

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

- Abramoff scandal, 34–36, 144–148, 154–159
- absentee balloting
- timing of elections and, 184–188
  - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
  - voting anonymity violated by, 44–45
- accessibility, inequality in, 138–143
- accountability. See also electoral accountability
- citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - popular sovereignty and, 10–12
  - transparency and, 41–44
- Ackerman, Bruce, 47–48
- adaptive mitigation, Electoral College and, 110–113
- administrative inoculation
- apolitical design and, 23–25
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- agency actions
- freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - representation and, 7–10
- aggregation of resources, “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- American “exceptionalism,” political reform and, 12–13
- American political system, reform pluralism and, 20–21
- anonymous donors, protection of, 47–48
- anonymous voting, absentee ballots as threat to, 44–45
- anti-corruption measures
- impact of public information disclosure on, 47–48
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- anti-majoritarian design, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- apolitical design
- American populism and, 20–21
  - characteristics of, 28
  - coherence and consistency issues in, 39–40
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - democratic distortion and, 147
  - democratic imperative and, 10–12, 23–25
  - insulation of policy-making in, 25–29
  - material corruption and, 162–169
  - pluralism and, 10–12
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - political patronage and system permeability, 159–162
  - reform and, 6–7
- apportionment, Electoral College
- inconsistencies concerning, 110–113
- Arizona
- citizen institutions in, 81–85
  - redistricting in, 125–131
- “as if” citizenship, interest group pluralism and, 25–29
- asset divestment, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- Associated Milk Producers of America, 144–148
- association rights, donor information disclosure and, 48–51
- at-large districting systems, reform cycles and, 97–102
- Austin v. Michigan Chamber of Commerce*, 164–165
- Australia, electoral fairness in, 124

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

236

Index

- autonomous citizenship premise
    - absentee balloting as threat to, 44–45
    - privacy and, 67
  - Ayers, Ian, 47–48
  - Bagley-Keene open meeting law, 58–63
  - Baker v. Carr*, 125–131, 162–169, 198–204
  - ballot design
    - election administration and, 184–188
    - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
    - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
  - ballot initiatives
    - political reform and, 36–37
    - voter and donor information disclosure for, 44–54
  - ballot security issues, voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
  - basic democratic requirements, too little democracy question and, 14–15
  - Bay Area Council, 78–81
  - behavior
    - political ethics and, 144–148
    - voting rights protections and, 170–173
  - benign inconsistencies in reform cycle, 108–110
    - election administration and, 192–193
  - Bennett, Robert, 7–10
  - Berry, Christopher, 70–78
  - bicameral system, supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - bipartisanship, redistricting and, 125–131
  - blended constitutional design, reform pluralism and, 20–21
  - blended reform agenda, proposals for, 194–216
  - bold populism, pluralism and, 25–29
  - Brennan Center, 1–2, 173–178
  - bribed voting debate, voter information and, 45–46
  - Briffault, Richard, 51–54
  - Broken: American Political Dysfunction And What To Do About It* (Garfinkle), 2
  - Brown, Jerry, 153–154
  - Brown Act (California), 58–63
  - Buckley v. Valeo*, 32–34, 51–54, 162–169
  - budgeting policies, popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - bureaucratic discretion
    - patronage politics and, 159–162
    - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
    - reform cycles and, 97–102
    - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
    - voter eligibility requirements and, 173–178
  - Bush, George W., 123, 137–138
  - Bush v. Gore*, 170–173, 182, 198–204
  - business PACs, influence and spending by, 138–143
  - California
    - Citizen Initiated Recall and Referendum in, 70–78
    - conflict of interest laws in, 148–154
    - constitutional convention in, 5–6
    - lottery government in, 78–81
    - nonpartisanship in state government in, 108–110
    - open meeting laws in, 58–63
    - participatory budgeting (PB) systems in, 78–85
    - popular initiatives in, 85–87
    - Proposition 8 in, 85–87
    - Proposition 13 in, 87–90
    - Proposition 16 ballot in, 48–51
    - Proposition 31 ballot in, 81–85
    - supermajority rule in, 136–137
    - term limits in, 108–110
  - California Democratic Party v. Jones*, 95–97
  - California Redistricting Commission (CRC), 125–131
  - campaign finance reform
    - coherence and consistency issues in, 39–40
    - corruption confusion and, 162–169
    - fair representation and, 138–143
    - hydraulic effect of, 166–167
    - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
    - interest group pluralism and, 25–29
    - intermediary and media information
      - collection and disclosure concerning, 47
    - judicialization of, 32–34
    - patched-based approach to, 106–113
    - political ethics and, 147–148
    - populist assumptions concerning, 7–10
    - public disclosure of contributions and, 46–47
    - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - Supreme Court interpretations concerning, 12–13, 32–34
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
  - unintended consequences of, 167–168
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- Campaign Legal Center, 1–2

