

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

I N D E X.

A.

- ABSURDITIES how to be managed by the poet, 187.
- Accusativus de quo, 509, 510; rei vel facti, 510, 511.
- Achæus Eretriensis, the tragedian, 93.
- Action, Unity of, 464—472.
- Actors, one introduced by Thespis, 41; another by Æschylus, 65; a third by Sophocles, 79; only three allowed to each dramatist, 136. 149; their gains and character, 149, 150; not paid by the choragi, 136; neglected by-play altogether, 148; used bodily exercises, 149.
- Actresses, unknown to the Grecian stage, 326.
- Adjectiva composita in os, 490.
- Admission money to the theatre, 148.
- Adrastus, subject of lyrical tragedies at Sicyon, 20; passage of Herodot. respecting him explained, 260. 265.
- Adverbia in ei et i, 489.
- Æei, quantity of, 569.
- Æschylus, his life, 62—64; number of his dramas, 65; improvements in tragedy, 65, 66; his Agamemnon, 347; Chœphoræ, 384; Eumenides, 350; his political aims therein, 64. 353; Suppliants, 354; Seven against Thebes, 356; Persians, ibid. Prometheus Bound, 357; Prometheus Fire-bringing, 69, note 4; his style, 359; his diction, 70, 71; his plays allowed to be acted after his death, 66, note 5; a Pythagorean, 67, note 1; his Σικελισμός, 64, note 1; accused of plagiarism from Phrynichus 59, note 11; relation between his tragedy and the plastic arts, 69, note 2; his aristocratical spirit, 64. 67; his works bear internal proof of his fondness for the Dorians, 69; and of his military spirit, 70.
- Afranius, 456.
- Ἄγαν, quantity of, 569.
- Agatharcus, the inventor of stage scenery, 280.
- Agathon, the tragedian, 93, 94. 405; first inserted choruses foreign to the play, 94.
- Αἰώραι, 143.
- Ἀκούετε λεώς, 203.
- Alexis, the comedian, 120.
- Ἀλκιστис, no reason why Thespis never wrote a play so named, 47.
- Alphabet, Greek, not completed till after Thespis's death, 227.
- Ameipsias, the comedian, 104.
- Ἄν, contingent, goes with the past tenses only of the indicative, 496. 521.
- with ἔσθ et similia, 497.
- with indicative, subjunctive, and optative, 497.
- Ἀναγνώρισις or Discovery, 167; different kinds of, 173, 174.
- Anapæsts, when they may form the first foot in the senarius, 527, note.
- Anapæstic Tetrameter Catalectic, 540.
- Anapæstic verses, 536; why mostly used in opening choral song, 146.
- Ἀναπίεσμα, 145.
- Anaxandrides, the comedian, 120.
- Ancient Mythology symbolical, not allegorical, 352.
- Ἀνία, Ἀνὴρ, quantity of, 568.
- Antiphanes, the comedian, 119.
- Apollodorus, the comedian, 124.
- Araros, the son of Aristophanes, 115, 116.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

