

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-66650-4 - Government Control in War: Lees Knowles Lectures, 1945

The Right Honourable Lord Hankey

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS

|   |               |
|---|---------------|
| Foreword: BY THE MASTER OF TRINITY   | page 7 |
| Introduction   | 9             |
| Chapter I. PRINCIPLES  | II            |
| Government Control or Military Control?—The Government and Strategy—Relations with Commanders-in-Chief—German Experience—The Prime Minister's Responsibility—The Prime Minister and War Preparation.                          |               |
| Chapter II. PREPARATION BEFORE 1914  | 22            |
| The Committee of Imperial Defence—The Phase of Principle—The Phase of Policy—The Phase of Plans and Preparations—Empire Co-operation—Position in 1914—Reason for Small Army—Traditional Peace Policy—Conclusion.              |               |
| Chapter III. THE GREAT WAR 1914-18   | 32            |
| Government Control at Home—Secrecy—The War Council—The Dardanelles Committee—The War Committee—The War Cabinet—The Secretariat—The Imperial War Cabinet—The Supreme War Council—Earl Lloyd George.                            |               |
| Chapter IV. BETWEEN THE WARS   | 51            |
| Administrative Preparation—Ancillaries to Air Warfare—Policy and Planning—The Air Ministry and R.A.F.—The Chiefs of Staff Committee—The Secretariat—The Imperial Defence College—Observations.                                |               |
| Chapter V. THE PRESENT WAR   | 60            |
| Government Control at Home—Military Control—Administrative Control—The Empire and Commonwealth—Inter-Allied Co-operation—Political Control—Observations.  |               |
| Chapter VI. SOME CRITICISMS EXAMINED   | 71            |
| The 'Pernicious Committee System'—A Combined General Staff—The Human Factor.  |               |
| Chapter VII. THE FUTURE  | 78            |
| Principles—Methods—Additional Conclusions—Back to the Committee of Imperial Defence—Science and Engineering—Unpreparedness—The Causes—Suggestions examined—Public Opinion—Histories and Memoirs—The Universities—An Allegory. |               |
| Bibliography   | 89            |