

Husserl's Transcendental Phenomenology

Edmund Husserl (1859–1938) is regarded as the founder of transcendental phenomenology, one of the major traditions to emerge in twentieth-century philosophy. In this book Andrea Staiti unearths and examines the deep theoretical links between Husserl's phenomenology and the philosophical debates of his time, showing how his thought developed in response to the conflicting demands of Neo-Kantianism and life-philosophy. Drawing on the work of thinkers including Heinrich Rickert, Wilhelm Dilthey, and Georg Simmel, as well as Husserl's writings on the natural and human sciences that are not available in English translation, Staiti illuminates a crucial chapter in the history of twentieth-century philosophy and enriches our understanding of Husserl's thought. His book will interest scholars and students of Husserl, phenomenology, and twentieth-century philosophy more generally.

ANDREA STAITI is Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Boston College. He has published many articles in journals such as Husserl Studies, Continental Philosophy Review, Philosophy and Social Criticism, and Research in Phenomenology. He is the author and co-editor of several books, including New Approaches to Neo-Kantianism (Cambridge, forthcoming 2015) and Geistigkeit, Leben und geschichtliche Welt in der Transzendentalphänomenologie Husserls (2010).

Acknowledgments

This book crowns a line of research that I started pursuing over ten years ago with my MA thesis at the Università degli Studi di Milano in Italy. It would be hard to acknowledge each and every person whose support, care, and intellectual generosity made my research possible and my life livable. However, it would also be hard not to acknowledge at least those to whom I owe my passion for philosophy, and those who graciously enabled me to cultivate it. First, I want to express my gratitude to my colleagues at the Boston College philosophy department for providing an ideal intellectual home. In particular, I would like to thank our chairman Arthur Madigan, S. J. and the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences David Quigley for granting me a research leave in the fall of 2012, which allowed me to complete the typescript.

During these years I was lucky to meet extraordinary scholars of phenomenology, whose spoken and written words shaped the way I think about Husserl and his ambitious project. Elio Franzini, Carmine Di Martino, and Vincenzo Costa provided invaluable insight when I was a student, and to this day I know I can always rely on their generous feedback. Beatrice Centi, Costantino Esposito, Faustino Fabbianelli, and Massimo Ferrari have been wonderful interlocutors and I can only be thankful that they were willing to follow my work from afar and get me involved in many great initiatives. A special word of thanks goes to my Doktorvater Hans-Helmuth Gander, to whom I owe four unforgettable years in Freiburg and pretty much everything I know about Husserl's Nachlaß.

I can hardly express how much indebted I am to Nicolas De Warren and Claudio Majolino for being wonderful friends, effective critics, careful readers, and just admirable scholars. I would also like to thank all the members and participants of the Husserl Circle, which has been the perfect venue to present and discuss my work. In particular, I learned a lot from Burt Hopkins, John Drummond, Steve Galt Crowell, James Dodd, Tom Nenon, Sebastian Luft, and Thane Naberhaus.

A heartfelt word of thanks goes to Prof. Ullrich Melle and Dr. Thomas Vongehr at the Husserl Archive in Leuven for sharing with me Husserl's notes on Simmel and granting permission to quote from them.

Last but not least, let me thank my students Evan Clarke, Andrea Cimino, Karen Kovaka, Chris Sheridan, and Ben Martin for all the intellectual stimuli they provide and for reading ample sections of this book. Brian Tracz, Kevin Marren, and Daniel Cattolica have been the most accurate and dependable copy editors. Any mistakes or stylistic problems that the reader may still find are entirely my responsibility.

This book is dedicated to my wife Sara, for her angelic patience and her loving support. It is said that behind every great man there is a great woman. If this is true, then the fact that I am married to Sara proves what I always suspected: great women outnumber great men.
