KANT ON FREEDOM AND SPONTANEITY

Spontaneity – understood as an action of the mind or will that is not determined by a prior external stimulus – is a theme that resonates throughout Immanuel Kant’s theoretical and practical philosophy. Though spontaneity and the concomitant notion of freedom lie at the foundation of many of Kant’s most pivotal theses and arguments regarding cognition, judgment, and moral action, spontaneity and freedom themselves often remain cloaked in mystery, or accessible only via transcendental argument. This volume brings together a distinguished group of scholars who explore the nature of freedom and spontaneity, the arguments Kant offers surrounding these concepts, and their place in Kant’s larger philosophical system. The collection will appeal to scholars interested in any aspect of Kant’s philosophy, especially those who hope to gain a deeper insight into these fundamental Kantian ideas.

Kate A. Moran is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Brandeis University. She is the author of Community and Progress in Kant’s Moral Philosophy (2012) and a number of essays on Kant’s moral and political philosophy.

Acknowledgments

Early versions of many of the essays in this volume were presented at the “Nature and Freedom in Kant” conference at Brown University in October 2013. Mike Nance, Fred Rauscher, Jeppe von Platz, and Jennifer Uleman deserve special thanks for organizing the conference. Marie Johansen and Joana Rolfes provided invaluable assistance with web design and administration, respectively. Funding for the conference was provided by the Office of the Dean of the College, Brown University; the Cogut Center for the Humanities, Brown University; the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD); the Franklin J. Matchette Foundation; the Goethe-Institute; the Consulate General of the Federal Republic of Germany in Boston; the Department of Philosophy, Brown University; and the Department of Philosophy, University of Pennsylvania. Many thanks to Jacob Caldwell for his assistance in preparing the final manuscript.
Abbreviations

The following abbreviations are used in this volume to refer to Kant’s texts. Page citations refer to Kants gesammelte Schriften, Berlin-Brandenburgische Akademie der Wissenschaften (formerly: Königlich Preußische Akademie der Wissenschaften), Berlin: Walter de Gruyter (1900–). Only references to KrV refer to the “A” and “B” pages of the first and second editions; all other references list volume and page number of the Prussian Academy edition of Kant’s works, e.g.: GMS 4:420. All translations are taken – unless otherwise stated – from the Cambridge Edition of the Works of Immanuel Kant, Cambridge University Press.
