

Contents

Preface	page ix
Acknowledgments	xi
PART I EARLY MODERN DRAMATIC CANONS
Origins	3
1 Excluding Shakespeare	3
2 Trollope's Dilke	4
3 What is an anthology? (Part I)	7
4 Collecting early modern drama, 1744 to the present	10
5 Ejecta	14
6 How to use this book	17
7 Table of contents	21
8 Autogenesis: The Custom of the Country (Part I)	24
9 Endless tragedy	27
10 Negative canon	31
Attachments	36
11 Lamb in the library	36
12 Dodsley's Hog	39
13 Blunt instrument	42
14 Fragments	44
15 Comedy and tragedy	47
16 The Mermaid Series	49
17 The Keltie exception	53
18 The ties that bind: The Custom of the Country (Part II)	56
19 Hints of designs	59
20 What is an anthology? (Part II)	62
Paradoxes	65
21 Introductory	65
22 Bullen's Nero	68
23 Collier's Reed's Dodsley	72

vi	Contents
24	Beaumont our contemporary	74
25	History in disguise	78
26	The aesthetic under erasure	82
27	The turn of the corkscrew	84
28	Return of the repressed: The Custom of the Country (Part III)	86
29	The changeling	88
30	The greatness of English Renaissance drama	91
	Interlude	95
	Reading a bad play: The Fair Maid of Bristow	95
	 PART II EARLY MODERN DRAMATIC FORMS	 101
	Bifurcation	103
31	The Bowers Dekker	103
32	Fletcher's Shakespeare	106
33	Early modern dramatic form	110
34	The bloody brother	113
35	Early modern dramatic forms	117
36	What is an anthology? (Part III)	120
37	Apples and oranges	123
38	The sleepwalker: Northward Ho (Part I)	127
39	The war in The Shoemaker's Holiday	129
40	The Holaday Chapman	132
	Opposition	137
41	Laws of canon	137
42	Rowley's sow	139
43	Form in collaboration	143
44	Love's labors won	146
45	"A sort of dramatic monster"	149
46	What should an anthology be?	153
47	The surviving image	157
48	Other voices: Northward Ho (Part II)	161
49	Disappearing act	164
50	Anon., anon	168
	Inheritance	173
51	Voluminous Heywood	173
52	Ford's Webster	176
53	Labored forms	178
54	The triumph of time	182
55	Moral Massinger	185
56	No heir	188
57	Apocalypse now	191

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03057-2 - Constructing the Canon of Early Modern Drama

Jeremy Lopez

Table of Contents

More information

	Contents	vii
58	Bedlam at Ware: Northward Ho (Part III)	194
59	Modern times	197
60	Principles of selection and exclusion	200
	Afterword	206
	List of primary-text editions	208
	Bibliography	212
	Index	226