

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

A.

ABANTES, The, i. 120.
 Abantides, tyrant of Sicyon, his cruelties and death, viii. 95.

Abastani, or Avasthanas, vii. 46.

Abisares, prince of Cashmire, vii. 8. 13. 17. 31. Succeeded by his son, 62.

Abrosomas, one of Artaxerxes' generals, iv. 294.

Abulites, satrap of Susa, vi. 228. His death, vii. 72.

Abydos, siege of, viii. 287.

Acarnania, foundation and position of this state, iii. 17. Invaded by the Ambracians, 151. Subjected by Sparta, iv. 427. The Acarnanians invade Ætolia, vii. 223. 303. War in, viii. 125. Oath of the Acarnanians, 261. Submission of, to Rome, 314.

Acè, or Acre, dismantled by Ptolemy on his retreat into Egypt, vii. 314.

Acesines, river, which, together with the Hydaspes, falls into the Indus, vii. 30. 34, 35.

Achæan League, the, foundation of, viii. 49. Some observations respecting, 79. 86. Important change in its constitution, 93. Is joined by Sicyon, 101. Aratus appointed general of the League, 107. Important events in connection with the interests of the League, 118. et seq. Relations of Sparta with the League, 153. Their alliance sought by the Romans, 300. Incorporation of Sparta with the League, 539. Its great extension, 355. Disputes with Sparta, 360. Subjugation of Sparta, 361. Great influence of the League, 363. Effect of the death of Philopœmen upon the general interests of the League, 371. Election of Lycostas as general of the League, 371. Decree of war against Messenia, 371. Its transactions with the Roman senate, 376. Embassy of Callicrates, and approaching downfall of the League, 371. Efforts of Rome to break the power of the League, 444. et seq. Rome decrees war against the League, 446. Fall of Corinth, and end of the Achæan war, 453. Achæans, the, iii. 107. Their alliance with Philip, and military operations, viii. 263. et seq. See "Philip;" "Achæan League." Achæmenes, defeat and death of, iii. 25.

Achaia, some particulars respecting its locality, i. 28.

Acoris, king of Egypt, vi. 122.

Acrisius, king of Argos, i. 376.

Acrocorinthus, the rock, i. 21.

Ada, queen of Caria, vi. 81.

Ada, the widow of Idrieus, vi. 164.

Adesmatius, the Corinthian admiral, ii. 301.

Ademantus, the Athenian general, iv. 127.

Admetus, king of the Molossians, ii. 385.

Æacides of Epirus, father of Pyrrhus, vii. 287, 288. His flight into Ætolia, 293. Regains his throne, but is defeated and slain by Philip, 309.

Æetes, king of Colchis, i. 94.

Ægaleum, the hills of, one of the boundaries of Messenia, i. 26.

Ægimius, the Dorian king, i. 103.

Ægon, king of Argos, i. 415.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- Ægyptus, king of Messenia, i. 343.
- Æneas, the Arcadian general, v. 128.
- Æolians, their early history, i. 88.
- Æolus, supposed to have given his name to the Æolian division of the Greek nation, i. 87.
- Æripus, king of Macedonia, v. 160.
- Æschines, v. 206. His embassy to Arcadia, 327. His speech on the subject of the famous negotiation between Philip and Athens, 338. His answer to the charges brought against him by Demosthenes, 350. His report of the second embassy to Philip, 363. Is impeached by Demosthenes, vi. 26. His acquittal, 30. He prosecutes Ctesiphon in the cause De Coronâ, vii. 135–138.
- Æschylus, the poet; outline of his tragedy Eumenides, iii. 22. Influence of his dramatic writings, 74.
- Æthlius, first king of the Eleans, i. 95.
- Ætolia, vii. 89. 166. 181. 303. Invaded by Antipater and Craterus, 199. Courage of the mountaineers of, 199, 200. They secure their independence, 201. Idea of transporting the entire people to Asia, 201. The Ætolians expel the Acarnanians, who had invaded their territory, 223. Invasion of, by Demetrius, viii. 26. Inroads into, by Brennus, 59. Social war in, 213. et seq.
- Ætolian League, the, viii. 207. et seq. Remarks on its constitution, 212.
- Ætolians, the, formation of their cities into a general league, viii. 207. The name of Panætolicon given to their great council, 208. The Apocletes, or Council of Deputies, 208. Their marauding propensities, 209. Their love of ostentatious entertainments, 210. Desire of extending their territories, 210. Ætolian aggressions, 215. War determined against them by the Achæan League, 223. Their negotiations with Philip, 224. Dispositions of the allies, 225. Success of their generals, 228. Their country invaded by Philip, 238. Thermus reduced, and the sacred buildings burnt, 239. Vigour and success of their wars, 248. Philip makes proposals of peace, 251. Termination of the Social War, 251. The Ætolians enter into a treaty offensive and defensive with Rome, 260. Their military operations, 261. et seq. They renew their alliance with Philip, 275. Legislation of Dorimachus and Scopas, 276. Depressed state of the country, 277. They declare war against Philip, 292. Their intrigues after the departure of Flamininus from Greece, 331. A commission sent from Rome to adjust matters, 335. Declaration of war on Greece, 337. Attack on and capture of Demetrias, 337. Their defeat at Chalcis, 337. Their success at Sparta, 337. Their operations in connection with Antiochus, 341. et seq. Siege of Heraclea, 348. The Ætolians sue for peace, 349. Reception of their envoys at Rome, 355. The terms imposed by the senate, 356. Disastrous reverses, 357. Peace granted by Rome, 358.
- Africa, designs of Alexander respecting, vii. 70.
- Agamemnon, allusions to, in illustration of the early history of Greece, i. 70.
- Agatharchus, the first painter of scenery according to the rules of linear perspective, iii. 74.
- Agathinus, the Corinthian admiral, iv. 432.
- Agathocles, son of Lysimachus, viii. 1. His operations against Demetrius, 36. et seq.
- Agathocles, tyrant of Syracuse, viii. 5.
- Agathon, a Greek dramatist, v. 159.
- Agelaus, his memorable warning to Philip and his ministers, viii. 251.
- Agén, the, a satirical drama attributed to Alexander, vii. 93.
- Agésander, the Spartan envoy, iii. 112.
- Agésilau, raised to the throne of Sparta, iv. 372. His expedition to Asia, 357. 382. Defeats the Persians in the battle of Sardis, 388. Invested with the administration of naval affairs, 390. His interview with Pharnabazus, 402. Defeats the Argives in the battle of Coronea, 114. Establishes the Spartan supremacy in Acarnania, 427. Declines to command the expedition sent by Sparta against Mantinea, v. 5. His expedition against Phlius, 22. His expedition against Thebes, 44. Crushes the Spartan conspiracy, 101. His death, vi. 134.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

477

- Agessipolis, king of Lacedæmon, iv. 406. Intrusted with the command of an expedition against Argolis, 429. Returns to Sparta, 430. Takes the command of the expedition sent against Mantinea, v. 5. His death, 21.
- Agis, king of Sparta, iii. 207. Expedition of, iii. 342. Concludes a truce with Argos, 345. Returns home to celebrate the Carnean festival, 351. Marches into Attica at the head of the Peloponnesian forces, 423. His quarrel with Alcibiades, iv. 26. Negotiates with the Athenian oligarchs, 51. His death, 371.
- Agis, his disastrous struggle against the Macedonian power, vii. 132.
- Agis, king of Pæonia, v. 175.
- Agis, an epic poet of Argos, vi. 305. vii. 10.
- Agis IV., his accession to the throne of the Eurypontids, viii. 134. Weakness of Sparta at this time, and its causes, 134. He meditates a thorough reform, 135. The difficulties he encountered, 136. His measures, 138. Party struggles, 141. His expedition to the Isthmus, 143. Unfavourable change in affairs during his absence, 143. Returns from his expedition, 144. His arrest, 145. His execution, 146.
- Aglaocreon of Tenedos, v. 337.
- Agoratus, iv. 167. Prosecution of, 238.
- Agræus, i. 272.
- Agron, king of Illyria, his death, viii. 125. Succeeded by Teuta, his queen, 125.
- Agyrrhius, measures of, iv. 243.
- Alcæus the poet, i. 402.
- Alcamenes, king of Sparta, i. 344.
- Alcamenes, the Spartan general, iv. 5. His death, 8.
- Alcetas, father of Arybas and Neoptolemus, vi. 16. His advice to his brother Perdicas, vii. 210. He puts Cynanè, daughter of Philip, to death, 211. His design to obtain possession of Pisidia, 227.
- Alcibiades, his birth and parentage, iii. 324. His character and education, 325. His intercourse with Socrates, 327. His marriage, 329. His early popularity, 331. His first appearance in public life, 333. His animosity towards Sparta, 335. Sent with a thousand men to support the Argives, 343. His influence in the expedition to Melos, 357. Charged with supporting the inhuman decree against the Melians, 361. Appointed to the command in Sicily, 368. His address to the Athenian assembly during the debate on the expedition to Sicily, 372. Charges against him, 378. His trial put off to an indefinite period, 380. Summoned to Athens to stand his trial, 390. Further charges against him, 391. Review of the proceedings against him, 396. Sentence of death passed upon him, and his property confiscated, 398. Receives an invitation from the Spartan government to proceed to Sparta, 106. His arguments to stimulate the sluggish enmity of the Spartans against Athens, 407. His expedition to Ionia, iv. 11. His quarrel with Agis, 26. Becomes the counsellor of Tissaphernes, 28. Negotiates with the Athenians at Samos, 31. Conducts the conference with Pisander, on behalf of Tissaphernes, 38. Is pardoned and recalled to Athens, 57. Created general, and intrusted with the whole management of the negotiation with Tissaphernes, 58. Returns to Samos, 59. Arrested by Tissaphernes, and sent prisoner to Sardis, 85. Effects his escape to Clazomenæ, 86. His expedition against Abydos, 94. Refuses to ratify the treaty made with the Chalcædoniens, 97. Returns to Athens, 99. Appointed commander-in-chief of the commonwealth both by land and sea, 102. His expedition to Eleusis, 103. Removed from his command, 109. His death, 197. His character, 198.
- Alcidas, the Spartan admiral, iii. 180.
- Alcman the poet, ii. 124.
- Alcetas, king of the Molossians, v. 50.
- Alectas, king of Epirus, v. 55.
- Aletes, various accounts of the means by which he achieved the conquest of Corinth, i. 273.
- Aleuas, the celebrated prince from whom the house of the Aleuads derived its name, vi. 13.
- Alexander the Spartan, v. 97.
- Alexander of Phœrea, v. 116. His piratical excursions, 208. Murder of, 280.
- Alexander of Epirus, death of, vii. 99.
- Alexander the Ætolian defeats and