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

237

- campaign targeting practices, voter demographics and, 46
- Canada, citizen assemblies in, 78–85
- candidates, disclosure of public information on, 54–57
- caucus systems, nomination rule changes and, 95–97
- census data
  - on elected officials, 70–78
  - public disclosure of, 45–46
- Center for Voting and Democracy, 1–2
- checks and balances
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - popular initiatives and, 85–90
  - transparency and, 41–44
- Chicago Convention of 1968, 95–97
- church affiliations, public disclosure of, 54–57
- citizen caucus, 78–81
- Citizen Initiated Recall and Referendum, 70–78
- citizen initiatives and institutions
  - challenges facing, 81–85
  - participation paradox and, 68–70, 78–85
  - populism and, 10–12, 195
  - reform pluralism and, 20–21
  - selecting with electing in, 78–81
  - structural tensions in, 110–113
- citizen participation. See also direct democracy; initiative petitions
  - benefits of voter registration data for, 48–51
  - boundaries to, 90–91
  - campaign targeting practices and, 46
  - fair representation and, 118–121
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - government transparency and, 57–58
  - paradoxes of, 68–91
  - popular initiative approach and, 85–90
  - populist promise of, 22–23
  - reform pluralism and, 196–198
  - transparency vs. privacy and, 44–54
- citizen redistricting commissions, 37–38, 78–85
- Citizen's Assemblies, 81–85
- citizenship
  - apolitical inoculation reform and, 23–25
  - capacity and competence issues, 20–21, 22–23, 173–178
  - cognitive fallibility and, 7–10, 25–29
  - too much democracy question and shirking by, 204–210
  - voting as duty of, 51–54
- Citizens United v. FEC*, 32–34, 51–54, 162–169
- city government, recall elections and, 70–78
- civil rights movement
  - redistricting issues and, 125–131
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
- civil servants, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- civil service
  - reform of, 159–162
  - in U.S., 37–38
- class issues, reform cycles and, 102–106
- Clinton, Bill, 54–57, 161–162
- Clinton, Hilary, 95–97, 161–162
- cloture votes, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- cognitive fallibility, citizenship and, 7–10
- coherence, reform agendas and, 210–215
- Coleman, Gary, 5–6
- commission model for redistricting, 125–131
- Common Cause, 1–2, 5, 125–131
- competition
  - in elections, 78–81
  - between intermediaries, pluralism and, 25–29
  - in policy making, 138–143
- compulsory voting model of citizen participation, 81–85
- conflict of interest. See also revolving door issue
  - disclosure rules, 30–32
  - open meeting laws and regulation of, 58–63
  - outsourced regulation of, 37–38
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - reform cycles and, 106–113
  - regulations against, 148–154
- Congress
  - barriers to structural political reform and, 34–36
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - negative opinion of, 1–2
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- consensus
  - bargaining to, in redistricting, 125–131
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- consistency, fair representation and, 118–121

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

238

Index

- Constitution (US)
  - Article 1 election provisions, 30–32
  - Article 5 and constitutional amendments, 34–36, 114–117
  - election administration and clauses of, 170–173
  - political reform and, 12–13
  - redistricting mandates and, 121–131
  - veto bypassing and, 34–36
- constitutional amendments
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - political reform and, 12–13, 20–21, 34–36
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - problematic vs. benign inconsistencies and, 110–113
  - reform cycles and barriers to, 97–102
  - sovereignty of representative government and, 110–113
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- constitutional convention
  - demise of, 36–37, 114–117
  - limitations of, 110–113
- constitutional review, reform cycles and demise of, 114–117
- Constitutional Revision Commission (California), 5–6
- contribution limits, U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
- convenience voting, fraud potential of, 44–45
- Cooley, Steve, 58–63
- corruption
  - campaign finance reform and confusion concerning, 162–169
  - donor information disclosure and, 51–54
  - electoral accountability and, 14–15
  - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - reform pluralism and, 168–169
  - revolving door issue and, 154–159
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- county government, benign inconsistencies in reform of, 108–110
- court system
  - apolitical design and, 23–25
  - judicialization of political regulation and, 32–34
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - redistricting and, 125–131
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
- criminal conviction, voter eligibility and, 173–178
- Cunningham, Randall Duke, 146–147
- cyclical reform initiatives, 106–113
- Davis, Gray, 70–78
- declarant alien voting, voter eligibility and, 173–178
- de facto reform pluralism, 92–93
- delegated power, freedom of information and, 63–67
- delegate model of representation, 131–138
- delegation paradox
  - campaign finance reform and, 166–167
  - citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - citizen mistrust of government and, 20–21
  - government disclosure and, 57–58
  - more elections approach and, 70–78
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - populist design and, 22–23
  - representative government and, 7–10
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- deliberative space
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - open meeting laws and, 58–63
  - pluralist preservation of, 25–29
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
- democracy, apolitical design and, 10–12, 23–25
- Democracy 21, 1–2
- democracy index proposal, donor information disclosure and, 48–51
- democratic contestation, principle of, 10–12
- patterns of reform and, 93–106
- democratic deficit, apolitical inoculation and, 23–25
- democratic distortion
  - corruption and, 162–169
  - political ethics and, 147
  - revolving door issue and, 154–159
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- democratic imperative. See also electoral accountability
  - blended reform agenda and, 194–216
  - citizen initiated recalls and, 70–78
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–91
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More informationIndex

