

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00246-3 - Social Influence Network Theory: A Sociological Examination of Small Group Dynamics

Noah E. Friedkin and Eugene C. Johnsen

Index

More informationIndex

- Abelson, R. P., 162
 Abelson's complaint, 38, 45
 abstracted structural conditions, 11, 12 affect control theory, 16–17, 66, 67, 259–281 Allport, F. H., 18–19, 22
 analytic framework overview, 75–78
 Anderson, N. H., 29, 42
 Anderson's information integration theory, 42
 appointment power, 257
 Asch, S. E., 12, 22, 118–119, 185, 197
 Asch design (majority influence), 186, 188, 196–204 assessment, of model accuracy of standard model, 99–102 fitted susceptibilities, 102–109
   allocation of subjective weights, 97–99
   convex hull of initial positions, 88–97 spectrum of group outcomes, 86–88 attitude construct, 52–64, 315
   about persons, 58–60
   initial, 61–64
   multidimensional, 60–61
   weighted alternatives, 56–58
 attitudinal basis, of influence networks, 66–68
 Bakeman, R., 5
 Bales, R. F., 187
 Barnlund, D. C., 89
 Barnum, C., 259
 Baron, R. S., 126, 165–166
 baseline prediction model, mean of initial positions, 145–146, 153–154 Billig, M., 225–226
 binary susceptibility model, 118–123 binary self-weights, 48, 109
   mixed binary-state system, 122–123
   super-conformity systems, 119–122
 Blau, P. M., 169, 283–285
 Bovard, E. W., 126
 breaches of initial range of positions, 87–97, 154–155 burden of proof threshold, 248–249
 Cartwright, D., xvii, xix, 212, 257 choice shifts and group polarization, 221–232 definitions, 215–217
   findings on escalation/de-escalation, 226–227 findings on group polarization, 223–226 theories of choice shifts, 215–223
   persuasive arguments theory, 218–219
   self-categorization theory, 220–221
   social comparison theory, 219–220
   social decision schemes, 221–223 types of choice shift, 215–217 cognitive algebra, 13–14, 41–45 collective outcomes, 21–25
 conformity index, Goldberg's, 186, 202–204, 340–341 connectivity category of network, 31–35, 130

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00246-3 - Social Influence Network Theory: A Sociological Examination of Small Group Dynamics

Noah E. Friedkin and Eugene C. Johnsen

Index

More information364 Index

- consensus formation, 116–137
  - prediction of, 130
    - group size and pressure-to-reach-consensus, 127
    - range of initial positions, 127–128
  - Davis's consensus model, 171
  - DeGroot's social device for consensus, 36–37, 251–252, 253
  - efficiency of, 130–135
  - Meta-contrast Ratio Model, 172
  - Sherif's findings on norm formation, 23, 67, 123–126
- constructs and measures, 52–79, 315–319
  - attitudes, 52–64, 315
  - influence networks, 64–73, 316
  - social group, 15, 17, 315
  - self-weights and susceptibilities, 9, 29–30, 36, 38, 40, 45–48, 316
- contextual-effects model, 18–21
- convex hull of initial positions, 87–97
  - breaching, 87, 89–90, 97, 154–155
- Cooley, C. H., 60
- Coombs, C. H., 50
- Cooper, J., 221
- Darley, J. M., 169
- Data, three experiments, 80–86
  - discussion issues, 83–85
  - dyads experiment, 83
  - initial and end-of-trial attitudes, 85–86
  - interpersonal influences and self-weights, 86
  - tetrads experiment, 81–82
  - triads experiment, 82–83
- David, B., 168
- Davis, J., 164, 237–239, 304
- Davis's consensus model, 171
- decision rule. See social decision scheme theory
- decomposition, of influence network, 40, 317–318
- deference hierarchy, 253
- DeGroot, M. H., 46
- DeGroot's social device, 36–37, 235, 251–252, 253
- deindividualization. See self-categorization theory
- Delphi method, 252
- deviance, normative, 175–178
- Diamond, S. S., 248–249
- digraph, paths and semipaths of, 31–33
- directive leadership, 255–256
- drifting consensus, 125
- dyadic influence systems 138–159, 330–336
  - anchored and unanchored, 141–146
  - findings on the dyad, 148–157
    - consensus formation, 150–153
  - derived susceptibilities in the dyad, 155–157
  - efficiency of influence process, 153–154
  - high susceptibilities and breaches, 154–155
  - initial attitude differences/interpersonal influences, 149
  - structural dilemma in the dyad, 146–148
  - total influences, 331–334
- frustration-aggression sequences in, 157–158
- dyads experiment, 83
- ecological control, 235–236
  - via appointment power, 236
- endogenous interpersonal influences, xv
  - EPA (Evaluation, Potency, and Activity) profile, 61, 280
- equilibrium, 48–49, 320–329
- ethnographic vs. ideal-type analysis, 10–12
- expectation states theory, 12, 16–17, 67, 259–281
  - linking to affect control theory, 272
  - linking to social influence network theory, 267–268, 275–280
  - performance expectations concept, 275–276. See also affect control theory
- factions, 118, 179, 185–210
  - fellow travelers, 181, 183, 195–196, 337–339
  - findings on naturally occurring factions, 206–208
    - in social decision scheme theory, 236–239
    - minority and majority, 185–206
  - in triads, 179–182
  - in social comparison theory, 163–164
  - in juries, 248–250
- Faust, K., 15
- fellow travelers, 181, 183, 195–196, 337–339

