Abington School District v. Schempp, 265–267, 276 abortion, partisan polarization research and, 180, 265–267 accessibility, of Supreme Court judgments, 38 affective polarization left-right identity and asymmetry in, 202 narrowly targeted Court-curbing support and, 192–196, 198–200 policy disagreement and, 196–200
Affordable Care Act
changes in Court-curbing support and rulings on, 126–130, 139–140, 259 Supreme Court rulings on, 17–18, 113–114 age of survey respondents specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133
support for Court-curbing and, 98–99, 115–117 Alito, Samuel (Justice), nomination and confirmation of legitimacy of Court and, 268–269 observational and experimental data on perceptions of, 69, 219–223, 225–227, 241 Annenberg Supreme Court Study (ASCS) broadly targeted Court-curbing support in, 78–79, 122–125 general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support in, 95–101 methodology in surveys by, 90–92 observational data in, 220–221
procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data in, 219–225, 239 anti-democratic attitudes, weakly principled citizenship and, 39 authority of Supreme Court legitimacy of, 21–22 public surveys on, 83–89
in TESS study Court-curbing support, 85–86 Baddely, Michelle, 49–50 balance of power, Court-curbing and, 24–25 Bartels, Brandon L., 114–115 belief systems, political engagement and, 55–57 blockbuster Supreme Court rulings left-right divides in Court-curbing support and, 140–144 narrowly targeted Court-curbing support and, 192–196 in partisan polarization research, 192–196
support for Court-curbing and, 126–130
Brennan Center for Justice, 277–278
broadly targeted Court-curbing Annenberg Supreme Court Study on, 78–79 asymmetry in partisan and ideological identity and support for, 188–191, 200–204 broadly targeted Court-curbing (cont.)
conceptual foundation for, 247–248 direction of ruling and, 210, 214
general policy disagreement and support for, 95, 97–98, 121–122 institutional barriers to, 274–275
left–right identity and, 140–144, 161–163
models for, 122–125, 165, 166–167, 170–171, 173–174, 207, 210, 211, 212 partisan polarization and support for, 196–200, 207, 210, 262–263 policy disagreement and procedural information and, 160–161, 182–186 proposals for, 7–8
public support for, 23, 53–55, 72–78, 94–95 Qualtrics sample (QS 2017) survey on support for, 82–83, 211, 212 specific policy disagreements research on support for, 131–132, 133–137
specific Supreme Court rulings and,
23–24, 58, 133–137
TAPS surveys on support for, 67–70, 79–81, 115–117, 118–121, 133–137
in TESS study of Court-curbing support, 146–150, 152–155, 170–171
YGS surveys on support for, 81–82, 173–174
Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, 11–12, 29–30, 265–267
Bullock, John G., 162–263
Bush v. Gore, 29, 34, 129 procedural fairness and, 217–218
Caldeira, Gregory A., 32–33, 34, 69, 219–223, 268–269
cameras in courtroom, broadly targeted
Court-curbing support and, 95–103
Carrubba, Clifford J., 274–275
Choper, Jesse H., 160, 265–267, 270–273, 274–275, 276–277
Christenson, Dino P., 17–18, 128n.6, 129, 202–204, 229, 237, 259
CID surveys, 67–70
Citizenship, Involvement, and Democracy
study, 90–92, 219–223
Citizens United v. FEC, 1–2, 3–4, 13–14 in Qualtrics sample partisan polarization
study, 192–196
Clark, Tom, 16–17
Clark, Tom S., 238, 260
Clinton, Hillary, 1–2, 3–4 compliance with Court decisions
Court-curbing support and, 53–55, 58, 60–61
efficacy of Supreme Court concerning, 11, 22–23, 29–30
elites’ role in, 276
narrowly targeted Court-curbing and,
85–86, 87–88
procedural justice theory and, 252–253
public support for noncompliance, 48–49 Supreme Court power to induce, 7–9 conceptual foundations of Court-curbing support, 20–23, 30–31, 246–248 confidence over time, data on decline of, for Supreme Court, 64–67