239

- pluralism and, 215–216
- reform cycles and, 95–97
- reform populism and, 7–10
- transparency and, 67
- Democratic Party
  - absentee voting and, 184–188
  - election administration and, 4–6
  - nomination rule changes in, 95–97
  - primary elections and, 123
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - voter eligibility issues and, 173–178
- democratic theory question, election
  - administration and, 170–173
- demographic information
  - citizen institutions and, 81–85
  - number of elected officials, 70–78
  - redistricting and use of, 121–131
  - targeted contact based on, 46
- Department of Veteran's Affairs, health records
  - of, 63–67
- dependence corruption, 164
- descriptive representation, conflict of interest
  - laws and, 148–154
- diplomatic embarrassment, freedom of
  - information laws and, 63–67
- direct democracy, 20–21
  - growth of, 70–78
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–70
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - popular initiative approach and, 85–90
  - populist design and, 22–23
  - public information disclosure and, 51–54
  - reform pluralism and, 196–198
  - representative government vs., 25–29
  - supermajority rule and, 136–137
  - suspicion of, 78–81
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- direct selection process, presidential
  - nominations and, 95–97
- disclosure of public information
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - conflict of interest regulation and, 58–63
  - democratic imperative and, 67
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - in government, 57–58
  - open meeting laws, 58–63
  - for prospective public officials, 54–57
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - voter and donor information, 44–54
- district systems, reform cycles and, 97–102
- Dole, Bob, 123
- “do no further harm” principle, reform agendas
  - and, 213–215
- donor information
  - disclosure of, 44–54
  - impact on voter decisions, 48–51
  - protection of, 47–48
- dual constituency problem, supermajority rule
  - and, 136–137
- due process, election administration and, 170–173
- Eagleton, Tom, 54–57
- early voting, timing of elections and, 184–188
- earmarks, political ethics and, 159–162
- effectiveness and efficiency issues
  - excessive democracy problem and, 15
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
- efficiency norms, balloting system design and, 184–188
- Egypt, apolitical design in government of, 23–25
- elected representatives
  - negative opinion of, 1–2
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
- election administration
  - benign neglect and unfair treatment, 192–193
  - blended reform agenda for, 194–216
  - perpetual campaigning and, 57–58
  - polarization concerning reform of, 4–6
  - policy-making vs., 170–193
  - politics and, 170–173
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act, 188–192
  - timing of elections and, 184–188
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
  - voter identification and eligibility, 178–184
- Election Assistance Commission (EAC), 30–32
  - political reform and, 37–38
- election cycles, too much democracy question
  - and, 204–210
- election timing
  - election administration and, 170–173, 184–188
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- electoral accountability
  - American principles of, 4–6
  - benign inconsistencies and, 108–110
  - citizen initiated recalls and, 70–78

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

240

Index

- electoral accountability (cont.)
  - citizen knowledge and participation and, 15–16
  - disclosure of personal information and, 54–57
  - fair representation principle, 118–121
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - more elections approach and, 70–78
  - open meeting laws and, 58–63
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–70
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - pluralism and, 25–29
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - selection without election and, 78–81
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - too much democracy question and, 14–15, 204–210
  - transparency and, 41–44
- Electoral College
  - ideal vs. feasible concerning, 12–13
  - as political intermediation, 25–29
  - problematic inconsistencies in, 110–113
  - proposals for elimination of, 196–198
- electoral density
  - measurements of, 70–78
  - nonpartisanship and, 108–110
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- electoral mandate, supermajority rule and, 137–138
- electoral opportunity, populist maximization of, 25–29
- electoral overload, participation paradox and, 68–70
- electoral politics, apolitical design as alternative to, 23–25
- enforcement
  - of open meeting laws, 58–63
  - public information disclosure and, 51–54
- equality of competence
  - citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - Electoral College and, 110–113
- equal protection doctrine
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
- European countries, voter eligibility in, 173–178
- excessive democracy problem, 15
- ex-felons, voter eligibility for, 173–178
- expertise
  - citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - interest group and lobbying influence and role of, 138–143
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
  - skepticism concerning, 114–117
- fairness principle
  - pluralism and, 25–29, 142–143, 210–215
  - populism and, 25–29, 210–215
  - reform agendas and, 210–215
  - representation and, 118–143
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
- Fair Political Practices Commission (FPPC) (California), 153–154
- fair representation principle
  - historical examples of, 118–121
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - redistricting and, 121–131
  - supermajority rule, 131–138
  - unequal access and influence and, 138–143
- feasibility, ideal and, 12–13
- Federal Election Commission (FEC), 37–38, 106–113
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- federal government
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - disclosure of public information in, 57–58
  - excessive democracy problem and, 15
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - negative public opinion about, 1–2
  - number of elected officials in, 70–78
  - structural constraints and political regulation in, 29–38
- federalism, in American political system, 30
- Fifteenth Amendment, racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
- filibuster
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- financial holdings, public disclosure of, 54–57
- Fiorina hypothesis, reform cycles and, 102–106
- fire alarm enforcement
  - political reform and, 37–38
  - transparency issues and, 41–44
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- First Amendment
  - campaign finance regulation and, 32–34
  - donor information disclosure and, 48–51
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
- FISA Court, 63–67

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

241

- fiscal matters, popular initiatives and, 87–90
- Fishkin, Jim, 78–81
- “floors” strategy, democratic distortion and, 165
- Florida 2000 election controversy, U.S.
  - political regulation and, 30–32, 170–173
- Flowers, Gennifer, 54–57
- formal equality, fair representation and, 121
- founding father premise, constitutional review and, 114–117
- Fourteenth Amendment, racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
- franchise restrictions, voter eligibility and history of, 173–178
- freedom of information laws, 63–67
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- frequent voters, targeted contact with, 46
- Fund for Constitutional Government, 1–2
- Gaffney v. Cummings*, 125–131
- Gallup Poll, 1–2
- game theory
  - open meeting laws and, 58–63
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
- gender-based voting restrictions, history of, 173–178
- Gerken, Heather, 30, 48–51
- Gerson, Jacob, 70–78
- Gingles framework, racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
- Global Integrity Report, 145–146
- Government in the Sunshine Act, 58–63
- Grofman, Bernard, 124
- hard money system, 7–10
- Hart, Gary, 54–57
- Hasen, Richard, 2–4, 51–54, 178–184
- Help Americans Vote Act (HAVA), 30–32
- Hollingsworth v. Virginia*, 34–36
- House of Representatives (U.S.), supermajority rule and, 131–138
- Humphrey, Hubert, 95–97
- hybrid states
  - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
  - political reform in, 36–37
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
- hydraulic effect of campaign finance, 166–167
- hyperbole in political reform, 4–6
- hyper-change question, political reform and, 36–37
- ideal, feasibility vs., 12–13
- identity protection, voter information and, 51–54
- immigration
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - redistricting and, 136–137
  - reform cycles and, 97–106
  - voter eligibility issues and, 173–178
- incentive misalignment, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- income distribution, fair representation and, 138–143
- inconsistencies in reform cycles, 106–113
  - benign inconsistencies, 108–110
  - problematic vs. benign inconsistencies, 110–113
- incumbency
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - redistricting and, 124, 129–131
- independent powers, popular initiatives and, 85–87
- independent voters, voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- indirect popular initiatives, 85–87
- individual equality principle, 32–34
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- individual initiative approach, voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- influence, inequality in, 138–143
- informal constitution model, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- information asymmetry. See also freedom of information laws
  - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
  - in representative government, 7–10
  - transparency and, 41–44
- initiative constitutional amendment (ICA)
  - political regulation and, 32–34
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - sovereignty of representative government and, 110–113
  - state structural reform and, 36–37
- initiative entrepreneurship, 87–90
- initiative petitions. See also popular initiatives
  - direct democracy and, 36–37
  - increase in, 70–78
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–70
  - political regulation and, 32–34

