

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS

OF VOL. I.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

THE Hindoo theology founded on the same philosophical notion as that of the Greeks, that the Divine Spirit is the soul of the world, proved from the Greek writers, i.—from the Védantü-Sarü, iii.—A system of austerity founded on this system, v.—Extract from the Shrêë-Bhagü-vütü on this subject, vi.—Account of the ceremony called yogü, by which the Divine Spirit, dwelling in matter, becomes purified, extracted from the Patünjülü Dürshünü and the Gorükshü-sünghita, viii.—No real yogëes to be found at present, ix.—Absurdity of these opinions and practices, x.—Another class of Hindoos place their hopes on devotion, ibid.—The great mass of the population adhere to religious ceremonies, xii.—Conjectures on the origin of the Hindoo Mythology, xiii.—on images, as originating in moral darkness, and the depravity of men, ibid.—those of the Hindoos not representations of the One God, xiv.—nor of his perfections, ibid.—nor of human virtues, xv.—nor of the objects of natural science, ibid.—but in general the invention of kings, to please the multitude, ibid.—The doctrine of all the East, that God in his abstract state is unknown, and unconnected with the universe, xvi.—the object of worship the divine energy, subject to passions, in consequence of its union to matter, ibid.—the creation of the gods first, xvii.—Proofs that the divine energy is the object of adoration, from the forms of the gods, xviii.—the modes of worship, xix.—the common observations of the Hindoos on the phenomena of nature, xx.—The divine energy the object of worship among the Egyptians, Greeks, Persians, &c. proved by quotations from various authors, xxi.—The subjects embraced by the Hindoo mythology, xxii.—The ancient idolatry of this people confined to the primary elements, the heavenly bodies, and aërial beings, ibid.—the succeeding objects of worship, Brümha, Vishnoo, and Shivü, the creator, the preserver, and destroyer, ibid.—next the female deities, as the representatives of nature, ibid.—then sundry deities, connected with corrupt notions of Divine Providence; and afterwards deified heroes, xxiv.—The number of the Hindoo gods, ibid.—Benefits sought from different gods by their worshippers, xxv.—Brümha—his form—allusions of these attributes—

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

conjecture of Mr. Paterson's examined, xxvi.—Vishnoo—the attributes of his image explained—conjecture of Mr. Paterson's noticed, xxvii.—Shivü, and the attributes of his image—remarks on the worship of the Lingü—resemblance between Bacchus and Shivü—two other forms of Shivü noticed, Kalü-Bhoirüvü and Müha-Kalü, xxviii.—Indrü, xxx.—Yümü, xxxi.—Günëshü, xxxii.—Kartikéyü, ibid.—Söoryü, ibid.—Ugnee, xxxiii.—Püvünü, xxxiv.—Vüroonü, ibid.—Súmoodrü, ibid.—Prit'hivēē, ibid.—The heavenly bodies, xxxv.—Doorga, xxxvi.—Kalēē, xxxvii.—Lükshmēē, xxxviii.—Sürüswütēē, ibid.—Shēētüla, ibid.—Münüsa, ibid.—Shüsh't'hēē, ibid.—Krishnü, xxxix.—Jügünnat'hü, xl.—Ramü, xli.—Choitünyü, xlii.—Vishwü-kürma, ibid.—Kamü-dévü, ibid.—Sütyü-Narayinü, ibid.—Püchanünü, ibid.—Dhürmü-t'hakoorü, ibid.—Kaloorayü, ibid.—Deified beings in strange shapes, xliii.—worship of human beings, ibid.—Worship of beasts, ibid.—birds, xliv.—trees, ibid.—Worship of rivers, ibid.—fish, xlv.—books, ibid.—stones, ibid.—a log of wood, xlvi*.—Remarks on this system of mythology, ibid.—on the use of idols in worship, ibid.—Indelicacy of many of the Hindoo images, xlvii.—Corrupt effects of idol worship in this country, xlviii.—especially after the festivals, xlix.—The history of the gods and religious pantomimes exceedingly increase these effects, l.—Practices of the vama-charēēs add to the general corruption, li.—Reflections on this state of things, ibid.—causes of the popularity of the festivals, lv.—remarks, with a view of correcting the false estimate made of the Hindoo character by the Rev. Mr. Maurice and others, ibid.—Idolatry exciting to frauds, lix.—setting up of gods a trade, ibid.—Hindoo Temples—their use, lx.—dedication of them, ibid.—Images, of what materials made, lxi.—Priests, lxii.—Ceremonies at temples, lxiii.—Periodical ceremonies, ibid.—daily duties of a bramhün, lxiv.—form of initiation into the Hindoo rites, ibid.—the spiritual guide, lxv.—Bathing, ibid.—forms of worship before the idol, lxvi.—Extract from the Ain Akbüree, ibid. note.—forms of praise and prayer, lxviii.—meditation, ibid.—repeating the names of the gods, lxix.—vows, fasting, and gifts to bramhüns, ibid.—hospitality, digging pools, planting trees, rehearsing and hearing the pooranüs, &c. lxx.—Burning widows, and burying them alive, ibid.—an affecting relation by Captain Kemp, ibid. note.—number of these victims, lxxiv.—Visiting sacred places, ibid.—atonements, and offerings to the manes, lxxv.—heavens and hells, lxxvi.—Confession of faith made by a bramhün, ibid.—Remarks on it, lxxix.—Sum of the Hindoo system, lxxx.—view of its effects, ibid.—Remarks of the same bramhün on the present state of religion among his countrymen, ibid.—Appear-

