosophy of, 235, 256 natural, 238, 245
   philosophical, 237
   political, 236
   universal, 237, 261
 Honneth, Axel, 256–59
 Hume, David, 74, 85
 Hutcheson, Francis, 151–54, 158, 161–63, 170
 hylozoism, 145, 222
- Idea for a Universal History With a Cosmopolitan Aim*, 235–38 imagination (power of), 13, 112, 126, 131–33, 145–49 and disharmony of cognitive faculties, 164–69, 172–73 fantasy (Phantasie), 136–38 fictive faculty (Dichtungsvermögen), 125, 137, 138 productive imagination, 133, 137, 138 reproductive imagination, 133, 138 synthesis of apprehension, 132–36, 138, 140 synthesis of reproduction, 133 synthesis of the imagination, 90, 107, 112, 142, 166, 195 transcendental imagination, 7, 96 incentive (Triebfeder) of the will, 35, 39, 49–51, 67–68, 118, 244 intellectus archetypus, 203, 232. See also intuitive understanding intellectus ectypus, 227, 232. See also discursive understanding interest of a faculty, 55
   of practical reason, 55, 57, 264
   of reason, 55, 209, 217, 229 of speculative reason, 55, 57, 263 intuitive understanding, 9, 15, 231–34. See also intellectus archetypus
- Kleingeld, Pauline, 246, 252, 254
- lectures on anthropology, 116, 136–38, 171 on logic, 128–29, 154
   on metaphysics, 131, 134, 158, 164 Lessing, Gotthold Ephraim, 157, 174
 Longuenesse, Béatrice, 131, 143, 185–90, 196, 200

- mechanism, 109, 215–23, 226–30, 233. See also causality, mechanical
- Meier, Georg Friedrich, 28, 67, 139
- Metaphysical Foundations of Natural Science*, 144, 213–15, 226
- Metaphysics of Morals*, 3, 77, 78, 234
- moral motivation, 62, 68, 84, 118, 170
- moral proof (of God's existence), 81–84, 87–90, 98
- moral respect, 24, 26, 28–29, 35–40, 50, 255
- moral teleology, 84 and beauty of art, 101–102
 and pure aesthetic judgments of ugliness, 150, 166–68, 170 and its relation to physical teleology, 89
 and works of genius, 121
- natural end, 8, 74, 206–10, 217–25, 229, 233–34, 237–39. See also organism
- Observations on the Feeling of the Beautiful and Sublime*, 156–58
- On the Use of Teleological Principles in Philosophy*, 207
- Only Possible Argument*, 84, 211–12
- organism, 8, 14–16, 89, 96, 108, 206–10, 214, 216–31, 233–34, 237–40, 265. See also natural end
- original nonsense, 152, 169–73
- physical teleology, 86–90, 95
- physical theology, 86. See also physical teleology
- physico-theological proof (of God's existence), 84–87. See also physical theology
- pleasure
 definition of, 144
- pleasure, aesthetic displeasure (interested), 163 displeasure (pure, disinterested), 155, 164–66, 168 of the agreeable (interested), 144 pure (disinterested), 3, 13, 112, 115, 147
- postulates, 5–7, 11, 47, 48, 55, 56, 58, 60, 61, 63, 68–266
- power of choice (Willkür), 234
- practical cognition, 5, 9–13, 22–26, 43–45, 48, 89, 264
 and aesthetic judgment, 102, 119–21 and the feeling of respect for the moral law, 39–40 of the form of the moral law, 29–32 of the matter of the moral law, 32–34 and moral Glaube, 62–63, 66–266 of the objective reality of the moral law, 34–37 and transcendental freedom, 41–43
- preformation, 238, 241
- primacy of practical reason, 53, 55, 57, 59, 264
- Prize Essay*, 155–58
- purposiveness counterpurposiveness, 163–65, 175 external, 74, 207
 internal, 74
 logical principle of, 2, 200–203 nature's, 9, 113, 115, 117–18, 121–22, 249 objective principle of, 75, 217, 220, 228–29 principle of, 93, 96, 265 subjective principle of, 111, 146, 148, 159
- realism, 48, 69–266
 anti-realism, 11, 47–48, 59–62, 69–70 moral image realism (MIR), 9, 16, 73, 96, 98, 102, 147, 150, 170, 250, 261, 265 rational necessitation realism (RNR), 48, 70, 71, 95–97
- reflection
 aesthetic, 7, 13, 112, 120, 125 compared to logical, 167 compared to logical and transcendental, 129 and imagination, 138, 140 and multicognitivism, 142 and precognitivism, 141
 and the primacy of imagination, 142 comparison and abstraction, 128
 definition of, 109, 127
 logical, 126, 127 similarity between reflection on aesthetic Ideas and reflection on the morally good, 110 teleological, 7, 86, 94, 96, 200–202, 220, 223 transcendental, 127
- Reid, Thomas, 156
- Religion*, 37, 78–81, 234
- Rousseau, Jean-Jacques, 241–44, 254
- schema, 7, 13, 95–97, 102–103, 106–107, 123–32, 145–47, 190, 195–99, 250, 265 schema-analogue, 9, 14–16, 98, 142, 233
- second Critique, 6, 11, 20, 22–24, 28, 42, 50–54, 63, 66, 77–78, 80–81, 97–98, 144, 234, 242, 261
- sensus communis*, 151–52, 158, 169, 173, 175
- Shaftesbury, The Third Earl of (Anthony Ashley Cooper), 158, 160–63
- supersensible, 21–24, 123, 149, 209, 222–24
 causality, 208
 ground, 125–26, 145, 147–48, 221, 231 origin, 224
 and practical judgment, 45 principle, 208, 231

280 supersensible (cont.)

 substrate, 13, 117–18, 146 substrate of humanity, 146 substratum, 231
 “within,” 12, 114–15, 117–18, 126 “without,” 12, 101, 114–15, 117–18, 126 symbol, 12, 101–104, 106–11, 118–22. See also analogy (of reflective judgment)
 and human history, 250
 and “natural ends,” 224, 231
 and works of genius, 113–18
 systematicity of nature, 14, 180–81
 reason’s principle of, 190–96, 199–203

Theory and Practice, 247–51
Toward Perpetual Peace, 244, 249 transcendental freedom, 19, 41, 126, 223. See also unconditioned, causality transcendental ideal, 14, 181–83, 185–90, 196–98 typic (of pure practical judgment), 44–45, 242

 ugliness, 150–55, 161–63 pure judgments of, 163–68, 170, 175 ultimate end of nature, 3, 15, 75–76, 241, 244 unconditioned, 5, 9, 203 causality, 19, 20, 47. See also transcendental freedom

Index

cognition of, 55
 and Early Romanticism, 148 end of reason, 4, 51, 52, 76, 86. See also
 highest good
ens realissimum, 181–86 as the final end of nature, 76 as the “highest intelligence,” 196–98 moral good, 22
 need of reason for, 14, 179 practical principle, 41 and reason’s architectonic, 263 things in themselves, 180 and the unity of reason, 188–90 unity of reason, 4–5, 48, 59, 91, 192, 196, 247, 257, 261. See also unity of theoretical and practical reason
 unity of theoretical and practical reason, 5, 24, 45, 90, 95, 98, 181, 186–87, 189, 196, 199, 205, 246
Universal Natural History and Theory of the Heavens, 210, 212
 unsociable sociability, 236, 242, 244

 Willaschek, Marcus, 55, 57
 Wolff, Christian, 155–58, 182
 Wood, Allen, 70, 182–84, 255

 Yovel, Yirmiyahu, 259–60, 263