

African History through Sources

This book recounts the history of colonial Africa through more than one hundred primary sources produced by a variety of actors: ordinary men and women, the educated elite, and colonial officials. The sources include official documents and politicians' commentaries, as well as interviews, memoirs, lyrics, and photographs. This book includes entries drawn from all around sub-Saharan Africa, many translated into English for the first time. Introductions to each source and chapter provide context and identify themes.

Balancing coverage of the state and economy with attention to daily life, family life, and cultural change, African History through Sources presents a wide range of experiences that allow readers to analyze change, understand perspectives, and imagine life during Africa's colonial past.

Nancy J. Jacobs is Associate Professor in the department of history at Brown University. She has received two teaching awards, one for digital innovations (2004) and the Harriet W. Sheridan Award for Distinguished Contribution to Teaching and Learning (2010). She is the creator of the Animated Atlas of African History, a web visualization of African history from the late nineteenth to the early twenty-first century. She is the author of Environment, Power, and Injustice: A South African History (Cambridge 2003).

African History through Sources

Volume 1: Colonial Contexts and Everyday Experiences, c. 1850–1946

NANCY J. JACOBS
Brown University, Rhode Island

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CAMBRIDGE
 UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom
 One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA
 477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
 314-321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre, New Delhi - 110025, India
 103 Penang Road, #05-06/07, Visioncrest Commercial, Singapore 238467

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.
 It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org
 Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781107030893

© Nancy J. Jacobs 2014

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2014

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication data

African history through sources : colonial contexts and everyday experiences,
 c. 1850-1946. Volume I / [compiled by] Nancy J. Jacobs, Brown University, Rhode Island.
 pages cm

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-107-03089-3 (hardback) – ISBN 978-1-107-67925-2
 (pbk.)

1. Africa, Sub-Saharan – History – 1884-1960 – Sources. 2. Africa, Sub-Saharan – Social conditions – Sources. I. Jacobs, Nancy Joy, editor of compilation, writer of added commentary.

DT352.7.A34 2014
 967.031-dc23 2013048951

ISBN 978-1-107-03089-3 Hardback
 ISBN 978-1-107-67925-2 Paperback

Additional resources for this publication at <http://www.brown.edu/aaah>

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-107-03089-3 — African History through Sources
Nancy J. Jacobs
Frontmatter
More Information

For my teachers and my students

Contents

List of Figures	page ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	I
1 Life before the Imperialist Scramble	14
1.1 Spiritual Connections	17
1.2 Domestic Relations	27
1.3 International Networks	34
2 Imperial Occupation	63
2.1 Expanding Imperialist Motivations	65
2.2 The Scramble on the Ground	68
2.3 Taking Territory in Southern Africa	88
2.4 White Man's Burden, Black Man's Burden	100
3 Colonialism in the Everyday	107
3.1 Production and Extraction	108
3.2 Something New out of Europe	130
4 Race, Imperial Citizenship, and Colonial Subjecthood	151
4.1 Imperial Manhood	153
4.2 Segregation of Rights in French West Africa and British Southern Africa	165
4.3 Race and Character	189
5 Colonial Subjecthood and Popular Politics	199
5.1 The Politics of Bureaucracy	202
5.2 Social Movements	216
5.3 Traditions and Tribes	232

6	The Undoings of Empire	247
6.1	Children, Women, and Men	250
6.2	Labor	264
6.3	Songs about Working	279
6.4	Critiques of Fascist Aggression and Imperialism	281
7	Africa's War for Freedom	291
7.1	Africa and the Allies	293
7.2	Development and Modernity	306
	Index	317

