

Index

- ACLED dataset, 164–166 actors in violence categories of, 30, 32, 183
 combatant-civilian interactions, 29–30, 42–43
 in Spanish Civil War, 70–75
 African insurgencies, civilian violence in, 9
 “African Miracle,” Côte d’Ivoire as, 152–153
 African Union, Ivorian presidential elections and, 157
 agrarian unemployment, Spanish land reforms
 and, 51
 airstrikes, see also bombings
 in Catalonia, distribution of, 77–81 development of air power technology and, 130–131
 in Malaga, 84–86
 by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 69–70
 by Republicans in Spanish Civil War, 67–69
 Alfonso XIII (King), 50
 American Civil War
 local mobilization during, 26
 Spanish Civil War compared with, 12–15
 victimization of civilians in, 24–25
 anarchists, see also CNT; FAI civilian collaboration with, 73–74
 direct violence by, 88
 in Malaga, 84–86
 municipal-level violence by, 124–127 anarchosyndicalism electoral politics and, 96
 in Malaga, 110–111
 in Spanish Second Republic, 52–53
 trade unions and, 99–102
 anticlerical violence civilian resistance to, 91–92
 data sources on, 67–69, 84
 in nineteenth century, 74
 Antifascist Militias Central Committee, 73 anti-Marxism, Cold War and, 180
 APWE, 158–161
 Aragon
 civilian agency in, 89–93 collectivization in, 119–124
 data on violence in, 76–77, 194, 197–198
 descriptive statistics for, 202
 frontline in, 81–84, 99
 patterns of violence in, 81–84, 102–107
 political affiliation in, 88–89, 209 armed groups, see also specific armies, e.g., Republican Army
 in Aragon, violence by, 81–84 in Catalonia, violence by, 77–81 civilian agency concerning, 22–24, 42–43, 89–93
 coercive power of, 22
 in Colombia’s “La Violencia”, 174
 direct violence by, 21, 30, 32, 87–116
 internal organization of, 189
 in Ivorian Civil War, 154–161
 local elites collaboration with, 30, 32, 42–43
 political mobilization of civilians by, 26 preferences for direct violence of, 30, 32 selective indirect violence by, 131–132
 in Spanish Civil War, 63–66, 71–72, 87–116, 128–129
 targeted bombing decisions by, 132–135

Index

253

- violence perpetrated by, 29–30
- Arreguín-Toft, Ivan, 21, 131
- artillery, indirect violence using, 130–131
- assassinations, see also executions
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 158–161
 - locality-focused comparisons of, 114–116
 - by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 69–70
 - political affiliation as basis for, 87–116
- Auyero, Javier, 174, 190–191
- Azaña, Manuel, 57–59
- backlash against violence, military-elite
 - collaboration and, 32–35
- Balfour, Sebastian, 53, 65–66
- Baoulé ethnic group, 153
- Barcelona
 - bombardments over, 77–81, 135–145
 - defeat of coup in, 62
 - May 1937 communist-anarchist
 - confrontation, 66–67
- battlefield
 - civilian behavior near, 25
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
 - locality-focused comparisons of violence
 - near, 114–116
 - retaliatory violence in, 118–119
 - in Spanish Civil War, violence in, 81–84,
 - 99–102, 185, 200–201
- Battle of the Ebro, 63, 77–81
- Battle of the Segre, 77–81
- Bedié, Henri Konan, 153, 154, 156–161
- Bevor, Anthony, 69–72
- bombings, see also airstrikes
 - in Aragon, 84
 - in Catalonia, 77–81, 135–145, 215–216
 - development of air power technology and,
 - 130–131
 - executions as consequence of, 142–145
 - international restrictions on, 146–147
 - political motivations for, 132–135
 - revenge as motivation for, 142–145
 - in Spanish Civil War, 13, 132–135, 148
 - spatial analyses of, 145–146
- Bosnia, civil war in, 24–25, 174
- Brenan, Gerald, 71
- Burkinabe militia, Ivorian Civil Wars and,
 - 158–161
- Burkina Faso, armed group, 154–156
- Cáceres, civilian agency and violence in, 91
- Cambodia, revenge and violence in, 39–40
- Campoamor, Clara, 71, 186
- Carlist* militias, 69–70
- Carr, Raymond, 134
- Casanova, Julián, 53, 74–75, 88–89, 119–120,
 - 186–188
- Catalonia
 - bombings in, 135–145, 215–216
 - civilian-armed group collaboration in, 73,
 - 208
 - data on violence in, 76–77, 119–120,
 - 194–196
 - descriptive statistics for, 202
 - electoral politics in, 96
 - executions in, 77–81, 97–102, 194, 207
 - independence declaration in, 58–59
 - multivariate analysis of violence in, 120–122
 - nonviolent victimization in, 92
 - October insurrection in, 58–59
 - patterns of violence in, 77–81
 - Spanish Second Republic elections and,
 - 54–57
 - spatial analysis of violence in, 209–212
 - targeting in Spanish Civil War of, 53
 - ZINB count regression model for, 97–102,
 - 194–196
- Catalonia's Defense Council (Junta de Defensa Pasiva de Cataluña), 136
- Catholic Church
 - leftist violence against, in Spanish Civil War,
 - 67–69
 - resistance to Spanish Civil War violence
 - from, 91
 - Spanish Civil War and role of, 53
 - violence and role of, 97–107
- Causa General*, 67–70, 116–124
- Chechnya, revenge of trauma victims in, 39
- civilian agency
 - anticlerical violence and, 91–92
 - benefits and costs of violence and, 30, 32
 - during civil conflict, 22–24, 42
 - collaboration with armed groups and,
 - 22–24, 73–75
 - and direct violence, 21, 29–30
 - historical examples of, 22–24
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
 - political mobilization and, 5–8, 13–15, 26,
 - 28–29
 - in Spanish Civil War, 66–75, 89–93,
 - 186–187
 - and support for violence, 5–8, 13–15
 - and suppression violence, 3–5, 8–9, 13
 - victimization and, 9, 20
- civil wars