- Ἀρβύλαι, 66, note 3.
 Archilochus, fragments of, 199.
 Archilochian verse, 215—217.
 Ἀρχιτέκτων, 148.
 Aristias, son of Pratinas, 61.
 Aristophanes, 105. 412; place of his birth, 106; time of his birth, 107, 108; his Banqueters, 108; Babylonians, ibid. Acharnians, 109. 420, 421; Knights, 109, 110. 418, 419; Clouds, 110—112. 423; Wasps, 425; Peace, 419, 420; Amphiarus, 113; Birds, 113, 114. 425, 426; Lysistrata, 421; Thesmophoriazuse, 422; Frogs, 115. 423, 424; Ecclesiazuse, 114, 115. 421, 422; Plutus, 114, 115. 426, 427; Æolosicon, 115, note 2; Cocalus, ibid. 446; number of his plays, 116; his patriotism, 414; buffoonery and licentiousness, 116, 117. 414; excellencies, 416; passages of, corrected by Bentley, 244—247.
 Aristotle, his Poetics, 465; Rhetoric, 465, 466; his assertion that the early drama was extemporaneous to be qualified, 45, 46; his etymology of κωμῳδία incorrect, 50, 51; his definition of Tragedy and Comedy, 53; compiled Didascalie, 137.
 Articulus cum propriis nominibus, 514.
 Arundel Marble, engraver of, falsely charged with an omission, 232—237.
 Asinius Pollio, 456, 459.
 Atellane Fables, 453.
 Ἀθάνατον ὀργὴν μὴ φύλαττε, θυητὸς ὤν. whence taken, 197. 209—211.
 Ἀθάνατος primam producit, 197, note.
 Attic Crases, 463, 464.
 Attius, 457, 458.
 Audience, theatric, 148, 149; its number, 131; talents, 416, 417; behaviour, 149.
 August, Attic, 486—489.
 Ἀἴξος, its government, 511—513.
- B.
- Bacchæ, examination paper on, 584.
 Bacchic choruses three in number, 272, 273.
 Bacchus, early worship of in Attica, 36.
 Barthelémy's Anacharsis, 314.
- Bentley's Dissertation upon Phalaris, account of, 193, note.
 Βουλευτικόν, 139.
 Brauronia, 37.
 Βροντεῖον, 144. 322.
 Bull, the prize of the Dithyramb, 272.
 Buskin, introduced by Æschylus, 66.
- C.
- Cæsura in the Senarius, 528, note.
 Calf, prize of the harpers, 273.
 Canones Dawesiani, 496—513.
 Carcinus, the tragedian, 94.
 Catastrophe, 169.
 Characters, which best for tragedy, 169.
 Charondas, age of, 286, 287; laws falsely ascribed to him, 283—287.
 Charonic ladder, 145. 321.
 Chionides, the comedian, 99.
 Chœrilus, the tragedian, 58.
 Choragi, their office and how chosen, 135; their rivalry, 136; successful honours of, 137.
 Choric expenses, 136. 283—286.
 Χορὸν διδόναι, 136, note 5.
 Chorus, origin of, 7; etymology of the word, 7, note 1; nature and use of, 334; Dithyrambic or Cyclian, 272; Satyric, 49; Tragic, Comic, number of, 146; one of the actors, 177; joined in the dialogue by means of its coryphæus, 323.
 Christus Patiens, 95.
 Chronology of the Greek Drama, 126—130.
 Clepsydra, its use in scenic exhibitions, 138. 164.
 Comœdia Togata, 456.
 ——— Palliata, ibid.
 Comedy, etymology of, 50, 51; originally mythological, 97. 410, 411. 443; when established at Athens, and why, 52; Attic, aim of, 449.
 Comedy, the Old, its origin, 51. 159; its nature, 55—57; prize, 208; progress, 160; prohibited for a time, 99, 100; extinction, 413; number of its plays, 199; antithesis and parody of Tragedy, 406, 407; its apparent want of aim, 408; its political meaning, 410.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

INDEX.