* In this Introduction, the author has gone over the whole of the Hindoo Pantheon, that he might supply a number of omissions in the body of the work; and hence it forms an epitome of the whole.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

vii

ances in the streets, reminding the passenger of the different Hindoo ceremonies, lxxxii.—This system incapable of producing moral effects, notwithstanding the doctrine of future rewards and punishments, lxxxiv.—Errors inculcated in the Hindoo writings respecting God, lxxxv.—Impure actions of the gods, lxxxviii.—the gods counteracting each other in the government of the world, lxxxix.—Irreverence of the people towards the gods, xc.—Contrast betwixt Hindooism and Christianity, ibid.—Hindoo system ascribes all sin to God, xci.—teaches the bramhün to despise the shōōdrü, xcii.—exhorts to the extinction of every virtuous passion, ibid.—declares that sin is removed by the most trifling ceremony, ibid.—supplies prayers for the destruction of enemies, xciii.—permits falsehood, and theft even from a slave, ibid.—Works, said to raise men to heaven, not beneficial to others, ibid.—Remarks on the impurities and cruelties connected with this system, xciv.—Impossible to know the Hindoo idolatry, as it is, without initiation, xcv.—The dispensations of Providence towards the Hindoos unfolded by this state of things, xcvi.—Happiness under the British government, ibid.—Misrepresentations of European writers noticed and reprehended, xcvii.—Scripture testimony against idolatry, ci.—Of the seceders, or heterodox Hindoos, the Joinüs, Bouddhüs, Shikhs, and followers of Choitünyü—the founders of all these sects religious mendicants, ciii.—Observations on the tenets of these seceders, civ.

BOOK I.

OBJECTS OF WORSHIP.

CHAP. I.

OF GOD.

	PAGE.
The One God an object of speculation only; not a single temple erected to his honour throughout the whole of Hindoost'hanü, . .	1

CHAP. II.

OF THE GODS.

Their number, three hundred and thirty millions,	2
SECT. I. VISHNOO. The source of all the Hindoo incarnations, 2.—
Accounts of the ten incarnations, 3.—Other incarnations, 10.—Meaning of these fables, 11.—Images of Vishnoo,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

viii

CONTENTS.

SECT.		PAGE.
	II. Mark of his followers, 12. His names, ibid. His wives, 13. His heaven,	13
II.	SHIVU. Forms of this god, 14. The lingü, 15. Resembles the phalli of the Greeks, 16. Form of this god as Mūha-Kalü, 17. Names and mark of the sect, 18. Shivü's festivals—particularly the sünyasēē and swinging ditto, 19—26. Origin of these horrid rites, 26. Marriage of Shivü, 27. Fables respecting Shivü, 28. Names, 29. Description of Shivü's heaven,	30
III.	BRUMHA. Account of the creation, 33. Form of this god, ibid. Worship paid to him, 34. He attempts to commit incest, ibid. Heaven of Brümha, 35. His names,	36
IV.	INDRU. His image and festivals, 37. Account of a criminal intrigue, 38. Other fables, 41. Heaven of Indrü, 42. Scenes in this heaven, in several stories, 43. Names of this god,	49
V.	SOORYU. His descent, 50. His festivals, 51. Anecdotes of this god, ibid. His names,	55
VI.	GUNESHU. His image, 56. Descent and birth, 57. Worship, 58. Names,	59
VII.	KARTIKEYU. His image and descent, 60. Festivals, 62. Names,	64
VIII.	UGNEE. His form and descent, 65. Festival, ibid. Names,	66
IX.	PUVUNU. His birth, 67. A story respecting him, 68. His impure character, 69. Names,	69
X.	VUROONU. His image and worship, 70. Fables, ibid. His heaven, 72. His names,	73
XI.	YUMU. His image and festivals, 73. His court as judge of the dead, 75. His palace, ibid. Fables respecting him, 76—82. His heaven, 82. Marriage, 83. Names,	84
XII.	"Host of Heaven." Remarks on their worship,	85
XIII.	Planets. Worshipped in a body,	89
XIV.	RUVEE. His form and worship, 89. Commits a rape, ..	90
XV.	SOMU. His image and worship, 90. Names,	91
XVI.	MUNGULU. His image, 92. An evil planet,	92
XVII.	BOODHU. His form, 92. Account of his birth,	93
XVIII.	VRIHUSPUTEE. His image, 94. An auspicious planet, 95. Names,	95
XIX.	SHOOKRU. His form, 95. A fable respecting his blindness, 96. A propitious planet, ibid. A fable, ibid. Names,	98
XX.	SHUNEE. His image, 99. An evil and much-dreaded planet,	99
XXI.	RAHOO. His image, 100. Received this form at the churn-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

