

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

INDEX

- Adjutant-General's department transferred to the Commander-in-Chief's office, 66
- Administration, lack of arrangements in William III's time, 35; general plan of, in seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, 60-1; Stephen Commission on, 134
- Admiralty, the, administration of, 73-5; proposal to remodel the War Office on lines of, 137; Esher Committee and, 153-4
- Airey, Lord, Committee on short service, 127
- Albemarle, Duke of, see Monk, George
- Amherst, Lord, appointed Commander-in-Chief, 66
- Annual Act and Bill of Rights, 29
- Anson, Sir William, on Esher Committee's report, 153
- Appropriations, system of, in money bills, 30-2 and n.
- Armed forces, status and uses of, 1-3; control of, in time of war, 166-7
- Army Board, establishment of, 141; functions of, 150
- Army Council, establishment of the, 153-5; and position of the Crown, 155-6; powers of the King not interfered with by the, 156-7; criticism and justification of the, 157-8
- Army departments in seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, 60-1; after Waterloo, 73; in 1854, 89; in 1855, 93-4; enquiries into, 106
- Army Enlistment Act of 1870, introduction and passing of, 118-20
- Army Medical Board under Secretary of State, 93
- Army Regulation Bill of 1871, proposed abolition of purchase in, 120; control of militia, yeomanry, and volunteers under, 123-4; powers in regard to railways in, 124
- Army Service Act of 1847, service under, 83
- Assizes and soldiers, 38
- Audit system, development of, 33, 132
- Balfour, Mr A. J., and military organisation, 151; establishes the Committee of Imperial Defence, 164
- Barracks, lack of, and opposition to, 36; in Scotland and Ireland, 37; situation in regard to, in England, 37; Blackstone on, 58; Radical view of, 83
- Bill of Rights, the, see Convention of 1689
- Billeting, a grievance in 1627, 6; complaint about, in Charles II's reign, 36; declared illegal, 36; allowed in 1689, 36; as an alternative to barracks, 36; in Scotland and Ireland, 36-7
- Blackstone, Sir William, and Mutiny Acts, 29-30; on barracks, 58
- Brodrick, Mr St John, on changes at the War Office, 146
- Burgoyne, Field-Marshal Sir John, and letter from the Duke of Wellington, 84
- Burke's Act for Economical Reform, results of, 62-3; in relation to financial control, 71-2

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

180

INDEX

- Cambridge, the Duke of, on position of the Secretary of State for War, 98; appointed Commander-in-Chief, 100; views of, 100-1; Queen Victoria on his appointment, 100; and subordination to the Secretary of State, 102; opposes recommendations of the Northbrook Committee, 112-5; on appointment of a Military Secretary, 116-7; on positions of Secretary of State and Commander-in-Chief, 117-8; opposed to abolition of purchase, 121-2; relations with Cardwell, 122-3; on localisation scheme, 127; letter to Childers, 128; views on Hartington Commission, 139; resignation of, 141-4
- Campbell-Bannerman, Sir Henry, as Financial Secretary, 128; plans of War Office reform of, 140-1; adoption of plans of, 145
- Cardwell, Edward (Viscount Cardwell), appointed Secretary of State for War, 108; Duke of Cambridge's opinion of, 108; on positions of Secretary of State and Commander-in-Chief, 108-9; his first estimates, 109-10; supports proposals of Northbrook Committee, 113-5; establishes Control Department, 115; and re-establishment of Military Secretary's office, 116-7; and Army Enlistment Act of 1870, 118-20; and purchase, 121; difficulties with Duke of Cambridge, 122-3; and localisation scheme, 126
- Cavalier Parliament, resolution of, on armed forces, 16
- Charles I, quarrels of, with Parliament about the army, 6-7; to surrender fortified places, 8; at Nottingham, 8; execution of, 8
- Charles II, rising in favour of, 12; offers army its arrears of pay, 14; and army at his accession, 15-6; and militia, 16-7; increases army on account of Tangiers, 17; sells Dunkirk, 17-8; deserts Clarendon, 19; opposition to standing army in time of, 19; and Danby's impeachment, 20-1
- Chatham, Earl of, and national regiments in Scotland, 44; deprived of Cornetcy, 46; on an "inglorious picture", 47; and militia, 47
- Chief of Staff, Hartington Commission and, 136-7; in Esher Committee's report, 153
- Childers, Mr C. E., and localisation scheme, 127-8; letter from Commander-in-Chief to, 128; speech in reply by, 129-30
- Clarendon, Earl of (Edward Hyde), on Major-Generals appointed by Cromwell, 10; advice of, to Charles II, 15; impeachment of, 18-9
- Clinton-Dawkins Committee, recommendations of, 149
- Cobden, Richard, attack by, on the Duke of Wellington, 84
- Colonial administration, Secretary of State and, 64-5, 80-1, 90, 93
- Colonial Defence, see Imperial Defence
- Colonies, see Dominions
- Commander-in-Chief, George IV wishes to be, 55-6; Duke of Wellington appointed, 56; proposal to abolish office of, 56; and Secretary of State, 64; office of, 65; powers of, after Restoration, 65; Duke of Marlborough's desire to be for life, 65; Parliament and, 66; Lord Amherst appointed, 66; Adjutant-General and Quartermaster-General's de-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