- bombings in, 131
- classification of, 24–25
- in Cold War and post-Cold War eras, 176–179
- future research issues, 192–193
- macro-level analysis of violence and, 175–179
- power dynamics in, 10–11
- revenge as motivation for violence in, 39–40
- security dilemma hypothesis for violence in, 187–188
- class politics
 - in Franco regime, 89
 - land reform and, 51
 - Spanish Civil War violence and, 89
 - in Spanish Second Republic, 52–53
- Clausewitz, Carl Von, 8–9, 182
- cleavage dynamics, 53, 102–104, 191–192
- cocoa crisis, in Côte d'Ivoire, 152–153
- coercion
 - by armed groups, 22
 - bombings as tool for, 130–131
 - victimization of civilians as, 188
- Cold War era
 - civilian victimization during, 176–179
 - conventional civil wars during, 175–179, 179
 - prewar mobilization during, 175–179
- collaboration
 - in Colombia's "La Violencia", 174
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
 - military-local political elites, 32–35, 175
 - political motivations for, in Spanish Civil War, 92–94, 101–102
 - retaliation by families of victims and, 117–118
 - revenge as motivation for, 39–40
 - in Spanish Civil War, 89–93, 128–129
 - time periods for, 37–40
- collateral damage
 - intentional violence vs., 20
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
- collectivizations during Spanish Civil War, 67–69, 119–124
- Colombia
 - conflict war in, 17–18
 - "La Violencia" (1948–1958) in, 174
- combatants
 - in civil wars, 24–25
 - definition, 20
- Comisiones Gestoras*, 72–74
- Comités Antifascistas*, 72–74
- Communist party, Spanish Republican army and, 63–64
- Companys, Lluís, 58–59
- competition
 - alternative models for, 127
 - and collaboration with armed groups, 137–138
 - county fixed effects and, 127–128
 - as dependent variable, 200
 - determinants of, 127–128
 - and direct violence, 35–37, 101–102, 122–124
 - index for Aragon, 102–107, 200
 - index for Catalonia, 97–102, 200
 - index for Malaga, 107–111
 - Ivorian Civil War violence and, 166–169
 - and regional patterns in violence, 111–114
 - revenge and, 118–122
- Condor Legion, 70
- Condra, Luke, 175
- Confederación Española de Derechas Autónomas (CEDA) party, 84
- coalition building by, 95–96
- Spanish Second Republic elections and, 54–57
- Confederación Nacional del Trabajo (CNT) (confederation of anarcho-syndicalists labour unions)
 - in Catalonia, 99–102, 189
 - in Spanish Second Republic, 54
 - Spanish Civil War violence and, 85, 116–127, 189
 - in Spanish Second Republic, 52–53, 57
- conscription, during Spanish Civil War, 66–67
- Constitutional Council (Côte d'Ivoire), 157, 164–166
- conventional civil war
 - comparison with other types of civil wars, 24–25
 - definition of, 10–11, 181–182
 - displacement during, 41–42
 - Ivorian Civil War as, 154–156
 - patterns of violence in, 41–42
 - Spanish Civil War as, 66–67, 183–184
- cost/benefit analysis of violence, military-elite collaboration and, 32–35
- Côte d'Ivoire, see also Ivorian Civil War(s)
 - descriptive statistics for, 217
 - direct violence in, 151–152
 - ethnic cleavage and identities in, 15–16
 - history and political structure of, 152–153, 157

