European Integration and the Atlantic Community in the 1980s

This unique collection of essays lays the groundwork for the study of the intersection of European integration and transatlantic relations in the 1980s. With archives for this period only recently opened, scholars are beginning to analyze and understand what some have called an apogee of the European project and others have called the second Cold War. How do these moments intersect and relate to one another? These essays, by prominent scholars from Europe and the United States, examine this and related questions while challenging conventional chronologies.

Kiran Klaus Patel is Professor of European and Global History at Maastricht University. He is the author, among other works, of Soldiers of Labor: Labor Service in Nazi Germany and New Deal America (Cambridge 2005) and coeditor of The United States and Germany During the 20th Century: Competition and Convergence (Cambridge 2010) and of Europeanization in the Twentieth Century: Historical Approaches (2010).

Kenneth Weisbrode is Assistant Professor of History at Bilkent University. He is the author of On Ambivalence (2012) and The Atlantic Century (2009), and coeditor of The Paradox of a Global USA (2007).