Congress institutional barriers to Court-curbing and, 274–275
negative public perceptions of, 31–32
Supreme Court and, 274–275
Constitutional amendments, in TAPS survey on Court-curbing support, 113–114 Constitution of the US, judicial review powers in, 10–12
Converse, Phillip E., 38
Court-curbing. See also broadly targeted Court-curbing; narrowly targeted Court-curbing; public support for Court-curbing
blockbuster rulings and changes in
support for, 126–130
conceptualization of support for, 20–23, 50–53, 246–248
conflicting research narratives on,
256–262
Congressional legislation, 269–270
data analysis on support for, 61–64, 71–72
defined, 60–61
electoral connection to resistance to, 30 general policy disagreement and support for, 93–95
institutional barriers to, 274–275
latency of support for, 265–267
lower courts and, 277–278
partisan polarization and support for,
23–24, 175–177, 182–186, 196–200, 253–254
partisan polarization as protection from, 263–267 policy-based perspective on, 15–18 political discourse over, 7–9 politically motivated reasoning and, 44–45, 216–217 process-based perspective on, 14–15 theories on public support for, 27–28
Crawford, Jarret T., 41
Cruz, Ted, 1, 2–3
decision acceptance asymmetry in partisan and ideological identity and, 188–191, 200–204, 259
public support for Supreme Court and, 55 defection, partisan polarization, and costs of, 49–50 Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA), 126–130 democratic values
applicability of, 38
Court-curbing support and, 251–253
general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support and, 106–107, 115–117 political expediency vs, 27–28 practice vs principle on, 41–43
specific policy disagreements research on
Court-curbing support and, 132–133
Supreme Court legitimacy and, 32–33
weakly principled citizenship and, 36–43 diffuse support, public support for Supreme Court as, 20–21 directional goals, politically motivated reasoning and, 43–46, 155–165 direction of ruling
left–right identity and, 161–163
partisan polarization and, 209, 210, 213, 214 procedural perceptions in YGS data and, 156–160 distance-based measurements, surveys of Court-curbing support and, 106–107, 114–115 do away with Court-curbing item broadly targeted Court-curbing and, 75–77, 96 in Freedom and Tolerance Study on Court-curbing support, 103–112 levels of support for Court-curbing and, 99–101
partisan polarization and, 264–265
specific policy disagreements research on
support for, 131–132
in TAPS survey, 115–121
in YGS surveys on Court-curbing, 81–82
Dred Scott decision, 11–12
Druckman, James N., 48–49
Easton, David, 20–21
education levels of survey respondents policy disagreement and curbing support and, 185n.9 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning and, 230–233
specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133
support for Court-curbing and, 98–99, 113–117
efficacy of Supreme Court compliance and implementation and, 29–30, 265–266 institutional legitimacy and, 12
partisan polarization and, 204–206, 265–267
policy disagreement and, 22–23
public opinion and, 254–256 research on, 11, 155
electoral politics
judicial independence and, 10–12, 30
partisan polarization and, 175–177
public support for Supreme Court and, 55 elite institutions, judicial independence and role of, 273–277 Epstein, Lee, 268, 269–270 exhaustible institutional capital, Supreme Court legitimacy and, 360.8, 270–273 experimental data on procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning, 229–217 in TESS Study, 230–233
in YGS 2016 study, 233–237
Federalist 78, judiciary discussed in, 10–12
Feingold, Russ, 1–2
Fisher v. University of Texas, 127n.2, 143–144
Franklin, Charles H., 265–267
Freedom and Tolerance Study (FTS) broadly targeted Court-curbing model in, 122–125
Index 297
Index