Index

255

- micro-level analysis of, 12–15, 17
- military coup in, 154
- voter turnout in, 161–164
- counter-insurgency, civilian targeting in, 175, 183–184
- county fixed effects, competition and, 127–128, 189, 200
- Croatia, attacks in communities of, 174
- Czechoslovakia, support for Spanish Republican Army from, 65–66
- data on violence
 - bombings data, 142
 - Côte d'Ivoire dataset, 217
 - empirical checks on, 127–128, 186–187
 - for Ivorian Civil Wars, 164–166
 - large-N data, 175–179, 218
 - manipulation following Spanish Civil War of, 76–77
 - multivariate analysis of Spanish Civil War violence, 94–114
 - sources and coding for, 213–214
 - in Spanish Civil, summary of lethal violence data, 86, 186–187
 - Spanish Civil War, combined descriptive statistics, 203–204
- Defense and Security Forces (FDS), 158–161
- defense sections, Spanish parties creation of, 57–59
- de Guzmán, Eduardo, 88, 186–187
- demobilization, of civilian groups, 27
- democratic transition in Spain, debate over
 - data sources during, 76–77
- denunciations
 - by families of victims, 117–118
 - property confiscation as motive for, 119–120
 - revenge as motive for, 117–118
- De Riquer, Borja, 51
- desamortizaciones*, in Spanish Second Republic, 51
- direct violence
 - actors in, 30, 32
 - in Aragon, 84, 102–107
 - in Catalonia, 77–81
 - against civilians, 5–8, 13–15
 - of Cold War and post-Cold War eras, 176–179
 - data sources and coding, 213–214
 - definition of, 21–24
 - indirect violence vs., 21–24, 44
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 17, 162–169
 - locality size and, 41–42
 - as political instrument for local elites, 32–35
 - quantitative analysis of, 16
 - in Spanish Civil War, 67–70, 87–116, 184–187
 - theory of, 16, 26–37
- displacement of civilians, 27, 132
 - civil war and patterns of, 41–42, 148
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
- domination hypothesis, direct violence and, 188
- drone strikes, as indirect violence, 22–24
- economics
 - in Côte d'Ivoire, 152–153
 - incentives to violence based on, 13–15, 188
 - Ivorian Civil War and, 155
 - in Malaga, 84–86, 107–111
 - Spanish land reforms and, 51
- electoral politics
 - in Catalonia, 97–102
 - comparative politics research and, 189–192
 - in Côte d'Ivoire, 153, 157, 161–164
 - data sources and coding, 213–214
 - effects on bombings, 138–142
 - effects on collaboration with armed groups, 137–138
 - and executions in Spanish Civil War, 92–94
 - and Ivorian Civil War violence, 154, 156–166, 168–169
 - and municipal-level violence, 124–127
 - parity between groups and, 35–37
 - polarization in Spanish Second Republic of, 54–57
 - in research on riots, 190–191
 - and violence in non-battlefield areas, 113–114
- El Salvador
 - FMLN insurgency in, 25
 - political mobilization in, 28
- emotions
 - bombings of civilians and effect of, 142–145
 - and retaliatory violence, 116–124
 - and revenge, 117–118
 - as trigger for violence, 37–42, 44, 183, 192–193
- Esquerra Republicana de Catalunya (ERC), 51, 58–59
- Spanish Second Republic elections and, 54–57
- ethnic cleansing dynamics, in Yugoslavia, 174, 190

- ethnic identity in civil wars, 15–16 in Bosnia, 174
 conventional warfare and, 183–184
 electoral politics in Côte d'Ivoire and, 153, 157, 162–163
 Ivorian Civil War(s) and, 151–152, 161–164
 Northern Ireland inter-group violence and, 171–174
 parity between groups and, 35–37
 security dilemma and, 187–188
 selective violence and, 22–24, 183–184
 territorial divisions and, 53
 Ethnic Polarization, Ivorian Civil War violence and, 166–167 executions in Aragon, distribution of, 84, 102–107, 197–198, 200–201 bombings motivated by, 137–138, 142–145
 in Catalonia, distribution of, 77–81, 97–102, 194, 207 civilian agency in Spanish Civil War and, 75, 89–93 false accusations as basis for, 89
 locality-focused comparisons of, 114–116, 208
 in Malaga, 84–86, 107–111, 199, 207
 municipal-level violence, comparisons of, 124–127
 by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 69–70, 194, 197–198
 political motivations in Spanish Civil War for, 92–94 regional determinants in, 111–114, 208
 by Republicans in Spanish Civil War, 67–69, 194–196, 207 retaliation by families of victims of, 117–118
 revenge as motivation for, 116–124
 in Spanish Civil War, 87–116
 ZINB count regression models for, 96–114, 194–199, 208 external support, in Spanish Civil War, 65–66, 134 face-to-face violence, see direct violence
 Falange Española de las JONS, 50, 57–59, 69–72
 civilian agency concerning, 89–93
 postwar power of, 94
 retaliatory violence by, 117–118
 false accusations, executions based on, 89 families of victims, retaliatory violence by, 117–118
 Fascism, Spanish Civil War and, 12–15
 Fearon, James, 10–11
 Federación Anarquista Ibérica (FAI, faistas), 52–53
 Spanish Republican army and, 63–64 violence during Spanish Civil War and, 116–127
 fifth-column activities, bombings based on, 142
 Font, Jordi, 118–119
 Forces Licorne (France), in Ivorian Civil War, 156, 159–160
 Forces Nouvelles (FN), 158–161
 in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
 violence committed by, 168–169
Forces Républicaines de Côte d'Ivoire (FRCI), 158–161 foreign policy, revenge as motivation in, 37–40 foundational elections, in Spanish Second Republic, 54–57
 France, intervention in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156, 158–161
 Franco, Francisco (General) class politics during regime of, 89 collaboration during postwar period with, 117–118 coup organized by, 59–63
 external support for, 65–66
 political repression by, 57–59
 targeted bombing decisions by, 135–145
 violence data management under, 76–77
 Fraser, Ronald, 26
Frente Nacional, 95–96
 Fujii, Lee Ann, 43
 García Lorca, Federico, 72
 Gbagbo, Laurent, 154, 156–161 election of, 164–166 violence by supporters of, 166–169 “generalized revenge”, 39–40 genocide, see also mass violence civilian agency and, 15–16, 190
 in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
 loss of military capacity linked to, 29 social dimensions of, 9
 genocide/politicide indicator, 176–179 geography of violence, see also spatial analyses bias in analysis of, 127–128 bombings in Spanish Civil War and, 138–142

