The Flow of Management Ideas

The widespread promotion of management ideas, their regular inclusion in textbooks and business school curricula and their use in organisational change programmes, has engendered debates about the impact of these ideas on management and organisational practice. Based on analyses of managerial audience members’ activities and related meaning-making prior to, during and after guru events with leading management thinkers, this book sheds new light on how management practitioners come to use management ideas in the different relevant contexts of their working lives. The authors argue that a broader, more differentiated and more dynamic view of managerial audiences is essential in understanding the impact of management ideas as well as the nature of contemporary managerial work. For scholars and students in organisation studies, knowledge management and management consultancy, as well as reflective management practitioners.

Stefan Heusinkveld is an associate professor at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. His research concentrates on the production and consumption of management ideas, and professions. He has published widely on these topics and has edited special issues in various academic journals. He is co-editor of The Oxford Handbook of Management Ideas (2019).

Marlieke van Grinsven is an assistant professor at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. Her research focuses on narrative constructions of organisational realities in processes of change. She is particularly interested in the uptake and translation of management knowledge and the identity processes involved. She has published in various organisation and management journals.

Claudia Groß is an assistant professor at the Radboud University, Nijmegen. Her research focuses on the flow of management ideas and how to design organisations that support ethical behaviours. She has published in various journals and communicates her academic insights to the wider public via TV, newspaper and internet contributions.

David Greatbatch is Honorary Visiting Professor in the York Management School at the University of York. His research focuses on the use of oratory by management gurus and corporate executives. He has published widely in leading international journals and co-authored Management Speak: Why We Listen to What Management Gurus Tell Us (with Timothy Clark, 2005).

Timothy Clark is Provost and Professor at Singapore Management University. His research focuses on oratory in management guru lectures and the nature of consultancy work. The publications emanating from this work include Management Speak (with David Greatbatch, 2005), and The Oxford Handbook of Management Consulting (with Matthias Kipping, 2012).
The Flow of Management Ideas

Rethinking Managerial Audiences

Stefan Heusinkveld
Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

Marlieke van Grinsven
Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

Claudia Groß
Radboud University, Nijmegen

David Greatbatch
University of York

Timothy Clark
Singapore Management University
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>List of Figures</th>
<th>page vi</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>List of Tables</td>
<td>vii</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acknowledgements</td>
<td>viii</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. The Flow of Management Ideas
2. Studying Audiences
3. Creating a Positive Atmosphere among the Audience
4. Conveying the Applicability of Ideas to Audience Members
5. Defining Audience Orientations
6. Understanding Audience Dynamism
7. Managerial Audiences in Organisational Contexts
8. Managerial Audiences and Fan Involvement
9. Conclusion

Appendix A Overview of Informants
Appendix B Glossary of Transcription Symbols
References
Index
Figures

1.1 Main areas of research \hspace{1in} page 13
6.1 Perceived scope of audience expectations \hspace{1in} 137
6.2 Perceived shifts in audience orientations \hspace{1in} 137
8.1 Managerial audiences and media performance \hspace{1in} 186
9.1 Proposed areas for research in relation to flow \hspace{1in} 189
Tables

1. Main approaches to researching the impact of management ideas

3. Overview of theoretical perspectives on audiences used in this book

4. Overview of interview data

5. Devoted orientation: categories and exemplary evidence

6. Engaged orientation: categories and exemplary evidence

7. Non-committal orientation: categories and exemplary evidence

8. Critical orientation: categories and exemplary evidence

9. Involvement-induced shift: patterns and exemplary evidence

10. Utility-induced shift: patterns and exemplary evidence

11. Alternating: patterns and exemplary evidence

12. Deploying and reconstituting ‘influence’: overview and exemplary evidence

13. Deploying and reconstituting ‘force’: overview and exemplary evidence

14. Deploying and reconstituting domination: overview and exemplary evidence

15. Forms of fan involvement, key drivers and main practices

---

Page numbers indicate the page where each table begins.
Acknowledgements

We would like to thank all the research participants including Guru A and Guru B for their time, commitment and for sharing their valuable experiences. In addition, we are indebted to Erik Lazeroms, Hans Janssen and Lex Baggerman for their crucial help in securing research access.

viii