

Contents

List of Contributors	page ix
Preface	xi
Consenting to International Law: An Introduction	1
Samantha Besson
PART I NOTIONS AND ROLES OF CONSENT
1 Consenting Is Not Willing	31
Alain Pellet
2 State Consent and the Legitimacy of International Law	49
David Lefkowitz
3 Controlling Consent: Insights from Binding Dispute Settlement	72
Christian J. Tams
4 International Organizations and the Disaggregation of Consent	100
Catherine Brölmann
5 Consenting to International Law in Five Moves	117
Jean d'Aspremont
PART II OBJECTS AND TYPES OF CONSENT
6 Do International Agreements Have a Consent Problem?	137
Duncan B. Hollis

7	Consenting to Treaty Commitments: Endorsing Rules or Endorsing a Regime of Discursive Commitments?	163
	Fuad Zarbiyev
8	State Consent in the Evolving Climate Regime: Individual and Collective Aspects	180
	Jutta Brunnée
9	Consent and Sources: The European Court of Human Rights and the International Law Commission	204
	Georg Nolte
10	Variations around the Notion of Consent in Investment Arbitration	223
	Laurence Boisson de Chazournes
PART III SUBJECTS AND INSTITUTIONS OF CONSENT
11	The Consent of International Organizations in the Making of General and Conventional Rules of International Law	251
	Fernando Lusa Bordin
12	Consent and Informal Law-Making: The View from the Court of Justice of the European Union	274
	Eva Kassoti
13	Consent as a Guarantee of the Democratic Legitimacy of International Law	296
	Monique Chemillier-Gendreau
14	From Equal State Consent to Equal Public Participation in International Organizations: Institutionalizing Multiple International Representation	314
	Samantha Besson and José Luis Martí
15	Autonomy in International Law: About the Legal and Societal Limits to the Exercise of Consent	347
	Yannick Radi
	Index	369