Index

257

- in Bosnian civil war, 174
- in Catalonia, 99–102
- coup against Spanish Second Republic and, 59–63
- in Ivorian Civil War, 158–166, 168–169
- maritime locations and likelihood of violence, 122
- in Northern Ireland, 171–174
- political mobilization and, 28–29
- in Spanish Civil War, 77–86
- territorial cleavage in Spanish Second Republic and, 53
- Georgia, conflict in, 175
- Germany, support for Franco from, 65–66, 134
- Gould, Roger V., 44
- Granollers, bombings, 77–81
- Guñi, Robert, 154
- Guernica bombings, 135–145, 215–216
- guerrilla warfare
 - in American Civil War, 26–27, 126
 - civilian targeting in, 183–184
 - in Napoleonic wars, 26
 - in Spanish Civil War, 67–69, 126
- Historical Memory Law, 76–77
- Holocaust, civilian resistance during, 22–24
- “Homage to Catalonia” (Orwell), 68
- Horizontal Income Inequality, Ivorian Civil War violence and, 166–167
- Houphouët-Boigny, Félix, 152, 153
- human rights violations, motivations for, 43
- Human Rights Watch, 159–160, 162–166
- “identification problem” in civil wars, 21
- identity issues in civil conflict, 15–16
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 184–187
 - loyalty and national identity, 181–182
 - parity, competition and polarization and, 35–37
 - political mobilization and, 26–27, 184
 - prewar mobilization and, 28–29
 - selective violence and, 22–24
 - Spanish Civil War violence and, 87–116
 - territorial cleavage and, 53
- ideological motives for violence
 - bombings and, 147
 - denunciations based on, 118–119
 - guerrilla warfare and, 183–184
 - post-Cold War decline in, 175–179
 - prewar mobilization and, 175–179
 - in Spanish Civil War, 183–184
- immigration, politics in Côte d’Ivoire and, 153
- Independent Electoral Commission (Côte d’Ivoire) (CEI), 157, 164–166
- indirect violence, 5–8
 - against civilians, 132–135, 148
 - in Cold War and post-Cold War eras, 176–179
 - determinants of, 44
 - direct violence vs., 21–24
 - hypotheses on determinants of, 17
 - leftist violence in Spanish Civil War as, 67–69
 - in Malaga (Spanish Civil War), 84–86
 - non-intentional deaths and, 21
 - revenge as motivation for, 142–145
 - rightist violence in Spanish Civil War as, 69–70
 - selectivity of, 131–132
 - in Spanish Civil War, 13
 - theories on determinants of, 130–131
 - as unilateral action, 22–24
- individual behavior, prewar mobilization and, 28
- insurgency, civil war and, 175
- intentional killing
 - characteristics of, 20
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
- inter-group violence, in Northern Ireland, 171–174
- internal organization
 - of armed groups in Spanish Civil War, 63–64
 - armed group violence and, 189
- International Brigades (Spanish Civil War), 65–66
- International Crisis Group, 158–161, 164–166, 168–169
- international intervention, in Ivorian Civil War, 160–161
- international relations, parity between groups and, 190
- interpersonal relations, violence and, 190
- interstate wars, geography of mobilization and, 28
- intra-country case analysis, 12–15
- Iraq, civil war in, 175
- Iraq Body Count project, 8–9
- irregular civil war
 - civilian-combatant interaction in, 24–25
 - definition of, 10–11, 181–182
 - patterns of violence in, 41–42
- Italy, support for Franco from, 65–66, 134

- Ivoirité doctrine, 153
 Ivorian Civil War(s) (2002–2007; 2010–2011)
 armed groups and warfare during, 154–156 “Constitutional Coup” and, 156–161
 direct violence in, 164–169
 elections of 2010 and, 156–161 ethnic cleavages in, 151–152
 mobilization and violence in, 161–164, 183–184
 “no war, no peace” situation in, 156 outbreak of, 154
 restraint in violence during, 160–161
 Ivorian Popular Front (FPI), 153, 154

