Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments .......................... page ix

1 Introduction ........................................... 1

2 The Wrong Question: What is an Explanation? .... 3

3 A Brief Outlook on the Social Sciences ............. 10
   3.1 Neoclassical Microeconomic Theory .............. 10
   3.2 Social Mechanisms in Sociology ................. 14
   3.3 Econometrics ....................................... 16

4 Towards Explanatory Pluralism ....................... 19
   4.1 Explanatory Pluralism is Independent .......... 20
       of the Nature of Causality ........................
   4.2 Explanatory Pluralism is Independent .......... 24
       of the Validity of Reductionism .................
   4.3 A Nonapologetic Stance to Explanatory Pluralism 28

5 The Explanatory Enterprise ......................... 31
   5.1 Warum Reknetz? ................................... 32
   5.2 The Cognitive Division of Explanatory Labour .... 32
   5.3 The Explanatory Process .......................... 37

6 The Rules of the Explanatory Game ................ 40
   6.1 An Abstract Characterization of the Rules .... 41
       of the Game ........................................
   6.2 A Case Study from Economics .................... 49
   6.3 A Case Study from Medicine ..................... 63

vii
Contents

7 The Plurality of Explanatory Games
7.1 The Horizontal Dimension
7.2 The Vertical Dimension

8 Explanatory Activity as Problem-Solving Activity
8.1 The Problem-Solving Framework
8.2 Old and New Problems
8.3 The Explainer as a Problem-Solver

9 Explanatory Rules as Shared Rules
9.1 The Continuity Thesis
9.2 Shared Rules as Shared Problem Solutions
9.3 The Normative Dimension: The Institutional Framework
9.4 On the Emergence, Change and Adoption of Explanatory Rules

10 Normative Appraisal: A Procedural Conception
10.1 The Procedural View
10.2 The Hierarchy of Problems, Rules and Values
10.3 The Multidimensionality of the Critical Appraisal

11 Explanatory Methodology as Technology
11.1 The Münchhausen Trilemma
11.2 Between Dogmatism and Relativism: The Middle-Ground Position
11.3 Explanatory Methodology as a Rational Heuristic
11.4 Explanatory Progress and Explanatory Regress

12 Epilogue

References
Name Index
Subject Index