Figures

1	Africa in 2014	page 7
2	Africa, Europe and the Atlantic World, showing locations for entries in Chapter 1 (and American locations for entries in Chapters 4 and 6)	12
3	Louis Gustave Binger, Du Niger au Golfe de Guinée par les pays de Kong et le Mossi , 1892	18
4	“Vili Diviner”	21
5	P. D. Boilat, Esquisses Sénégalaises: Physionomie du pays, peuplades, commerce, religions, passé et avenir, récits et légendes , 1853	37
6	Gardner Fred Williams, The Diamond Mines of South Africa: Some Account of Their Rise and Development , 1902	56
7	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 2	62
8	H. Lübers, “Die Westafrikanische Conferenz in Berlin,” illustration for “Die Neue Aera der Colonialpolitik,” 1884	66
9	Robert Harris, “Early Open Workings”	67
10	“Oil on Canvas, Depicting the Abyssinian and Italian Armies, Also Menelek and Queen Taitu,” 1910	84
11	Reginald Sheppard, “Spion Kop, Where the Boers Charged up the Hillside,” in Howard C. Hillegas, With the Boer Forces , 1900	89
12	“Solomon Tshekisho Plaatje”	90
13	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 3	106
14	J. H. Chaplin, “A Note on African Taxes and Tax Stamps,” 1961	124

15	Charles Metcalfe, “Railway Development of Africa, Present and Future,” 1916	127
16	Clifford Hallé, To Menelek in a Motor-Car , 1913	130
17	Robert H. Milligan, The Fetish Folk of West Africa , 1912	143
18	“Mission School Classroom”	144
19	“Grand Dame of the Ndoni”	145
20	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 4 (for 4.1c, see Figure 2)	150
21	David Kimble, A Political History of Ghana: The Rise of Gold Coast Nationalism, 1850–1928 . Plate A	154
22	Constance Stuart Larrabee, “Transkei Men Working in Field,” 1947	171
23	Maurice Branger, “Black Chiefs of French Western Africa Placing a Decoration on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier,” 1922	180
24	Ernest Glanville, Through the Red Revolt on the Rand: A Pictorial Review of Events, January, February, March, 1922	182
25	Adelaide M. Cromwell, An African Victorian Feminist: The Life and Times of Adelaide Smith Casely Hayford, 1868–1960	196
26	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 5	198
27	Bert Hardy, “Group of Sudanese Men Sitting around Colonial Official, Sudan”	211
28	Harry McBride, “Bassa Women Paint Their Skin with Clay and Don Jewelry for a Festival,” 1922	240
29	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 6 (for 6.2d see Figure 2)	246
30	W. F. Hackman, “Untitled,” 1922–3	252
31	“Kipsigis Girl at Circumcision Ceremony,” 1960s	254
32	Lynn M. Thomas, “The Modern Girl and Racial Respectability in 1930s South Africa,” 2006	258
33	“Port de Dakar. Sac d’Arachides,” 1945/1960	274
34	“Mine near Panda”	277
35	Ethiopian leader Haile Selassie speaking at League of Nations, 1936	282
36	Africa and Europe, showing locations for entries in Chapter 7	290
37	United States Office of War Information, “Charles de Gaulle, Chief of the Free France, Is Welcomed to Chad by Governor-General Éboué of Free French Africa,” 1941	293
38	United States Office of War Information, “Free French Anti-Aircraft Gunner in Action in the Western Desert,” 1942(?)	297

	Figures	xi
39	Constance Stuart Larrabee, “Soil Erosion, Lesotho,” 1947	306
40	Agence économique de la France, “Compagnie Générale des Oléagineux Tropicaux Tracteurs,” 1950	309
41	D. Arniaud, “Douala. Usine électrique, groupe de quatre moteurs thermiques de 750,” 1952	310
42	Georges Vermot-Gauchy, “Pont sur le N’zi à Tiassalé, subdivision située à 150 km d’Abidjan,” 1950	311
43	“Babies Born in a Hospital about 60 Miles North of Nairobi (K. 9285),” 1945	315