593

- Comedy, the Middle, its origin, 413; how different from the Old, 56, 57; number of its pieces, 199; difficult to distinguish between its writers and those of the Old Comedy, 56, 57. 429.
- Comedy, the New, its origin, 430; its nature, 431; a mixture of jest and earnest, 430; its morality a system of prudence, 431. 440; a copy of reality, 432; variety of its species, 434; combines the Play of character and the Play of intrigue, 435; its tone, 438; structure of Theatre unfit for it, 444; circle of its characters, 445—447; its physiognomy expressed in the portrait-statues of Menander and Posidippus, 450, 451; number of its plays, 440, 441.
- Comic trimeter, 530.
- ideal, the converse of tragic, 408, 409.
- Copula enclitica, 522.
- Crane, theatric machine so called, 144. 322.
- Crases Attic, 483, 484.
- Crates, the comedian, 100, 101. 160.
- Cratinus, the comedian, 99, 100; his style, 426.
- Cretic termination, 550.
- Critical objections, and answers to them, 187—192.
- Cyclian chorus the same as the Dithyrambic, 18. 271.
- D.
- Dactyls in Anapaestic verse, 541.
- Dances, Pyrrhic, 10; Gymnopædian, ibid. those of scenic poetry, 12; of lyric poetry, ibid.
- Dancing, ancient, gymnastic or mimetic, 10.
- Δέσις καὶ Δύσις, 176.
- Διάκρισις, 38.
- Diction, parts of, 178; poetic, 182.
- Didascalæ, 137. 198.
- Dinolochus, the comedian, 98.
- Dionysia, number of, 132, note 2; account of, 132, 133.
- Dioscorides, epigrams of, on Thespis and Æschylus, quoted and corrected, 219, 220.
- Diphilus, the comedian, 123, 124.
- Dithyramb, explanation of the word, 17, note 5; nature of, 17. 267; chorus of, 272; prize of, 272, 273; gave birth to Tragedy, 159.
- Dolon, no comedian so named, 208.
- Dorians adopted the religion of conquered countries, 10, 11. 13; claimed the invention of the drama, 157.
- Dorica dialectus in anapaestis, 568.
- Drama, origin of, 1. 301; general history of, 301—303; important as a vehicle of doctrines, 307, 308.
- Drama, Greek, religious reference of, 5, 6; choral element of, 7; rhapsodical element of, 30—35; an union of the rhapsody with the cyclic chorus, 36—47; arose in the Dorian states, 7; at the beginning extemporaneous according to Aristotle, 200, 201; its first metre trochaic, 160; essentially different from the modern in its mode of representation, 131, 132; its time of performance, 132—134; its means of performance, 135—138; its place of performance, 138; its manner of performance, 145—148.
- Drama, Lyrical, 19, 20.
- Dramatic, exposition of the idea, 299, 300.
- Dramatic Art, schools of, 372, 373.
- Contests, 132—134.
- Unities, 464—480.
- Dramatists their own actors, 41, note 4.
- E.
- Effect, Comic, 439; Sympathetic, 306; Theatrical, 305.
- Εἰ μὴ—ἐὰν μὴ, 519.
- Εἶπον with optative, 500.
- Εἴλωτες οἱ ἐπὶ Ταυράρῳ, 55.
- Εἰσόδοι, 141.
- Ἐκκύκλημα, 145. 322.
- Elisions, 484, 485.
- Ἐμβαταί, 66, note 3.
- Ἐμμέλεια, 12.
- Ἡμικύκλιον, 144.
- Ἡμιν et ἡμῖν, 569.
- Ennius, 457.
- Ἡ οὐ, prosody of, 569, 570.
- Ἐπεὶ with optative, 500.
- Ἐφηβικόν, 139, note 9.
- Epicharmus, inventor of Comedy, 157. 160. 201; life and account of, 97, 98.

P P

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

594

INDEX.

Epic poetry compared with tragedy, 160, 161. 185, 186.

————— to bas-relief, 339, 340.

Epigenes, the Sicyonian, 223.

Episodic Fables, the worst, 166.

Eubulus, the comedian, 119.

Euphron, the tragedian, 95.

Eupolis, the comedian, 102, 103 ; his style, 426.

