Contents

List of Tables and Figures page viii
Acknowledgments ix

1 Introduction: Understanding the Links between Family Planning and HIV Prevention 1
2 The Intersection of the Global Population and AIDS Fields 37
3 From Family Planning to HIV Prevention in Sub-Saharan Africa 70
4 Malawi: Negative Policy Feedback and Political Legacy 102
5 Nigeria: Transnational Pressure and Political Disruption 134
6 Senegal: Transnational Ties and Technocratic Leadership 168
7 Conclusion: The Implications of Intimate Interventions for Global Health 206

References 221
Index 273