

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-43274-1 - Abraham Cowley: Essays, Plays and Sundry Verses
The Text Edited by A. R. Waller

Index

More information

INDEX OF TITLES

- Agriculture, Of 400
Avarice, Of 436
- B. Virgin, A translation of Verses upon the, &c. 57
Buckingham, To the Duchesse of 52
Buckingham, upon his Marriage with the Lord Fairfax his Daughter, To the Duke of 462
- Cambridge, An Answer to an Invitation to 66
Carleton, An Elegie Dudley Lord, &c. 40
Charles, Ode V. In commendation of the time we live under the Reign of our gracious K. 63
Civil War, A Poem on the late, &c. 467
Claudian's Old Man of Verona 447
Clerke, An Elegie Master Richard, &c. 41
Constantia and Philetus 7
Country Life, The 419
Country Mouse, The, A Paraphrase, &c. 414
Cromwell, A Discourse Oliver 342
Cutter of Coleman-Street 269
- danger of Procrastination, The 452 dangers of an Honest man in much Company, The 443
Digbie, To the Sir Kenelme, &c. 69
- Eccho, The 11
- 496
- Elisabeth birth, &c., Coolyes verses upon my Lady 483
Elysium, A Dreame of 42
Epilogue At Court [Cutter of Coleman-Street] 341
Epilogue Spoken by Cutter 340
Epilogue to Loves Riddle 148
Epilogue to The Guardian 242
Epitaph 39
Epitaphium Vivi Auctoris 461
Experimental Philosophy, A Proposition For the Advancement Of 243
- Garden, The 420
Godfather, Master A. B., To his very much honoured 53
Greatness, Of 428
Guardian, The 162
- Happie Birth of the Duke, Upon the 483
Horace. L. 3. Ode 1. Odi profanum vulgus, &c. 434
Horace to Fuscus Aristius, A Paraphrase, &c. 416
Horat. Epodon. Beatus ille qui pulc, &c. 412
- Inclusam Danaen turris ahenea, A Paraphrase on an Ode in Horace's third Book, beginning thus 441
- Lady who desired a Song, &c. To a 489
Letter, The 22
Liberty, Ode. Upon 388
Littleton, An Elegie on the Death of John, &c. 55
Love, On the Power of 485

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-43274-1 - Abraham Cowley: Essays, Plays and Sundry Verses

The Text Edited by A. R. Waller

Index

More information

INDEX OF TITLES

- Mart. L. 2. Quod te nomine? &c. 387
 Martialis. L. [2.] Vis fieri Liber? &c. 387
 Martialis. Lib. 2. Vota tui breviter, &c. 386
 Mart. Lib. 2. Ep. 90 455
 Mart. Lib. 5. Epigr. 59 454
 Martialis. L. 10. Ep. 47. Vitam quæ faciunt beatio[r]em, &c. 460
 Martial Book 10. Epigram 96 461
 Mistris, Ode III. To his 61
 My self, Of 455
 Obscurity, Of 397
 Osbolston, To the Master Lambert, &c. 30
 Poeticall Revenge, A 50
 Poetry, Ode I. On the praise of 59
 Poverty is to be preferred before discontented Riches, Ode II. That a pleasant 60
 Prologue to Cutter of Coleman-Street 266; Added at Court 267
 Prologue to The Guardian 161
 Puritan and the Papist, The 150
 Pyramus and Thisbe, The Tragical Historie of 31
 Reader, To the 6
 Scotland, On his Majesties returne out of 46; A Song on the same 47
 Several Discourses by way of Essays, in Verse and Prose 377 shortness of Life and uncertainty of Riches, The 448 shortnesse of Mans Life, Ode VI. Upon the 65 Song, The 12, 24, 35
 uncertainty of Fortune. A Translation, Ode IV. On the 63
 Virg. Georg. O fortunatus nimium, &c. A Translation, &c. 409
 Vote, A 48
 Whitfield, An Elegie on the Death of M^{rs} Anne 54

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-43274-1 - Abraham Cowley: Essays, Plays and Sundry Verses