 Japanese-American incarceration, 181–182 joint process in selective violence, 21 judicial procedures
 Causa General as, 68
 leftist violence in Spanish Civil War and, 67–69
 legalization of violence in Spanish Civil War
 and, 75
 rightist violence in Spanish Civil War and,
 69–70

 Kalyvas, Stathis, 21, 29–30, 43, 131–132, 174
 Kaminsky, Hans Erich, 66–67, 89
 Kaufmann, Chaim, 29–30, 183–184

 labor movement, see also trade union affiliation
 in Malaga, 84–86, 207
 municipal-level violence and, 124–127
 La Cerdanya, executions in, 3–5
 Laitin, David, 10–11, 176
 “Land and Freedom” (film), 68
 Land Gini Coefficient, Ivorian Civil War violence and, 166–167
 land reform
 Ivorian Civil War and, 155
 politics in Côte d’Ivoire and, 153
 Spanish Civil War and role of, 51
La Restauración (1874–1923), 95–96
 large-N data, macro-level analysis of violence
 and, 175–179
latifundios
 land reform and, 51
 in Malaga, 84–86
 “La Violencia” (1948–1958) (Colombia), 174
 *Law of Agrarian Contracts, 57–59
 *Law of Agrarian Reform (Ley de Bases de la Reforma Agraria), 51

 Law of Political Responsibilities, 69–70
 Ledesma, José Luis, 67–69, 81–84, 186
 Left-Right parity, direct violence and, 16 lethal violence
 characteristics of, 20
 classification of, 19
 by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 69–70
 by Republicans in Spanish Civil War, 67–69
 summary of data on, 86
 Libya, bombings of civilians in, 146–147
 Linas-Marcoussis agreement, 156
 Linz, Juan, 91–92, 118–119, 186–187
 Lliga Regionalista (LIR), 51, 53
 Spanish Second Republic elections and, 54–57
 local elites
 in Aragon, patterns of violence and, 81–84 benefits and costs of violence for, 30, 32 collaboration with armed groups by, 32–35, 42–43, 117–118
 in Colombia’s “La Violencia”, 174
 direct violence and, 29–30, 67–69
 focused comparisons of violence and role of, 114–116
 Ivorian Civil War and, 153, 155, 164–169
 in Malaga, 85, 107–111
 parity in support for, 35–37 political motivations of, 92–94, 138–144 political power of, 94
 revenge as motivation for, 39–40
 in Spanish Civil War, agency of, 72–74, 89–93, 128–129
 logit analysis, bombings in Catalonia, 138–144
 lootings, research on, 190–191
 low-intensity violence, in Northern Ireland, 171–174

 macro-level analysis of violence, 175–179
 Malaga
 descriptive statistics for, 203
 patterns of violence in, 76–77, 84–86, 207
 Republican support in, 209 resistance to violence in, 187
 ZINB regression model for, 107–111, 199 maritime locations
 bombings in Spanish Civil War, 138–142 likelihood of violence and, 122
 Martín, Antonio (Cojo de Malaga), 3–5
 Martín Rubio, 76–77
 Marxism, civil war mobilization and, 180
 mass political mobilization

