

Contents

---

List of figures and tables	page ix
Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
1 Crisis, transition and community	8
A world in crisis	9
The crisis in the welfare state and the emergence of neo-liberalism	19
Community-based services as an alternative	22
2 Alternatives and transitions	27
Transitions	27
Some ways forward	33
Summary	43
3 Foundations of community development: ecological and social justice perspectives	44
An ecological perspective: some key concepts	44
An ecological perspective: is it enough?	53
A social justice perspective: some key concepts	54
Approaches to disadvantage: the limitations of social policy	55
Empowerment	59
Need	67
Rights	70
4 Foundations of community development: post-Enlightenment and Indigenous perspectives	74
Beyond Enlightenment modernity	74
The Enlightenment	74
Beyond the Enlightenment	82
Indigenous understandings	88
Conclusion	95

5 A vision for community development	97
The promise of integration	98
Community	100
Development	108
Community-based human services	112
An alternative vision: grounds for hope	123
6 Change from below	126
Valuing local knowledge	126
Valuing local culture	130
Valuing local resources	132
Valuing local skills	133
Valuing local processes	134
Working in solidarity	135
Ideological and theoretical foundations for change from below	136
Conclusion	143
7 The process of community development	145
Process and outcome	145
The integrity of process	148
Consciousness-raising	150
Participatory democracy	154
Cooperation	162
The pace of development	164
Peace and non-violence	165
Consensus	167
Community-building	168
Conclusion	169
8 The global and the local	170
Globalisation	170
Localisation	176
Protest	178
Global and local practice	179
Universal and contextual issues	182
9 Colonialism, colonialist practice and working internationally	185
Guarding against colonialist practice	191
Working internationally	195
10 Community development: social, economic and political	199
Social development	200
Economic development	208
Political development	218

11 Community development: cultural, environmental, spiritual, personal and survival	224
Cultural development	224
Environmental development	238
Spiritual development	241
Personal development	243
Survival development	246
Balanced development	251
12 Principles of community development and their application to practice	253
Foundational principles: ideas that inform practice	254
Principles of valuing the local	266
Process principles	275
Conclusion	285
13 Roles and skills 1: facilitative and educational	286
With head, heart, hand and feet	286
The problem with 'cookbooks'	287
Competencies	289
Practice, theory, reflection and praxis	290
The language of roles	291
Facilitative roles and skills	292
Educational roles and skills	305
14 Roles and skills 2: representational and technical	311
Representational roles and skills	311
Technical roles and skills	317
Two special cases: needs assessment and evaluation	323
Demystifying skills	329
15 The organisational context	332
Managerialism	332
Responding to managerialism: community development as subversive	338
Introducing community development processes: the power of the collective	340
Conclusion	347
16 Practice issues	348
Practice frameworks	348
Categories of community workers	349
Values and ethics	353
Professionalism	360
Education and training	362
The use and abuse of power	364

Internal and external community work	365
Long-term commitment	367
Support	369
Passion, vision and hope	374
Questions for discussion	378
References	382
Index	397