Acknowledgments

I am most grateful to my students who contributed documents for this book. As the entry references show, a good proportion of the text came to me through their assistance. Many students contributed one or two documents through the course “Twentieth-Century Africa” and the seminar “Africa since 1950.” Unfortunately, I have not been able to use all the pieces they prepared. A few students gave sustained thought to the book as a whole and deserve acknowledgment beyond footnotes for individual documents. Advanced students who worked on the sourcebook in group study projects were Elizabeth Baron, Ali Fairbrother, Whitney Graham, Anit Jindal, Helen Lamphere, Elena Lobo, Patrick Roux, and Julie Siwicki. My summer research assistants were Dzigbodi Agbenyadzie, Chantal Berman, Meghan Gill, Aaron Stanton, and Hope Turner. These students did the original translations in collaboration with each other. My graduate teaching assistants also helped me reflect on the overview: Erik Anderson, Jonathan Hagel, Mark Robbins, and Liz Sarles. Endor Fanomezantsoa and Frederic Kouihongbe Taly were not Brown students, but they helped with French translations and became enthusiastic and valuable participants in the project. After graduation and her good work as a research assistant, Camilla Hawthorne started the daunting project of securing permissions to reproduce copyrighted entries. Adwoa Hinson took that project to completion with keen attention to detail and good humor. Niwaeli Kimambo was a stalwart all-round assistant during the final process.

The Animated Atlas of African History (AAAH available at: <http://www.brown.edu/aaah>) serves as an Internet companion to this book. It was developed at the Instructional Technology Group at Brown University by Rolando Peñate and Giovanna Roz Gastaldi, who shared a powerful vision of the possibility of conveying history through digital mapping. Katherine Jacobson and Park Sinchaisri worked together to create the link between the entries in this book and the map. Charis Loke made the maps accompanying each chapter.

The staff in the departments of History and Africana Studies have always been helpful, and I am very grateful to Michael Ruo, department manager in Africana Studies for processing permission payments. The Interlibrary Loan Office and Circulation Desk of the Rockefeller Library at Brown University, in particular the late Beth Coogan, provided a tremendous service through this process. Holly Snyder, resources librarian for Africana Studies, has been constantly encouraging and supportive to my students and me as we undertook many dozens of searches. Dominique Coulombe, resources librarian for French Studies, went beyond her job description to help me with French sources. My departments at Brown, Africana Studies and History, both provided support for research assistance. The Dean of the College Office sponsored the summer research assistants through a wonderful program, the Karen T. Romer Undergraduate Research and Teaching Assistantship (UTRA). The International Affairs Office at Brown University provided a curriculum grant that funded reproduction fees and a revision to the AAAH.

Over the past years I've picked the brains of many colleagues about how this book could be organized and what should be included. I've been grateful for helpful responses from Andrew Bank, Lundy Braun, the late Glen Elder, Stephen Ellis, Nathalie Etoke, Joachim Ezeji, Roquinaldo Ferreira, Jan-Bart Gewald, Marja Hinfelaar, Lazare Ki-Zerbo, Joanna Lewis, Julie Livingstone, Hugh Macmillan, Jamie Monson, Dunbar Moodie, Glen Ncube, Malyn Newitt, Paul Nugent, Moses Ochonu, Emily Osborn and Ralph Austen, Timothy Parsons, Jeremy Rich, Robert Ross, Leander Schneider, Allison Shutt, William Storey, and Robert Vinson. Other historians shared their research, giving permission for me to use published materials and sharing unpublished materials. They are cited in each appropriate document. I owe a particular debt of gratitude to the anonymous readers for Cambridge University Press and to Phyllis Martin and Kevin Shillington, who read the entire manuscript. My husband, Peter Heywood, was always an engaged critic and supporter. More than once, the initial idea for a source came from him. Time and again, I reworked a source or even dropped it because he was dubious of its value.

I am grateful for the support of Frank Smith, Eric Crahan, and Will Hammell at Cambridge University Press. John Nugent was a cheerful editor for early drafts. Priscilla Hall turned her expert eye to the final project.

Acknowledgments

xv

Her enthusiasm, sense of language, and great skill with mechanics were essential in nudging this fledgling out of the nest.

I often imagined the entries in this book as textile scraps. The fabric metaphor provides a good way to make the necessary disclaimers, because nothing is easier than seeing the imperfections in one's own stitchery. Sadly, beautiful remnants remain unused. Perhaps I cut some pieces unwisely or edited them clumsily. The grain of some pieces may not be straight with the work as a whole. Some seams pucker and the stitches aren't even. Much of the richness of this patchwork comes from the imagination and enthusiasm of others. Any artless or messy handiwork is my responsibility.