ix

	PAGE.
ing of the sea, ibid. Names, 101. Unaccountable coincidence in the customs of different nations respecting an eclipse,	101. note
XXII. KETOO. His image,	102

CHAP. III.

OF THE GODDESSES.

SECT. I. DOORGA. Her descent, 103. Reason of her name, a fable, ibid. Festivals, 108. Image, 109. Ceremonies at her festival minutely described, ibid. Bloody sacrifices, 111. Offerings, 113. Dances, 114. A scene at Raja Raj-krishnū's at Calcutta, 117. Drowning the image, 120. Fables respecting this goddess,	122
II. The ten Forms of Doorga. Story from the Markündéyū pooranū, and another from the Chündēē, relative to the wars of Doorga, 123. Names of the ten forms, ..	128
III. SINGHU-VAHINEE, a form of Doorga. Her image, 128. And worship,	129
IV. MUHISHU-MURDINEE. Her image and worship, 129. Benefits attending it,	129
V. JUGUDDHATREE. Her image, 130. A popular festival held in her honour,	130
VI. MOOKTU-KESHEE. Her image, 131. Her festival, and the benefits promised to her worshippers,	131
VII. TARA. Her image and worship,	132
VIII. CHINNU-MUSTUKA. Her image, 132. Her worship, and the benefits resulting from it,	133
IX. JUGUDGOREE. Her image and worship,	134
X. VUGULAMOOKHEE. Her festival, 134. Benefits resulting from her worship,	134
XI. PRUTYUNGIRA. Petitions addressed to this goddess, 135. Story respecting her,	136
XII. UNNU-POORNA. Her image, and festival,	136
XIII. GUNESHU-JUNUNEE. Her image, 137. Regular and occasional festival,	138
XIV. KRISHNU-KRORA. Her image, and festival, 138. The history of this goddess,	138
XV. VISHALAKSHEE. Offerings to this goddess,	140
XVI. CHUNDEE. Her worship, and festivals, 141. Offerings to her,	141
XVII. & XVIII. Other forms of Doorga of inferior note,	141, 144
XIX. KALEE. Her image, and anecdotes connected with it,

* *

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

x

CONTENTS.

SECT.		PAGE.
	145. Human sacrifices, 148. Other horrid rites, 150. A singular fact, that thieves worship her, 151. Festivals—a scene at Kalēe-Shūnkūrū-Goshū's, at Calcutta, 154. The degree of honour formerly paid to this goddess by the Hindoo rajas, 156. Image and temple at Kalēe-ghatū described, 157. This image much honoured, presents being made to it by kings, merchants, and even by Christians, 160. Statement of the value of the monthly offerings,	165
XX.	Other forms of Kalēe of inferior note,	166
XXI.	LUKSHMEE. Her image, 169. Her descent and festivals, 170	170
XXII.	KOJAGURU-LUKSHMEE, another form of Lukshmēe. Her worship, and festival,	171
XXIII.	SURUSWUTEE. Her descent, 172. Indecencies practised during her festival,	173
XXIV.	SHEETULA. Her image, 174. Worshipped during the small-pox,	174
XXV.	MUNUSA *. Her image and descent, 176. Her festival, 176	176
XXVI.	SHUSHTEE. Her six festivals described,	178

CHAP. IV.

INFERIOR CELESTIAL BEINGS OBJECTS OF WORSHIP.

SECT. I.	Usorū's . Their conduct at the churning of the sea, a story, 184
II.	Rukshūsūs . Story of Koombhū-kūrū, 186. The Gūndhūrū's and Kinnūrū's, 187. Vidya-dhūrū's and Upsūrū's, ibid. Nayikas, 190. Yūkshūs, 191. Pishachūs, Goodghūkūs, Siddhūs, Bhōōtūs, Charūrū's, &c.	102

CHAP. V.

OF THE TERRESTRIAL GODS.