Freedom and Tolerance Study (FTS) (cont.)
general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support in, 103–112, 225–226 debate by item analyses in, 108–112 data used in, 90–92
observational data in, 220–221
procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data in, 67–70, 219–223, 225–226, 240

Gallup, 64–67
Garland, Merrick, 4–5, 206, 264 gender of survey respondents
specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133
support for Court-curbing and, 98–99, 115–117 general policy disagreement in Annenberg study on Court-curbing support, 95–103, 223–225
defined, 93–95
distance-based measures of Court-curbing support and, 106–107
in Freedom and Tolerance Study (FTS), 103–112, 225–226
levels of support for Court-curbing and, 99–101, 121–122, 249–250
in TAPS survey on Court-curbing support, 113–118
in YouGovStudy, 233–237

Glick, David M., 17–18, 128n.6, 129, 202–204, 229, 237, 259 government, negative public perceptions of, 31–32

Graham, Matthew, 39
Grigg, Charles M., 37
group identity
partisan polarization and, 46–50
weakly principled citizenship and, 37–38

Hamilton, Alexander, 10–12
Hansford, Thomas G., 37–38, 260–261 health insurance preferences scale, specific policy disagreements research on Court-curbing support and, 131–132 heterogeneity, public support for Court-curbing and, 22–23

Hetherington, Marc J., 17, 41, 47
Hibbing, John R., 31–32
Higgins, E. Tory, 38
Husted v. A Philip Randolph Institute, 215–216 ideological identification in Alito confirmation study, 225–227

asymmetry in, 188–191
direction of ruling treatment in YGS and, 156–160
exhaustible capital framework and, 270–273
general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support and, 96–97, 104, 114–115
partisan polarization and, 175–177, 182–186 protection of judicial independence and, 263–267 specific policy disagreements research on Court-curbing support and, 131–132
in TESS study of Court-curbing support, 145–146
in YouGovStudy, 233–237
implementation problem, public support for Supreme Court and, 29–30 income level of survey respondents specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133
support for Court-curbing and, 98–99, 115–117 institutional legitimacy. See legitimacy institutional loyalty core democratic values and, 32–33 Court politicization and decline in, 267–270
exhaustible capital framework and, 270–273
partisan polarization and, 263–267
procedural justice theory and, 252–253
public support for Supreme Court and, 20–21, 29–30 institutional stability, Supreme Court’s authority and, 25 inter-party distance, partisan polarization and, 48–49 tolerance, pliability of opinion and, 40–41 intra-party homogeneity, partisan polarization and, 48–49

---

Index

legitimacy (cont.)
partisan polarization and weakening of, 186–188, 265–267 politicization of Court and decline in, 267–270
positivity theory and, 34
public support for Supreme Court and, 12–15, 20–21, 50–53
scale for, 96
Leonhardt, David, 6 Levitsky, Steven, 275
liberty over order, support for, for support for Court-curbing and, 104–106, 115–117, 132–133 life tenure for justices, restrictions on, 260
The Limits of Judicial Independence (Clark), 16–17 Lodge, Milton, 34

majoritarian constraints on Supreme Court, public support for, 82–83 mandatory retirement age for Justices broadly targeted Court-curbing support and, 95–103 levels of support for, 101–103, 260 Marbury v. Madison, 100.23, 11–12
Marcus, George E., 39
Marshall, John (Chief Justice), 100.23, 11–12 mass belief systems, weakly principled citizenship and, 41–42.n.10 McClosky, Herbert, 275
McClosky v. Board of Education, 265–267
McConnell, Mitch
judicial nominations blocked by, 4–5, 9–10, 139 reaction to Supreme Court decisions by, 1, 2–3 media narrative, partisan polarization and, 262–263 minoritarian institution, Supreme Court as, 14–15, 32–33.n.7 Mondak, Jeffery J., 36.n.8, 204–206, 270–273 multiple modes theory, policy disagreement and Court-curbing support and, 129 myth of legality declining belief in, 248–249 policymaking process and, 31–32
positivity theory and, 34

public support for Supreme Court and, 29–30 Nagel, Stuart S., 7–9 narrowly targeted Court-curbing asymmetry in partisan and ideological identity and support for, 188–191, 200–204 conceptual foundation for, 247–248
direction of ruling and, 209, 213, 214
examples of, 265–267
exhaustible capital framework and, 272
item-by-item analysis of partisan polarization and, 186–188 left–right identity and, 161–163, 204
models of, 168–169, 172, 173–174, 207, 208, 211
partisan polarization and, 196–200, 207, 208, 209, 262–263 policy disagreement and support for, 160–161, 182–186, 196–200 procedural information and policy disagreement and, 160–161
proposals for, 7–8
public support for, 23, 53–55, 83–89, 260–261
in Qualtrics sample partisan polarization study, 192–196, 211
in TESS study of Court-curbing support, 85, 146–150, 152–155, 168–169, 172 YouGov Survey on support for, 86–87, 173–174 expectations-perceptions gap in perceptions of, 228 left–right divides in Court-curbing support following, 140–144 policy disagreement and procedural perceptions about, 218–219 reversion of Court-curbing support following, 137–140 specific policy disagreements and impact of, 130–133, 135–136
TAPS observational data on perceptions of, 165, 227–228, 242
Native American sovereignty, Supreme Court rulings on, 11–12 negativity bias, 237
Index