Euripides, time and place of his birth, 83 ; rank of his parents, 83, 84 ; his education, 84 ; his exile, 85 ; his death, 86 ; his Philoctetes, 198. 210 ; Electra, 389 ; Alceste, 54, note 4. 395 ; Iphigenia in Aulis, 396 ; Ion, ibid. Hippolytus, ibid. Medea, ibid. Troades, 397 ; Hecuba, 398 ; Hercules Furens, 399 ; Phœnissæ, ibid. Orestes, ibid. Iphigenia in Tauris, 400 ; Andromache, ibid. Bacchæ, ibid. 86 ; Suppliants, 401 ; Heraclidæ, 402 ; Helen, ibid. Rhesus, 76. 403 ; Cyclop, 403 ; said to have been assisted by Socrates, 85, note 5 ; his character as a dramatist, 376—384 ; his relation to Æschylus and Sophocles illustrated by a comparison between his Electra, Æschylus' Choëphoræ, and Sophocles' Electra, 393—395 ; did not preserve the essence of ancient Tragedy unmingled, 376 ; turned the rhapsodical element of Greek Tragedy into a sophistical one, 88 ; labours for effect, 378, 379 ; his religious opinions, 379 ; his political opinions, 89, 90 ; his Anaxagorea, 89 ; his moral apophthegms, 379, 380 ; his rhetorical vanity, 87. 382 ; his choruses, 177. 378 ; adopted the music of Timotheus, 378 ; his morality, 379, 380 ; his misogyny, 85. 381 ; his capricious use of the old mythology, 381 ; his prologues, 381, 382 ; his style, 383 ; a forerunner of the New Comedy, ibid. 430 ; how esteemed by Aristophanes, 89, 90. 383 ; by Menander and Philemon, 383 ; his excellencies, 384 ; inventor of tragicomedy, 54. 87 ; why popular in the middle ages, 87, 88.

Euripides, junior, 95.

Examination paper on Æschylus' Persæ, 573 ; Sophocles' Philoctetes, 579 ; Euripides' Bacchæ, 584.

'Εξ ἀμάξης λέγειν explained, 262.

'Εξάρχειν—ἐξαρχος explained, 21, note 4.

Exode, 168.

F.

Fable, 163.

———— unity of, 165.

———— episodic, the worst, 166.

———— simple and complicated, 167.

———— Atellane, 453.

Farnese Bull, group of, 458, 459.

Future optative, 500.

———— infinitive never joined with ἄν, 501.

Futura formæ mediæ, 514.

Futurorum passive significantium formæ, 515.

G.

Γε cum ἀλλὰ μὲν, &c. ibid.

Γε post μὰ Δία, &c. 521.

———— δὲ, 522.

Γέ τε nunquam conjungunt Attici, 522.

Goat, the prize of Tragedy, 208.

Greeks, mental culture of, 295, 296.

H.

Harpers, prize of, 273.

Hegemon, the parodist, 157.

Heraclides Ponticus, the Pseudo-Thespis, 46. 225—230.

Hermippus, the comedian, 101, 102.

Herodotus, passage of respecting Pistratus discussed, 39, 40.

Historian and Poet compared, 165.

Homer gave the first idea of Tragedy, 159 ; and of Comedy, ibid. character of, ibid. 186.

Horace's Epist. ad Pisones, 458.

Hyporcheme, 11, 12.

I.

Iambic metre, invention of, 31. 199 ; nature of, 160.

Iambic tragic senarius, 528.

———— comic ———, 530.

———— tetrameter catalectic, 531.

———— poets, old, wrote in Ionic, 42, note 6.

Ictus metricus, 543.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

INDEX.

595

Imitation, love of, the origin both of the fine arts and idolatry, 1—3; poetic and musical, 155; different means of, 156.

Imperativus Aoristi post μή non solet adhiberi, 520.

Improbabilities, how to be managed by the poet, 187.

"ἴνα, ὥς, ὅφρα, and ὅπως, with Indic. 504, 505. 516; subjunct. et optat. 501. 517.

Inscriptions, Orchomenian, 24—29.

Ion Chius, the tragedian, 92, 93.

Ionismi apud Tragicos, 485.

Iophon, the son of Sophocles, 94, 95.

Judges, Dramatic, 136, 137; sometimes partial, ibid.

K.

Καταβλήματα, 143.

Κατὰ ζυγὰ—κατὰ στοίχους, 146.

Κεραυνοσκοπεῖον, 144.