Index

259

- in Côte d'Ivoire, 161–164
- in Spanish Second Republic, 54–57
- mass violence, see also genocide
 - bombings as trigger for, 144
 - civilian support in Spanish Civil War for, 89–93
 - direct violence as, 21
 - indirect violence as, 22–24
 - in irregular civil wars, 25
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 158–161
 - leftist violence in Spanish Civil War as, 67–69
 - in Spanish Civil War, initial periods, 87–116
- McGovern, Mike, 153, 155, 160–161, 184–187
- methodological individualism, civil war
 - research and, 11–12
- Mexico, support for Spanish Republican Army from, 65–66
- micro-level analysis
 - of civil conflict, 12–15
 - of civilian victimization, 9, 29–30
 - of Ivorian Civil Wars, 164–169, 184–187
 - with municipal-level violence, 94–114
 - of Spanish Civil War, 70–77, 94–114, 184–187
- military bargaining
 - bombings and, 130–131
 - direct violence in Spanish Civil War and, 13
- military control
 - in Aragon, violence and role of, 84
 - armed groups in Spanish Civil War, 63–66
 - coup Spanish Second Republic, 59–63
 - direct violence and, 30, 32
 - elite collaboration in areas of, 32–35
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 158–161
 - by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 67–69
 - Spanish Civil War violence and, 74–75, 188
 - violence and role of, 175, 188
- Mission Licorne*, 154–156
- Mola, Emilio, 59–63
- Morocco, military coup against Spanish Second Republic, 59–63
- Mouvement populaire ivoirien du Grand Ouest* (MPIGO), Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
- Mouvement pour la justice et la paix* (MJP) in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
- multipart civil wars, 43
- municipal-level violence
 - in Catalonia, 77–81, 135–145
 - focused comparisons of, 114–116
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 164–169
 - in non-competitive municipalities, 122–124
 - political competition and, 124–127
 - regional patterns of, 111–114
 - in Spanish Civil War, 76–77, 94–114, 128–129
- Muslims
 - in Côte d'Ivoire, discrimination against, 153
 - Ivorian Civil War and targeting of, 158–161
- Nadal, Antonio, 86
- Napoleonic Wars, guerrilla warfare during, 26
- Nationalist (Francoist) army, 3–5
 - in Aragon, violence committed by, 81–84, 102–107, 197–198
 - bombing activities of, 135–142, 145
 - in Catalonia, violence against civilians by, 77–81, 194
 - Catholic Church support for, 67–69
 - civilian collaboration with, 73–75, 89–93
 - composition of, 49–50
 - data suppression on violence by, 76–77
 - external support for, 65–66
 - internal organization, 63–64
 - local elites and, 72–74
 - in Malaga, violence by, 84–86, 107–111
 - micro-dynamics of violence by, 70–75
 - municipal-level violence and postwar repression under, 114–116, 124–127
 - recruitment by, 66–67
 - regional patterns of violence and, 111–114
 - religious issues and, 53
 - retaliatory violence by, 117–118
 - Spanish Civil War frontlines for, 63
 - violence against civilians by, 13–15, 69–70, 184–187
- Negrin, Juan, 65–66
- non-battlefield areas, regional violence
 - patterns and, 113–114, 208
- nonviolent victimization, in Spanish Civil War, 92, 119–124
- Northern Ireland
 - civil conflict in, 17–18
 - inter-group violence in, 171–174
- October Insurrection (1934), 57–59, 124–127
- Orwell, George, 68
- Ouagadougou Peace Agreement, 156
- Ouattara, Alassane, 153–156, 161–169
- panachage* electoral system, 54–57, 95–96
- Pape, Robert A., 70, 131–132

- paramilitary groups, in Spanish Civil War, 72–74
- parity between groups, see also competition
 bombings in Spanish Civil War and, 139
 and direct violence, 35–37
 international relations theory and, 190 municipal-level violence in Spanish Civil War and, 94–114
 Northern Ireland inter-group violence and, 171–174
- Partido Popular, 76–77
- paseos* (Spanish Civil War), violence against civilians and, 70–75
- Patriotic Movement of Côte d'Ivoire (MPCI), 154–156
- patronage practices (caciquismo)
 electoral politics and, 95–96
 in Spanish Second Republic, 54–57
- Payne, Stanley, 51, 59–63
- PDCI-RDA (Côte d'Ivoire), 153, 154, 162
- Peru, civil war and violence in, 181–182
- Petersen, Roger, 11–12, 32–35, 37–40, 42–44, 183
- polarization
 in Bosnian civil war, 174
 between groups, 35–37, 42–43
 and Ivorian Civil War violence, 166–169
 and leftist violence in Catalonia, 127–128
 and municipal-level violence, 124–127
 political polarization in Spanish Second Republic, 54–57
- political bias, data on violence and, 8–9, 76–77, 186–187
- political mobilization, see also electoral politics
 bombings in Spanish Civil War and, 132–135, 138–142
 in Cold War and post-Cold War eras, 176–179
 in Côte d'Ivoire, 153, 161–164
 and direct violence, 26–37, 42–43, 87–116, 182, 191–192
 and executions, 102–104
 municipal-level violence, 124–127, 183
 religious cleavage and, 53
 Spanish Civil War victimization of civilians and, 84–86, 186
 Spanish Second Republic elections and, 54–57
 time periods for, 37–40
- politics
 in Côte d'Ivoire, 152–153
- militarization of, 57–59
- military-elite collaboration and, 32–35, 42–43
- violence against civilians and, 5–9, 13–15, 182
- Popular Army, in Spanish Civil War, 63–64
- Popular Front (Frente Popular) electoral coalitions and, 95–96
 Spanish Second Republic elections and, 54–57, 188
- population data, 213–214
- Portugal, support for Franco from, 65–66
- post-Cold War era
 civilian victimization during, 176–179
 demise of activism and political demobilization following, 175–179
- power dynamics
 in civil wars, 10–11
 executions in Spanish Civil War and, 94 of local elites, 29–30, 42–43
 parity between groups and, 190
 violence against civilians and, 13–15, 114–116
- Preston, Paul, 53, 65–66
- prewar mobilization impact on executions of, 107–108
 macro-level analysis of violence and, 175–179
 perpetration of violence and, 5–8, 28–29 political variables in, 44
 Spanish Civil War violence and, 89, 128–129
 and violence in Aragon, 107
- Primo de Rivera, José, 50, 57–59
- Primo de Rivera, Miguel, 50, 52–53
- principal-agent theory
 armed groups in Spanish Civil War and, 63–64, 189
 in conflict studies research, 13–15
- PRIO100 dataset, 176–179
- property rights, Ivorian Civil War and, 155
- proportionality, revenge and, 39–40, 126
- Przeworski, Adam, 176, 189–190
- quantitative analysis
 of civil conflict, 12–15
 of direct violence, 16
 of Ivorian Civil War violence, 168–169 of Spanish Civil War violence, 87–116
- Queipo de Llano, Gonzalo, 59–63