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00246-3 - Social Influence Network Theory: A Sociological Examination of Small Group Dynamics

Noah E. Friedkin and Eugene C. Johnsen

Index

More informationIndex

365

- Festinger, L., 41, 125–126, 160–161, 162–164, 166–170, 186, 187, 196
- Fraser, C., 225–226
- French, J. R. P., Jr., xvii, 39, 45–46, 50–51, 72, 208, 212–213
- Freud, Sigmund, 47
- frustration-aggression sequences in dyads, 157–158
- fundamental constructs and equations, 315–319
- gender-homophilous small groups, 282–283, 342–343
- Gerard, H. B., 5
- Goethals, G. R., 169
- Goldberg's Index of Proportional Conformity, 186, 202–204, 340–341
- Gouge, C., 225–226
- Graesser, C. C., 29, 42
- group cohesion, and groupthink, 254–257
- group decision making, 235–258
- initial attitudes as consensual, 260–261
- jury outcomes. See (jury outcomes)
- normative models, 251–257
- appointment power, 257
- DeGroot's social device, 251–252
- groupthink. See (groupthink)
- social choice, 253–254
- social influence network theory as, 252–253
- social decision scheme theory, 236–239
- group discussion, effect on individual responses, 20
- group dynamics field, overview of, 3–10
- group polarization, 211–232
- defined, 211
- neutral value, 224–226
- theories on, 219–223
- findings on, 223–226
- groupthink, 235, 236, 254–257
- Harary, F., xvii, 36, 46, 212–213
- Heider, F., 158
- Helmreich, R., 5
- Hoffman, E. L., 126
- Homans, G. C., 19
- homophily, 168–170
- gender-homophilous small groups, 282–283, 342–343
- Hovland, C., 141–142
- Hunter, F., 72
- ideal types vs. particularities, 10–12
- ideographic approach, 10–12
- individuals in groups, 282–302
- analytical framework, 286–288
- contextual effects, 19–20
- findings, 288–296
- contributions of small group dynamics, 291–296
- individuals nested in small groups, 288–291
- individuals vs. groups, 18–26
- influence network construct, 64–73, 316
- attitudinal basis of influence networks, 66–68, 259–281
- measurement models for influence networks, 68–71
- our measurement model, 71–73
- information integration theory, 42–44
- in-group/out-group, 6–8, 164–165, 168, 172–175, 220–221
- initial attitudes and issue positions, 29, 49, 61–64, 76–77
- convex hull of initial attitudes, 88–97
- consensus on, 86–87
- consensus independent of, 117
- initial deviance and susceptibility, 175–178
- initial disagreement, 126, 149, 150–153, 169
- initial range of positions in group, 127–129, 131, 182
- measure of, 85–86. See also factions
- Janis, I. L., 254, 255–257
- Jones, E. E., 161
- jury outcomes, 239–251
- Kahn, R. L., 5
- Kalkhoff, W., 259
- Katz, E., 5
- Kerr, N. L., 164, 248
- Kravith, D. A., 5
- Latané, B., 6, 164, 304
- Lawler, E. J., 22
- Lee, M. T., 66
- Lehrer, K., 29, 235, 252
- Levine, J. M., 5–6, 138
- Lewin, K., 125–126

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00246-3 - Social Influence Network Theory: A Sociological Examination of Small Group Dynamics