Κόθουρος, 66, 326.

Κόμμος, 168.

Κῶμος, signification of the word, 51.

Κωμωδεῖν—τοῦ μή ὀνομαστί, 56, note 2.

Κωμωδία, etymology of, 50, 51; might originally include both Tragedy and Comedy, 277.

L.

Laberius, 455.

Laocoon, group of, 341.

Λειτουργεῖν, 135, note 4.

Λειτουργίαι ἐγκύκλιοι, ibid.

Λίαν, quantity of, 569.

Livius Andronicus, 457.

Locrian dialect, the Doric, 282.

Λογεῖον, 140, 141. 319; why so called, 68, note 1.

Λύσις καὶ Δέσις, 176.

Lycophron's Alexandra, 405.

M.

Macho, the comedian, 124, 125.

Magnès, the comedian, 99.

Manners, requisites of, in Tragedy, 172, 173.

Margites, influence of, upon Comedy, 159.

Masks, introduced by Æschylus, 66; various forms and reason of, 147, 148. 324—327; Comic, 448, 449.

Masculine gender used by a female when speaking of herself in the plural number, 509.

Megarians claimed the invention of Comedy, 157.

Μέλητος, quantity of its penult, 271.

Meletus, the tragedian, 95.

Melinna, Nossis' daughter, 282.

Μέλλω generally followed by future infinitive, 501.

Menander, 122, 123. 443, 444.

Μη οὐ, prosody of, 569, 570.

Μηχανή, 143. 322.

Metres, tragic, 329, 330.

Middle Comedy. See Comedy.

Middle voice of the Greek verb; its reflexive usages, 491, 492; reciprocal use, 493; which of its tenses used passively, 495.

Mimes, Roman, different from Greek, 454; not altogether farcical, 455; the early germ of the Comœdia dell' Arte to be sought for in them, 454.

Μυησθήσομαι and Μερνήσομαι, 490.

Mutes, allowed on the Greek stage, 149.

Myrtilus, the comedian, 102.

Mythology the materials of Tragedy, 335—339.

N.

Nævius, 457.

Neutra pluralia cum verbo plurali, 514.

New Comedy. See Comedy.

Nicostratus, Aristophanes' son, 115.

Niobe, group of, 341.

Nossis, the poetess, a Locrian, 281.

Nouns, masculine or feminine in singular, and neuter in plural, 490.

Number of separate representations in one day, 138, note 2.

O.

Ὅγκος, 147.

Odyssey, a storehouse for the satirical plays, 74, note 2. 404.

Old Comedy. See Comedy.

Opera, modern, erroneously compared to Grecian Tragedy, 328, 329.

Ὅποτε, with the optative, 499.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

596

INDEX.

Optative denotes remote consequence of action contained in leading verb, 504.

Ὅπως vel ὅπως μὴ, 519.

Ὁρχεῖσθαι, used of acting in general, 47.

Orchestra, 140. 319.

Orchomenian Inscriptions, 24—29.

Oscans, language of, 453.

Ὅσῳ, et similia with ἄν, 497.

Ὅδδεν πρὸς Διόνυσον explained, 49, note 1. 228.

Ὅ μὴ, government of, 505—508. 518, 519; cum futuro prohibendi significatione, 518.

Ὅκοῦν—οὔκοῦν, 490.

Ovid, considered as a tragic writer, 459.

P.

Pacuvius, 457.

Pantomimic scene in Corinthian theatre described, 142, note 3.

Πάραλοι, 38.

Parabasis, 411, 412.

Παρασκήνια, 141.

Parode, 168.

Πάθη, 168. 170, 171.

Pause in the Senarius, 529.

Πεδιῶτις, 38.

Πέραν, quantity of, 569.

Περὶ ante vocalem, 567.

Περιπέτεια, 167.

Persæ, examination paper on, 573.

Persona, etymology of, 147.

Πηνίκη, ibid.

Phalaris, age of, 236.