INDEX

181

- partments transferred to office of, 66; military secretary to, appointed, 66; appointment of Duke of York as, 66-7; no definition of powers of, 67-8; question of financial control by, 68-71; represented by Secretary-at-War in Parliament, 73; and Master-General of Ordnance, 73; Commission of 1837 on, 76-80; the Prince Consort proposed as, 85-6; Lord Hardinge appointed, 86; assumes part of duties of the Master-General of Ordnance, 93-4; relations of, with Secretary of State, 95-8; position of, compared with that of Secretary of State, 99; proposed subordination of, to Secretary of State, 102; Cardwell's views on position of, 108-9; Northbrook Committee and, 111-2; and Military Secretary, 116-7; definition of position of, 129-30; takes over charge of Commissariat, Ordnance, and Pay Departments, 131; extension of responsibilities of, 131-2; Hartington Commission and, 135-7; speech on proposed abolition of, 138; in Campbell-Bannerman's scheme, 140-1; in Lansdowne's scheme, 145-7; under Order-in-Council of November 1901, 149; Army Board under, 150; Lord Esher recommends abolition of, 151; Esher Committee on, 152-3
- Commissariat Department, practical abolition of, 89; transfer of, from Treasury, 93; under the Commander-in-Chief, 116, 131
- Commonwealth and Protectorate, army under, 8-14
- Control Department, formation and abolition of, 115-6
- Conventicles, suppression of, by soldiers, 20, 35
- Convention of 1689, summoned by the Prince of Orange, 25; draws up Declaration of Right, 26; and Bill of Rights, 27; effect of settlement of, on the army, 57-8
- Crimean War, mismanagement of, 88-93
- Cromwell, Oliver, parliamentary motion by, on trained bands, 7; difficulties in regard to the army, 9-10; appoints Major-Generals, 10; death of, 11
- Cromwell, Richard, as Lord Protector, 11-2
- Crown, the, and the army, 155-7
- Customs duties, collected by soldiers, 20, 35; and effect of Free Trade, 57
- Danby, impeachment of, 21
- Declaration of Right, see Convention of 1689
- Defoe, Daniel, pamphlet in support of army, 40
- Disraeli, Benjamin, on defences, 104; on the Horse Guards, 133
- Dominions and Colonies, and Imperial defence, 163-5; and Great War, 165; status of, in British Commonwealth and League of Nations, 169
- Dundas, General Sir David, views of, on position of the Commander-in-Chief, 69-70
- Dunkirk, sale of, by Charles II, 17-8
- Elections, parliamentary, and interference with, by soldiers, 37-8; at Westminster in 1818, 38
- Esher Committee, the, appointment and members of, 151; terms of reference of, 151-2;

