

THE INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS JUDICIARY AND NATIONAL PARLIAMENTS

The emerging international human rights judiciary (IHRJ) threatens national democratic processes and 'hollows out' the scope of domestic and democratic decision-making, some argue. This new analysis confronts this head on by examining the interplay between national parliaments and the IHRJ, proposing that it advances parliament's efforts.

Taking Europe and the European Court of Human Rights as their focus – drawing on theory, doctrine and practice – the authors answer a series of key questions. What role should parliaments play in realising human rights? Which factors influence the effects of the IHRJ on national parliaments' efforts? How can the IHRJ adjust its influence on parliamentary process? And what triggers the backlash against the IHRJ from parliaments and when?

Here, the authors lay foundations for better informed scholarship and legal practice in the future as well as a better understanding of how to improve the effectiveness and validity of the IHRJ.

MATTHEW SAUL is a researcher at PluriCourts, a Centre of Excellence for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order at the University of Oslo.

ANDREAS FOLLESDAL is Professor of Political Philosophy, Faculty of Law at the University of Oslo, Principal Investigator, European Research Council Advanced Grant MultiRights 2011–16, on the Legitimacy of Multi-Level Human Rights Judiciary and Co-director of PluriCourts, a Centre of Excellence for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order.

GEIR ULFSTEIN is Professor of International Law at the Department of Public and International Law, University of Oslo and Co-director of PluriCourts, a Centre for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order, University of Oslo.

STUDIES ON HUMAN RIGHTS CONVENTIONS

General Editors

Andreas Follesdal University of Oslo Geir Ulfstein University of Oslo

Studies on Human Rights Conventions publishes theoretical and analytical scholarship on the content of human rights, international control of national implementation and interaction between different legal systems.

Other Books in the Series

Andreas Follesdal, Johan Karlsson Schaffer and Geir Ulfstein (eds.)

The Legitimacy of International Human Rights Regimes: Legal,
Political and Philosophical Perspectives

Anne Hellum and Henriette Sinding Aasen (eds.) Women's Human Rights: CEDAW in International, Regional and National Law

Andreas Follesdal, Birgit Peters and Geir Ulfstein (eds.) Constituting Europe: The European Court of Human Rights in a National, European and Global Context

Helen Keller and Geir Ulfstein (eds.) UN Human Rights Treaty Bodies: Law and Legitimacy

THE INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS JUDICIARY AND NATIONAL PARLIAMENTS

Europe and Beyond

Edited by

MATTHEW SAUL

University of Oslo

ANDREAS FOLLESDAL

University of Oslo

GEIR ULFSTEIN

University of Oslo

CAMBRIDGEUNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom
One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA
477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
314-321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre, New Delhi - 110025, India
103 Penang Road, #05-06/07, Visioncrest Commercial, Singapore 238467

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781107183742 DOI: 10.1017/9781316874820

© Cambridge University Press 2017

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2017

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication data

Names: Saul, Matthew, editor. | Follesdal, Andreas, editor. | Ulfstein, Geir, 1951–, editor.

Title: The international human rights judiciary and national parliaments: Europe and beyond / Edited by Matthew Saul, Universitetet i Oslo, Andreas Follesdal, Universitetet i Oslo, Geir Ulfstein, Universitetet i Oslo.

Description: New York: Cambridge University Press, 2017.

Series: Studies on human rights conventions | Includes bibliographical references. Identifiers: LCCN 2017026035 | ISBN 9781107183742

Subjects: LCSH: Human rights – Europe. | Human rights. | Legislative bodies – Europe. |

European Court of Human Rights.

Classification: LCC KIC5132, 1565-2017 | DDC 342-2408/50269, dc23

Classification: LCC KJC5132 .I565 2017 | DDC 342.2408/50269–dc23 LC record available at https://lccn.loc.gov/2017026035

ISBN 978-1-107-18374-2 Hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

CONTENTS

page vii

Notes on the Contributors

	Acknowleagements XI
	Introduction MATTHEW SAUL, ANDREAS FOLLESDAL AND GEIR ULFSTEIN 1
	PART I The Human Rights Role of Parliaments 19
1	A Transnational Separation of Powers? GEIR ULFSTEIN 21
2	Effective Parliamentary Oversight of Human Rights KIRSTEN ROBERTS LYER AND PHILIPPA WEBB 32
3	Citizens' Deliberation and Human Rights JÜRG STEINER 59
	PART II The International Human Rights Judiciary in the Practice of Parliaments 73
4	Parliaments as Compliance Partners in the European Convention on Human Rights System ALICE DONALD 75
5	Parliamentary Interpretation and Application of European Human Rights Law THERESA SQUATRITO 110

6 How and When Can the International Human Rights Judiciary Promote the Human Rights Role of National

135

National Parliaments in the Practice of the

International Human Rights Judiciary

PART III

Parliaments?