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

slays Polyces in Thessaly, vii. 222.
 Alexander the Lyncestian ; his trial for treason, vi. 273. His death, vii. 89.
 Alexander, king of Macedon, ii. 275.
 Alexander II. of Macedon, v. 162.
 Alexander the Great, birth of, v. 199.
 Anecdotes of his boyhood ; his education, vi. 89. Period of his intercourse with Aristotle, 93. Difficulties of his position, 97. His rapid movements, 106. His expedition into Thrace, 109. His alliance with the Celts, 111. Captures Thebes, 115. Celebrates his return to Macedonia with an Olympic festival at Ægea, 119. Sets out on his expedition to Asia, 147. His miraculous escape in the battle of Granicus, 158. Enters Lycia, and receives the submission of most of the Lycian towns, 167. Conspiracy against his life, 168. His confidence in his physician, 174. Marches to Issus, and prepares for battle, 177. Anecdote of, after the battle of Issus, 185. His reply to the letter of Darius, 192. Motives which induced him to undertake the siege of Tyre, 195. Raises the siege of Gaza, 204. Is wounded, 205. Jewish tradition relative to his march to Jerusalem, 206. His return to Phœnicia, 214. His pursuit of Darius, 224. His triumphant entry into Babylon, 226. Enters Persepolis, and sets fire with his own hands to the royal palace, 234. Reverence which he shows to the tomb of Cyrus, 235. His efforts to subdue the Mardians, 247. Conspiracy against his life, 262. Comes forward himself as the accuser of Philotas, 264. His expedition against Bessus, 276. His measures to quell the revolt in Sogdiana, 286. His contest with the Asiatic Scythians, 287. Is defeated by the Scythians, 292. His revenge, 293. His interview with Pharasmanes, 297. His marriage with Roxana, 301. His contest with a lion, 304. Description of his court at this time, 305. His remorse for the murder of Cleotus, 307. Conspiracy against his life, 316. Detection of the plot and punishment of the conspirators, 317. His quarrel with Callisthenes, 320. His campaigns in India, vii. 1. His inducements for attempting its conquest, 2. Amount of his army of invasion, 4. Sacrifices to Athene at Nicæa, the modern Cabul, 5. Defeats the Aspasians, Assaceniens, &c., 7. His march to the Indus, 8. His capture of the rock Aornus, 8—10. Takes many elephants, 11. Reaches the Indus and builds a fleet, 11. His flatterers compare him to Dionysius for the similarity of their Indian triumphs, 11. Sacrifices to Bacchus at Nysa, 12. Date of his expedition across the Indus, 13. His invitation to Porus, 14. Crosses the Hydaspes, 15—18. His victory over Porus, 20. 22. Reinstates himself in his kingdom, 23. 25. Reduces the Cathæans, 26. His career eastward closes at the confluence of the Hyphasis with the Hesudrus or Sutleje. His indignation on finding his conquests frustrated in Eastern India by his soldiery refusing to march to the Ganges, 30. His spirit of further discoveries, 28. 32. 101. His mistaken notions of eastern geography, 27. 32. Fleet got ready for his return, 32. Erects altars to the gods, and invokes Hercules and Ammon, 30. 34. State and order of his navigation on the Hydaspes, 34. Peril encountered at the junction with the stream of the Acesines, 35. His conquest of the Malli, 36—46. Severely wounded in the assault of their capital, 41. 44. Joy of the army on his recovery, 45. Enters Sogdiana ; builds Alexandria and an arsenal on the Indus, 47. Surprises Oxycanus and takes his cities by assault, 48. Orders Musicanus and some Brahmins to be crucified, 49. His conquests on the Lower Indus, 49. Fortifies Pattala, 50. Explores the Delta of the Indus, and its western outlet to the sea, 51. Sacrifices to the sea god ; builds magazines and docks, and gives the command of a naval expedition to the Persian Gulf to Nearchus, 53. et seq. His own perilous return along the coast by the route of Cyrus and of Semiramis, 54. et seq. Amount of his army and fleet when he set out on his return to the West, 55. The Orites submit, 56. His march through Gedrosia, 57. 61. Sufferings and privations, 58—61. He enters Carmania, 62. Feasts and indulgences, 63. 66. Punishes Clean-der, Sitalces, and others with death, 63, 64. His severity in the case of Aspastes, 64. Welcomes Nearchus, and sends him on a second voyage, 66. Arrives in Persepolis, puts Orxines to death, and confers the satrapy of Persis on Peucestes, 67, 68. His intended discoveries, and fleet on the Euphrates, 70. At Susa he condemns Abulites, and slays Oxathres with his own hand, 72. Insurrection of the Medes suppressed, 72. He pardons Harpalus, his treasurer, 73. 153. et seq. His policy of uniting the Macedonian and Persian interests, 75. His nuptials with Statera, 76—78. His son by Barsine, 76. The royal tent, 77. His largess to the army, 80. Bestows crowns of gold on his captains, 81. His Asiatic troops trained according to the Macedonian system, 81. He surveys the Tigris and the Delta with Nearchus, 82. Jealousy of the Macedonian veterans, 82. Alexander represses their mutiny at Opis, 83—87. His speech on dismissing the veterans, 88. Sends Craterus to Macedonia to supersede Antipater, 89. He requires the Grecian states to recall their banished citizens, 90. His decree for that object, 151. And to pay divine honours to himself, 90. 149. He repairs to Ecbatana, 91. Festivities in Media upon his return from India, 92. His grief for the loss of Hephaestion, 94. 101. His expedition against the Cossæans, 96. Is warned by the Chaldæan priests not to enter Babylon, 96. And by the soothsayer Peithagoras, 96. The king hesitates, yet enters the city, 97. Date of his return to Babylon, 98. Embassies from Rome, and from many nations, to the conqueror of the East, 99. 100. Il omens, 103, 104. His residence in the great city, sickness and death, 99—109. Reputed causes of his death, 107. Diary of the circumstances attending it, 107. 109. He gave his ring or signet to Perdicas, 109. 118. His character and vast designs considered, 109—113. His toleration of every form of worship, 113. His administration despotic, conferring little advantage on either his hereditary or acquired dominions, 114. Not a lawgiver, 114.

He reduced the Macedonians and Greeks to a level with the Asiatics, 115. Council of the Macedonian generals at his decease, 117. Discontent of the soldiers, 120. A king chosen, 120. The compact between Perdicas and Meleager, 125. Partition of the provinces of the empire, 127. Of Alexander's plans, 129. His body ordered to be conveyed to the sepulchre of the Macedonian kings at Ægæ, 130. The funeral car, 208. Conveyed by the general Arridæus to Damascus, 209. Finally deposited by Ptolemy in the cemetery of the palace at Alexandria, 209. Further allusions to, 132. et seq. Alexander Ægus, son of the Macedonian conqueror, by Roxana, associated with Arridæus, son of Philip, in the royalty, vii. 131. Imprisoned with his mother by Cassander, 292. 318. Who causes this young king, together with Roxana, to be murdered, 319. Alexander, son of Polysperchon, encamps before Athens, vii. 249. He fortifies the Isthmus, 295. Defends Ithome against Cassander, 302. Is assassinated at Sicyon, 303. His widow Cratesipolis, 303. Alexander, successor of Pyrrhus in the throne of Epirus, viii. 86. Alexander, younger brother of Antipater, by the aid of Pyrrhus, becomes possessed of half the kingdom, viii. 16. His alarm at the approach of Demetrius, 16. Meets and receives him honourably at Dium, 16. Meditates his assassination, but is himself slain by the guards of Demetrius, 17. Alexandria, city in Egypt, its foundation, vi. 209. Its temples, vii. 104. Its extensive commerce, 111. Sepulchre of Alexander the Great at, 209. Alexandria in the Oritis, founded, vii. 56. Alexicles, the Athenian general, iv. 67. His death, 73. Amasis usurps the throne of Egypt, ii. 174. Amastris governs Heraclea, vii. 359. Retires to Heraclea, which she governs during the minority of her sons, viii. 2. Ambracia, siege of, viii. 357. Ammon, temple and oracle of, vi. 213. vii. 34. 52. 100. 103. Amompharetus, resolute conduct of, ii. 344.