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

242

Index

- initiative petitions (cont.)
  - voter and donor information disclosure for, 44–54
- in-office revolving door problem, 154–159
- in-person voting, timing of elections and, 184–188
- institutional design
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - ideal vs. feasible in, 12–13
  - reform cycles and inconsistency in, 106–113
  - rule of two and, 10–12
- instrumental aspects of voter participation, 51–54
- intelligence information, freedom of
  - information laws and, 63–67
- interest groups, 20–21. See also special interest groups
  - decline of, 10–12
  - government transparency and, 57–58
  - participation paradox and, 68–70
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - postwar growth of, 25–29
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- intermediaries
  - citizen institutions as response to, 78–81
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - pluralism and, 25–29
  - publicly disclosed information and, 46
  - transparency of government and, 41–44
- International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, 173–178
- internet
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - reform agenda and role of, 210–215
- intraparty tensions, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- Issa, Darryl, 74
- *Issenberg, 51–54
- It's Even Worse Than It Looks: How the American Constitutional System Collided With the New Politics of Extremism* (Mann and Ornstein), 2
- Jacksonian democracy, reform proposals and, 106–113
- judicialization of political regulation, 32–34
- jury summons model of citizen participation, 81–85
- King, Gary, 124
- labor PACs, influence and spending by, 138–143
- lame duck period, problems of, 110–113
- Landrieu, Mary, 159–162
- Latin America, apolitical design in
  - governments of, 23–25
- law enforcement, freedom of information laws and, 63–67
- layered reform, 106–113
- League of Women Voters, 1–2, 5, 125–131
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- legislative power
  - citizen initiatives vs., 70–78
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - redistricting and, 121–131
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- legislative referendums, participation paradox and, 70–78
- Lessig, Lawrence, 2–4, 164
- leveling up/leveling down strategies,
  - democratic distortion and, 164–165
- Levinson, Sanford, 110–113, 114–117
- Lieberman, Joe, 7–10
- Lijphart, Arend, 2–4
- Linz, Juan, 2–4
- Little Sis, 1–2
- lobbying
  - barriers to structural reform of, 34–36
  - fairness and, 210–215
  - fair representation and, 138–143
  - interest group pluralism and, 25–29
  - outsourced regulation of, 37–38
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - registration requirements, 30–32
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
  - rule of two and, 10–12
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- local government
  - benign inconsistencies in reform of, 108–110
  - citizen initiated referenda and, 70–78
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - electoral density measurements in, 70–78
  - open meeting law enforcement and, 58–63
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles in, 92–93, 97–102
  - structural political reform and, 36–37

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

243

- lock-in effect
  - problematic vs. benign inconsistencies and, 110–113
  - reform cycles and, 106–113
- logrolling, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- lottery government
  - constitutional convention, 5–6
  - constitutional review and, 114–117
  - excessive democracy and, 15
  - participation paradox and, 68–70, 78–81
  - “Louisiana Purchase” controversy, 159–162
- Madisonian principles, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- mail-in balloting proposals, 184–188
- mal-apportionment problem
  - Electoral College and, 110–113
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy” issue and, 198–204
- mandated expenditures, popular initiatives and, 87–90
- mandatory voting laws
  - impact of, 51–54
  - proposals for, 173–178
- Mann, Tom, 2–4, 102–106
- March Fong Eu v. San Francisco Democratic Committee*, 95–97
- Martens, Darnell, 161–162
- material political corruption, 144–148
  - campaign finance reform and, 162–169
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - delegation paradox and, 166–167
  - democratic distortion and, 147
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
- McCain, John, 123
- McCain-Feingold campaign finance law, 7–10, 34–36, 106–113, 166–167, 198–204, 213–215
- McGovern, George, 95–97
- McGovern-Fraser commission, 95–97
- media coverage
  - coverage of political reform by, 41–44
  - freedom of information requests by, 63–67
  - of interest group and lobbying influence, 138–143
  - message shaping by, 46
- medical records, public disclosure of, 54–57
- micro-targeted voter mobilization, 45–46
- migrant worker voting rights, 173–178
- military power, apolitical design and, 23–25
- minority groups
  - balloting system design and, 184–188
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
  - voter information about, 45–46
- mismatched interests, in representative government, 7–10
- moderate voters, delegation paradox and, 7–10
- money
  - dominance in electoral politics of, 2–4
  - interest group pluralism and dominance of, 25–29
- more elections approach
  - assessment of, 76–78
  - participation paradoxes and, 70–78
- motor voter reforms, 213–215
- Nader, Ralph, 87–90
- national security
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - transparency and, 41–44
- National Voter Registration Act, 213–215
- negotiation, pluralism and, 25–29
- neo-pluralism, blended reform agenda and, 195–196
- neo-populism
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - reform cycles and, 106–113, 195
- neo-Progressivism, reform cycles and, 106–113
- neutral expertise
  - apolitical design strategy and, 20–21, 23–25
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
- New Jersey Redistricting Commission, 125–131
- Nixon, Richard, 95–97, 144–148
- no excuse absentee balloting, 184–188
- No Labels, 1–2
- nomination process
  - interest group pluralism and, 25–29
  - redistriction and, 123
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- noncitizens, voter eligibility for, 173–178
- non-electoral institutions, participation paradox and, 68–70
- non-hybrid states, political reform in, 36–37
- non-instrumental aspects of voter participation, 51–54
- nonpartisanship
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - in state and local elections, 108–110
- nonprofit 501c4 organizations, 166–167
- nonprofit issue ads, information disclosure concerning, 44–54