Phallic processions, 19.

Φενάκη—φενακίζειν, 147, note 4.

Philemon, the comedian, 121. 443.

Philippides, 120, 121.

Philippus, the comedian, 115, 116.

Philoctetes of Euripides, 198. 210.

———— Sophocles, examination paper on, 579.

Phormis, the comedian, 98. 202.

Φρόνημα explained, 74, note 3.

Phrynichus; introduced female characters into Tragedy, 60; his figure dances, ibid. 244—248; his Μιλήτου ἄλωσις and Φοίνισσαι, 54, note 1. 335, 336; number of the persons so named, 242.

Phrynichus, the tragedian, 59, 60. 231. 237, 238. 243, 244.

———— the comedian, 101.

Φρυκτώριον, 144.

Pisistratus, 38; his encouragement of literature, 44, notes 2, 3.

Place, Unity of, 476, 477.

Plato, his paradoxical opinion respecting the origin of Tragedy, 222. 254; his definition of Tragedy and Comedy, 52, 53.

Plautus, 441—443.

Pleiades, the seven poets so named, 95.

Plutarch, a passage of, respecting Thespis, discussed, 46. 249—252.

Poet, successful, honours of, 137; his fame transient, ibid. compared with historian, 165.

Poetry, origin of, 158; a species of imitation, 155.

Poetry, Romantic, ingredients of, 297, 298; Tragic, essence of, 311; Comic, essence of, 312.

Ποῖ, ποῦ, πᾶ, 522.

Πομπεύειν and πομπεία explained, 263.

Posidippus, the comedian, 124.

Pratinas, account of, 61; inventor of Satyric Drama, 49.

Preterite, middle, 495.

Πρίν cum subjunct. omisso ἄν, 520.

Προεδρία, 139, note 9.

Prologue, 168.

Proper names in the Tragic Senarius, 527. 554.

Προσκήνιον, 141. 320.

Πύργος, theatric, 144.

Q.

Quin, uses of, 508.

R.

Rhapsodes, etymology of the word, 30; nature of, 30, 31.

Rhinton, writer of tragicomedy, 124.

Rhythm differs from metre, 158.

S.

Sannyrion, the comedian, 209.

Satyric chorus, 49.

Satyric drama and satire differ, 261.

———— nature of, 48, 49. 403, 404.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

INDEX.