MATTHEW SAUL

133

vi CONTENTS

7 Obligations to 'Secure' the Rights of the Convention in an 'Effective Political Democracy': How Should Parliaments and Domestic Courts Interact?

AMREI MÜLLER 167

AMREI MULLER 16/

8 Shifting Emergencies from the Political to the Legal Sphere: Placing the United Kingdom's Derogations from the ECHR in Historical Context

COLIN R. G. MURRAY 198

9 The Role of the European Court of Human Rights in Facilitating Legislative Change in Cases of Long-Term Delays in Implementation

NINO TSERETELI 223

10 The Inter-American Court of Human Rights and the Mobilisation of Parliaments

LEIV MARSTEINTREDET 248

PART IV Managing Relations between Parliaments and the International Human Rights Judiciary 273

- 11 Democratic Override (or Rejection) and the Authority of the Strasbourg Court: The UK Parliament and Prisoner Voting ED BATES 275
- 12 Saying 'No' to Strasbourg: When Are National Parliaments Justified in Refusing to Give Effect to Judgments of International Human Rights Courts?

 COLM O'CINNEIDE 304
- 13 Law Making by Law Breaking? A Theory of Parliamentary Civil Disobedience against International Human Rights Courts ANDREAS FOLLESDAL 329
- 14 Conclusion: How Does, Could and Should the International Human Rights Judiciary Interact with National Parliaments?

 MATTHEW SAUL 353

Index 388

CONTRIBUTORS

ED BATES is Associate Professor of Law at the University of Leicester. His recent work includes 'Analysing the Prisoner Voting Saga and the British Challenge to Strasbourg' (2014) 14 Human Rights Law Review 503. He is a co-author of (with Harris, O'Boyle and Warbrick) The Law of the European Convention on Human Rights (2014) and the author of The Evolution of the European Convention on Human Rights (2010).

ALICE DONALD is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Law and Politics at Middlesex University. Her socio-legal research focuses on the implementation and impact of human rights law, particularly in the UK and Europe. Alice was formerly (1991–2005) a commissioner, editor and broadcast journalist in the BBC. Her monograph (with Philip Leach), Parliaments and the European Court of Human Rights, was published in 2016.

ANDREAS FOLLESDAL is Professor of Political Philosophy, Faculty of Law, University of Oslo; Principal Investigator, European Research Council Advanced Grant MultiRights 2011–16, on the Legitimacy of Multi-Level Human Rights Judiciary; and Co-director of PluriCourts, a Centre of Excellence for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order. Follesdal publishes in the field of political philosophy, mainly on issues of international political theory, globalisation/Europeanisation, human rights and socially responsible investing. His recent publications include (with Schaffer and Ulfstein) The Legitimacy of International Human Rights Regimes (Cambridge 2013) and (with B. Peters and Ulfstein) Constituting Europe: The European Court of Human Rights in a National, European and Global Context (Cambridge 2013).

LEIV MARSTEINTREDET is an associate professor in the Department of Comparative Politics, University of Bergen. He is a political scientist with

viii

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

research interests in presidentialism and political crises in Latin America, and human rights and international human rights courts in Latin America. He is the editor (with Llanos) of Presidential Breakdowns in Latin America: Causes and Outcomes of Executive Instability in Developing Democracies (2010).

COLIN R. G. MURRAY is a senior lecturer at Newcastle University in the Law School. Murray's current research is focused in the fields of national security law, legal history and public law. Colin served as specialist adviser to the UK Parliament's Joint Committee on the Voting Eligibility (Prisoners) Bill (June to December 2013).

AMREI MÜLLER is a postdoctoral research fellow at PluriCourts. Her research interests lie in the area of public international law and human rights, in particular economic, social and cultural rights, the law of the European Convention on Human Rights and international humanitarian law. Her monograph The Relationship between Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and International Humanitarian Law was published in 2013.

COLM O'CINNEIDE is Professor of Law at University College London, specialising in human rights, comparative constitutional and anti-discrimination law. He is also currently General Rapporteur of the European Committee of Social Rights (having served as vice president of the Committee from 2008 to 2012) and a member of the Blackstone Chambers Academic Panel. O'Cinneide has acted as a legal consultant for a range of organisations, including the European Commission, the International Labour Organisation (ILO) and the UK Equality and Human Rights Commission, and has also served as specialist legal adviser to the Joint Committee on Human Rights of the UK Parliament (2007–10).

KIRSTEN ROBERTS LYER is Associate Professor of Practice at the School of Public Policy, Central European University, Budapest. She specialises in human rights law and rule of law, with a research focus on NHRIs and other national oversight mechanisms. From 2008 to 2013 she was Director of Research, Policy and Promotion of the Irish Human Rights Commission, Ireland's NHRI. Her previous experience includes the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, the European Court of Justice and Amnesty International.