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

244

Index

- nonprofit reform groups
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - proliferation of, 1–2
- non-uniformity in U.S. political regulation, 30–32
  - election administration and, 170–173
- nuclear option, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- NYU Law Immigrant Voting Project, 173–178
- Obama, Barack, 54–57, 63–67, 95–97, 137–138, 159–162, 173–178
- objective policy-making, apolitical inoculation reform and, 23–25
- Off-Center: The Republican Revolution and The Erosion of American Democracy* (Hacker and Pierson), 2
- Office of Technology and Science Policy, 63–67
- Official Secrets Act (U.K.), 63–67
- Ohio 2004 Presidential election controversy, 170–173
- OMB Watch, 1–2
- one person, one vote principle
  - blended reform agenda and, 194–216
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - democratic imperative and, 7–10
  - fair representation and, 118–121
  - information disclosure and, 46–47
  - populist preference for, 29–38
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- open government, US commitment to, 41–44
- open meeting laws, 41–44
  - disclosure of information and, 58–63
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- Open Secrets, 1–2
- Open the Government, 1–2
- organizational costs, interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
- Omstein, Norm, 2–4, 102–106
- Our Undemocratic Constitution: Where the Constitution Goes Wrong and How We the People Can Correct It* (Levinson), 2
- outcome fairness
  - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
  - redistricting and, 125–131
- outliers, citizen institutions and problem of, 81–85
- out-of-office revolving door problem, 154–159
- outsourcing, of political regulation, 37–38, 46–47
- over-inclusion issue, revolving door problem and, 154–159
- parliamentary parties
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- parochialism, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- participation paradoxes, 68–91
  - boundaries to participation and, 90–91
  - citizen institutions approach and, 78–85
  - more elections approach and, 70–78
  - popular initiative approach and, 85–90
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- participatory budgeting (PB) systems, 78–85
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- partisanship. See party politics; polarization
  - citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - election administration and, 170–173, 178–184
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - voter eligibility issues and, 173–178
- part-time legislators, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- party conventions, nomination rule changes and, 95–97
- party politics
  - citizen institutions and role of, 81–85
  - decentralization of, 102–106
  - interest group pluralism and, 25–29
  - nomination rules and, 95–97
  - patronage and, 161–162
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - primary elections growth and, 70–78
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- past voting data, public disclosure of, 45–46
- patched reforms, reform cycles and, 106–113
- path dependency, voter and donor information disclosure and, 44–54
- patronage politics
  - political ethics and, 147–148
  - political reform and, 37–38
  - system permeability and, 159–162

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

245

- pay to play schemes, impact of public
  - information disclosure on, 47–48
- personal information on public officials,
  - disclosure of, 54–57
- Pew Center for Research, 1–2
- P G and E, Prop 16 ballot in California
  - involving, 48–51
- plebiscitary democracy
  - institutional inconsistencies and, 110–113
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- pluralism
  - See also reform pluralism
  - American political reform and, 25–29
  - blended reform agenda and, 195–196
  - coherence and, 210–215
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - democratic distortion and, 147
  - democratic imperative and, 215–216
  - fair representation principle, 118–121, 142–143, 210–215
  - interest group and lobbying influence and, 138–143
  - material corruption and, 162–169
  - neglect of, 10–12
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - political patronage and system permeability and, 159–162
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - redistricting and, 125–131
  - reform populism and, 6–7
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
  - structural constraints of, 29–38
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - US political reform and, 20–21
- Plutocracy and Democracy: How Money Corrupts Our Politics and Culture* (Garfinkle), 2
- polarization
  - in American politics, 2–4
  - barriers to political reform and, 34–36
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - election data and, 45–46
  - perpetual campaigning and, 57–58
  - political reform and, 37–38
  - primary elections growth and, 70–78
  - redistricting and, 125–131
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- policing issues
  - transparency and, 41–44
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- policy making
  - election administration and, 170–193
  - electoral density demographics and, 70–78
  - interest groups and lobbying impact on, 138–143
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
  - perpetual campaigning impact on, 57–58
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - unequal access and influence and, 138–143
- political action committees (PACs), influence of, 138–143
- political appointments, political ethics and, 159–162
- political discovery, freedom of information and, 63–67
- political ethics
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
  - reform pluralism and, 168–169
  - reform proposals and, 168–169
  - revolving door issue and, 154–159
  - system permeability and, 159–162
- political intermediation, pluralism and, 25–29
- political parties
  - delegation paradox and, 7–10
  - pluralism and, 10–12, 29–38
  - political regulation and, 37–38
  - proportional representation and, 92–93
  - targeted contact with voters from, 46
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
  - voter eligibility requirements and, 173–178
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- “political question” doctrine, political reform and, 32–34
- Political Reform Act (California), 148–154
- political regulation in U.S.
  - coherence and consistency issues in, 39–40
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - judicialization of, 32–34
  - non-uniform, politicized characteristics of, 30–32
  - partisanship and outsourcing in, 37–38
  - political ethics and, 144–148

