PATRISTIC THEORIES OF BIBLICAL INTERPRETATION

This volume provides an in-depth analysis of patristic hermeneutics for those who research, teach, or study the early church and the interpretation of Scripture. It focuses exclusively on Latin authors – such as Jerome, Augustine, and Gregory – whose writings contain substantial discussion of hermeneutics and who were known, read, and cited in the Middle Ages and beyond. In this collection of essays, leading international experts in the field identify key passages on patristic hermeneutical theory and demonstrate how the works of these authors have been fundamental for Latin traditions of biblical interpretation. Patristic Theories of Biblical Interpretation offers a selective yet comprehensive guide to a previously understudied area.

TARMO TOOM is a Professorial Lecturer at Georgetown University.

Acknowledgments

I am profoundly grateful to the contributors of this volume. Without their expertise the volume would not be what it turned out to be. It has been a real delight to work with such a talented and enthusiastic international team.

We are also much indebted to Laura Morris, the former Editor of Religious Studies at Cambridge University Press, for her keen interest in this project and her patient, professional guidance throughout the entire process of producing a book. Likewise, we owe our sincere gratitude to Alexandra Poreda, an Editorial Assistant, for her help in various technical matters. Last but not least, we would like to acknowledge Ruth Muhlbauer, who has carefully edited the English text of several essays.