597

- Σκηνή, 140.
 Scenery, 142. 320.
 ——— invented by Agatharcus, 280.
 Schiller's definition of Tragedy, 53, note 2.
 Seneca, 461—463; his influence on the French dramatic writers, 463.
 Sentiments in Tragedy, 178.
 Simonides, 272.
 Σκοπή, 144.
 Socrates, Xenophon's and Plato's account of, to be received with allowance, 88, 89. 111. 423.
 Sotater, writer of tragicomedy, 124.
 Sophocles, his life, 72—75. 360, 361; colleague of Pericles, 74. 361; his death, 75, 76. 361; his character as a man, 81; and dramatist, 362, 363; his public character, 80, 81; his improvements in Tragedy, 80. 362; number of his plays, 76, 77; his Œdipus Rex, 364; Œdipus at Colonus, 366; Antigone, 367; Ajax, 369; Philoctetes, 370; Trachiniæ, 372; Electra, 386; comparative merits of the remaining seven, 363, 364; difference of character between him and Æschylus, 79. 366, 367; in what respect Homeric, 67, note 3; his general principles of action, 78, 79; not fully appreciated by the moderns, 78; wrote other works besides tragedies, 76.
 Sophocles, junior, 95.
 Sophron, Mimes of, 156; imitated in hexameter by Theocritus, 433.
 Sosicles, the tragedian, 95.
 Sotades, writer of tragicomedy, 124.
 Spectators, number of, &c., 131.
 Stage curtain, 323.
 Stasimon, 168.
 Stesichorus, 23, note 1.
 Στροφεῖον, 144.
 Styles, difference of in the tragedians, 344.
 Subjunct. denotes immediate consequence of action contained in leading verb, 504.
 Συνάφεια, 539. 566.
 Susarion, his claims to the invention of Comedy, 200—202; five iambs of his quoted, corrected, and explained, 203—205; how mentioned in the Arundel
 Marble, 205—208; distinct from Sannyrion, 209.
 Syrus, 455.
 T.
 Taste, ancient and modern, contrasted, 291—295.
 Τείχος, scenic, 144.
 Terence, 441—443.
 Theatre, Grecian, description of, 138. 317—323.
 Theatre, Roman, 452; its native varieties, 453; transplanted from Greece, 457; tragedians of the more ancient epoch, 458; and of the Augustan age, ibid.
 Θεατρῶνης—θεατροπώλης, 148.
 Θεολογείον, 143.
 Theoric fund, 148, 149.
 Θεός, prosody of, 569, 570.
 Theseus, tomb of, when erected in Athens, 256—259.
 Thespis, the inventor of Tragedy, 219—224; his age, 230. 247; account of, 40—47; Bentley's assertion (225) that he wrote nothing and that his tragedies were entirely droll (230), incorrect, 46, 47; names of some of his plays, 41, note 8; may be an assumed name, 44, 45, note 5.
 Thymele, 140. 323.
 Time, Unity of, 473—475.
 Timocles, the comedian, 120.
 Timotheus, the musician, 378.
 Τραγωδία, origin of the word, 48; never included Comedy, 268. 273—277; not used to signify pomp till after the time of Zaleucus, 280.
 Τραγωδίαν διδάσκειν, 326.
 Tragedy, origin of, 1; its successive stages, 159; its original prize, 208; defined, 52, 53. 161; its parts of quality, 161, 162; its parts of quantity, 168; different kinds of, 176; superior to the epic, 192; aimed at ideal perfection, 330, 331; its essence, 330; source of pleasure in, 332; compared to sculpture, 339—342; causes of the Romans failing in, 460, 461; ideal of a Roman form of, 459.
 Tragedies, modern and ancient, distinction between, 53.
 ——— historical, 54. note 1. 335, 336.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01200-3 - Theatre of the Greeks: A Series of Papers Relating to the History and Criticism of the Greek Drama

John William Donaldson

Index

More information

598

INDEX.

Tragedians, Attic, plagiarised from the gnostic poets, 34, note 2. 81, note 6.

Tragic recitation, 328.

Trilogy, nature of, 345, 346; Æschylean, 68, 69.

Trochaic metre, 533.

Τρυγῶδια never signified Tragedy, 268. 274—277.

U.

Unity, of Action, 464—472; of Time, 473—475; of Place, 476, 477.

Unities of Time and Place, liberties taken by Tragedians in respect of, 475, 476.

Ὑπεράκριτοι, 38.

Ὑποκρίνεσθαι, used of the rhapsode, 33, note 1.

Ὑποσκηνία, 141.

V.

Verba, in -ω and -υμι, 490; duo diversos casus regentia, 514; quorum futura sunt formæ mediæ, ibid. passiva, cum vocibus vi mediâ præditis permutata, 493, 494.

Verbs, several in -ω used of matter, in -ομαι of mind, 494; passive, used when middle might be expected, 495; several distinguished in their active and middle uses, 508, 509.

Verse, whether essential to Comedy, 433, 434.

Vocalis brevis ante consonantes, 565.

Voltaire's ignorance of classic antiquity, 324, note 2. 406, note.

W.

Women, Grecian, degraded state of, 415. 445; were present at dramatic exhibitions, 149. 415, note; never appeared as actresses, 326.

Words, different kinds of, 180.

X.

Xenocles, the tragedian, 94. 217, 218.

Z.

Zaleucus, age of, 279; laws falsely ascribed to him, 279, 280.

Ζεὺς Σωτήρ, the god of mariners, 71, note 1.