

Contents

	List of contributors	page ix
1	The semeiotics of history: C. H. Dodd on the origins and character of the Fourth Gospel Tom Thatcher	1
PART I: APPROACHING THE PROBLEM: REFLECTIONS ON DODD'S CONTEXT AND METHOD
2	C. H. Dodd as a precursor to narrative criticism R. Alan Culpepper	31
3	Progress and paradox: C. H. Dodd and Rudolf Bultmann on history, the Jesus tradition, and the Fourth Gospel Craig R. Koester	49
4	Symbolism in John's Gospel: an evaluation of Dodd's contribution Jan van der Watt	66
5	C. H. Dodd on John 13:16 (and 15:20): St John's knowledge of Matthew revisited Gilbert Van Belle and David R. M. Godecharle	86
6	John and the rabbis revisited Catrin H. Williams	107
7	Characters who count: the case of Nicodemus Jaime Clark-Soles	126

viii	Contents
PART II: HISTORY AND TRADITION IN THE FOURTH GOSPEL
8	C. H. Dodd, the historical Jesus, and realized eschatology Urban C. von Wahlde	149
9	Historical tradition(s) and/or Johannine redaction? A reflection on the threefold repetition of Pilate's statement 'I find no guilt in him' (John 18:38b; 19:4, 6) Hellen Mardaga	163
10	Incidents dispersed in the Synoptics and cohering in John: Dodd, Brown, and Johannine historicity Paul N. Anderson	176
11	Reflections on a footnote John Ashton	203
12	The anointing in John 12:1–8: a tale of two hypotheses Wendy E. S. North	216
13	Eucharist and Passover: the two 'loci' of the liturgical commemoration of the Last Supper in the early church Michael Theobald	231
PART III: FUTURE DIRECTIONS
14	The Fourth Gospel and the founder of Christianity: the place of historical tradition in the work of C. H. Dodd John Painter	257
	Index	285