

LEGALIZED FAMILIES IN THE ERA OF BORDERED GLOBALIZATION

Providing a panoramic and interdisciplinary perspective, this book explores the interrelations between globalization, borders, families and the law. It considers the role of international, multi-national and religious laws in shaping the lives of the millions of families that are affected by the opportunities and challenges created by globalization, and the ongoing resilience of national borders and cultural boundaries. Examining familial life-span stages – establishing spousal relations, raising children, and being cared for in old age – Hacker demonstrates the fruitfulness in studying families beyond the borders of national family law, and highlights the relevance of immigration and citizenship law, public and private international law and other branches of law. This book provides a rich empirical description of families in our era. It is relevant not only to legal scholars and practitioners but also to scholars and students within the sociology of the family, globalization studies, border studies, immigration studies, and gender studies.

DAPHNA HACKER is an associate professor at the Tel Aviv University Law Faculty and Women and Gender Studies Program. She is an interdisciplinary researcher and holds LL.B and LL.M degrees as well as a Ph.D in sociology. Her socio-legal work focuses on the intersection of law, families and gender. She teaches family law, families and globalization, feminist jurisprudence, and qualitative methods.

GLOBAL LAW SERIES

The series provides unique perspectives on the way globalization is radically altering the study, discipline and practice of law. Featuring innovative books in this growing field, the series explores those bodies of law which are becoming global in their application, and the newly emerging interdependency and interaction of different legal systems. It covers all major branches of the law and includes work on legal theory, history, and the methodology of legal practice and jurisprudence under conditions of globalization. Offering a major platform on global law, these books provide essential reading for students and scholars of comparative, international and transnational law.

Series Editors

Morag Godwin
Tilburg University

Randall Lesaffer
Tilburg University

David Nelken
Kings College London

Han Somsen
Tilburg University

Books in the Series

Intimations of Global Law Neil Walker
Legalized Families in the Era of Bordered Globalization Daphna Hacker
Transnational Sustainability Laws Phillip Paiement

LEGALIZED FAMILIES IN THE ERA OF BORDERED GLOBALIZATION

DAPHNA HACKER

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-14499-6 — Legalized Families in the Era of Bordered Globalization
Daphna Hacker
Frontmatter
More Information

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom
One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA
477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
4843/24, 2nd Floor, Ansari Road, Daryaganj, Delhi – 110002, India
79 Anson Road, #06-04/06, Singapore 079906

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning, and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org

Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781107144996

DOI: 10.1017/9781316535004

© Daphna Hacker 2017

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2017

Printed in the United Kingdom by Clays, St Ives plc

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Names: Hacker, Daphna, author.

Title: Legalized families in the era of bordered globalization / Daphna Hacker.

Description: New York : Cambridge University Press, 2017. |

Series: Global law series | Includes bibliographical references and index.

Identifiers: LCCN 2017002747 | ISBN 9781107144996 (hard back : alk. paper) |

ISBN 9781316508213 (paper back : alk. paper)

Subjects: LCSH: Domestic relations – Social aspects. |

Law and globalization – Social aspects.

Classification: LCC K670 .H33 2017 | DDC 346.01/5–dc23

LC record available at <https://lccn.loc.gov/2017002747>

ISBN 978-1-107-14499-6 Hardback

ISBN 978-1-316-50821-3 Paperback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-14499-6 — Legalized Families in the Era of Bordered Globalization
Daphna Hacker
Frontmatter
More Information

For all those who endeavor to be part of a nurturing family

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	1
1. Our Era	17
Globalization	18
Borders	27
Bordered Globalization	37
2. Legalized Families	45
Family	46
The Law	60
3. Coordinating Familial Expectations	73
Conflicting Familial Social Scripts	73
Coordinating Religious and Secular Family Laws	80
Prenuptial Agreements	101
Conclusion	114
4. Transnational Reproduction Services	117
Introduction	117
Cross-Border Abortion – The Case of the Republic of Ireland and the UK	121
Cross-Border Surrogacy – The Case of Israel and India	133
Conclusion	146
5. Familial Citizenship	149
Introduction	149
Spousal Citizenship	156
Parental Citizenship	172
Conclusion	191

viii	CONTENTS
6. Feeding Children	197
Introduction	197
Parental Remittances	200
Working Children	213
Intercountry Adoption	226
Conclusion	242
7. Familial Violence	245
Introduction	245
Spousal Violence	247
Parental Violence	261
Child Abduction	280
Conclusion	289
8. Old Age	291
Introduction	291
Importing Care	295
Toward the End	312
Conclusion	316
Bibliography	323
Name Index	361
Subject Index	364

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The journey that yielded this book started four years ago at Hong Kong University, where I gave a course on Globalization of the Family on behalf of Duke University Law School. I wish to thank Supreme Court Justice Daphne Barak-Erez, who was my dean at the time, for encouraging me to look beyond my nation's borders and to explore the interrelations between families, law, and globalization.

This has been the most enjoyable of all my intellectual journeys so far, thanks to many people – those who, like me, think that families are the most interesting study subjects and whose research forms the basis of this book; those who shared with me their familial globordered stories and reminded me that, behind the theories and generalizations, there are unique individuals and families; and those who gave me indispensable assistance that enabled the completion of this book.

I thank the Colton Foundation and the Cegla Center for Interdisciplinary Research of the Law at Tel Aviv University for their generous support. I thank David Nelken, the series coeditor, for being my guiding angel. I am forever grateful to Amanda Dale for accompanying me with the best editing experience I have ever had and becoming a true partner in shaping the text. My deepest appreciation to my colleagues who read different chapters of this book, according to their fields of expertise, and provided invaluable feedback: Rhona Schuz, Noam Peleg, Einat Albin, Tamar Morag, Zvi Triger, Sharon Bassan, Sharon Shakargy, Ayelet Blecher-Prigat, Ruth Zafran, Uri Ram, Sylvie Fogiel-Bijaoui, Adriana Kemp, Kinneret Lahad, Yael Hashiloni-Dolev, Adi Moreno, Lena Salaymeh, Yehouda Shenhav, Yishai Blank, Michael Birnhack, Tally Kritzman-Amir, Arianne Renan Barzilay, Irit Porat, Michael Kagan, Lidia Rabinovich, and Israel Doron. I am also thankful to my research assistants, and especially to Daniel Findler and Eynat Meytahl who invested hundreds of hours in bibliographic searches and footnote editing. I thank Morag Goodwin, the series coeditor, and Finola O'Sullivan at Cambridge University Press, for all their assistance and support.

I thank you, the readers, for taking the time to take part in the outcome of my journey. I hope you will enjoy reading the book as much as I have enjoyed writing it, and that you find in it inspiration for future study and for reflecting on your own familial experiences. I know that, for me, this book has been another opportunity to appreciate my familial good fortune and to be thankful for the love and nurturing I receive from my parents Ilan and Tamar Hacker, my spouse Alon Dror, and my children Yasmin and Aviv. I know now, more than I ever knew before, that they are the pillars of my existence.