- Amphiaraus, the Argive prophet, iii. 148.
- Amphyctionic confederacy, i. 373. Decrees of, against Sparta and Phocis, v. 265. Proceedings of, vi. 54. vii. 131.
- Amphilochus, the hero, iii. 148.
- Amphipolis, the battle of, iii. 303.
- Amphissa invaded by Alexander, leader of the Ætolians, vii. 222.
- Amphitryon, reputed father of Hercules, i. 127.
- Amyntas, king of Macedonia, ii. 204. Consents to become a vassal of Darius, 205.
- Amyntas II. of Macedon, v. 161.
- Amyntas, Macedonian prince, marries Cynanē, vii. 210.
- Amyntas, brother of Peucestes, vii. 226.
- Amyntas, the Macedonian admiral, vi. 41.
- Amyrtacus assumes the title of king, iii. 33.
- Amythaon, legend of, i. 96.
- Anacreon, ii. 126.
- Anaxagoras, i. 111. Tenets of his philosophy, ii. 135. Prosecutions against him, iii. 90.
- Anaxander, king of Sparta, i. 362.
- Anaxarchus of Abdera, vi. 305. vii. 10.
- Anaxibius, the Spartan admiral, iv. 346. His defeat and death, 439.
- Anaxilaus, the tyrant of Rhegium, ii. 319. iii. 222.
- Anaximander, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 134.
- Anaximenes of Miletus, ii. 132. Tenets of his philosophy, 134.
- Anchorites of India, vii. 15.
- Andocides, the rival of Alcibiades, his character, iii. 334. Imprisonment of, 394. His expedient to rescue himself and friends, 395. Prosecution of, iv. 240. His embassy to Sparta, 424.
- Andraguthus, an officer of Demetrius, his treachery, viii. 31.
- Andriscus, his usurpation of the supreme power in Macedonia, viii. 441. His military operations, 442. His invasion of Thessaly, 443. He defeats the Roman cavalry, 443. Being himself overcome, he escapes into Thrace, 443.
- Androcles, king of Messenia, i. 344.
- Androcles, the rival of Alcibiades, assassination of, iv. 44.
- Andromachus, the Elean general, v. 137.
- Androstheneis, voyage of, vii. 71.
- Angeas, king of Elis, i. 129.
- Anippus, the Syracusan, v. 65.
- Antalcidas, the peace of, iv. 4. v. 443.
- Antibelus, iv. 241.
- Anticyra, conquest of, by the Romans, viii. 261.
- Antigenes, vii. 81. Slays Perdiccas in the mutiny on the Nile, 220. Transports the royal treasure from Susa, 242, 243. Is cast into a pit, and burnt to death, by Antigonus, 280.
- Antigone, design of Ptolemy in bestowing her hand on Pyrrhus, viii. 5.
- Antigonia on the Orontes, founded by Antigonus, vii. 333.
- Antigonus Doson, successor to Demetrius II., viii. 129. Antigonus at the Isthmus, 181. At Peloponnesus, 185. His invasion of Laconia, 196. His conquest of Sparta, 199. His measures there, 200. His death, 201. Succeeded by his adopted son, Philip III., 201.
- Antigonus Gonatas, viii. 18. His restoration to the throne of Macedonia, 64. His defeat of the Celts, 66. He recovers Cassandria from the tyrant Apollodorus, 67. He is attacked by Pyrrhus, and defeated, 68. His long war with the Athenians, 89. He at length forces them to submit, 91. Events following his death, 118.
- Antigonus, son of Philip, is appointed satrap of Phrygia by Alexander the Great, vi. 170. 128. He flies from the prosecution of Perdiccas to Europe, vii. 211. Warns Antipater of the treachery of Perdiccas, 212. On the death of Perdiccas obtains the command of his army, 225. His alliance with Antipater, 229. His operations on the coast of Asia Minor, 242. His campaign against Eumenes, 269. Visits Susa, 271. His stratagems against Eumenes, 274, 275. Defeats him, and commands him to be starved, and put to death, 277, 280. Declared regent, 282. 296, 297. 300. His navy, 305. Subdues Phrygia and Syria, 307. 314. On his return from the East he declares for Alexander Ægus and Roxana, 318. His dispute with his nephew Ptolemæus, 319. He invades Egypt, 338, 339. His son Demetrius besieges Rhodes, and is repulsed, 341—348. His capital Antigonia on the Orontes, 358.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

481

- His campaign against Lysimachus, 358. His gallant conduct in the battle of Ipsus, where he is slain, 363, 364.
- Antimenidas and his brother Alcæus the poet, i. 402.
- Antiochia, founded by Seleucus on the Orontes, vii. 369.
- Antiochus, king of Messenia, i. 344.
- Antiochus, the Athenian general. His character, iv. 107. Slain in the battle of Nolium, 108.
- Antiochus, surnamed the Great, king of Syria, viii. 321. His projects of extending his empire, 322. He rejects the dictation of the Roman ambassador, 322. His designs on Greece, 341. Commencement of hostilities, 343. Council at Demetrias, 344. His advance on Pheræ, 345. Celebration of his marriage at Chalcis, 346. General dissoluteness of his court and camp, 346. Expedition to Acarnania, 346. Battle of Thermopylæ, 347. His army routed, 348. He embarks for Asia, 348. Effects of his departure on the general feeling in Greece, 352.
- Antipater, v. 332. vi. 251. Intention of superseding him in Macedonia by Craterus, vii. 88. His sentiments as to Alexander, 88. On the death of the king, his power confirmed by the council of the army at Babylon, 119. On the news of Alexander's decease he sends an embassy to the Athenians, 169. His prospects of support, 169. His defeat, on which he takes refuge in Lamia, 171, 172. 179. His alliance with Leonnatus, 179. Is obeyed by the troops of Leonnatus, who was slain in Thessaly, 181, 182. In conjunction with Craterus he obtains a victory over Meno, and receives the submission of the League, 186, 187. His character, 189. His reception of the Athenian ambassadors, and garrisons Munychia, 189. 191. Capitulation of Athens to, 191. His measures at Athens, 193. He proscribes and puts the Athenian orators to death, 195, 196. Is joined by Antigonus and Demetrius, 211, 212. He prepares for war against Perdiccas, 212. Sends Craterus and Neoptolemus against Eumenes, 214. He proceeds to Paradisus in Syria, and is invested with the supreme authority, 224, 225. His reconciliation at Sardis with Cleopatra, 227, 228. His return to the Hellespont, 229, 230. His disorder likely to prove fatal, 237. Demades repairs to Antipater after intriguing in the cause of Perdiccas, and is by him cast into a dungeon, 237. At his death he appoints Polyperchon to succeed him in the regency, 238. Contest that results from this will of Antipater, 239, 240. He succeeds his brother Philip in the government, viii. 9. He murders his mother, 14. His kingdom invaded by Pyrrhus, 15. Division of the kingdom between him and Alexander, 16. On the death of Alexander, and election to the sovereignty of Demetrius, he repairs to the court of Lysimachus, 18.
- Antiphilus commands the Greek confederates at Lamia on the death of Leosthenes, vii. 178. Defeats Leonnatus in Thessaly, 180, 181. Is defeated by Antipater at Crannon, 186. He treats with the regent, and the confederates lay down their arms, 187.
- Antiphon, his character and abilities, as described by Thucydides, iv. 46.
- Anytus, his accusation of Socrates, iv. 274.
- Aornus, Indian hill fort, taken by Alexander, vii. 8—10.
- Aphricas or Eryx, the Assacanian, vii. 11.
- Apocletes, the, or Council of Deputies, among the Ætolians, viii. 208.
- Apollodorus, a member of the Five Hundred, v. 301.
- Apollodorus, a captain of Alexander's, vii. 96.
- Apollonia, siege of, by Philip, viii. 257.
- Apollonides ignominiously expelled from the great army, iv. 330.
- Apollonides burns the Five Hundred or council of Argos, vii. 301.
- Apollophanes, vii. 56. His death, 62. 66.
- Appelles, viii. 233. His intrigues against Philip, 234. et seq. His treachery, 243. He forfeits the king's confidence, 244. He is sent to Corinth, and there put to death, 245.
- Aprieus, the Egyptian king, ii. 97.
- Arabia, voyages to the coast of, vii. 55. 66. 70. The Arabians of Petra repulse Demetrius, 314. The Desert, 314. Spices of, and commerce with Egypt, 314.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- Arabites, the, and river Arabius, vii. 55.
- Arachosia, victories of Craterus in, vii. 62.
- Aracus, the Spartan admiral, iv. 4. 145.
- Arattas, Arashtas, or Aratrioi, vii. 4.
- Aratus, viii. 94. Facts in his early life, 95. Traits of character, 96. He meditates the recovery of Sicyon, 96. His first romantic expedition, 98. He surprises the city, 99. His difficulties in the government, 101. His great popularity, 103. He seeks and obtains assistance from Ptolemy, 104. His judicious settlement of the claims of all parties, 105. He is appointed general of the Achæan League, 107. He surprises Corinth, 111. He obtains possession of the city, 112. Attempts upon Argos, 113. Further expeditions, 114. et seq. He invades Attica, 121. Further attempts upon Argos, 123. His movements in the South, 151. His great influence in the Achæan League, 152. He is defeated by Cleomenes, 167. His dangerous intrigues, 171. Receives the title of Strategus Autocrator, 178. His negotiations with Cleomenes, 179. His inroad into Argolis, 194. He makes war on Ætolia, and suffers a defeat, 217. et seq. He goes out of office, and is succeeded by his son, 227. His death, 259.
- Aratus the younger, succeeds his father in the office of general of the Achæan League, viii. 227. He accompanies Philip in his expeditions, 231. He gains the king's confidence, 235. Conceives disgust at some parts of Philip's conduct, 256.
- Arcadia, its situation, i. 19. Its peculiar features, and character of the people, 21.
- Arceus, v. 35. His death, 36.
- Arcesilaus II., ii. 100.
- Archedemus, his low extraction and character, iv. 128. His accusation against the Athenian generals, 129.
- Archelaus, v. 157. Prosperous state of Macedonia during his reign, 158. Murder of, 160.
- Archelaus, governor of Mesopotamia, vii. 127.
- Archestratus, the Athenian commander, iii. 102.
- Archias, v. 16. His death, 34.
- Archias, officer accompanying Nearchus in his voyage, vii. 65, 66, 71.
- Archias, of Thurii, pursues the orators Hyperides, &c., vii. 196. Witnesses the execution, by poison, of the orator Demosthenes, 197.
- Archidamus, king of Sparta, iii. 7. His advice to the assembly during the debate on the subject of the Corinthian war, 107. His address to the army at the beginning of the war with Athens, 118. His negotiations with the Plateans, 143. His extraordinary expedient at the siege of Platea, 146.
- Archidamus, the son of Agesilaus, expedition of, v. 97. Speech of, 133.
- Archilochus, the poet, ii. 124.
- Archinus, iv. 234.
- Archon, obtains the government of Babylonia, vii. 127.
- Archonides, a Sicel chief, his alliance with the Athenians, iii. 406.
- Archons, See "Athens."
- Ardoates, king of Armenia, vii. 368.
- Areus, king, his unsuccessful expedition against the Ætolians, viii. 49.
- Argæus attempts to mount the throne of Macedon, v. 173.
- Arganthionius, the Tartessian king, ii. 108.
- Arginusæ, the battle of, iv. 120.
- Argonautic expedition, the legend of, i. 142. Religious groundwork of the legend, 145. Its historical foundation, 146. Its connection with the Trojan War, 153.
- Argos, internal condition of, iii. 312. Alliance of, with Sparta, 353. Change in the policy of, 354. Counter revolution, 355. Burning of the Prytaneum and democratic council of Five Hundred at, vii. 301. Unsuccessful attack upon, by Pyrrhus, who is defeated and slain, viii. 75. Attempts of Arates upon, 123. Submission of, to Cleomenes, 177. Defence of, by Nabis, 324. Liberty of, solemnly proclaimed, 328.
- Argyraspids, the, vii. 267. They seize and bind Eumenes, 279. Their turbulent spirit, 282.
- Ariabignes, brother of Xerxes, slain in the battle of Salamis, ii. 311.
- Ariarathes, vii. 128. Defeated and put to death in Asia Minor by Perdiccas, 205.
- Arigæum, city near the Indus, vii. 7.
- Ariobarzanes, satrap of Phrygia, vi. 128.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

