

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00305-7 - Versions of Antihumanism: Milton and Others

Stanley Fish

Table of Contents

More informationContents

Acknowledgments	page ix
Introduction: intention, historicism and interpretation	I
PART I MILTON
1 The Brenzel lectures	23
2 To the pure all things are pure: law, faith and interpretation in the prose and poetry of John Milton	65
3 “There is nothing he cannot ask”: Milton, liberalism, and terrorism	79
4 Why Milton matters; or, against historicism	98
5 Milton in popular culture	110
6 How the reviews work	119
7 The new Milton criticism	131
PART II EARLY MODERN LITERATURE
8 “Void of storie”: the struggle for insincerity in Herbert’s prose and poetry	147
9 Authors–readers: Jonson’s community of the same	169
10 Marvell and the art of disappearance	206

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-00305-7 - Versions of Antihumanism: Milton and Others

Stanley Fish

Table of Contents

More information

viii	Contents
11	Masculine persuasive force: Donne and verbal power	227
12	How Hobbes works	258
	Index	279