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

182

INDEX

- report and recommendations of, 152-4; Sir William Anson on, 153
- Expeditionary Force, establishment of, 162
- Financial Secretary, appointed, 112-3; duties of, 132
- Fortifications, opposition to, 51
- Free Trade, effect of, on army, 57
- General Staff, formation of, 162; development of, 164-5
- George III, and the army, 49; proposes augmentation of the army, 50; lends Hessian troops for Gibraltar and Minorca, 50
- George IV desires to be Commander-in-Chief, 55-6
- Great War of 1914-1918, changes caused by, 165-6
- Haldane, R. B. (afterwards Viscount), reforms of, 162-3
- Hardinge, Sir Henry (afterwards Viscount), evidence of, before Commission of 1837, 77-9; as Commander-in-Chief, 86; and re-armament, 88; retirement of, 100
- Hartington Commission, events leading to appointment of, 132-4; terms of reference of, 134; members of, 135; reports by, 135-6; recommendations of, 136-7; reception of report of, 138-40; proposals of, adopted in modified form, 145-7; referred to by Esher Committee, 152-3; and Naval and Military Council, 163-4
- Hartington, Marquis of, speech by, on proposed abolition of Commander-in-Chief, 138
- Haslerig, Sir Arthur, introduces militia bill, 7
- Herbert, Sidney, as Secretary-at-War, 88; and purchase, 121
- Home Department, see Secretaries of State
- Horse Guards, the, and War Office, relations of, 97, 111-2
- Hounslow, camp at, 23-4
- House of Commons, resolution of, on financial proposals, 33; soldiers not admitted to, 38; resolution on imperial defence, 109
- Hume, Joseph, supports reduction of army, 54
- Hyde, Edward, see Clarendon, Earl of
- Imperial defence, House of Commons resolution on, 109; Cardwell on, 110; Hartington Commission and, 135, 137; Cabinet Defence Committee and, 140; Committee of, established in 1885, 163; Committee established by Lord Salisbury, 164; and in 1901, 164; college of, established, 165; modern developments and, 167-70
- Independent companies, opposition to raising of, 51
- India, army in, after the Mutiny, 103-4
- Indian Empire and the Great War, 165
- Irish constabulary, establishment of, 57
- James II, interest in military affairs, 21; wishes to increase the army, 21-2; prorogues Parliament, 23; allows Roman Catholics to serve in army in Ireland, 23; brings Irish recruits to Eng-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

INDEX

183

- land, 24; breaks up camp at Hounslow and leaves England, 24; presses Louis XIV to support his return there, 26
- Junius on the army, 49
- King, the, as head of the army, 156-7
- La Rochelle, billeting after, 6
- Lambert, General, suppresses rising in favour of Charles II, 12
- Lansdowne, Marquis of, scheme of war organisation of, 145-7; controversy with Lord Wolseley, 148-9
- League of Nations, the, status of Dominions in, 169; obligations under Covenant of, 169-70
- Lewis, Sir George Cornewall, and memorandum of October 1861, 98
- Localisation scheme, plan of, 126-7; disliked by Queen Victoria and Commander-in-Chief, 127; Childers and, 127-8
- Long Parliament, closed by soldiers, 9; army and the Ramp of, 11-2; Monk favours dissolution of, 13
- Lords-Lieutenant, relations of, to militia, 15, 17, 123; and the Territorial Force, 124
- Lynedoch, Lord, and the United Services Club, 54-5
- Mackintosh, Sir James, on effect of Revolution of 1688 on the army, 58
- Major-Generals, appointment of, by Oliver Cromwell, 10
- Marlborough, Duke of, and command of the army, 65
- Martial law, complaint of, in Petition of Right, 7; and militia bill after Restoration, 16-7
- Melbourne, Viscount, consults Duke of Wellington, 79-80; considers proposed reforms, 80-2
- Military Organisation, Select Committee on, 97-9; General Peel's evidence before, 112
- Military Secretary, War Office clerk as, to Commander-in-Chief, 66; military officer appointed, 67; junior officers appointed as, 94; re-establishment of office of, recommended, 116-7
- Militia, Haslerig introduces bill on, 7; at time of Restoration, 15-7; in Ireland and Scotland, 17, 20; James II and, 22; reform of, opposed, 47; Act of 1757, 47-8; bill for embodiment of, opposed, 50; raising of, in Scotland, refused, 50; not raised after Waterloo, 54; bill introduced in 1852, 85; powers of Crown in regard to, 123-4; lack of officers in, 134; becomes "Special Reserve", 162
- Monk, General (afterwards Duke of Albemarle), in Scotland, 12; attitude of, towards Protectorate, 13; recommends reduction of the army, 13; marches to London, 13; supports Parliament, 13; powers of, as Commander-in-Chief, 65
- Mutiny Acts, absence of, 27; passage of Act in 1689, 27-8; effect of, 28-9; subsequent history of, 29 and n.; Blackstone on, 29; change in views on, 30; second act and billeting, 36; continued opposition to, 44; Lord Granville and, 45
- Napoleon Bonaparte on control of armies in war, 166
- Naval and Military Council, proposal of a, 135; not formed, 140