Index

261

- rabassaire* conflict, in Spanish Second Republic, 51
- Rally of the Republicans (RDR), in Côte d'Ivoire, 153–156, 162
- rape
 in Ivorian Civil Wars, 159–160
 in Spanish Civil War, 67, 117–118, 126
- rational-choice theory, civil war research and, 11–12
- “red” terror, in Spanish Civil War, 67–69
- religious conflict
 Ivorian Civil War and, 155, 184
 leftist violence against clergy and, 67–69
 in Northern Ireland, 171–174
 in Spanish Second Republic, 53
- Republican (Loyalist) army
 in Aragon, 81–84, 102–107, 209
 bombing activities of, 135–145
 in Catalonia, 77–81, 194–196, 207, 208
 civilian collaboration with, 73–75, 89–93, 208
 composition of, 49–50
 data on violence by, 76–77, 194–196
 direct violence by, 87–116
 executions in Catalonia by, 99–104, 194–196, 207
 internal organization, 63–64
 intra-leftist violence in, 67–69
 local elites and, 72–74
 locality-focused comparisons of violence by, 114–116
 in Malaga, 84–86, 107–111, 199, 207, 209
 micro-dynamics of violence by, 70–75
 recruitment by, 66–67
 regional patterns of violence and, 111–114
 Spanish Civil War and, 12–15, 63
 violence against civilians by, 3–5, 13–15, 67–69, 184–187
- Requetés* militias, 71–72
- research design, case selection and, 12–15
- resistance to violence, in Spanish Civil War, 89–93
- retaliatory violence on battlefield areas, 118–119
 bombings as trigger for, 142–145 against families of perpetrators, 117–118
 by families of victims, 117–118
 as indirect violence, 132–135
- revenge
 direct and indirect violence and, 182, 192–193 emotions leading to, 116–124 invented stories of violence and, 134
 in Ivorian Civil Wars, 168–169
 locality size and, 41–42
 as motive for violence, 5–8, 37–40 multivariate analyses of executions and, 120–122
 municipal-level violence and, 124–127
 in Spanish Civil War, 116–124, 128–129
- Reynal-Querol's index of polarization, 127–128
- riot research, electoral competitiveness and, 190–191
- Roig, Montserrat, 130
- Ruiz, Julius J., 116–118
- Russian Civil War, 67
- Russian-Georgian conflict, 175
- Rwanda
 civilian resistance in, 22–24 civilian violence in, 9 emotions and violence in, 43 loss of military capacity in, 29
- sacas* (mass killings in prisons), 67–69, 144
- Sagardía, General, 91
- Salas Larrazábal, Ramón, 76–77
- Sales, Joan, 181
- Sanjurjo (General), 59–63
- Schmitt, Carl, 8–9
- secessionist civil war, mobilization in, 28–29
- Second Ivorian Civil War, see 2010–2011;
 Ivorian Civil War(s) (2002–2007)
- sectarian violence, in Northern Ireland, 171–174
- security dilemma hypothesis, 187–188
- selective violence
 characteristics of, 20
 classification of, 19
 indirect violence as, 22–24, 131–132
- Servicio de Información de la Frontera Nordeste de España (SIFNE)*, 142
- shelling
 in Ivorian Civil War, 159–160
 by Nationalists in Spanish Civil War, 69–70
- Sierra Leone, local mobilization in, 26
- social capital research, civil war violence and, 191
- Solé i Sabaté, Josep Maria, 135–145
- Soro Guillaume, 154, 156
- Soviet Union, support for Spanish Republican Army from, 65–66
- Spanish Civil War
 antecedents of, 50–63