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

246

Index

- political regulation in U.S. (cont.)
  - structural constraints in American political design and, 29–38
- political return data, public disclosure of, 45–46
- politicization of U.S. political regulation, 30–32
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - voter eligibility requirements and, 173–178
- polling data
  - absentee voting and, 184–188
  - benefits of voters for, 48–51
- polling place voting, public information concerning, 45–46
- Polsby, Nelson, 213–215
- popular initiatives
  - participation paradox and, 70–78, 85–90
  - patterns of reform and, 93–106
  - structural inconsistencies and, 87–90
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - varieties of, 85–87
- popular sovereignty
  - democratic imperative and, 7–10
  - limits of, 10–12
- popular vote, ideal vs. feasible concerning, 12–13
- populism, 6–7
  - characteristics of, 22–23, 28
  - citizen initiatives and, 195
  - coherence and, 210–215
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - democratic distortion and, 147
  - democratic imperative and, 215–216
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - fair representation principle, 118–121, 210–215
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - material corruption and, 162–169
  - political patronage and system permeability and, 159–162
  - political reform and, 20–21, 93–106
  - reform cycles and, 106–113
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
  - structural constraints of, 29–38
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
- Populist Party, 20–21, 70–78
  - reform cycles and, 92–93
- post-electoral distortion, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- preference intensity, democratic distortion and, 165
- presidency
  - constitutional amendments concerning, 97–102
  - Electoral College inconsistencies concerning, 110–113
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - gap between election and assumption of power and, 110–113
  - nomination process for election of, 95–97
  - political ethics and, 144–148
- Presidential Succession Act, 110–113
- press. See media coverage
- primary elections
  - growth in U.S. of, 70–78
  - in OECD countries, 170–173
  - party nomination rules and, 95–97
  - redistricting and, 121–131
  - reform cycles and, 106–113
- principal-agent issues
  - balloting system design and, 184–188
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- prisoner's dilemma dynamic, redistricting and, 121–131
- privacy
  - democratic imperative and, 67
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - open meeting laws and, 58–63
  - public officials' forfeiture of, 54–57
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- private attorneys, political regulation, 37–38
- private sector enforcement
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - political reform and, 37–38
- problematic inconsistencies, reform cycles and, 110–113
- procedural neutrality, redistricting and, 125–131
- professionalization of politics
  - campaign finance reform and, 166–167
  - citizen initiated recalls and, 70–78
  - citizen institutions as response to, 78–81
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - fairness and, 210–215
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - public information disclosure and, 51–54
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - reform pluralism and, 196–198
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

247

- Progressive Party, 70–78
  - civil service reforms and, 159–162
  - district political machines and, 97–102
  - reform cycles and, 92–93, 106–113
- property restrictions, voter eligibility and, 173–178
- proportional representation, 92–93
  - Electoral College inconsistencies concerning, 110–113
  - ideal vs. feasible concerning, 12–13
  - redistricting and, 121–131
- prospective public officials
  - disclosure of public information on, 54–57
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
- provisional balloting, U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
- public accountability
  - apolitical inoculation and, 23–25
  - campaign finance reform and, 162–169
  - patronage politics and, 159–162
- public elections funding
  - democratic distortion and, 162–169
  - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
- Public Integrity Division (PID) (LA County District Attorney), open meeting law enforcement and, 58–63
- public interest policy, apolitical inoculation and, 23–25
- public opinion
  - on constitutional amendments, 114–117
  - disclosure of public information and, 54–57
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - negative views of government and, 1–2
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - of popular initiatives, 85–87
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
- public outrage-reactive reform dynamic, political ethics and, 144–148
- public voucher schemes
  - democratic distortion and, 165
  - fairness and coherence and, 210–215
- race and racism
  - absentee voting and, 184–188
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - reform cycles and, 97–106
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
  - Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
- reactive citizenship
  - participation paradox and, 68–70
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - selection bias and, 58–63
- Reagan, Ronald, 70–78
- recall elections
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- trends in, 70–78
- recount procedures
  - U.S. political regulation and, 30–32
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- recruitment of public officials, disclosure of public information and, 54–57
- recusals
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
- redevelopment policies, citizen initiated
  - referenda and, 70–78
- redistricting
  - bargaining to consensus and, 125–131
  - citizen redistricting commissions, 37–38, 78–85
  - fair representation and, 118–131
  - procedural neutrality and, 125–131
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - supermajority rule and, 136–137
- referenda petitions
  - participation paradox and, 68–70
  - public information disclosure and, 51–54
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- reform cycles
  - benign inconsistencies in, 108–110
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - democratic imperative and, 95–97
  - layering and institutionalist inconsistency in, 106–113
  - overview of, 92–117
  - patterns of reform in, 93–106
  - philosophical ambivalence, 102–106
  - problematic vs. benign inconsistencies, 110–113
  - shifting politics and, 97–102
- reform pluralism, 20–40. See also pluralism
  - barriers to structural reform and, 34–36
  - blended reform agenda and, 195–196
  - corruption and, 168–169
  - current trends in, 196–198
  - de facto reform pluralism, 92–93
  - democratic imperative and, 215–216
  - fair representation and, 118–121