nomination process for justices Alito nomination and confirmation, 69, 219–223, 225–227 blocking of nominees, 4–5, 9–10, 119, 143–144 broadly targeted Court-curbing support and, 95–103 Kavanaugh confirmation, 5, 6, 206
partisan polarization and, 175–177, 206, 269–270 noncompliance with Court decisions
Court-curbing support and, 53–55, 58, 60–61
elites’ role in, 276
examples of, 265–267
partisan polarization and, 186–188
nondirectional goals, politically motivated reasoning and, 43–46
Obama, Barack, 1–2, 3–4, 11–14 Obergefell v. Hodges, 1, 3–4, 5, 29–30 changes in Court-curbing support following, 126–130, 166–167
left–right divides in Court-curbing support following, 140–144
in Qualtrics sample partisan polarization study, 192–196
reversion of Court-curbing support following, 137–140
specific policy disagreements research on impact of, 130–133, 136 objection precondition, public support for Supreme Court and, 52–53 observational data, on procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning, 219–221, 227–228 off-setting rulings, changes in Court-curbing support following, 126–130 one good reason heuristic, partisan polarization and, 178 partisan polarization
in Alito confirmation study, 225–227
asymmetry in, 188–191, 200–204
broadly targeted Court-curbing and, 196–200, 207, 211, 212, 262–263 costlessness of, 262–263 direction of ruling conditions and, 209, 210, 213, 214 efficacy of Supreme Court and, 204–206
exhaustible capital framework and, 272–273
general policy disagreement and, 58, 93–95 item-by-item analysis of, 186–188 judicial independence and, 25–26 judicial nominations and, 175, 206, 269–270 narrowly targeted Court-curbing and, 207, 208, 211, 212, 260–261 political cognition and, 18–20, 27–28, 46–50 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data and, 222–223 protection from Court-curbing and, 263–267 in Qualtrics Study on Court-curbing support, 87–88, 191–204, 211, 212 specific policy disagreement and, 58, 111–112, 196–200
support for Court-curbing and, 23–24, 175–177, 253–254
weakly principled citizenship and, 41
in YouGovStudy, 81–82, 177–182, 233–237 party cues
asymmetry in polarization and, 202–204
broadly targeted Court-curbing support and, 196–200 data and design in partisan polarization research and, 178
elites’ role in, 276
partisan polarization and, 48–49, 175–177, 186–188
policy disagreement and, 182–186
in Qualtrics sample partisan polarization study, 192–196
Patric, Gordon, 265–267
Peffley, Mark, 40–41 performance satisfaction for Supreme Court data on decline of, 64–67
support for Court-curbing and, 1051.19
Piereson, James, 39
Pilanski, Jane M., 41
pliability of opinion, weakly principled citizenship and, 40–41

© in this web service Cambridge University Press

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-18841-9 — Curbing the Court
Brandon L. Bartels, Christopher D. Johnston