- armed groups in, 63–66, 71–72
- battle lines in, 63
- bombing of civilians in, 13, 132–135, 148
- civilian-armed group collaboration in, 74–75
- data on violence during, 76–77
- dynamics of violence in, 16, 49–50
- electoral politics and, 95–96
- external support in, 65–66
- Leftist violence in, 67–69
- local elites in, 72–74
- micro-dynamics of violence in, 70–75
- multivariate analysis of violence in, 94–114
- non-initial violence in, 116–124
- postwar Nationalist violence in, 69–70
- regional patterns of violence in, 77–86
- Rightist violence, 69–70
- summary of interviewed survivors of, 204–206
- technology in, 66–67
- victimization of civilians in, 24–25, 49–50, 184–187
- violence against civilians in, 67–75
- Spanish Second Republic, 50–63
 - class cleavage, 52–53
 - electoral system during, 54–57
 - land reform during, 51
 - militarization of politics and, 57–59
 - military coup against, 59–63
 - political polarization during, 54–57
 - religious cleavage in, 53
 - territorial cleavage in, 53
- spatial analyses
 - direct violence, 127–128
 - indirect violence, 145–146
- spatial analysis, data management in, 209–212
- strategic motives for violence
 - political cleavages and, 102–104
 - of political elites, 39–40
 - revenge and, 118–119
- symmetric non-conventional (SNC) civil war
 - Colombia's "La Violencia" as, 174
 - definition of, 10–11
- Syria, bombings of civilians in, 146–147
- Syrian Center for Policy Research, 8–9
- technology and warfare
 - bombing precision in Spanish Civil War and, 142
 - in Spanish Civil War, 66–67
- territorial control
 - coup against Spanish Second Republic and, 59–63
 - indirect violence and, 130–131
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 154–156
 - rearguard bombings and, 135
 - Spanish Civil War and, 53, 63
- terrorist groups, revenge as recruitment tool for, 37–40
- Teruel, violence in, 82, 84, 87
- Tilly, Charles, 5–8, 19, 71–72
- timing of violence
 - Aragon, 81–84
 - in Catalonia, 77–81
 - political mobilization and, 37–40
- total war, political mobilization and, 27
- trade union affiliation, see also CNT; UGT
 - bombings in Spanish Civil War and, 138–142
 - in Catalonia, 99–102
 - municipal-level violence and, 124–127
 - patterns of violence and, 85, 99–103
 - in Spanish Second Republic, 52–57
- Trotskyist party (POUM), Spanish Republican army and, 63–64
- UCDP/PRIO Armed Conflict data set, 176–179
- Unión General de Trabaio (UGT, Spanish trade union)l
 - in Catalonia, 99–102
 - municipal-level violence and, 124–127
 - in Spanish Second Republic, 52–53
 - violence during Spanish Civil War and, 85
- United Nations, Ivorian Civil War and role of, 156–161
- United Nations Mission in Côte d'Ivoire (UNOCI), 159–160, 164–166
- United Nations Office for the Coordination of Human Affairs (OCHA), 164–166
- United Nations Resolution 1975, 159–160
- urbanization, civil war violence and, 189
- Valentino, Benjamin, 21, 35
- victimization of civilians
 - in Aragon, 81–84
 - bombings as instrument for, 130–135
 - in Catalonia, 77–81
 - in civil war, 8–9
 - in Cold War and post-Cold War eras, 176–179
 - cross national data on, 180
 - forms of, 20

Index

263

- in Ivorian Civil Wars, 158–161
- in Malaga, 84–86
- non-ideological motivations for, 8–9
- nonviolent actions in Spanish Civil War, 92
- Northern Ireland inter-group violence and, 171–174
- political factors in, 5–8
- prewar mobilization and, 28–29
- rivalry and revenge dynamics and, 3–5
- in Spanish Civil War, 49–50, 67–75, 75, 76–116, 184–187
- time periods for, 37–40, 81–84
- types of civil war and, 24–25, 181–182
- typology of, 19
- Villarroya, Joan, 135–145
- Violations Documentation Center (Syria), 8–9
- violence, see also assassination; direct violence, indirect violence; executions
 - in Aragon, battlefield conditions and patterns of, 84
 - in Catalonia, 77–81
 - data sources and coding, 76–77, 213–214
 - direct violence, 30, 32
 - in initial Spanish Civil War period, 87–116
 - in irregular civil war, 24–25
 - in Ivorian Civil Wars, 156, 158–161, 161, 161–164
 - Malaga, 84–86
 - micro-dynamics in Spanish Civil War of, 70–75
 - in non-initial Spanish Civil War period, 116–124
 - regional patterns during Spanish Civil War, 77–86
 - social psychology on processes of, 40
 - Spanish Civil War data on, 76–77
 - Spanish peasant conflicts with rural authorities, 51
 - Spanish Second Republic elections and threat of, 54–57
 - time periods for, 37–40, 81–84
- war scholarship, civilian victimization in, 8–9
- weapons technology
 - indirect violence and, 22–24
 - in Ivorian Civil War, 159–160
- Weinstein, Jeremy, 10–11, 147
- women
 - municipal-level violence against, 126
 - retaliatory violence against, 117–118
 - violence in Spanish Civil War against, 67
- Wood, Elizabeth, 28, 32, 155
- workers' strikes, in Malaga, 109–110, 207
- Young Patriots, Ivorian Civil War and, 156
- youth militias, in Ivorian Civil Wars, 160–161
- Yunteros* reform, 51
- zero-inflated negative binomial (ZINB) count regression model
 - for Aragon, 102–107, 197–198, 200–201
 - for Catalonia violence, 97–102, 127–128, 194–196
 - leftist violence, 127–128, 194–196
 - in Malaga, 107–111, 199
 - on rightist violence, 120–122, 194, 197–198
 - in Spanish Civil War executions and, 96–114, 208