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

248

Index

- reform pluralism (cont.)
  - future potential for, 213–215
  - state and local governments and, 36–37
- reform populism
  - ascendancy of, 1–19
  - critiques of, 6–7
  - current discourse on, 4–6
  - democratic imperative and, 7–10
  - fair representation and, 118–121
  - hyperbole concerning, 4–6
  - ideal vs. feasible in, 12–13
  - institutionalization of, 1–2
  - limitations of, 195
  - questions concerning, 13–19
- relational dependence, interest group and
  - lobbying influence and, 138–143
- relative citizenship premise, open meeting laws and, 58–63
- rent-seeking behavior
  - campaign finance reform and, 162–169
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - revolving door issues and, 154–159
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- replacement of officials, citizen initiated recalls and, 70–78
- representative government
  - apolitical incultation reform and, 23–25
  - citizen institutions and sovereignty of, 110–113
  - delegation paradox and, 7–10
  - disclosure of information and transparency of, 57–58
  - Electoral College inconsistencies concerning, 110–113
  - electoral control vs., 15
  - fair representation and, 118–143
  - judicialization of reform concerning, 32–34
  - pluralist preference for, 29–38
  - popular initiative approach vs., 85–90
  - populist distrust of, 7–10, 22–23
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
  - single member, simple plurality (SMSP) representation, 92–93
  - structural constraints of, 29–38
- Republican Party
  - balloting system design and, 184–188
  - election administration and, 4–6
  - ideological slant in, 2–4
  - primary elections and, 123
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - supermajority rule and, 134–135
  - Super PACs as threat to, 7–10
  - tea party and, 102–106
  - voter eligibility issues and, 173–178
- Republic Lost: How Money Corrupts Congress – and a Plan to Stop it* (Lessig), 2
- resource asymmetry
  - fair representation and, 138–143
  - in representative government, 7–10
- retrospective accountability
  - more elections approach and, 76–78
  - open meeting laws and, 58–63
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–70
  - transparency and, 41–44
- revolving door issue. See also conflict of interest
  - fair representation and, 138–143
  - political ethics and, 154–159
- Reynolds v. Sims*, 32–34, 114–117, 196–198
- Rice, Donna, 54–57
- rising expectations, too little democracy question and, 14–15
- Romney, Mitt, 54–57
- rotation responsiveness, revolving door issues and, 154–159
- rule gaming, reform pluralism and, 20–21
- rule instability, apolitical incultation reform and, 23–25
- rule of two, in democratic design, 10–12
- selection bias
  - in citizen institutions, 81–85
  - reactive citizenship and open meeting laws and, 58–63
- self-dealing problem
  - corruption and, 162–169
  - revolving door issues and deferral of, 154–159
- self-enrichment, conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
- semi-disclosure of donor information, proposals for, 48–54
- semi-proportional districting, reform cycles and, 97–102
- Senate (U.S.)
  - reform proposals for, 196–198
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
- senatorial holds, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- separation of powers
  - in American political system, 30
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - institutional inconsistencies and, 110–113

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

249

- patronage politics and, 159–162
- patterns of reform and, 93–106
- popular initiatives and, 85–90
- redistricting and, 121–131
- transparency and, 41–44
- Seventeenth Amendment (U.S. Constitution), 25–29
- shaming
  - donor identity disclosure and, 48–51
  - revolving door problem and, 154–159
  - voting behavior and, 51–54
- Shelby v. Holder*, 188–192
- short-term political calculations
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - redistricting and, 121–131
  - in reform discourse, 4–6
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
- side payments principle, open meeting laws and, 58–63
- signing initiatives, public information
  - disclosure and, 51–54
- simple majority design, supermajority rule and, 131–138
- Sinclair, Barbara, 102–106
- single-issue politics, constitutional review and, 114–117
- single member, simple plurality (SMSP)
  - representation, 92–93
- single subject rule, popular initiatives and, 85–87
- skewed outcomes, democratic distortion and, 147, 164
- Social Security Administration, records of, 63–67
- socio-economic conditions
  - absentee voting and, 184–188
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
- soft money
  - corruption and equity issues of, 51–54
  - McCain-Feingold campaign finance law and, 106–113
  - political reform and, 7–10
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
- South Australia Electoral Districts Boundaries Commission, 124
- special interest groups. See also interest groups
  - fair representation and, 138–143
  - pluralism and, 25–29
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- Speech Now v. FEC*, 102–106
- state courts
  - direct democracy and, 36–37
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
- state government
  - absentee voting administration and, 184–188
  - benign inconsistencies in reform of, 108–110
  - citizen initiated referenda and, 70–78
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - electoral density measurements in, 70–78
  - partisanship and outsourcing of political reform and, 37–38
  - political reform and role of, 34–36
  - popular initiative approach and, 85–90
  - populist design and, 22–23
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - recall of state legislators and, 70–78
  - redistricting responsibilities of, 125–131
  - reform cycles in, 92–93, 97–102
  - structural reform and, 36–37, 110–113
  - supermajority rule and, 131–138
  - Tenth Amendment provisions on, 30–32
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210
  - voter eligibility and, 173–178
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- statutory measures
  - popular initiatives and, 85–87
  - sovereignty of representative government and, 110–113
- structural constraints in American political design, 29–38
  - barriers to reform and, 34–36
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
- structural incoherence, problematic vs. benign inconsistencies and, 110–113
- sunshine laws, disclosure of information and, 58–63
- super-delegates, in convention nomination system, 95–97
- supermajority rules
  - demise of constitutional review and, 114–117
  - fair representation and, 121, 131–138
  - political reform and, 34–36
  - reform cycles and, 102–106
  - in state and local reforms, 36–37
  - too much democracy question and, 204–210