Noah E. Friedkin and Eugene C. Johnsen

Index

More information366 Index

- Likert, R., 5
linking functions, 49–50
- MacCoun, R. J., 248
Mackie, D. M., 5, 221
macro-level integration of populations, 282–302
    contributions of small group dynamics, 291–296
    individuals nested in small groups, 288–291
macro-level social structure, 13
Markovsky, B., 22
master problem of social psychology, 22
McGarty, C., 172–173
McGrath, J. E., 5
McPherson, M., 283, 284
Mead, George Herbert, 47, 60 measurement models, 52–73
    theory and measures interplay. See also constructs and measures meta-contrast principle, 164–165, 172–175
Michener, H. A., 254
Micro-macro problem, 21
micro-to-macro transition, 21–25
Milgram, S., 47–48, 115, 116, 198
Miller, N., 5
Mills, T. M., 166
mixed binary-state systems, 118–123
modal positions, 163–164
Moreland, R. L., 5–6, 138
Moscovici, S., 185, 205–206 multidimensional attitudes, 60–61
multiform heterogeneity, 283
multilevel modeling, 288–291
- Newcomb, T. M., i–xv
Newcomb's (1953) A-B-X system, 158–159
nomothetic approach, 10–12 normative deviance, 176, 183, 221 normative models of group decisions, 251–254 norms
    Sherif's findings on formation of, 23, 67, 123–126
    as collective constraints, 25
notation, 76
- Ofshe, P., 66
particularities vs. ideal types, 10–12
Paths and semipaths of the digraph, 31–33
peer system, 145–146
performance expectations concept, 275–276 persons-as-attitudinal-objects, 58–60, 269–280
persuasive arguments theory, 218–219
polarization. See group polarization pressure-to-reach-consensus, 124, 127 prototype, in self-categorization theory, 7–8
- quantitative attitudes, 236
- random influence networks, in juries, 241–243
rational consensus, 235
Raven, B., 72
reference group theory, 169 reflected appraisals, 60
reidentification, 262, 264
reverse-Asch design (minority influence), 186, 188, 204–206 Ridgeway, C., 22, 259, 276
risky shifts, 211, 212, 231
Rohrer, J. H., 126
Rosenberg, M., 126
- Scherwitz, L., 5
self-categorization theory, 6–8, 164–165, 172–175, 220–221
self-weights and susceptibilities, 45–48 binary state/quantitative dimension, 47–48, 109. See also susceptibility construct semantic-differentials, EPA profile, 263
semipaths and paths, 31–33
Shaw, M. E., 4–5
Sherif, M., 23, 67, 123–126, 196
Simmel, G., 138
Simon, H. A., 72, 257
Singer, J. E., 167, 169
Skelly, R. K., 5
smallest group. See dyads
Smith-Lovin, L., 259, 276
social choice, 253–254
social comparison theory, 160–170
    findings, 171–182
    Davis' consensus model, 171–172

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00246-3 - Social Influence Network Theory: A Sociological Examination of Small Group Dynamics

Noah E. Friedkin and Eugene C. Johnsen

Index

More informationIndex

367

- initial deviance and susceptibility, 176–178
- meta-contrast ratio, 172–173
- social comparison in triads, 178–182
- social decision scheme theory, 171–172, 221–223, 235–239, 242, 245, 251
- social group, 15, 17, 315
- social impact theory, 6, 164, 193–194, 304
- social influence network theory
  - French's formal theory of social power, 30–35
  - Friedkin and Johnsen's generalization, 38–39, 315–329
  - Harary and DeGroot's generalization, 36–37
  - linking functions, 49–50
  - as normative model, 252–253
  - our standard model, 40–49
- social positions in influence networks, 194–196, 337–339
- social structure vs. social process, 12–17
  - social process with minimal social structure, 13–14
  - social structure in social process, 15–17
  - social structure without social process, 14–15
- spectrum of observed group outcomes, 86–88
- standard model, 9–10, 40–49, 315–329
  - derivation from information integration theory, 42–44
  - French, Harary, and DeGroot models as special cases, 38
- Steiner, M., 5
- Stoner, J. A., 211
- structural dilemma, in dyad, 146–148, 154–155
- structural social psychology, 8–10
- subjective weights, allocation of, 71–73
  - assessment, 97–99
- super-conformity systems, 119–122
- super-influence-network, 25
- susceptibility construct, 316
  - agentic state/nature of susceptibility, 47–48, 109
  - coupling assumption, self-other balance, 45–48
  - derived susceptibilities, 73–75, 102–108, 155–157
- Swander, D. V., 126
- task uncertainty, and jury outcomes, 244–245
- tetrads experiment, 81–82
- theoretical tension, three points of
  - between groups and individuals, 18–26
  - between the particular and general, 10–12
  - between social structure and process, 12–17
- three analytic pathways, 77–78
- Throndike, R. L., 89
- total influences and equilibrium, 48–49, 320–329
- transformation problem. See micro-to-macro transition
- triads experiment, 82–83
- Turner, J. C., 41, 168, 221
- typology of power bases, 208
- unanchored influence systems, 143–145
  - peer system, 145–146
  - status order, 146
- uncertain tasks, and jury outcomes, 245
- Wagner, D. G., 29, 235, 252
- Wasserman, S., 15, 254
- Weber, M., 10–11
- Whitmeyer, J. M., 266
- Yeung, K.-T., 60
- Zeisel, H., 248–249