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

184

INDEX

- Navy, Royal, administration of, 73-5
- Nightingale, Florence, description of War Office by, 114
- Northbrook, Lord, presides over committees at War Office, 110-2; recommends re-establishment of military secretary's office, 116
- Officers, Supplementary Reserve of, formed, 163
- Officers' Training Corps, formation of, 163
- Orders-in-Council: of June 1870, 114, 129; of December 1887, 131-2; of February 1888, 132; of November 1895, 145; of November 1901, 149; of February 1904, 153
- Ordnance, Board of, reorganisation of, by James II, 21; revocation of letters-patent of, 93; division of duties of, 93-4
- Ordnance Department under the Commander-in-Chief, 116, 131
- Ordnance, Master-General of, duties of, 60, 63, 68, 73; as a Cabinet Minister, 63, 68 n., 90
- Ordnance, Surveyor-General of, appointment of, 112, 113, 115; abolition of appointment of, 116, 131-2
- Palmerston, Lord, memorandum on offices of Secretary-at-War and Commander-in-Chief, 69-70; motion on Militia Bill of 1852, 85; and appointment of Commander-in-Chief, 89-90; speech on need of an army, 104; opinion on purchase, 120-1
- Pamphlets on army after the Peace of Ryswick, 39-40
- Panmure, Lord, as Secretary of State for War, 92; and consolidation of War Office, 93-5; presides over Royal Commission on recruiting, 118; views on purchase, 121
- Patent of Secretary of State for War, discussion in regard to, 95-9
- Pay department under the Commander-in-Chief, 131
- Peel, General Jonathan, evidence of, before Select Committee of 1860, 112
- Peel, Sir Robert, speech of, on defence questions, 82
- Peterborough, Earl of, protest by, against army, 23
- Petition of Right and army, 6; and billeting, 6; and martial law, 7
- Police, use of soldiers as, 49, 55; establishment of civil, 56-7
- Political influence, misuse of, 45-6, 49-50
- Pride's Purge, 9
- Prince Consort, interest of, in army, 82; proposed as Commander-in-Chief, 85-6; and Lord Palmerston, 89-90; views on purchase, 121
- Protectorate, the, see Commonwealth
- Prussia, rise of military power of, 106-8
- Public monies, House of Commons rule as to, 33; compared with United States Congress, 33
- Purchase, opposition to abolition of, 120-2; defeat of proposed abolition by the House of Lords, 122; Royal Warrant to effect abolition of, 122
- Quartermaster-General's department transferred to the Commander-in-Chief's office, 66
- Queen Victoria, and the army, 81-2, 87-8, 102-3; and Secretary-at-War, 90; and changes of 1855,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

INDEX

185

- 93-5; on appointment of Duke of Cambridge as Commander-in-Chief, 100; and Secretary of State for War, 102; and army in India, 103-4; opposes proposals of Northbrook Committee, 113-5; and appointment of a military secretary, 116-7; and question of purchase, 120-2; dislikes the localisation scheme, 127; views of, on the Hartington Commission, 139; and the resignation of the Duke of Cambridge, 142-3; wishes the Duke of Connaught appointed Commander-in-Chief, 145
- Railways, control of, in emergencies, 124
- Recruiting, Royal Commission on, 118
- Regulation of the Forces Act of 1881 introduces the territorial system, 128
- Reserve Service, introduction of, 119
- Revolution of 1688, the, and the army, 25-6; effect of, at home and abroad, 57-8; Sir James Mackintosh on the effect of, on the army, 58
- Roebuck Committee, the, on the Crimean War, 91-2
- Ryswick, the Peace of, demand for reduction of the army after, 39-40
- Salisbury, Marquis of, on state of the army, 133; on control of armies in war, 166-7
- Secretary-at-War, the, early duties of, in regard to estimates, 32-3; origin and general duties of, 61-3; as a Cabinet Minister, 62, 90; and Commander-in-Chief, 66-8; question of financial control by, 69-72; represents Commander-in-Chief in Parliament, 73; evidence and remarks by Commission of 1837 on, 76-80; position of, in 1854, 89-90; abolition of office of, 94
- Secretaries of State, duties of and changes in numbers of, 63-4; colonial business transferred from Home Department to Secretary of State for War, 64-5; militia and yeomanry also transferred, 93
- Secretary of State for the Colonies, the, separation of, from the War Department, 93
- Secretary of State for War and the Colonies, the, vide Secretary of State for War
- Secretary of State for War, the, and colonial questions, 54, 73, 77, 90, 93; creation of the post of, 63-4; questions falling to, 64-5; lack of definition of duties of, 68, 71; responsible for colonial garrisons, 73; Lord Panmure appointed, 92; colonial business separated from, 93; transfer of departments to the control of, 93-5; results of consolidation of offices under, 95-9; question of patent appointing the, 95-9; relations of, with the Commander-in-Chief, 98; position of, compared with that of Commander-in-Chief, 99; responsibilities of, 97-8; the Duke of Cambridge and, 102; appointment of Cardwell as, 108; Northbrook Committee and, 111-2; under War Office Act of 1870, 114; and Military Secretary, 116-7; and responsibility to Parliament, 117-8; definition of position of, 129-30; War Office business arranged under, 132; Hartington Com-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

