

CONTENTS

Preface	page	ix
Chapter I. The Beginnings of the Power Station Industry		1
II. The Grosvenor Gallery and Deptford Stations		21
III. The Power Station of the Great Western Railway Co. at Paddington		42
IV. High-tension direct-current Systems		52
V. Some of the Early London Supply Companies		71
The Metropolitan Electric Supply Co.		71
The Kensington Court Electric Light Co.		89
The Kensington and Knightsbridge Co.		92
The Notting Hill Electric Lighting Co.		95
The Westminster Electric Supply Corporation		97
The St James' and Pall Mall Electric Lighting Co.		102
The Charing Cross Electricity Supply Co.		106
The Brompton and Kensington Electricity Supply Co.		111
The City of London Electric Lighting Co.		114
The County of London Electric Lighting Co.		119
VI. Some Early Municipal Power Stations		121
Bradford		121
St Pancras		124
Portsmouth		127
Hampstead		130
Islington		132
Shoreditch		133

vi	CONTENTS
	VII. The Battle of the Systems	page 136
	VIII. Gas Engines as Prime Movers in Power Stations	151
	IX. Reciprocating Engines in Central Stations	163
	X. The Introduction of the Steam Turbine	170
	XI. Legislation Affecting the Electrical Industry	184
	Appendix I. The Heat Consumption of Power Stations	201
	II. The Effect of Load Factor and Output on Efficiency	208
	Index	215