

Contents

List of Illustrations	page vii
Acknowledgements	xv
List of Conventions and Abbreviations	xvii
Introduction: The Revival of Letters and the Uses of Palaeography	i
1 The Eloquent Page: Humanism and Script, Humanism and England	13
2 Humanist Script in England: The First Ten Years	51
3 British Barbarians in Italy and Scotland's First Humanist	89
4 The Dutch Connexion: The Significance of Low Countries Scribes from Theoderic Werken to Pieter Meghen	121
5 The Butcher of England and the Learning of Italy: John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester and the 'Pupils of Guarino'	174
6 The Victory of Italic in Diplomatic Correspondence	228
7 Conclusion: Beyond Humanism, Beyond Words	273
Bibliography of Printed Works Cited	295
Index of Manuscripts, Archival Documents and Incunables	318
General Index	325

The plate section can be found between pp. 106 and 107.