483

- Aristagoras, his expedition to Naxos, ii. 207. Failure of the expedition, 209. Incites the Ionians to revolt, 210.
- Aristander, of Telmissus, Alexander's Lycian soothsayer, vi. 119.
- Aristeus, the Corinthian commander, iii. 102.
- Aristides, ii. 269. His interview with Themistocles, 305. Establishes his country in an honourable and well-earned pre-eminence, 371. His death, 375.
- Aristippus, his connection with Cyrus, iv. 287.
- Aristo, stratagem of, iii. 432.
- Aristobulus, vi. 153. vii. 99. His details of the death of Alexander, 107.
- Aristocrates, king of Arcadia, i. 362. His treachery and death, 367.
- Aristocrates, the Athenian general, iv. 8. Impeachment of, 129. His execution, 136.
- Aristodemus, story of, i. 349. Slain in the battle of Plataea, ii. 350.
- Aristodemus, and Alexander, son of Polysperchon, vii. 302, 303.
- Aristogeiton, conspiracy of, ii. 67. Execution of, 69.
- Aristolimus, his tyranny and violent death, viii. 87.
- Aristomenes, king of Messenia, his birth and character, i. 359. His wonderful exploits and escapes, 364. His death, 368.
- Aristonicus, the tyrant of Methyna, vi. 210. 303.
- Aristonicus, proscribed by Antipater, vii. 195, 196.
- Aristonous, vii. 117. 119. 128.
- Aristophanes, the comic poet, iii. 300. Review of his writings, iv. 250. His political views, 253. Attacks the Sophists, 260. Motives which induced him, 270.
- Aristophon, the orator, v. 233.
- Aristotle, i. 81. His influence on the mind and character of Alexander the Great, vi. 92. Is reported by some to have been concerned in poisoning Alexander, vii. 107. Is forced to withdraw from Athens, on a charge of impiety, 189.
- Arrhabæus, prince of Lyceus, v. 158.
- Arrian of Nicomedia, vi. 153.
- Arrian, chronology of the historian, vii. 13. On Alexander's battles in India, 19. On the retreat of the Macedonians from the Hyphasis, 29. Describes the serpents and syrtes of the deserts of Gedrosia, 58, 59. Historical details from his works, 84. 107.
- Arridæus, a Macedonian general, vii. 130. 209.
- Arridæus, Philip, son of Philip by Philinna, vi. 61. Either imbecile or suffering from poison given by Olympias, vii. 120. Proclaimed king by the Macedonian army at Babylon, 121. Perdiccas constrains him to punish the partisans of Meleager with death, 126. Edict of, 246, 247. Is put to death after a battle by queen Olympias, 285.
- Arsaces, lieutenant of Tissaphernes, his perfidy and cruelty, iv. 80.
- Arsaces, a prince of central India, vii. 31.
- Arsames, satrap of Asia, vi. 260.
- Arsinoe, daughter of Ptolemy and Berenice, her marriage to Lysimachus, viii. 2. Particulars connected with her history, 42. et seq. Her alliance with Ptolemy Ceraunus, and its unhappy results, 50. et seq.
- Arsites, satrap of Phrygia, vi. 155.
- Artabazanes, son of Darius, disputes the succession with his brother Xerxes, ii. 249.
- Artabazus, his military operations, ii. 317.
- Artabazus, the satrap, v. 219. Submission of, to Alexander, vi. 246.
- Artaphernes, satrap of the Asiatic coast of the Ægean, ii. 206. His cruelties, 209. His regulations in Ionia, 225.
- Artas, a Messapian chief, iii. 429.
- Artages, governor of Sestos, ii. 360. His cruel fate, 361.
- Artaxerxes, his reception of Themistocles, ii. 388. Sends bribes to the principal Spartans to use their influence so as to engage their countrymen in an expedition against Attica, iii. 27. His message to the Greeks, iv. 311. His death, vi. 130.
- Artemis, sanctuary of, at Orchomenus, vii. 302.
- Artemisia, queen of Caria, ii. 303. 309. v. 304. vi. 81.
- Arybas, king of Epirus, vi. 79.
- Asander, vi. 160. vii. 128. Satrap of Caria, 228. 307.
- Asclepiodorus, satrap of Syria, vi. 295. Succeeds to Peucestes in Persis, vii. 282.
- Asia, Alexander the Great designed to Hellenise, vii. 112. And planted numerous Greek colonies, 112 et passim. Insurrection of the Greek colonists in, 203.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

Asctetics of Hindostan, vii. 14.
 Asius, the genealogical poet of Samos, i. 49.
 Asopius, son of Phormio, iii. 175.
 Aspasia, her connection with Pericles, iii. 87. Prosecution against her, 88.
 Aspasiens, or Hippasians of India, vii. 6.
 Aspastes, satrap of Carmania. His execution, vii. 64.
 Assaceniens, Indian tribe, vii. 6.
 Astyages, ii. 164. Dethroned by Cyrus, 165.
 Astylus of Croton, i. 389.
 Athamenes, colonies founded by him, i. 279.
 Athames, the Mingan chief, ii. 86.
 Athanagoras, the Syracusan orator, iii. 385.
 Athenodorus, the Athenian general, v. 223.
 Athenians, ii. 77. iv. 3. Their great sufferings during the siege of Lachares, viii. 11. Their courage and patience during the siege of Antigonus, 89.
 Athenian confederacy, revival and growth of the, v. 203.
 Athenodorus, leader of the Greek revolt in Asia, is assassinated, vii. 203.
 Athens, form of government at, when the Athenians first came into collision with the Persians, ii. 1. Tribes of, 3, 4. 7. The kings, Cecrops, Cranaus, and Erichthonius, 3. Pandion, 4. Reign of Theseus, 5. He collected the tribes in, 8. Theseus considered as the founder of the democracy, 9. 11. Privileges of the oligarchy, 10, 11. 14. The tribes subdivided into phratries, 12. 37. Worship of Zeus and Apollo at, 13. Usurpation of Menestheus at, 15. Death of Codrus; his son Medon archon for life, 15. Decennial archons, 16. Cause of the deposition of Hippomenes, 16, 17, 18. Annual archons, 16. The polemarch, 16. Laws of Draco, 18. 36. Conspiracy of Cylon, 20. 23. Megacles commands the death of the conspirators, 22. Laws of Solon, 23. 30. 36—54. War of Megara, 24. Epimenides invited by the Athenians, 27. 29, 30. Cratinus and Aristodemus devote themselves to death, 29. Court of the Areiopagus, 29. Temple of the Eumenides on the hill of Mars, 29. Council of the Four Hundred, 40. The Alcmaeonids, 41.

57. 60. 73. Constitution, 43. 48. Court of the Heliæa, 44. The Athenian women, 51. The navy of, 52. Condition of slaves at, 53. Lycurgus, Megacles and Peisistratus, chiefs of the three factions at, 55. Power of Peisistratus, 56. 60. 62. 65. Temples built by him, 63. Hipparchus slain by Harmodius and Aristogeiton, 65—68. Tyranny of Hippias, 69. 72. The Amphictyons rebuild the temple of Delphi, 70. Cleisthenes, 71. 77. Spartans under Cleomenes invade Attica, 71. 77. 79, 80. Victories of the Athenians over the Bœotians, and at Chalcis, 78. Athenian embassies to Philip, king of Macedon, at Pella, v. 337. 343. 346. 357. Ratification of the treaty with that monarch, 361. Their return, 362. Report made by Æschines, 363. A third embassy of the Athenians, 365. Public opinion at Athens regarding the measures of King Philip, 369. The Athenians incited against Alexander by Demosthenes, vi. 104. They send that orator with other envoys to appease him; result of this mission, 106. Their reception of Harpalus gives offence to the Macedonian conqueror, vii. 74. 89. 93. Macedonian party at Athens 133. Demand for the surrender of the Athenian orators, 133. 190. Cause of "the crown," a mark of approbation by his fellow citizens to Demosthenes, 135—140. Impeachment of Leocrates by Lycurgus, 140. Administration of Lycurgus, son of Lycophrion, 141. 147. The exiles, 151. Of the political conduct of Demosthenes, 155. 164. The Athenians assert the liberty of Greece, 165—169. Defeat of Antipater by Leosthenes, and blockade of Lamia, 171, 172. Defeat of the Athenian navy by Clitus, 183. Embassies to Antipater, 188, 189. Phocion, 189, 237. 250. Capitulation to Antipater, 190. Mynchia garrisoned by the Macedonians, 191. 193. 237. Pursuit of the orators and death of Demosthenes, 195. 197. Athenians surrender their freedom, 222. Revolution at Athens, 249. Alexander, son of Polysperchon, encamps at, 249. Phocion in the Macedonian camp, 250, 251. His condemnation and death, 253. 255. Treaty with Cassander,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

