

INDEX

- ad hoc category/concept, 39, 131–139, 162, 172–173
- age (see “development”)
- American Heritage Dictionary, 33
- analytic strategy, 314–315
- attractor, 122–124, 336–337
- autism spectrum disorder/ASD, 293–294
- bodily experience/bodily function, 118, 148, 217, 266, 278–283, 296–299, 339
- bottom-up, 64, 84, 95, 99, 166, 328–329
- British National Corpus/BNC, 323
- CHILDES, 265
- click of comprehension, 9
- coded meaning, 22, 27
- cognitive differences
 - intelligence quotient/IQ, 286–287
 - neurological disorders, 287–296
- cognitive effect, 2–10, 57, 100–108, 136–137, 202–218, 228, 249–250, 311–316, 328
- cognitive effort, 2–10, 57–62, 100–113, 126–130, 137, 157, 202–218, 259–261, 287, 316–318
- common ground, 250, 264, 302–307
- communicative principle of relevance, 39, 210, 216
- construction integration/CI, 170–171
- contextual support, 106–107, 113
- contextually appropriate meaning, 35, 65–69, 76, 140–142, 88–94
- compositional meaning, 22
- conceptual base, 71, 176–180
- conceptual blending theory, 109–113, 202, 212
- conceptual metaphor theory/CMT, 47, 108–110, 232, 280
 - metaphors, 144–156
 - proverbs, 178–180
- constraint satisfaction, 10, 70, 95–100, 160–171, 335
- construction integration/CI, 170
- context-free meaning, 22, 38, 89
- context-invariant meaning, 22, 28
- contextualism, 29
- continuum of meaning, 11, 26, 330
- conventional meaning, 16–22
- convergent operations, 319–321
- critical discourse theory, 232
- culture, 278–283
- dead metaphor, 47, 236, 238, 331
- default meaning, 22
- development
 - idioms, 267–268
 - irony, 269–274
 - metaphor, 264–267
 - metonymy, 267
 - proverbs, 268–269
- dictionaries, 33–34, 40, 51, 166
- direct access, 60–89

- diversity of understanding experiences
 - conceptual blending, 213
 - literary criticism, 211–212
 - relevance theory, 216–218
- dynamical systems view, 10–13, 59, 121–124, 152, 311, 329, 336–344
- embodied simulation, 114–121, 151, 184–194, 217–218, 324
- emergent figurative meaning, 332
- enriched pragmatic
 - knowledge/meaning, 23, 24, 59
- euphemism, 50, 224
- event related potential/ERP, 82–97, 59, 289–318
- explicature, 24–25, 106, 172
- eye tracking, 91–92, 270, 317
- fMRI, 318, 325, 333
- fail-then-revise strategy, 69
- figurative language experience, 192–211
 - isolating and quantifying, 199–202
 - pragmatics and experience, 202–211
 - relevance theory, 206–211
- fine-coarse semantic coding theory, 288
- frame shifting, 111–112
- gender, 248, 263, 276–277
- “good enough”, 95, 137, 213–214
- graded salience, 84–104, 289, 335
- holistic strategy, 314–315
- homogeneity of literalness, 19–29
- hyperbole, 18, 51–52, 183, 219–221, 245–252, 274
- idioms, 162–174
 - analyzability, 165
 - decomposition, 165–169
 - development, 267–268
 - hybrid view, 167–171
 - neuropsychology, 163–164
 - relevance theory, 172
 - rhetorical function, 236–240
 - structure, 173–174
 - variety, 50–52
- implicature
 - conversational, 23–24, 60–61, 203–206
 - strong, 101–103, 137, 172
 - weak, 101–103, 137, 172, 201
- incongruity resolution, 117–118
- indirect request, 23, 48, 70, 112, 194, 219–220
- individual differences, 334–335
- intelligence quotient/IQ, 286–287
- interactive property attribution model, 132
- interpretation-based processing/INP, 99
- ironic analogies, 249
- ironic criticism, 247, 251, 270–272
- ironic praise, 271–272
- irony, 181–189
 - acoustic patterns, 186–188
 - contrast, 247–252
 - development, 269–274
 - echo, 184–185
 - metarepresentation, 185–186
 - nonverbal cues, 186
 - opposition, 182–184
 - rhetorical functions, 244–258
 - thought suppression, 188–189
 - variety, 52–53
- jocularly, 52, 111, 187, 221, 245–246, 297, 302, 339
- language experience, 275–276
- language materials, 307–312
- latent semantic analysis/LSA, 86, 141
- lexical ambiguity resolution, 8, 65–66, 122–124, 349, 362
- linguistic meaning, 22
- literal 1, 27–28
- literal 2, 28
- literal 3, 28
- literal meaning
 - coded meaning, 22
 - compositional meaning, 22