186

INDEX

- mission on position of, 135-7; in Campbell-Bannerman's scheme, 140-1; in Lansdowne's scheme, 145-7; Esher Committee on position of, 152-4; and members of the Army Council, 154; supremacy of, 154-5
- Select Committee of 1860, see Military Organisation
- Shippen, Sir William, speech by, against the army, 42
- Short service, introduction of, 119; success of, in 1882, 130
- Somers, Lord, and the Declaration of Right, 26; publishes his "Balancing Letter", 40
- South Africa, Royal Commission on war in, report of, 150
- Standing armies, English dislike of, 3-5; Clarendon and, 19; proposal for, in Scotland, 20; Earl of Peterborough's protest against, 23; Declaration of Right and, 26-7; first Mutiny Act and, 27-30; Parliament and, 33-5; pamphlets on, 39-40; Sir W. Shippen's speech on, 42; Dean Swift on, 42-3; opposition to, 44-5; effect of settlement of 1689 on, 57-9
- Stephen Commission on army administration, 134
- Strathnairn, Lord, and Committee on army transport, 115
- Swift, Dean, on the army, 42-3
- Tangiers, garrison for, and abandonment of, 17
- Tarleton, Colonel, and enlistment of French Royalists, 51
- Territorial Force, relations of, to Lords-Lieutenant, 124; creation of, 162-3
- Test Act, the, and military commissions, 21; protest by Parliament on employment of officers not complying with, 22; repeal of, supported by James II, 23
- Tories, attitude of, to the army, 35, 41
- Trained bands, command of, 7
- Transport, control of, by Treasury, 73; Lord Strathnairn's Committee on, 115; under the Commander-in-Chief, 116
- Treasury, the, control of supply and transport by, 73
- Under-Secretary of State for War, the Permanent, as accounting officer, 33
- United Services Club, the, foundation of, opposed, 54-5
- Utrecht, the Treaty of, and reduction of army, 41
- Volunteers, shortage of guns for, 134; as part of the Territorial Army, 162-3
- War Department, see War Office
- War Office, the, relations of, with Horse Guards, 97, 111-2; Northbrook Committee's recommendations as to the organisation of, 111-2; War Department becomes the, 111; divided into three departments, 113-4; allocation of duties at, in 1895, 145-6; under Esher Committee's report, 152-3; under Army Council scheme of 1904, 153-4 and n.
- War Office Act of 1870, the, and the Secretary of State, 114
- War Office Council, a, proposed by the Hartington Commission, 136-8; establishment of, 140, 146; proposed reconstitution of, 149-50; Royal Commission's remarks on, 150; Lord Esher on, 151

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00514-2 - Parliament and the Army 1642-1904

John Stuart Omond

Index

More information

INDEX

187

- War Office Reconstitution Committee, see Esher Committee.
- Wellington, the Duke of, commands British army in Belgium, 52; becomes Commander-in-Chief, 56; evidence of, before Commission of 1837, 78; consulted by Lord Melbourne, 79–80; on national defences, 83–4; letter of, to Sir John Burgoyne, 84; Cobden's attack on, 84; speech of, on militia bill of 1852, 85; death of, 85; proposed the Prince-Consort as his successor, 85–6; views of, on purchase, 120
- Westminster Election of 1818, soldiers at, 38
- Whigs, attitude of, to the army, 35; support increase of the army, 39
- Wilkes' riots, the, use of soldiers as police during, 49
- William III, Prince of Orange, invited to England, 24; calls Convention, 25; prohibits soldiers from appearing at elections, 37; has difficulties with Parliament about the army, 39–41
- Wolseley, Lord, on parties and the army, 133; statement by, on military arrangements in 1888, 134; on Hartington Commission, 139; appointment as Commander-in-Chief, 144–5; on position of Commander-in-Chief, 147; memorandum by, on position of Commander-in-Chief, 147–8; controversy of, with Lord Lansdowne, 148–9; on difficulty of army in parliamentary government, 158
- Yeomanry, powers of the Crown in regard to, 123–4; as part of the Territorial army, 162–3
- York, the Duke of, death of, in 1827, 55; appointed Commander-in-Chief, 66; reforms carried out by, 66–7