

Contents

| | |
|---|------|
| List of Tables | ix |
| List of Figures | xi |
| Acknowledgments | xiii |
| 1 Introduction | 1 |
| 1.1 The New Institutionalism | 2 |
| 1.2 A New Societalism? | 6 |
| 1.3 What This Book Does | 13 |
| 2 Social Heterogeneity and the Number of Parties: A Theory | 22 |
| 2.1 Setting the Stage: The Franchise in the West | 23 |
| 2.2 Getting Started: Literature and Theory | 26 |
| 2.3 Defining Social Heterogeneity | 28 |
| 2.4 Relating Social Heterogeneity to Party System Fragmentation | 32 |
| 2.5 Conclusion | 56 |
| 3 Describing Social Heterogeneity: Measures and Testable Hypotheses | 59 |
| 3.1 Historical Dimensions of Social Heterogeneity in the Advanced Industrial Democracies | 61 |
| 3.2 A Cross-Sectional Index of Social Heterogeneity | 77 |
| 3.3 Conclusion | 87 |
| 4 Social Heterogeneity and Party System Fragmentation: Empirical Evidence across Space and Time | 90 |
| 4.1 Changing Societies, Changing Party System Fragmentation in Legislative Elections? | 92 |
| 4.2 Social Heterogeneity and Presidential Party System Fragmentation | 101 |
| 4.3 Conclusion | 120 |
| 5 Israel: New Parties for New Groups? | 124 |
| 5.1 Social Heterogeneity in Israel | 127 |

Contents

| | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 5.2 | Party System Fragmentation in Israel | 138 |
| 5.3 | Conclusion | 159 |
| 6 | Israel: Testing Hypotheses about Sectarian Party Success | 161 |
| 6.1 | Nonexplanatory Factors | 162 |
| 6.2 | Explanatory Factors | 165 |
| 6.3 | Conclusion | 194 |
| 7 | The United States: New Parties for New Groups? Testing Hypotheses | 198 |
| 7.1 | Social Heterogeneity in the United States | 200 |
| 7.2 | Party System Fragmentation in the United States | 209 |
| 7.3 | Explaining Sectarian Party (Un)Success | 216 |
| 7.4 | Conclusion | 232 |
| 8 | Conclusion: Party System Fragmentation and Beyond | 235 |
| 8.1 | Social Heterogeneity and Party System Fragmentation | 236 |
| 8.2 | Social Heterogeneity and Other Dimensions of the Party System | 239 |
| 8.3 | Descriptive Representation: Changing the Sociodemographic Face of Politics? | 241 |
| 8.4 | The Role of Sectarian Parties | 252 |
| 8.5 | Quo Vadis? | 257 |
| A | Additional Material for the Quantitative Analyses in Chapter 4 | 263 |
| B | Demography in Israel | 273 |
| B.1 | Sephardim | 273 |
| B.2 | Russians | 278 |
| C | Sephardi and Russian Sectarian Parties and Their Success in Israel | 280 |
| C.1 | Sephardi Parties | 280 |
| C.2 | Russian Parties | 280 |
| C.3 | Measuring Party Success I: Assumptions for Comparing Electorate Shares to Vote Shares | 280 |
| C.4 | Measuring Party Success II: Survey Data | 286 |
| D | Demography and the Franchise in the United States | 292 |
| D.1 | National-Level Estimates | 292 |
| D.2 | State-Level Estimates | 293 |
| D.3 | House District Estimates | 299 |
| E | African American Descriptive Representation in the United States | 300 |
| | Bibliography | 307 |
| | Index | 335 |