More Information

www.cambridge.org
Index

policy-based perspective on Court-curbing, 15–18 basic principles of, 35–36
direction of ruling treatment and, 156–160 empirical foundations for, 23–24 limits of, 18
politically motivated reasoning and, 43–46
weakly principled citizenship and, 36–43, 245–246 policy disagreement test. See also general policy disagreement; specific policy disagreement
exhaustible capital framework and, 272
left–right identity and, 161–163
legitimacy and, 21–22
narrowly targeted Court-curbing support and, 88–89 partisan polarization research and, 182–186, 196–200 political engagement and, 251–253
procedural perceptions and, 58, 252–253
public support for Court-curbing and, 23–24, 58, 82–83, 249–250, 269–270
specific Supreme Court rulings and, 23–24, 58
in TESS study of Court-curbing support, 146–148, 230–233
in YGS surveys on Court-curbing, 155–163
policymaking process public preference for, 31–32
Supreme Court rulings and, 2–3 policy outcomes
Court-curbing support and, 148–150
partisan polarization and, 48
political cognition
Court-curbing support and, 104–106, 115–117, 251–253
partisan polarization and, 18–20, 27–28, 46–50
specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133 political engagement
in Alito confirmation study, 225–227
in Annenberg study on Court-curbing support, 223–225
in Freedom and Tolerance Study (FTS), 225–226
general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support, 97–98, 106–107, 115–117 knowledge of Court and, 104–106 policy disagreement and Court-curbing and, 185 n.9, 229 politically motivated reasoning and, 218–219
positivity theory and, 14
procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data and, 160–161, 222–223, 230–233
public support for Court-curbing and, 55–57, 115–117, 160–161, 249–250, 251–253
specific policy disagreements and Court-curbing support, 132–133 TAPS observational data on perceptions of, 227–228
in TESS research, 230–233 weighted and unweighted models, 227 n.10
in YouGovStudy, 233–237 politically motivated reasoning in Annenberg study on Court-curbing support, 223–225 characteristics of, 43–46 elites and, 275
experimental data on, 229–237 observational data on, 219–223
political engagement and, 218–219
procedural justice theory and, 31–32
procedural perceptions and, 215–219
public support for Court-curbing and, 18–20, 23–24 rationalization of preferences and, 27–28
in TAPS survey, 227–228
theories of, 216–217
in Time-sharing Experiments in Social Sciences (TESS) research, 230–233
in YGS surveys on Court-curbing, 155–163, 233–237 politics
decline in Court legitimacy and, 267–270 procedural perceptions about Supreme Court and, 67–70 reversion of Court-curbing support and, 139 Supreme Court involvement in, 4, 11, 35–36 weakly principled citizenship and expediency in, 36–43 positivity theory, 237 political disengagement and, 34 process-based perspective on Court-curbing and, 14–15
public support for Supreme Court and, 29
Posner, Eric, 268, 269–270 presidential judicial nominations, broadly targeted Court-curbing support and, 14–15 presidential reversal of Supreme Court decisions, 260 procedural justice theory compliance and institutional loyalty and, 252–253 policy disagreement and, 237–238
politically motivated reasoning and, 217–218 process perceptions and, 230–233 process-based perspective Court-curbing and, 14–15 public perceptions of Supreme Court and, 31–32 procedural perceptions
in Alito confirmation study, 225–227, 241
in Annenberg study on Court-curbing support, 223–225, 239 data over time for, 67–70
defined, 60–61
direction of ruling treatment and, 156–160 expectations–perceptions gap in, 228 experimental data on, 229–237
in Freedom and Tolerance Study (FTS), 67–70, 219–223, 225–226, 240
models of, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244 motivated reasoning and, 215–219
observational data on, 219–223
policy disagreement and, 28, 252–253 process-based theories of Court-curbing and, 46, 246–248
support for Court-curbing and, 50–53, 96, 251–253
in TAPS survey, 227–228
in TESS study Court-curbing support, 85–86, 243
in Time-sharing Experiments in Social Sciences (TESS) research, 230–233
in YGS surveys on Court-curbing, 81–82, 155–163, 233–237, 244 process-based theories of Court-curbing challenges to, 15–18, 256–262 conceptual foundations for, 20–23, 50–53, 246–248 contemporary politics and, 267–270
core democratic values and, 32–33
direction of ruling treatment and, 156–160
general policy disagreement and, 104–107 overview, 29–30
political engagement and, 55–57
politically motivated reasoning and, 43–46 public support and, 14–15, 251–253, 269–270 reservoir of goodwill ideology and, 245–246 summary of, 34–35
in YouGov Study, 233–237
Prothro, James W., 37
public support for Court-curbing analysis of, 60–61
Annenberg Supreme Court Study on, 78–79
blockbuster rulings and changes in, 126–130
broadly targeted Court-curbing, 23, 53–55, 72–78
conceptual foundations for, 20–23, 50–53, 246–248
conflicting research narratives on, 256–262 data analysis, 61–64, 71–72
elites and, 273–277
exhaustible capital framework and, 272–273 exhaustible capital framework for, 270–273
institutional legitimacy and, 17, 246–248 job approval and confidence over time, 64–67 judicial independence and, 12–15, 254–256
latency of, 265–267
left–right divide and, 140–144
lower courts and, 277–278 narrowly targeted Court-curbing, 23, 53–55, 83–89
partisan polarization and, 23–24, 175–177, 182–186, 196–200, 233–254