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

250

Index

- Super-Pacs, 166–167
  - hyperpartisanship and, 102–106
  - interest group pluralism and, 25–29
- Supreme Court (U.S.)
  - apolitical design in appointments to, 23–25
  - campaign finance rulings by, 7–10, 12–13, 51–54, 162–169
  - constitutional amendments involving, 114–117
  - constitutional interpretations by, 20–21
  - election administration and rulings of, 170–173, 182
  - judicial lifetime appointments and, 110–113
  - material corruption framework and, 162–169
  - political corruption rulings and, 161–162
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act and, 188–192
  - redistricting and apportionment rulings by, 121–131, 134–135
  - term limits rulings by, 97–102
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - voting rights issues and, 32–34, 121–131
- symmetry rule, redistricting and, 124
- tax policy proposals
  - citizen initiated referenda and, 70–78
  - popular initiatives and, 87–90
  - supermajority rule and, 136–137
- tea party, 102–106
- Tea Party, threat to Republican Party, 7–10
- technology
  - ballot systems design and, 184–188
  - freedom of information and, 63–67
  - redistricting and use of, 121–131
  - voter and donor information disclosure and, 44–54
- Tenth Amendment, states’ rights and, 30–32
- term limits
  - benign inconsistencies in, 108–110
  - conflict of interest laws and, 148–154
  - enactment in hybrid states, 36–37
  - populist design and, 22–23
  - reform cycles and, 97–102
- third party groups, voter eligibility requirements and, 173–178
- Thomason, Harry, 161–162
- Thompson, Dennis, 2–4
- Thornburgh v. Gingles*, 188–192
- “too little democracy problem,” reform
  - pluralism and, 198–204
- too little democracy question*, reform populism and, 14–15
- too much democracy* question, reform agenda and, 15, 204–210
- trade secrets, freedom of information laws and, 63–67
- trading practices, patronage politics and, 159–162
- transition corruption, revolving door issue and, 154–159
- transparency
  - democratic imperative and, 67
  - freedom of information laws and, 63–67
  - in government, 57–58
  - historical trends in, 41–44
  - open meeting laws, 58–63
  - personal information on public officials and, 54–57
  - political ethics and, 144–148
  - too much democracy* question and, 204–210
  - voter and donor information disclosure, 44–54
- Transparency International corruption index, 145
- Travelgate scandal, 161–162
- trust, in populist design, 22–23
- trustee representation model, 131–138
- turnout data
  - participation paradox and, 68–70
  - primary elections growth and, 70–78
  - public disclosure of, 45–46
- Twentieth Amendment, 110–113
- Twenty-seventh amendment, 34–36, 114–117
- unequal access and influence, fair representation and, 138–143
- unfair treatment, election administration and, 192–193
- UN Human Rights Committee, 173–178
- unintended consequences, law of
  - campaign finance reform and, 167–168
  - reform agendas and, 213–215
  - “too little democracy” problem and, 198–204
- UN Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, 63–67
- United Kingdom
  - Official Secrets Act in, 63–67
  - parliamentary structure in, 131–138
  - single member, simple plurality (SMSP) representation in, 92–93
- United States
  - apolitical design in government of, 23–25

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-03963-6 - Democracy More or Less: America's Political Reform Quandary

Bruce E. Cain

Index

More information

Index

251

- single member, simple plurality (SMSP)
  - representation in, 92–93
- “unorthodox lawmaking,” 102–106
- unpledged delegates, nomination reforms and, 95–97
- U.S. Department of Justice, voter information analysis by, 45–46
- US PIRG, 1–2
- U.S. Privacy Act of 1974, 63–67
- U.S. Senate, indirect election of, 25–29
- US Term Limits Inc v. Thornton*, 97–102
- venue shopping, reform cycles and, 110–113
- voter eligibility
  - changing criteria for, 173–178
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - enrollment and, 178–184
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
- voter fraud allegations, 170–173
  - absentee voting and, 184–188
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - outsourcing of challenges involving, 47–48
  - voter identification and eligibility and, 178–184
- voter harassment, potential for, 48–51
- voter registration
  - barriers to registration, 173–178
  - benefits for voters of, 48–51
  - disclosure of data, 44–54
  - eligibility requirements and, 178–184
  - equality issues with, 46
  - instrumental and non-instrumental components, 51–54
  - redistricting and, 121–131
- voter suppression
  - racial bias and Voting Rights Act, 188–192
  - voter eligibility requirements and, 173–178
- Voting Rights Act
  - citizen institutions and, 81–85
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - racial bias and, 188–192
  - redistricting and, 125–131
- voting rights issues
  - election administration and, 170–173
  - judicial role in, 32–34
  - participation paradoxes and, 68–70
  - timing of elections and, 184–188
  - “too little democracy problem” and, 198–204
  - U.S. voter eligibility laws, 30–32
  - voter information disclosure and, 45–46
- Walker, Scott, 70–78
- wave-based reform initiatives, 106–113
- wealth distribution, fair representation and, 138–143
- web-based information dissemination, voter and donor information disclosure and, 44–54
- Weinstein, Rachel, 70–78
- welfare maximization, apolitical inculcation reform and, 23–25
- Westberry v. Sanders*, 114–117
- Wiki-leaks controversy, 63–67
- “will of the majority,” fair representation and, 118–121
- Wisconsin Right to Life v. FEC*, 102–106
- Wright, Rev. Isaiah, 54–57