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

ix

MATTHEW SAUL is a researcher at PluriCourts, a Centre of Excellence for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order at the University of Oslo. He publishes on aspects of general international law, international human rights law and international adjudication. Saul is the editor (with French and White) of International Law and Dispute Settlement: New Techniques and Problems (2010) and (with Sweeney) of International Law and Post-Conflict Reconstruction Policy (2015). His monograph Popular Governance of Post-Conflict Reconstruction: The Role of International Law was published by Cambridge University Press in 2014.

THERESA SQUATRITO is a political science postdoctoral research fellow at the PluriCourts Centre at the University of Oslo. She holds a PhD in political science from the University of Washington. Her research focuses on international law and organisations and social mobilisation.

JÜRG STEINER is Professor Emeritus in the Department of Political Science at both the University of Bern and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is the author of The Foundations of Deliberative Democracy (Cambridge 2012) and Deliberation across Deeply Divided Societies with Maria Clara Jaramillo, Rousiley C. M. Maia and Simona Mameli (Cambridge 2017).

NINO TSERETELI is a postdoctoral research fellow at the Judicial Studies Institute, Masaryk University. She holds a doctorate in law from the PluriCourts Centre at the University of Oslo. Prior to her doctoral studies, she represented the government of Georgia before the European Court of Human Rights and International Court of Justice as well as in communications with the International Criminal Court. She has LL.M. degrees from Central European University (Budapest, Hungary) and Leiden University (the Netherlands).

GEIR ULFSTEIN is Professor of International Law at the Department of Public and International Law, University of Oslo and Co-director of PluriCourts – Centre for the Study of the Legitimate Roles of the Judiciary in the Global Order, University of Oslo. He has been Director of the Norwegian Centre for Human Rights, University of Oslo (2004–8). Ulfstein has published in different areas of international law, including the law of the sea, international environmental law, international human rights and international institutional law. He recently co-edited (with Keller) UN Human Rights Treaty Bodies. Law and Legitimacy (Cambridge 2012), co-authored (with Klabbers and A. Peters) The Constitutionalization of International Law (2009) and was co-editor (with Thilo Marauhn and Andreas Zimmermann) of Making Treaties Work: Human Rights, Environment and Arms Control (Cambridge 2007).

X NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

PHILIPPA WEBB is Reader (Associate Professor) in Public International Law at the Dickson Poon School of Law, King's College London. Her areas of research include human rights law and the relationship between national systems and international law. She was previously visiting Assistant Professor at Leiden University (2009–11). She served as the Special Assistant and Legal Officer to Judge Rosalyn Higgins during her Presidency of the International Court of Justice (2006–9) and, prior to that, as the Judicial Clerk to Judges Higgins and Owada (2004–5). She was also the Associate Legal Adviser to the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court (2005–6).

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The idea for this book was born out of Matthew Saul's research on the international human rights judiciary and parliaments as part of MultiRights, an ERC Advanced Grant (Grant no. 314869) on the Legitimacy of Multi-Level Human Rights Judiciary (grantee Andreas Follesdal). The completion of the book has been partly supported by the Research Council of Norway through its Centres of Excellence funding scheme (project number 223274).

The book's development has benefited from two workshops at which draft chapters were presented. PluriCourts at the University of Oslo hosted the first workshop in March 2015. Funding was provided by MultiRights. The Law School at Middlesex University hosted the second workshop in November 2015. Funding was provided by the Democracy as Idea and Practice Fund of the University of Oslo. We are grateful for the funding and to everyone who participated at these very productive workshops.

Particular thanks are due to Alice Donald for hosting and helping with the planning of the Middlesex workshop and for commenting on the proposal for this book. Thanks to Eva Brems, Murray Hunt, Dimitrios Kyritsis, Jasper Krommendjik and Øyvind Stiansen for presenting additional papers at the workshops. Thanks to Ed Bates, Alice Donald, Andreas Follesdal, Philip Leach, Kirsten Roberts Lyer, Colm O'Cinneide and Aoife O'Donghue for serving as chairs and commentators at the workshops. Thanks to Ramute Remezaite of Middlesex University for providing an excellent account of the Middlesex workshop on the PluriCourts blog. Thanks to Annette Hovdal for administrative assistance during the organisation of the Oslo and Middlesex workshops. Thanks to Nicola Skinner for assistance in arranging the Middlesex workshop.

We extend warm thanks to all the contributors to the book for producing high-quality chapters but also for engaging constructively with our feedback and submitting final versions on schedule. Thanks to Tori

xii

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Loven Kirkebø and Zhanna Petrukovich for research assistance at various stages. Thanks also to Claire Poppelwell-Scevak and Lisa Findley for assistance with copy editing. At Cambridge University Press, particular thanks are due to Elizabeth Spicer for encouraging and supporting the development of this book.