485

- who occupies the city, 263. Expedition of Demetrius, to recover, viii. 7. Lachares becomes master of it, 10. Siege of, by Lachares, 11. By Antigones, 89. Attack upon, by Philip, 289. Embassy of the Three Philosophers to Rome, 436.
- Atossa, daughter of Cyrus, and the most honourable among the wives of Darius, ii. 192.
- Atossa, the princess, vi. 131.
- Atrax, unsuccessful siege of, by Flamininus, viii. 299.
- Atropates, satrap of Media, vi. 312; vii. 92. 127.
- Attagnus of Thebes, ii. 332.
- Attalus, vi. 78; his death, 107.
- Attalus of Pergama, included in the treaty of the Ætolians with Rome, viii. 260. His military operations, 263. et seq.
- Attalus, admiral of Perdiccas; his services in India, vii. 18. Takes Tyre, 222. Embraces the cause of Euridice, 224. His enterprises, 227. et seq.
- Attica, i. 13. iii. 235. Invasion of, by Cassander, viii. 6. By Antigonus, 91. By Aratus, 121. See "Athens," "Marathon," &c.
- Audata, Illyrian princess, vii. 210.
- Autocles, the Athenian general, v. 217.
- Autolycus put to death by order of the Thirty, iv. 183.
- Autophradates, satrap of the Taurians, vi. 246.
- Autophradates, satrap of Lydia, vi. 128.
- Axiothea, wife of Nicocles, her despair and heroic death, vii. 323.
- Azelmicus, king of Tyre, vi. 202.
- B.
- Babylon, triumphant entry of Alexander into, vi. 226. The great temple of, vii. 97. Death of Alexander the Great at, 107–109. Became a port of commercial importance, 111. Council of the Macedonian generals at, 117.
- Bacchus or Dionysus, tradition of his conquest of India, vii. 11. Festival of, 92.
- Bacchylides, the poet, iii. 71.
- Bactria, vii. 11. Greek colonists in, consider it as a land of hopeless exile, 28. These revolt and set out on their return, 75. Massacre of insurgents by Perdiccas, 202. 204.
- Baghistane, garden and monuments of, vii. 92.
- Barsaentes, satrap of Arachosia, vi. 238.
- Baryaxes, the Mede, his presumption, and punishment, vii. 72.
- Battus, legend of, ii. 95.
- Battus II., ii. 100.
- Battus III., ii. 100.
- Bazira, its capture by Alexander, vii. 8.
- Belesis, satrap of Syria and Assyria, iv. 296.
- Bellerophon, his adventures, i. 125.
- Bessus, satrap of Bactria, vi. 216. Capture and punishment of, 281. Doom of, 295.
- Bianor, vi. 190.
- Blitor, dismissed from his government by Antigonus, vii. 283.
- Bœotia, division of, i. 9. Character of the people, 13. Early inhabitants of, 36.
- Bœotians, the, assertion of their independence of Demetrius, but afterwards they submit to his terms of peace, viii. 19. They revolt, and are again reduced to submission, 19. At the instigation of Pyrrhus, they again revolt, and after a protracted siege, surrender at discretion, 25.
- Boges, the Persian governor of Eion, iii. 3.
- Brachylus, murder of, viii. 315.
- Brahmin anchorites, 15.
- Brahmins, influence of the, vii. 37. 49.
- Brasidas, exploit of, iii. 128. Courage and zeal of, 239. His expedition to Thrace, 266. His expedition to Macedonia, 272. His quarrel with Perdiccas, 273. Marches against Amphipolis, 285. Popularity of, 288. Conquests of, 290. Prevailed upon once more to join his forces to a Macedonian army, 295. His second quarrel with Perdiccas, 296. Slain in the battle of Amphipolis, 304.
- Brennus, a Celtic general, his march into Macedonia, and victory over Sosthenes, viii. 55. Is defeated by the Greeks, 58. His successful inroad into Ætolia, 59. His attack on Delphi, 61. His defeat, 63.
- Bryas, the Argive chief, iii. 355.
- Bulis. See Sperthias, iii. 163.
- Bucephala, city founded upon the death of the horse Bucephalus, vii. 24.
- Byzantium, siege of, vi. 43. Regulation of the hierarchy, 51.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

486

INDEX.

C.

- Cabul, city and river, vii. 5.
- Cabura, Ortospa, or Nicæa, the modern Cabul, vii. 5.
- Cadmeans, the, ancient inhabitants of Thebes, i. 104.
- Cadmus, i. 69. The first who introduced letters among the Greeks, 239.
- Cadmus of Miletus, said to be the first to have applied prose to an historical subject, i. 127.
- Cæsar, the dictator, i. 18.
- Calanus or Sphines, vii. 15. This Indian philosopher burns himself at Susa, 78. Serious drinking match at his funeral, 79. His prediction as to Alexander's death at Babylon, 97.
- Calaurea, island of, i. 23. Death of Demosthenes in the temple of Poseidon or Neptune in, vii. 196.
- Callatia, Odessus, and Greek cities near the Euxine, vii. 307. Siege of, 307.
- Callias, the Athenian general, iii. 102. Slain in the battle of Potidæa, 104.
- Callias, the Eubœan, vi. 19.
- Callias of Chalcis, vi. 43.
- Callicrates distinguished as the most beautiful person in the Grecian army, ii. 346.
- Callicrates, embassy of, viii. 377. et seq. His influence in the councils of the Achæan League, 392. His servility towards Rome, 423. His cruelty and rapacity, 427. General detestation of his conduct, 429. His illness and death, 440.
- Callicratidas succeeds Lysander as admiral, iv. 115. Successes of, 120.
- Callimachus, the polemarch, ii. 239.
- Callimedon, the exile, his address to Antipater, vii. 190.
- Callinus, the Ephesian poet, ii. 158.
- Callisthenes, the Athenian general, v. 187. Different accounts as to the manner of his death, vi. 325.
- Callistratus, the Athenian orator, v. 38. 65.
- Callixenus comes forward as the accuser of the Athenian generals, iv. 131.
- Calydon, i. 99.
- Calydonian boar, chase of the, i. 142.
- Camarina, debate at, iii. 404.
- Cambyses, the son and heir of Cyrus, ii. 173. His death, 182.
- Carduchians, the, iv. 341.
- Carians. See "Leleges," i. 43.
- Carmania, vii. 50. Alexander enters Kerman from Gedrosia, 62. Insurrection of the Carmanians, 67.
- Carthaginians, the, vii. 99.
- Carystus, siege of, ii. 232.
- Cashmere, kingdom of, vii. 8.
- Caspian Sea, Heraclides sent to explore the, vii. 101, 111.
- Cassander, vi. 151. vii. 89. His interview with Alexander at Babylon, 105. Ill used by the king, and reported to have taken revenge, 106, 107. Is appointed chiliarch in command of the cavalry by his father, Antipater, vii. 225. He orders the execution of Demades and Demeas, 238. His dissimulation on the appointment of Polysperchon to succeed Antipater, 239. His clandestine flight, 240. The Athenians capitulate to Cassander, 262. He lays siege to Pydna, 287. Makes himself master of Macedonia, and puts Olympias, mother of Alexander the Great, to death, 290, 291. He imprisons Roxana and her son at Amphipolis, 291, 292. Marries Thessalonice, and founds the cities of Thessalonica and Cassandrea, 292. Forces the pass of Thermopylæ, 293. Rebuilds the Bœotian Thebes, 293—295. Puts Roxana and Alexander Ægus to death, 319. His crimes compared with those of his rivals for power, 322. His unsuccessful attempt to recover Corcyra, viii. 5. His invasion of Attica, 6. He relinquishes his design, 7. His death, 8. Is succeeded by his son Philip, 9.
- Cassandrea, recovery of, by Antigonus, from Apollodorus, viii. 67.
- Cathæans, Indian race, vii. 25. Their total defeat by Alexander, 26.
- Caucones, the origin of the, i. 42.
- Cecrops, i. 37. His doubtful origin, 66.
- Ceisus succeeds his father, Temenus, at Argos, i. 271.
- Celts, the, their invasion of Macedonia, viii. 52. Its consequences, 53. et seq. Their inroads into Ætolia, 59. Attack on Delphi, 61. Their retreat, 63.
- Cephisodotus, the Athenian general, iv. 148. v. 219.
- Ceraunus. See "Ptolemy."
- Cersobleptes, king of Thrace, v.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

487

222. His negotiation with Athens, 225. Is omitted in the treaty with King Philip, 355. His dominions invaded by Philip of Macedon, 357, 358.
- Chabinas, the Athenian general, v. 37. Sent to establish the Athenian ascendancy in Eubœa, 226. Death of, 233.
- Chæron, established as tyrant in Pelleue, vii. 151. His malversation and punishment, viii. 375.
- Chæroneia, the battle of, vi. 69.
- Chaldæan priests warn Alexander of his impending fate, vii. 96. Their prediction of the power of Seleucus, 283.
- Chalcedon, siege of, iv. 96.
- Chalcideus, his expedition to Chios, iv. 8. To Ionia, 11. Success of, at Miletus, 13.
- Chalcidians, the, the first Greeks who gained a footing in Sicily, ii. 92.
- Chalcis fortified by the Eubœans, iv. 83.
- Chaones, the, i. 36.
- Chares, the Athenian general, v. 13. 209. Enters the service of Artabazus, 235. Sestus taken by, 259. Describes the tent of Alexander, vii. 77.
- Charidemus of Dreus, v. 185. His treachery, 187.
- Charilaus proclaimed king of Sparta, i. 294.
- Charmides killed in the battle of Munychia, iv. 202.
- Charœades, his expedition to Sicily, iii. 233.
- Charon, v. 31. Placed at the head of the government of Thebes, with the title of Bœotarch, 35.
- Cheileos of Tegea, ii. 274.
- Cheirisophus, iv. 294. His death, 332.
- Chenab, river, named the Acesines, vii. 25. 36.
- Chios, battle of, viii. 283.
- Choes, Choaspes or Evaspla, river, vii. 6. 7.
- Chœreas, iv. 60.
- Chremonidian war, the, viii. 91.
- Cilicia, operations of Demetrius in, viii. 38.
- Cimon, father of the celebrated Militiades, ii. 62.
- Cimon, son of Militiades, iii. 1. His death, 37.
- Cinadon, conspiracy of, iv. 379. Execution of, 381.
- Cinetes, the, i. 81.
- Cissidas, commander of the Syracusan auxiliaries, v. 122.
- Cleander, vi. 220. Put to death by Alexander, vii. 63.
- Cleanor, the Greek general, iv. 331.
- Clearchus, his expedition to the Hellespont, iv. 8. Sent a second time to the Bosphorus, 92. Joins Cyrus, 285. His reply to Tissaphernes, 315. His interview with Tissaphernes, 320. Arrest and execution of, 324.
- Clearidas, intrusted with the government of Amphipolis, iii. 300.
- Cleisthenes, tyrant of Sicyon, i. 383.
- Cleitus, vi. 158. Appointed satrap of Bactria, 305. Is murdered by Alexander, 307.
- Cleitus, Macedonian admiral, defeats the Athenians under Eetion, vii. 183. He celebrates his victory of Amorgus, 183, 184. He defeats Nicanor in the Propontis, 260. Is surprised and totally defeated by Antigonus, 261. Is slain by Lysimachus, 261.
- Cleocritus, the herald of the Mysteries, his address to the conquerors after the battle of Munychia, iv. 202.
- Cleombrotus, his expedition against Thebes, v. 49. Slain in the battle of Leuctra, 75.
- Cleomedes, expedition of, to Melos, iii. 357. Tragical issue, 361.
- Cleomenes, king of Sparta, ii. 71. Dies miserably by his own hand, 229.
- Cleomenes, satrap of Egypt, vii. 73. 104. 127.
- Cleomenes II., king of Sparta, viii. 69.
- Cleomenes, son of Leonidas, his marriage to Agiatis, widow of Agis IV., viii. 147. Her great influence over him, 148. His accession to the throne, on the death of Leonidas, 149. He contemplates a similar reform to that attempted by Agis, 149. Is suspected of the murder of Eurymidas, son of Agis, 150. Success of his first military expeditions, 156. His conduct towards Archidamus, 157. Further conquests, 159. He commences operations towards a revolution in Sparta, 161. He removes the ephoralty, and explains his motives to the people, 162. He unfolds his plans of reform, 163. Having settled his reforms, he proceeds on fresh expeditions, 163. His great success, 169. Cleomenes at Argos, 177. His negotiations with Aratus, 179. Further movements, 181. Receives inform-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

488

INDEX.

