

CORPUS OF LATIN TEXTS ON PAPYRUS

VOLUME V

The Corpus of Latin Texts on Papyrus (CLTP) is a comprehensive, up-to-date, and unique reference tool in six volumes, gathering nearly 1,500 Latin texts on papyrus. Editions are provided with both a palaeographic and a critical apparatus, English translations, and detailed introductions. The texts in CLTP cover a wide chronological range and many different types and genres. They include both literary and documentary texts, dating from the first century BC to the Middle Ages. They provide new knowledge about the circulation of Latin, offering unique insights into textual transmission and indeed into Latin literature itself, but also into topics such as ancient education and multilingualism, economics, society, culture, and multiculturalism in the ancient Mediterranean world. The result is a lasting and crucial reference work for all those interested in the history of Latin and of the Roman world.

MARIA CHIARA SCAPPATICCIO is Professor of Latin Language and Literature at the University of Naples 'Federico II', where she was also Principal Investigator for the European Research Council-funded project PLATINUM (Papyri and Latin Texts: INsights and Updated Methodologies: Towards a Philological, Literary and Historical Approach to Latin Papyri – ERC-StG 2014 no. 636983). She has held several postdoctoral positions, including one at the Institut de recherche et d'histoire des textes (IRHT) in Paris, and was a visiting fellow at Columbia University, New York University, the Scuola Normale Superiore (Pisa), and the Université Paris-Sorbonne. Her research focusses on Latin literary texts transmitted by papyrus, on ancient education and grammar, on fragmentary Latin literature, on Latin literacy in Pompeii, and on the literary aspects of Roman canvassing. She has published a number of articles and monographs, including Artes grammaticae in fragmenti. I testi grammaticali latini e bilingui su papiro: edizione commentata (De Gruyter 2015) and Fabellae: frammenti di favole latine e bilingui greco-latine di tradizione diretta (II–IV d.C.) (De Gruyter 2017).

ELEANOR DICKEY is Professor of Classics at the University of Reading (UK) and a Fellow of the British Academy. She has published numerous scholarly works, including Latin Loanwords in Ancient Greek (Cambridge University Press 2023), The Colloquia of the Hermeneumata Pseudodositheana (Cambridge University Press 2012–15), Learning Latin the Ancient Way (Cambridge University Press 2016), Ancient Greek Scholarship (Oxford University Press 2007), and Latin Forms of Address (Oxford University Press 2002).

LUCIA C. COLELLA was a postdoctoral fellow in the PLATINUM project from 2019 to 2022. She received her PhD in Roman History with a dissertation on the town council of Arsinoe in the third century AD (University of Naples 'Federico II'). She has worked on Greek and Latin papyri, both published and unpublished. Her research interests involve administration and everyday life in Roman Egypt.
