INDEX OF FIRST LINES

- A Lady once (so Stories say) 380
 A less desert may gain a People's trust 357
 A Lyon by his valiant Deeds preferred 368
 A milk-white Mouse immortal and unchang'd 8
 A Widow kept a favourite Cat 382
 Abate, fair fugitive, abate thy speed 91
 Accept, my love, as true a heart 163
 All my Endeavours, all my Hopes depend 52
 Almighty Power! 294
 Almighty pow'r of Harmony and Love 315
 And be the Wretch thy Pitty or delight 329
 And giving You both Yea and Nay 333
 And I was last Year a Ladys Page 402
 And if the Motion by the Sense you prove 329
 Antiquam hanc Lampadem 146
 Apostles teach, and Holy books declare 345
 As Almoner in Holy Week 335
 As Doctors give physic by way of prevention 129
 Assist my Cause with Honour, Justice, Truth 330
 At dead of night, when stars appear 90
 Behind an unfrequented Glade 58
 Blind Plaintiff, lame Defendant, share 127
 Broghil did Cowleys thankful Muse commend 358
 But that of which he was bereft 328
 412
- By birth I'm a slave, yet can give you a crown 89
 Careless and Young O Florimel 330
 Cease, Leonora, cease to mourn 141
 Chamont was absent, and remembrance brought 301
 Chloe beauty has and wit 167
 Come, weep no more, for 'tis in vain 153
 Early in Life We learn the Mighty Rule 357
 Even Chast Diana mindless of her way 357
 Fair Sylvia, cease to blame my Youth 378
 Fairest Child of flowing time 298
 Fame counting thy books, my dear Harley, shall tell 364
 Farewel, Amynta, we must part 162
 Farewel ye shady walks, and fountains 139
 Fast by the Banks of Cam was Colin bred 80
 For God's-sake—nay, dear Sir 144
 For instance, when You think You see a 322
 For K-n-tt call'd White, and Bu...t Gil. show 333
 For many unsuccessful Years 378
 For when your Judge becomes your Foe 324
 Form'd half beneath, and half above the earth 127
 Future time shal say 334
 Gilbertus Glanville whose heart was as hard as an Anvil 356
 Good People, I pray 310

- Whilst others proclaim 133
 Whilst weeping Europe bends beneath her Ills 148
 Whither would my passion run 120
 Who e'er a serious view will take 329
 Who e'er forsakes Old Mother Church 356
 Who would prevail o'er Men must first Observe 355
 Why, Harry, what ails you? why look you so sad? 158
 Why thus from the Plain does my Shepherdess rove 128
 Will Piggot must to Coxwould go 114
 Wissin and Nature held a long Contest 31
 With humble hopes Your goodness will excuse 293
 With Roman constancy and decent pride 282
 Would they who have nine years look'd sour 317
 Yes I did stubbornly believe 282
 Yet Distanc'd and Undone by those 329
 You, Madam, may with safety go 88
 You need not thus so often pray 145