304

Index

Index

Senate approval of judicial nominations, broadly targeted Court-curbing support and role of, 95–103 Shelby County v. Holder broadly targeted Court-curbing and, 126–130, 166–167 left-right divides in Court-curbing support following, 140–144
specific policy disagreements research on impact of, 130–133, 136–137 Singer, Matthew, 39
slavery, Supreme Court rulings on, 11–12
Smith, Joseph L., 17
Smith, Steven S., 129 specific policy disagreement blockbuster rulings, changes in Court-curbing support and, 126–130, 249–250
Court-curbing support and, 160–161, 249–250 experimental studies of Court-curbing support and, 144–145 partisan polarization and, 197–198n.20 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning and, 160–161, 230–233 research design, data, and measurements of Court-curbing support, 130–133
reversion of Court-curbing support following, 137–140
Spence, Lester Kenyatta, 34 state courts, court-curbing in, 277–278 Staton, Jeffrey K., 7–9 stronger control of Court broadly targeted Court-curbing and, 78 Freedom and Tolerance Study on Court-curbing support and, 103–112 specific policy disagreements research on support for, 131–132 in TAPS survey on Court-curbing support, 113–114, 118–121 subjective perceptions of divergence, general policy disagreement and, 93–95 Suhay, Elizabeth, 41
Sullivan, John L., 39
Supreme Court (US). See also public support for Court-curbing; related headings, e.g., Court-curbing; specific rulings Congress and, 274–275 efficacy of, 12
exceptionalism of, 30, 253–254 job approval and confidence over time in, 64–67 legitimacy of, 32–33
as minoritarian institution, 14–15, 32–33n.7 politics and, 4, 11, 35–36 procedural perceptions over time concerning, 67–70 trust in, 70
surveillance for terrorism, Supreme Court rulings on, TESS study of support for, 85–86
Svolik, Milan W., 39

TAPS (American Panel Study) surveys broadly targeted Court-curbing models in, 122–125, 165, 166–167
general policy disagreement and Court-curbing support, 113–118 item-by-item analyses in, 118–121 left-right divide and Court-curbing support in, 140–144 methodology used in, 90–92
procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data in, 67–70, 219–223, 227–228, 242 removal of justices, support for, 79–81 reversion of Court-curbing support following, 137–140
specific policy disagreements research on Court-curbing support and, 130–133
TESS. See Time-sharing Experiments in Social Sciences (TESS) research Theiss-Morse, Elizabeth, 31–32 threat perceptions, weakly principled citizenship and, 39–40 Time-sharing Experiments in Social Sciences (TESS) research broadly targeted Court-curbing models, 170–171 item-by-item analysis in, 152–155
methodology used in, 90–92
narrowly targeted Court-curbing models in, 168–169, 172 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning in, 230–233, 243 public support for Court-curbing in, 85–86, 145–152

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org
Index

tolerance
  self-interest and, 39
  support for Court-curbing and, 104–106, 115–117, 132–133, 275 tolerance research, cross-ideological trends in, 41

Trump, Donald
  election of, 4–5
  judicial nominations by, 5 trust in Supreme Court
    general policy disagreement measure of Court-curbing support and, 98–99 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning data and, 219–223 public opinion data on, 70
    support for Court-curbing and, 96

Tyler, Tom R., 215, 256–257, 268–269

Vanberg, Georg, 274

Verneiro, Peter G., 13–14

Voting Rights Act (VRA), Supreme Court rulings on, 126–130

weakly principled citizenship
  elites and, 273–277
  partisan polarization and, 178 policy-based perspective on Court-curbing and, 16–43, 245–246
  support for Court-curbing and, 262–263

Weidenbaum Center, 113–114

Weiler, Jonathan D., 47

Westwood, Sean J., 47–48

Woodson, Benjamin, 34, 129, 268–269

Worcester v. Georgia, 11–12

Yglesias, Matthew, 13

YouGov Study (YGS)
  asymmetry in partisan and ideological identity, 188–191 of broadly targeted Court-curbing support, 81–82, 173–174, 210 of Court-curbing support, 69, 81–82, 86–87 data and design in partisan polarization research, 178
  item-by-item analysis of partisan polarization and, 186–188
  methodology used in, 90–92
  of narrowly targeted Court-curbing support, 86–87, 173–174, 209 of partisan polarization, 177–182, 209, 210 policy disagreement and procedural perceptions in Court-curbing support, 155–163 procedural perceptions and motivated reasoning in, 233–237, 244

Ziblatt, Daniel, 275

Zillis, Michael A., 17–18

Zorn, Christopher, 274–275