- ation of the death of Agiatis, 184.
 Cleomenes at Megalopolis, 189.
 His defeat at the battle of Selasia, 199. He sails for Alexandria, 199. Cleomenes at Alexandria, 201. Plots formed against him in the court of Alexander, 203. His last desperate attempt to escape, 204. His death, 205.
 Cleomonic war, the, viii. 155.
 Cleon, his character, iii. 186. Slain in the battle of Amphipolis, 304.
 Cleonidas, a commander of Ptolemy's, at Corinth, vii. 333.
 Cleonymus, slain in the battle of Leuctra, v. 75.
 Cleonymus, Spartan, takes Corcyra, vii. 353. Seeks the aid of Pyrrhus to wrest the crown from Areus, viii. 70.
 Cleopatra, daughter of Philip and Olympias, her hand sought by Leonnatus, vii. 178. She is promised by the queen to Perdiccas, 210. Her counsels to Eumenes at Sardis, 228. Is murdered by command of Antigonus when about to marry Ptolemy, 324.
 Cleopatra, widow of Perdiccas of Macedon, v. 158.
 Cleopatra, niece of Attalus, her marriage with Philip of Macedon, vi. 78. Murdered by Olympias, 85.
 Cleophon, iv. 89. His imprisonment and death, 164.
 Cnemus, the Spartan admiral, iii. 149.
 Codrus, king of Athens, i. 52.
 Cœnus, vi. 242. vii. 15. 21. Harangues Alexander on the necessity of quitting India, 29. His funeral obsequies on the bank of the Hydaspes, 31.
 Cœratadas, iv. 98. His character, 354.
 Coes, the tyrant of Mitylene, stoned to death by the people, ii. 202.
 Cœsyra, wife of Pisistratus, ii. 59.
 Commissioners, Roman, appointed by the senate to settle the affairs in Macedonia after its submission, viii. 415. Their proceedings, with observations upon, 416. et seq. Their extensive jurisdiction, 419. Gross partiality of their measures, 420. Their exorbitant demands upon the Achæans, 425. Their measures towards settling the future condition of Greece, 455.
 Comontorius, the Celtic general, establishment by him of an independent kingdom in Thrace, viii. 64.
 Conon, iv. 110. Defeats the Spartans in the battle of Arginusæ, 124. His negotiations at the Persian court, 411. His interview with Artaxerxes, 412. His imprisonment, 434.
 Cophen, river formed by the confluence of the Cabul and Pendjshir, vii. 5. Alexander's passage of the, 6. Its tributary streams, 6, 7.
 Corcyra, conquest of, by Demetrius, viii. 28.
 Corcyræan war, commencement of the, iii. 93. 255.
 Corinna, the Thetan poetess, iii. 71.
 Corinth, battle of, iv. 406. Is garrisoned by Ptolemy, king of Egypt, vii. 323. Surrenders to Demetrius Poliorcetes, 352. Congress at, 353. Movements of Aratus on, viii. 111. Siege of, by L. Quinctius, 302. Destruction of, by Mummius, 453.
 Coronea, the battle of, iii. 41.
 Coronus, the king of the Lapiths, i. 103.
 Corupedion, battle of, viii. 45.
 Corybantes, the, i. 78.
 Corydallus, of Anticyra, ii. 286.
 Corylas, the Paphlagonian king, iv. 347.
 Cotys, king of Paphlagonia, iv. 399.
 Cotys, king of Thrace, v. 187. Review of his reign, 216. His violent death, 219. Division of his kingdom, 221.
 Crannon. In this battle Antipater and Craterus defeat Antiphilus and Meno, the commanders of the Grecian confederates, vii. 186.
 Craterus, a celebrated captain in the Indian campaign under Alexander, vii. 6. 18. 22. Builds some new cities there, 24. Conducts the Macedonian advanced guard, on the king's return, down the Hydaspes, 35. 37. His victorious march through Arachosia to rejoin Alexander in Carmania, 50. 62. His nuptials with Amastris, 76. Sent with the veterans to Macedonia, 88. Purpose of his mission, 88. Appointed regent in Europe together with Antipater, 119. His arrival in Thessaly with veteran troops from Asia, 185. Resigns the command to the regent Antipater, 185. He marries Phila, daughter of Antipater, and joins the regent in an expedition against

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

489

- Æolia, 199. He is sent to attack Eumenes, 214. Veneration of the Macedonian army for him, 215. Stratagem of Eumenes to prevent his troops from recognising Craterus, 215. Craterus, mortally wounded, is lamented by the victorious Eumenes, 215, 216.
Craterus, compiler of the Athenian state documents, iii. 58.
Crates, an Athenian philosopher, heads the embassy to Demetrius, viii. 35.
Cratesipolis, widow of Alexander, governs Sicyon, vii. 303. 323. Visit of Demetrius to her, 332.
Cratesippidas, the Athenian admiral, iv. 91.
Cratinus, an Athenian youth, voluntarily devotes himself for his country, and is joined in death by his friend Aristodemus, ii. 29.
Cresphontes, i. 255. 261. 342.
Cretheus, i. 90. vii. 61.
Crissa, the vale of, i. 8.
Critolaus, general of the Achæan League, viii. 446. His efforts to hasten the threatened rupture with Rome, 446. et seq. Upon the decree of war by the League, he is placed chief in command, 448. He encounters the Roman forces under Metellus, and is defeated, 449.
Critias, iv. 75. Killed in the battle of Munychia, 201.
Critodemus, physician, vii. 43.
Crocodyles of the Indus, vii. 32. Of the Nile, 219.
Cræsus, king of Lydia, i. 369. ii. 163.
Cromi, the valley of, i. 26.
Cromnus, siege of, v. 137.
Crown, the cause of the, pleaded by Æschines and Demosthenes, in the prosecution of Ctesiphon, vii. 135—139.
Ctesias, his account of India, vii. 2, 3.
Ctesiphon, v. 333. Indicted by Æschines for having proposed the decree of "a crown" to Demosthenes, vii. 135.
Cunaxa, the battle of, iv. 303.
Cyaxares, king of Media, ii. 164.
Cylon of Megara, i. 428. Conspiracy of, ii. 21.
Cymnians, the, i. 116.
Cynætha, betrayal of, viii. 221.
Cynane, sister of Alexander the Great, vi. 112. Married to Amyntas, vii. 210. Passes over to Asia, and is executed by Alcetas at the desire of Perdiccas, 211.
Cynocephalæ, battle of, viii. 309. et seq. Remarks upon, 311. Its results, 312. et seq.
Cynopema, the battle of, iv. 79.
Cyprus, wars in, vi. 123. vii. 304. 334. Dreadful fate of the family of Nicocles in, 322, 323. Conquest of, by Ptolemy, viii. 14.
Cypselus, king of Arcadia, i. 343. Overthrows the Bacchiads, 419. His character, 420.
Cyrene and the Cyrenaica reduced by Ptolemy's general Ophellas, vii. 208.
Cyrus, ii. 165. His death, 173. His sepulchre at Pasargadæ, vii. 68.
Cyrus the Younger, satrap of the maritime provinces of Asia Minor, iv. 99. His ambition, 281. His interview with Synesis, king of Cilicia, 292. Slain in the battle of Cunaxa, 307. Consequences which his failure had on the interests of Greece, 308.
Cyzicus, the battle of, iv. 87.

D.

- Damarata, wife of Gelo of Syracuse, iii. 219.
Damaratus, king of Sparta, ii. 228. Deposition of, 229.
Damis obliges Polysperchon to abandon the siege of Megalopolis, vii. 257—260. 302.
Danaus, legend of, i. 64.
Dandamis, cœnobite, vii. 15.
Darius Hystaspes mounts the throne of Persia, ii. 183. His institutions, and their defects, 186. Boundary of his empire, 191. His march through Thrace, 199. His adventures in Scythia, 200. Prosperity and extension of his nation, 207. His endeavours to quell the Ionian rebellion, 216. Renews his preparations for the invasion of Greece, 226. His domestic troubles, 248. His death, 249.
Darius, son of Xerxes, ii. 386.
Darius II., iii. 256. Makes overtures to Sparta, iv. 5.
Darius Codomannus, vi. 145. His approach to Tarsus, vi. 175. Magnificence of his retinue, 176. His march to Issus, and preparations for battle, 178. Flight of, 184. His letter to Alexander, 191. His flight after the battle of Gangamela, 223. His hopes and plans, 237. His murder 243.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

Datames, satrap of Cappadocia, vi. 128. His death, 130.

Datis, expedition of, ii. 231.

Deidamia seeks refuge with Olym-pias and Roxana in Pydna, vii.
287.

Deiphontes, his success embittered by a tragical calamity brought on him by the deadly hatred of his children, i. 271.

Delians, restoration of the, iii. 319.

Delium, the battle of, iii. 281.

Delos, purification of the island of,
iii. 217.

Delphic oracles, ii. 293. Treasures in danger, v. 267.

Delphi, congress at, v. 113. Attack upon, by Brennus, viii. 61.

Demades, Athenian demagogue,
v. 297. vii. 157. 160. His mission, together with Phocion, to Antipater at Thebes, 188, 189.
He intrigues with Perdicas against Antipater, and this conduct coming to the knowledge of the latter, Demades, with his son Demeas, are put to death, 236—238.

Demaratè, wife of Gelo of Syracuse,
ii. 319.

Demaratus, a Corinthian, employed by Philip to induce Alexander to return from Illyria,
vi. 80.

Demarchus, the Syracusan general,
iv. 91.

Demeas, son of Demades. Is put to death by Cassander, vii. 238.

Demetrius, revolt of, its influence on the future destinies of Antiochus, viii. 339. et seq.