The Text Edited by A. R. Waller

Index

More information

INDEX OF FIRST LINES

- A Tower of Brass, one would have said 441
- A vail of thickned Air around them cast 398
- Ah, happy Isle, how art thou chang'd and curst 343
- And must these waters smile againe?
and play 55
- And, oh, What Mans condition can be worse 437
- And there (with no design beyond my wall) whole and intire to lye 420
- And what a noble plot was crost 433
- As far as up to'wards He'ven the Branches grow 432
- As well might Corn as Verse in Cities grow 406
- As when the Midland Sea is no where clear 266
- At the large foot of a fair hollow tree 414
- Beauty and strength together came 462
- Begin, be bold, and venture to be wise 454
- Blest be the man (and blest he is) whom [e'er] 419
- Come Love, why stayest thou? The night 35
- Come, Poetry, and with you bring along 489
- Curst be that wretch (Deaths Factor sure) who brought 63
- Curst be the Man (what do I wish?
as though 351
- 498
- For the few Houres of Life allotted me 386
- Fredome with Virtue takes her seat 388
- Go Melib[œ]us, now 449
- God made not pleasures only for the Rich 397
- Great Charles: there stop you Trum-peters of Fame 46
- Hail, old Patrician Trees, so great and good 395
- Happy art Thou, whom God does bless 422
- Happy the Man, who his whole time doth bound 447
- Happy the Man whom bounteous
Gods allow 412
- Health, from the lover of the Country
me 416
- Hence clouded lookes, hence briny teares 47
- Hence, ye Profane; I hate ye all 434
- Hic, O Viator, sub Lare parvulo 461
- Honest and Poor, faithful in word and thought 445
- How hard, alas, is that young Lover's fate 269
- I'dmire, Mecænas, how it comes to pass 438
- I call'd the buskin'd Muse Melpomene 6
- I Hate, and yet I Love thee to[o]
393

INDEX OF FIRST LINES

- I Love (for that upon the wings of Fame 53
I Sing two constant Lovers various fate 7
I Trust (deare Soule) my absence cannot move 22
If ever I more Riches did desire 428
If I should say, that in your face were seene 52
It is a punishment to love 115
It is a Truth so certain, and so clear 373
It was decreed by stedfast Destinie 41
- Leave off unfit complaints, and cleere 62 Lest the misconstring world should chance to say 48
Liberty, Of 377
- Madde feet, yee have beene traytours to your Master 71
Many, when Youths of tender Age
they see 5
Marke that swift Arrow how it cuts
the ayre 65
Me-thinks a Vision bids me silence break 340
Me who have liv'd so long among the great 461
My childish Muse is in her Spring, and yet 30
- Nature we say decayes, because our Age 4
Nichols, my better selfe, forbear 66
Nor by me ere shall you 459
- Oh happy, (if his Happiness he knows) 409
Oh! what hath caus'd my killing miseries? 11
Once thou joycedst, and rejoyce for ever 57
Our Yesterdays To morrow now is gone 454
- Phœbus expuls'd by the approaching Night 42
Rise up thou mournfull Swaine 71
- Shee's dead, and like the houre that stole her hence 54
Since, dearest Friend, 'tis your desire to see 460
So two rude waves, by stormes together throwne 150
Sol Daphne sees, and seeing her admires 485
Sometimes with sleep, sometimes with wine we strive 397
Stay Gentlemen; what I have said, was all 267
- That I do you with humble Bowes
no more 387
The Author bid me tell you—'faith,
I have 148
The Chartreux wants the warning of a Bell 365
The infernall Sisters, did a Counsell
call 40
The Madness of your People, and the Rage 341
The merry waves dance up and downe, and play 73
The Muses still love their own Native place 405
The Play is done, great Prince, which needs must fear 242
This humble Roof, this rustique
Court (said He) 408
This latter Age, the Lees of Time, hath knowne 69
This only grant me, that my means may lye 456
Thou, neither great at Court nor in the War 459
Time flye with greater speed away 24
'Tis better to dance then sing 82
'Tis not a Pyramide of Marble stone 59
To morrow you will Live, you always cry 454
To whom shall I my Sorrowes show?
12
Tyrian dye why doe you weare 61
- Underneath this Marble Stone 39 Unhappy they to whom God has not reveal'd 406
Upon the slippery tops of humane
State 399

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-43274-1 - Abraham Cowley: Essays, Plays and Sundry Verses

The Text Edited by A. R. Waller

Index

More information

INDEX OF FIRST LINES

- Was it for this, that Romes best blood he spilt 431
- Well then; I now do plainly see 458
- Well then, Sir, you shall know how far extend 386
- Westminster-Hall a friend and I agreed 50
- What Rage does England from it self divide 467
- When, Lo, e're the last words were fully spoke 375
- Where Babylons High Walls erected were 31
- Whilst the rude North Charles his slow wrath doth call 483
- Who governs his own course with steddy hand 385
- Who says the Times do Learning
disallow? 161
- Why dost thou heap up Wealth, which thou must quit 450
- Why ô doth gaudy Tagus ravish thee 60
- With thee for ever I in woods could rest 393
- Wonder not, Sir (you who instruct the Town) 455
- Would you be Free? 'Tis your chief wish, you say 387
- Your absence (Sir) though it be long,
yet I 22
- Your picture mighty P. ingrav'd in gould 483