SECT. I.	KRISHNU. His birth, 193. Juvenile exploits, 194. His image and festivals, 195. Image of Radhā accompanies Krishnū's, 200. Number of his followers, ibid. Stories of Krishnū,	200
II.	GOPALU. His image; 203. A story of this image found in a field,	203

This goddess is honoured as she who protects from serpents: but the author is assured, that, in the upper provinces, the serpent itself is worshipped, and that the image is formed into a circle, the head and tail of the serpent being joined. The legend respecting this serpent-god is, that the earth rests on his thousand heads.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xi

SECT.		PAGE.
III.	GOPEE-NAT'HU. A celebrated image of him at Ugrü-dwēpü,	204
IV.	JUGUNNAT'HU. Form of his image, with the origin of it, 206. His temples, 207. Festivals,	208
V.	BULU-RAMU. His image generally accompanies Jügün-nat'hü's,	210
VI.	RAMU. His history, including his war with Ravünü, 211. His image and festival,	218
VII.	CHOITUNYU. History of this mendicant god, 219. His festivals, 222. Another mendicant-god,	223
VIII.	VISHWU-KURMU. Form of his image and festival,	224
IX.	KAMU-DEVU. His image and festival, 225. A story respecting him, 226. His names,	227
X.	SUTYU-NARAYUNU. His image and worship,	227

CHAP. VI.

TERRESTRIAL GODDESSES.

SECT. I.	SEETA,	229
II.	RADHA,	ibid.
III.	ROOKMINÉE, and SUTYU-BHAMA,	230
IV.	SOOBHUDRA,	231

CHAP. VII.

DEITIES WORSHIPPED BY THE LOWER ORDERS ONLY.

SECT. I.	PUNCHANUNU. Form of the image, 232. A story respecting him,	233, note
II.	DHURMU-T'HAKOORU. A form of Shivü, 235. His image and festival,	235
III.	KALOO-RAYU,	236
IV.	KALU-BHOIRUVU,	237
V.	Worship to cure the itch and scurvy,	ibid.

CHAP. VIII.

WORSHIP OF BEINGS IN STRANGE SHAPES.

SECT. I.	URDHU NAREESHWURU. Origin of this image, as related in the pooranüs, 239. Its festival,	241
II.	KRISHNU-KALEE,	242
III.	HUREE HURU. Form of the image, 242. Different accounts in the pooranüs of its origin,	242

CHAP. IX.

WORSHIP OF HUMAN BEINGS.

- Deified men and women*—Bramhüns, especially religious guides,
 245. Daughters of bramhüns, ibid. Wives of bramhüns,
 246. A female, 247. Unutterable abominations practised, ibid.

CHAP. X.

WORSHIP OF BEASTS.

- SECT. I. The Cow, 249
 II. The Monkey, (Hünooman,) 251. Marriage of two given by the Raja of Nüdēya, who spent 100,000 roopees on the ceremony, ibid. Anecdotes of this god, 252
 III. The Dog, 254
 IV. The Shackul, ibid.
 V. Other animals worshipped, ibid.

CHAP. XI.

THE WORSHIP OF BIRDS.

- SECT. I. GÜROORU. His image and descent, 256. A story respecting him, 257. His names, 258
 II. ÜROONU, 259
 III. JUTAYOO, ibid.
 IV. SHUNKURU CHILLU, or the Eagle of Coromandel, ibid.
 V. KHUNGUNU, or the Wag Tail, 260
 VI. Other birds worshipped, ibid.

CHAP. XII.

THE WORSHIP OF TREES.

- SECT. I. The Toolüsee, 261
 II. Other sacred trees, 263

CHAP. XIII.

THE WORSHIP OF RIVERS.

- SECT. I. GUNGA. Her image, 264. Descent, 265. Worship, 268.
 Festivals, 269. Attachment of the natives to this river,
 272. This attachment encouraged by the shastrüs, ibid. note. Anxiety of the Hindoos to die in sight of

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-00791-7 - A View of the History, Literature, and Religion of the Hindoos,
Volume 1: Objects of Worship

William Ward

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xiii

	PAGE.
the Ganges, 274. Children and grown-up persons drowned in it, 275. Extracts from the pooranūs, 276. Reflections,	277
II. Other deified rivers,	278

CHAP. XIV.

THE WORSHIP OF FISH.	281
----------------------	-----

CHAP. XV.

THE WORSHIP OF BOOKS.	282
-----------------------	-----

CHAP. XVI.

THE WORSHIP OF STONES.

The Shalgramū* . Different kinds, 283. Reason of its deification, 284. Constant representative of the gods in worship, 285. Other stones worshipped,	286
---	-----

CHAP. XVII.

A LOG OF WOOD WORSHIPPED.

The Pedal . Origin of its worship, 287. Festival given in honour of it by the Raja of Nūlü-danga,	288
---	-----

* One of these stones, by a fall, being split asunder, was lately shewn to the author. The internal appearance of this strongly indicates, that these stones are not, as has been supposed, (see Asiatic Researches, vol. vii. p. 240.) perforated stones, but petrified shells: the shell in the inside of this was the Argonauta Argo.—May 8, 1815.