Demetrius Poliorcetes, his attempt to dig through the isthmus of Corinth, i. 17, 18. Son of Antigonus, vii. Is defeated by Ptolemy I. at Gaza, 312. But shortly after takes Cillas prisoner in the action at Myus, 312. Marches into Arabia to Petra, and is repulsed by the Arabs of the Desert, 314. Abandons the siege of Babylon after a partial success, 315.
And leaves Archelaus to invest that city, 315. He compels Ptolemy to raise the siege of Halicarnassus, 323. Attacks Cassander and Ptolemy in Greece, 324.
His armament against Athens,
325. He deposes Demetrius Phalerus, and sends him to Thebes,
328, 329. He dismantles Munychia, 330. Honours decreed him by the Athenians, 331. Spares the city of Megara, at the solicitation of the Athenians, 332.

His visit to Cratesipolis, attracted by her reputation for beauty, 332.
His narrow escape from Ptolemy's garrisons at Corinth and Sicyon, 333. Espouses Eurydice, widow of Ophellias, 333. Recalled from Greece by his father, 333. Sails for Cyprus, and defeats Menelaus at Salamis, 334.
Defeats Ptolemy, and destroys his fleet, in the second battle of Salamis in Cyprus, 335. Menelaus surrenders his fleet to, 335. Generosity of Demetrius displayed towards Ptolemy, 335. Sends Aristodemus to salute Antigo-nus as king, 335, 336. The new kings, 337. He joins in the expedition of Antigonus against Egypt, 337. Quitting Gaza, his fleet suffers by a storm, 338.
His retreat from Syria and Egypt,
339. Lays siege to Rhodes, 341.
His engine of attack, called Hele-polis, 343: 345. 348. His successful assaults, 346, 347. His captains
Alcimus and Mantias are slain by the Rhodians, 347. Terms exactod of the citizens, 348. After a year's siege, and this halfcapitulation, he withdraws his forces, 348. He sails with a great fleet to the Euripus, and drives
Cassander from before the walls of Athens, 349. Defeats Cassander at Thermopylæ, 349. His campaign in the Peloponnesus against Polysperchon and other adversaries, 351—353. He retires to Cenchreæ, and gives way to luxury, 351. Sicyon surrendered to him by Philippus, 351.
He destroys that city, and rebuilds it under the name of De-metrias, 352. Corinth is surrendered to him by Prepelas, 352.
Espouses Deidamia, sister of Pyrrhus, at Argos, 353. He dictates terms to Cassander, who resists, and forms a league with Lysimachus and Ptolemy, the rival kings, against Antigonus, 355, 356. He takes Larissa Cremastè, 356. Takes Phæræ, 357.
Treats with Cassander, and sails to Asia to join Antigonus, 359,
360. Takes Ephesus, and marches to the Hellespont, 360. Places a naval force at the mouth of the Euxine, 360. Is joined by Pyrrhus, 362. Amount of the army of Antigonus and his son at Ip-sus, 362. In this decisive battle he routs the cavalry division of Antiochus, son of Seleucus, 363.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

491

- Is deserted by a part of his soldiery, who go over to Seleucus during the combat, 364. On the fall of Antigonus he flies into Cyprus, with his mother Stratonice, 365. He retakes Ephesus, 365. Is refused admission into Athens, 365. Repairs to the Isthmus, 366. Finds he had forfeited the confidence of the Greeks and Macedonians, 370. He enters into an alliance with Seleucus, by giving him his daughter Stratonice in marriage, viii. 3. He sails towards Syria, and is met by Seleucus, 4. He opposes the claims of Seleucus, and a rupture ensues, 6. He undertakes an expedition against Athens, 7. He ravages the country from Eleusis to Rhamnus, 10. Becomes master of Athens, 12. His affected magnanimity, 12. He proceeds to attack Sparta, 13. He is diverted from his object by other prospects of victory, 14. He effects the murder of Alexander, 17. He is elected to the sovereign power by the voice of the army and the people, 18. His movements against Bœotia, 19. It submits to his authority, 20. He marches into Thrace, 23. He is arrested in his successful career, by news of the revolt of Bœotia, 24. Demetrius at Athens, 25. His innovation with respect to the Pythian games, 25. His motives for this, 26. His invasion of Ætolia, 26. He is attacked by a dangerous illness, 28. Concludes a truce with Pyrrhus, and prepares for the East, 29. Pyrrhus breaks his treaty, and joins the common enemy against Demetrius, 31. Disaffection of the Macedonian troops, 32. Demetrius seeks safety in flight, 33. His wanderings, 34. Is again at the head of an army, and besieges Athens, 34. He raises the siege, and concludes another treaty with Pyrrhus, 35. Sails for Miletus, 35. Is there married to Ptolemais, daughter of Eurydice, 35. More wanderings, 36. Marches into Cilicia, 37. His reverse of fortune, 38. He is taken captive, 39. His death, 41.
- Demetrius, the Phalerian, his origin, vii. 262. 325. His long administration at Athens considered, 325. Revives the public recitation of the poems of Homer, 325. His eloquence and voluminous writings, 325. His Institutions lauded by Cicero, 325. Adorns Athens, 326. Was a disciple of Theophrastus, 325, 327. His personal habits, 327. After a mild government he suddenly changes to tyranny, 327. Honours bestowed on him by the Athenians, 327. His statues, 327. Is attacked by Demetrius, son of Antigonus, 328. Is deserted by Nopolitæ, and finds a refuge at Thebes, 329. Patronised by Ptolemy I. at Alexandria, 329. His death in Egypt, 329.
- Demetrius II., son of Antigonus Gonatas, his marriage with Nicaea, widow of Alexander, viii. 109. Succeeds his father in the kingdom, 118. Uncertainty connected with his history, 119. His death, and important results of it to Greece, 130.
- Demetrius, son of Philip III. of Macedonia, his embassy to Rome, viii. 382. Cautious proceedings of the senate, 383. Dangerous position of Demetrius, 384. Suspicions of his secret leaning to Rome, 384. Designs of his brother Perseus against him, 385. His death by poison, 385.
- Democedes, a Greek physician, ii. 192.
- Demochares, his military operations in the Four Years' War, viii. 8. et seq. His embassies, 9. et seq.
- Democratical principles, their prevalence in the cities of ancient Greece, viii. 103.
- Demosthenes, Athenian general, his expedition against Ætolia, iii. 208. Its disastrous issue, 210. Elected commander-in-chief of the allied army, 212. Commences the fortification of Pylus, 237. His plan for the attack on Spachteria, 248. Returns to Athens, 263. Is banished, 264. Defeats the Agreans, and reduces their king to subjection, 278. Appointed to the command of the new armament sent out to join Nicias, 421. His plan for a night attack on Epiporizæ, 434. His defeat, 442. Appointed to command the Athenian fleet, 445. Execution of, 456.
- Demosthenes, Athenian statesman and orator, v. 247. His birth and parentage, 248. His education, 249. Suit with his guardians, 250. Natural defects, 252. Imputations on his character, 255. His

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- speech against the law of Leptines, 256. His speech on the subject of the war with Persia, 258. His speech in behalf of the Megalopolitans, 288. Opposes the decree for the protection of Charidemus, 291. Occasion of the first Philippic, 293. His plan for military operations, 299. His speech for the Rhodians, 304. His speech on the subject of the alliance between Olynthus and Athens, 309. His views with regard to the negotiations with Philip of Macedon, 334. Appointed one of the embassy of ten, 337. His speech on the famous negotiation with Philip, 338. Anecdote of, 345. Exerts himself strenuously to promote peace, 352. Receives the Macedonian embassy with great pomp and magnificence, 353. His growing influence and political views, vi. 4. His oration on the peace, 6. Sent into Peloponnesus to counteract the progress of the Macedonian influence, 9. Occasion of the second Philippic, 10. His impeachment of Æschines, 25. His oration on this occasion, 30. The third Philippic, 37. His measures to promote the treaty with Thebes, 64. Appointed to deliver the funeral oration over the citizens who fell at Chæronea, 72. His conduct on hearing of Philip's assassination, 101. Consideration of his negotiations with Persia, vii. 131. His expectation that Alexander would be overwhelmed by the Persian monarch, 132. Accusation of, for supineness in not opposing Alexander at a favourable conjuncture, 132. 148. 161. A golden crown decreed to him for his zealous discharge of the duties of treasurer of the theoric fund, 135. His defence in reply to Æschines de coronâ, 136. 147. His embassies, 151. His advice to the Athenians not to receive Harpalus, 153. Is charged with receiving a bribe from Harpalus, 154. 157. Has the custody of the treasure of Harpalus, 155. Is tried and banished, 155, 156. 160. His advice to the Athenians, 162. Pursuit of the orators and friends to liberty by Antipater, 195. Death of Demosthenes, 197. Honours decreed to his name and descendants, 198.
- Dercyllidas, iv. 41. Expedition of, 365. Concludes an armistice, 368.
- Dercylus, appointed one of the embassy of ten to King Philip from the Athenians, v. 369.
- Derdas, prince of Elmia, v. 18.
- Desert, the great sandy (between the Indus and Carmania), vii, 59. 63.
- Desert of Arabia, vii. 314.
- Diaëus, general of the Achæan League, viii. 439. On the death of Critolaus, he resumes the command, 452. His preparations for opposing the Roman power, 450. His proceedings at Corinth, 451. He encounters the Roman forces, and is defeated, 452. He poisons himself, 453.
- Dimnus, plot of, vi. 264.
- Dinarchus, v. 206. His speech accusing Demosthenes of collusion with Demades, vii. 160. He accuses Demades to Antipater, 237.
- Dinocrates, viii. 368. His connection with Flaminius, 369. His designs upon Philopœmen, 370. His unseemly triumph over the fall of Philopœmen, 370. His death, 371.
- Diocles, commands the expedition to Eubœa, v. 227.
- Diocliides, his information against Alcibiades, iii. 392. Execution of, 393.
- Diodotus pleads the cause of the Mitylenæans, iii. 189.
- Diogenes of Appollonia, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 134.
- Diogenes, the cynic, and Alexander, vii. 14.
- Diognetus, stratagem of, iv. 207.
- Diomedon, iv. 14. Imprisonment of, 129. Execution of, 136.
- Diomilus, an Adrian exile, appointed to the command of the Syracusan forces, iii. 409. His death, 410.
- Dionysius of Halicarnassus, i. 108.
- Dionysius, the Phocæan, ii. 220.
- Dionysius of Syracuse, v. 68.
- Dionysius, a Messenian, madly seats himself on Alexander's throne, vii. 105.
- Dionysodorus, vi. 193.
- Dionysus, fabulous legend of his Indian expedition, vii. 11. 45. The lord of Nysa, 12. His festival celebrated by Alexander at Ecbatana, 92.
- Diophanes, the Achæan general, his expedition into Laconia, in company with Flaminius, viii. 351.
- Diophrantus, the Athenian, vi. 140.
- Diopithes, the Athenian general, vi. 33.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

