

Contents

Preface	page ix
List of Abbreviations	xiii
1 Ars Erotica and the Question of Aesthetics	1
I Terminology	1
II Aesthetics	4
III Self-Cultivation	9
IV Chapter Outlines	19
2 Dialectics of Desire and Virtue: Aesthetics, Power, and Self-Cultivation in Greco-Roman Erotic Theory	30
I Mythology	30
II Society and History	34
III Aesthetic Principles	44
IV Tensions between Eros and Philosophy	57
V Erotic Education	67
VI The Roman Context	77
3 The Biblical Tradition: Desire as a Means of Production	98
I The Old Testament	98
II Christianity	119
4 Chinese Qi Erotics: The Beauty of Health and the Passion for Virtue	150
I Sex, Health, and Pleasure	150
II The Textual Background	158
III The Metaphysical Background	161
IV The Medical Background	163
V The Social and Political Background	170
VI The Aesthetic Background: Beauty, Virtue, and Self-Cultivation	174

VII Aesthetic Stylization in Lovemaking	183
VIII Philosophical Meanings: From the Sensual to the Sublime	195
5 Lovemaking as Aesthetic Education: Pleasure, Play, and Knowledge in Indian Erotic Theory	202
I Introduction	202
II The Religious and Social Background	204
III The Artistic Background	216
IV The Art of Loving in the Art of Living	218
V Varieties and Harmonies	227
VI Taking Positions and Playing Roles	235
VII Cognitive Dimensions	240
VIII Ethics and Character	243
6 Fragrance, Veils, and Violence: Ars Erotica in Islamic Culture	250
I Islamic Roots: Complexity and Variety	251
II The Power and Pleasure of Sex	256
III Power, Violence, and Male Supremacy	261
IV Language and Culture	264
V A Multisensory Sexual Aesthetic	268
VI Erotic Pluralism and the Philosophy of Love	273
VII The Sufi Path of Sexual Spiritualization	279
7 From Romantic Refinement to Courtesan Connoisseurship: Japanese Ars Erotica	288
I Chinese and Indigenous Cultural Roots	288
II Heian Aesthetics and the Eros of Refined Romance	290
III The Way of Boy Love	301
IV Connoisseur Style and Commodification in High Courtesan Culture	307
8 Commingling, Complexity, and Conflict: Erotic Theory in Medieval and Renaissance Europe	315
I The Historical Background: Politics and Religion	315
II The Philosophical Context	318
III Heloise and Abelard	327
IV Courtly Love	335
V Renaissance Neoplatonists	347
VI Humanist Skeptics: Erasmus and Montaigne	367
VII Courtesan Culture	380
VIII Speculative Postscript: Decoupling Beauty from Love and Inventing the Aesthetic	391
Bibliography	397
Index	410