Ontological Arguments

Ontological arguments are one of the main classes of arguments for the existence of God, and have been influential from the Middle Ages right up until our own time. This accessible volume offers a comprehensive survey and assessment of them starting with a sequence of chapters charting their history – from Anselm and Aquinas, via Descartes, Leibniz, Kant and Hegel, to Gödel, Plantinga, Lewis and Tichý. This is followed by chapters on the most important topics to have emerged in the discussion of ontological arguments: the relationship between conceivability and possibility, the charge that ontological arguments beg the question, and the nature of existence. The volume as a whole shows clearly how these arguments emerged and developed, how we should think about them, and why they remain important today.

Graham Oppy is Professor of Philosophy at Monash University and is a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Humanities. He has published a number of books, most recently Reinventing Philosophy of Religion (2014), Describing Gods (2014), Naturalism and Religion (2018) and, co-authored with Nick Trakakis, Interreligious Philosophical Dialogues (2018).
Classic Philosophical Arguments

Over the centuries, a number of individual arguments have formed a crucial part of philosophical enquiry. The volumes in this series examine these arguments, looking at the ramifications and applications which they have come to have, the challenges which they have encountered and the ways in which they have stood the test of time.

Acknowledgements

This volume would not exist but for those wonderfully talented and generous philosophers who wrote the chapters that it comprises. The volume also would not exist but for the initiative and expert guidance of Hilary Gaskin and other members of the team at Cambridge University Press, including Marianne Nield and Ian McIver. Given that work on this book began in March 2014, there are many other people who made less direct contributions to it, including my friends and colleagues at Monash University – in the Department of Philosophy, the School of Philosophical Historical and International Studies, the Faculty of Arts and the University at large – and my wider circle of friends and colleagues within and beyond the Australasian academy. Special thanks to my immediate family – Camille, Gil, Cal and Alf – who are the ground for all of my possibilities.
