

CONTENTS

List of figures viii

List of tables ix

Preface xi

Acknowledgements xiii

- 1 Knowing ‘race’ 1
 - 1.1 Chronology of race 3
 - 1.2 Is race defined by appearance, biology and nature? 4
 - 1.3 Culture, appearance and biology revisited 6
 - 1.4 Race, comparatively and historically 8
 - 1.5 Comparisons 9
 - 1.6 Race in the history of Western modernity 15
 - Conclusion: so what is race? 20
 - Further research 22

- Part I Race in time 23

- 2 Early approaches to understanding human variation 25
 - 2.1 Nature and culture 26
 - 2.2 Ancient Greece and Rome 27
 - 2.3 Medieval and early modern Europe 31
 - 2.4 New World colonisation 37
 - Conclusion 50
 - Further research 52

- 3 From Enlightenment to eugenics 53
 - 3.1 Transitions 54
 - 3.2 Changing racial theories 64
 - 3.3 The spread of racial theory: nation, class, gender and religion 72
 - 3.4 Nature, culture and race 76
 - 3.5 Black reaction 79
 - Conclusion 80
 - Further research 82

- 4 Biology, culture and genomics 83
- 4.1 Darwin (again), genetics and the concept of population 84
 - 4.2 Boas and the separation of biology and culture 85
 - 4.3 Nazism, World War II and decolonisation 87
 - 4.4 UNESCO and after 88
 - 4.5 The persistence of race in science 92
 - 4.6 Race and IQ 93
 - 4.7 Race and sport 93
 - 4.8 Race, genomics and medicine: does race have a genetic basis? 94
 - 4.9 Race, genomics and medicine: racialising populations 96
 - Conclusion 103
 - Further activities 104
- 5 Race in the era of cultural racism: politics and the everyday 105
- 5.1 Introduction 105
 - 5.2 The institutional presence of race 107
 - 5.3 Race, nature and biology in the everyday world of culture 117
 - Conclusion 130
 - Further research 131
- Part II Race in practice 133
- 6 Latin America: mixture and racism 135
- 6.1 Introduction 135
 - 6.2 Latin America and mestizaje 138
 - 6.3 Colombia: racial discrimination and social movements 139
 - 6.4 Structural disadvantage, region and mestizaje: lessons from Colombia 145
 - 6.5 Brazil: variations on a theme 150
 - 6.6 Guatemala: racial ambivalence 155
 - 6.7 Performing and embodying race in the Andes 158
 - Conclusion 159
 - Further research 160
- 7 The United States and South Africa: segregation and desegregation 161
- 7.1 Changing US demographics 161
 - 7.2 Caste and class in segregated Southern towns 164
 - 7.3 Black reaction and 'desegregation' 168
 - 7.4 Segregation in practice: 'the ghetto' 170
 - 7.5 Latinos and brownness 179
 - 7.6 South Africa 183
 - Conclusion 189
 - Further activities 190
- 8 Race in Europe: immigration and nation 191
- 8.1 European histories of race 191
 - 8.2 Issues in post-colonial migration in Europe 192
 - 8.3 White Britons in Leicestershire 201

8.4	Asian Leicester	204
8.5	The Asian gang in London	205
8.6	Geographies of race in black Liverpool	207
8.7	Algerians in France	210
	Conclusion	214
	Further activities	215
9	Conclusion	217
9.1	Theorising race	217
9.2	Globalising race	221
9.3	The future of race	223
	References	225
	Index	249