WRITING, KINGSHIP AND POWER IN ANGLO-SAXON ENGLAND

The workings of royal and ecclesiastical authority in Anglo-Saxon England can only be understood on the basis of direct engagement with original texts and material artefacts. This book, written by leading experts, brings together new research that represents the best of current scholarship on the nexus between authority and written sources from Anglo-Saxon England. Ranging from the seventh to the eleventh century, the chapters in this volume offer fresh approaches to a wide range of linguistic, historical, legal, diplomatic and palaeographical evidence. Central themes include the formation of power in early Anglo-Saxon kingdoms during the age of Bede (d. 735) and Offa of Mercia (757–96), authority and its articulation in the century from Edgar (959–75) to 1066 and the significance of books and texts in expressing power across the period. Writing, Kingship and Power represents a critical resource for students and scholars alike with an interest in early medieval history from political, institutional and cultural perspectives.

RORY NAISMITH is a lecturer in medieval history at King's College London. He is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society and author of Money and Power in Anglo-Saxon England: The Southern English Kingdoms 757–865 (Cambridge University Press, 2012) and Medieval European Coinage, with a Catalogue of Coins in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, Volume 8: Britain and Ireland c. 400–1066 (Cambridge University Press, 2017).

DAVID A. WOODMAN is Fellow of Robinson College, Cambridge, where he is Director of Studies in History and Anglo-Saxon, Norse and Celtic. He is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society and author of Charters of Northern Houses (2012) and co-editor of The Long Twelfth-Century View of the Anglo-Saxon Past (2015).