- context-free, 22
- context-invariant, 22
- continuum, 26
- conventional meaning, 22
- default meaning, 22
- interactional, 27
- lack of homogeneity, 19–29
- linguistic meaning, 22
- linguistic, 27
- literal 1, 27–28
- literal 2, 28
- literal 3, 28
- minimal meaning, 22, 27–28
- psychological, 27
- salient meaning, 22
- semantic meaning, 22
- what is said, 22
- longer discourses, 309–311
- Macmillan English Dictionary/MED, 40
- massive modularity, 108
- metaphor identification
 - procedure/MIP, 42–43
- metaphor
 - alive, 47
 - career of metaphor, 133–140
 - categorization, 130–139
 - class-inclusion, 131–139
 - conceptual metaphor theory/CMT, 144–156
 - dead, 47, 236, 331
 - development, 264–267
 - interpreting, 129–156
 - loose use, 103, 138
 - nominal, 138
 - novel, 149–151, 227–230, 289–291, 325–331
 - predication model, 143
 - primary, 30, 198, 148, 265–266, 278–280
 - rhetorical functions, 223–233
 - sleeping, 47
 - suppression, 140
 - variety, 48–49
- metarepresentation, 26, 70, 120, 184–186
 - irony, 185–186
- methods in figurative understanding, 316–324
- metonymy
 - conceptual metonymy, 156–162
 - development, 267
 - rhetorical functions, 233–236
- minimal meaning, 22
- mirror neurons, 118
- mixed figures, 56
- multi-stage model, 71
- N400, 81–87, 111, 296–318
- neural theory of metaphor, 118–119
- neurological disorders, 287–296
- no polysemy, 35
- nonlinguistic basis of figurative meaning
 - conceptual metaphor theory/CMT, 197–199
 - propositions, 196–197
- novel metaphor, 149–151, 227–230, 289–291, 325–331
- occupation, 98, 263–278, 303–304
- optimal relevance, 39, 100–108, 138, 204–216
- oxymora, 56, 79, 85, 194
- parallel-distributed processing, 123, 362
- paraphrasing figurative language, 194–199
- personality, 299–302
- phase change, 122
- phase space, 122
- phase transition, 122
- politeness, 223–224
- political beliefs/background, 283–286
- polysemy, 30–45, 116, 235
- pragglejaz, 42–43
- pragmatic effects, 6–13, 207–209
- processing-equivalence hypothesis, 63

- products vs. processes of understanding, 12, 22, 27, 75–76, 151, 328
- proverbs, 174–181
 - clinical psychology, 175
 - conceptual metaphor, 178–180
 - development, 268–269
 - extended conceptual base, 176–178
 - mind reading, 181
 - rhetorical functions, 240–244
 - theory of mind, 181
 - variety, 53–54
- psychological validity, 63, 88, 320
- reference assignment, 59
- relevance theory, 100–113, 127, 137–140, 171–173, 202–218
 - comprehension procedure, 102–108, 204
 - diversity of experiences, 216–218
 - idioms, 172
 - incompatibility, 104–107
 - pragmatics, 206–211
- rhetorical functions, 218–223
 - idioms, 236–240
 - irony, 244–258
 - metaphor, 223–233
 - metonymy, 233–236
 - proverbs, 240–244
- salient meaning, 22, 28, 40, 84–91, 230, 288, 325
- satire, 79, 247–255
- semantic meaning, 22
- single-stage model, 70
- social pragmatic effect, 13
- social relationships, 302–307
- space structuring model, 113, 185
- staged communicative act, 120, 184
- standard pragmatic model, 60–62, 66–110, 178
- structure mapping, 130
- synesthesia, 295
- tetrahedral model, 9
- theory of mind/TOM, 108, 181, 292–294
- tinge hypothesis, 251
- top-down, 64, 99, 166, 329–334, 337
- Training Manual for Identifying Figurative Language, 48
- truth-conditional meaning, 22, 23, 26
- underspecification, 35–36, 93–100, 335
- understanding goal/task, 312–316
- unified theory of figurative language, 335–336
- what is said, 22