493

- Dioxippus, his combat with Corragus, vii. 46.
 Dipænus, the Cretan artist, ii. 115.
 Ditrepbes, his attack upon Mycalapus, iii. 425.
 Dius, king of Elis, i. 259.
 Dorians, the, origin of, i. 101. Their struggles with the Lapiths, 102. Their migrations, 254. Traditions relative to their connections with the Heracleids, 256. Means by which they effected their conquests, 263. Their expedition to Crete, 277. Connection between them and the old Hellenic institutions, 337. Peculiar circumstances which formed the Dorian character, 338. Their colonies, ii. 58.
 Dorieus, iv. 59. Actions of, in the Hellespont, 84. Is exiled as a sworn foe to the Athenian interests, 111.
 Doris, interesting as the foster-mother of a race of conquerors who became the masters of Greece, i. 8.
 Doxander, treachery of, iii. 171.
 Draco, author of the first written laws of Athens, ii. 18. Character of his laws, 19.
 Dryopes, the, i. 105.
 Drypetis, bride of Hephæstion, vii. 76. Put to death by Roxana, 130.
 Ducetius, a Sicel chief, iii. 226. His abilities and designs, 228. His death, 231.
- E.
- Echemus, king of Tegea, i. 255. ii. 337.
 Egypt, state of, at the invasion of Cambyses, ii. 175. Ptolemy successfully resists the invasion of, by Perdiccas, vii. 217—221. And frustrates the designs of Antigonus, 314.
 Egyptian wars, vi. 125. vii. 217—221.
 Eira, mount, i. 27. Surprise of, 365.
 Elatea, its revolt from Cassander, viii. 7.
 Eleitus, king of Illyria, vi. 111.
 Elephants of India, vii. 2. 11.
 Elis, city of, vii. 315. The new fortress at, raised by Ptolemæus, 315. Expedition of Philip against, viii. 265.
 Eleusis, the plain of, i. 15.
 Empedocles of Agrigentum, ii. 139.
 Endius, son of Alcibiades, iv. 7.
 Sent by the Spartans with an embassy to Athens, with overtures of peace, iv. 89.
 Enylus, king of Byblus, vi. 199.
 Epaminondas, v. 26. His friendship for Pelopides, 28. His speech during the negotiation with Sparta, 69. Founds Messene, 103. Charged with a capital offence, and brought to trial; is honourably acquitted, 108. Marches at the head of a Theban army to invade Peloponnesus, 111. His third expedition, 126. Slain in the battle of Mantinea, 151.
 Epeus, celebrated as the builder of the wooden horse in which the heroes were concealed at the taking of Troy, i. 226.
 Ephesus, the battle of, iv. 93.
 Epialtes, iii. 17. Introduces a change in the jurisdiction of the Areopagus, 24. Assassination of, iii. 36.
 Epialtes, imprisoned by Alexander, vii. 74.
 Epicharmus, the philosophical poet, iii. 80.
 Epicles, iv. 79. His death, 82.
 Epidaurus, i. 22. Alexander's reproach to the Epidaurians respecting Esculapius, viii. 100.
 Epimenidas, legendary story of, ii. 27. Publicly invited to Athens to exert his marvellous powers on behalf of the distracted city, 29. Is dismissed with tokens of the warmest gratitude, 30.
 Epirus, revolutions in, vii. 288. et seq. Pyrrhus restored to the throne of, viii. 15.
 Epitadas, the Lacedæmonian commander, iii. 243.
 Epyaxa, the consort of Syennesis, satrap of Cilicia, iv. 290.
 Eratosthenes, prosecution of, iv. 237.
 Erechtheus, king of Attica, i. 106.
 Ergocles, prosecution and execution of, iv. 244.
 Ergophilus, the Athenian general, v. 216.
 Eriguius, vi. 279. His death, 309.
 Erineus, the, battle of, iii. 429.
 Escort, the, Macedonian corps under Alexander, vii. 82.
 Eteonicus, the Spartan governor of Thasos, expelled, iv. 91. Operations of, at Chios, 143.
 Etruria, the Tyrrhenians inhabiting the coast of, vii. 100.
 Euæphnus, story of, i. 344.
 Eubœa, famous for its copper mines, its connection with Bœotia, i. 12.
 Eubulus, law of, v. 300. Policy of, 325.

Eucrates, judicial murder of, iv. 182.
Eumalus, the Corinthian poet, i. 313.

Eumenes, secretary to Alexander the Great, vii. 26. His marriage, 76. His rise to an eminent station, 122. Supports Perdiccas, 123. Appointed satrap in Asia Minor; joins with Perdiccas in his campaigns of Cappadocia, Pisidia, and Cilicia, 205, 206. He levies and disciplines a body of Cappadocian cavalry, 207. His great victory over Craterus and Neoptolemus, 215-221. His high reputation, 217. His stratagem against Craterus causes disaffection towards himself, 217. Antigonius prepares for war against, 226. Defeat of; he takes refuge in Nora, 231. 240. Demands the restitution of his satrapy from Antigonius, 232. His escape from Nora, 241. His correspondence with Olympias and Polysperchon, 243. He supports their cause, 244. The royal tent, and his dream as to Alexander, 266. His speech, 267. Marches into Phœnicia, 267. Is followed by Antigonius to the Euphrates, 268. He baffles the stratagem of his antagonist, 274. Is forced to retreat, 277. The Argyraspids seize him by treachery, 279. Is banished and slain by command of Antigonius, 279, 280. Effect of his proceedings in promoting the rupture between Macedonia and Rome, viii. 393. He falters in his loyalty to Rome, 410. Enters into a private negotiation with Perseus, 411. He subsequently breaks with him, 411.

Euphræus of Oreus, v. 165.

Euphaes, king of Messenia, i. 345.

Euphrates, intended armament for exploring the river, vii. 70. Alexander's fleet and excursion on the, 102, 103.

Euphron, tyrant of Sicyon, v. 128. Murdered at Thebes, 129.

Euripides, iv. 260. His political character, 262. His connection with the Sophists, 263. His adoption of the mythus of Dionysus having visited Bactria and the East, vii. 11.

Eurydice, or Adra, her life spared by Alcetas when he put her mother Cynaë to death, vii. 210, 211. After the death of Perdiccas, she appears in the Macedonian camp at Triparadisus, and is supported by Attalus against Antipater, 223, 224. She is defeated by Olympias, and put to death together with her husband Arridæus Philip, 285.

Eurydice, a descendant of Miltiades, her nuptials with Demetrius, 333.

Euridice, daughter of Lysimachus, viii. 3.

Eurybiades, ii. 298.

Eurylochus, iii. 211. Slain in the battle of Olpæ, 213.

Eurymedon, iii. 207. Operations of, in Sicily, 261. Charges against him, 264. Appointed to command the new armament sent to the relief of Nicias, 421. Further operations of, 428. Death of, 441.

Euryptolemus, iv. 102. His efforts in behalf of the accused generals after the battle of Arginusæ, 132. His speech in their defence, 133.

Euthycles the Spartan, vi. 193.

Euxine, the, Grecian colonies on the shores of, vii. 307.

Evagoras, king of Cyprus, iv. 409.

Evagoras, history of, vi. 121.

Evarchus, tyrant of Astacus, iii. 128.

Evalas, the Spartan, iv. 16.

Exiles, Athenian and other Grecian, decree for their restoration by Alexander, vii. 90. 151. It is put into execution by Antipater, 190. Archias the exile-hunter, his pursuit of the Athenian orators, 196, 197. Edict of Arridæus Philip respecting, 246, 247.

F.

Flaminius, Roman consul, viii. 295. The Macedonian war committed to him, 296. Flaminius on the Aous, 297. His negotiation with Philip, 297. His terms rejected, 297. His attack on Philip's army, and victory, 298. He is continued in the consulship at the annual election, 301. His conference with Philip at Nicæa, 303. Its results, 304. et seq. Flaminius at Thebes, 307. Battle of Cynocephalæ, 309. et seq. His dispute with the Ætolians, 311. Treaty of peace with Philip, 315. Declaration of the independence of Greece, 318. Honours given to Flamininus by the populace, 328. Adjustment of details, 319. et seq. He marches against Argos, 323. Routes the auxiliaries of Nabis, 325. His interview with Nabis, 325. Proposed terms of peace, 326. Renewed hostilities, 327. His assault on Sparta, 327. Grants peace to Argos, 328. His departure for Italy, 329. His reforms in Thesaly, 330. Eulogium on his conduct while in Greece, 331. Flamininus again in Greece, 335. Accompanies Diophanes into Laconia, 351. His great influence, 353. He is appointed in connection with others to settle affairs in Greece, 368. Four Years' War, the, viii. 8.

G.

Galba, P. Sulpicius, appointed commander of the Roman army, viii. 261. His operations against Macedonia, 262. et seq. He desires the Ætolians to unite with him against Philip, 291. He takes the field against Macedonia, 292. Gangarides, east of the Ganges, swayed by a potent monarch, vii. 27.
Ganges, river, vii. 27. 29.
Gangamela, the battle of, vi. 221. Its consequences, vii. 133.
Gaza, siege of, vi. 205. Battle of gained by Ptolemy I. over Demetrius, vii. 312.
Gedrosia, return of Alexander from the Indus through the wild region of, vii. 56.
Gelo, tyrant of Syracuse, ii. 271. His offers rejected by the Greeks, 273. End of his dynasty, iii. 224.
Gerostratus, king of Aradus, vi. 193.
Gerusia, the, at Sparta, viii. 139.
Getes, the, a powerful Thracian tribe, viii. 21. Their hostility to the kingdom of Thrace, 21.
Glaucias, king of the Taulantians, vi. 111.
Glaucias, king of Illyria, receives Pyrrhus at his court, vii. 288. Compelled to deliver that prince to the custody of Cassander, 303.
Glaucias, vii. 292. By command of Cassander, murders Alexander Ægus and Roxana, 319.
Glaucus of Carystus, i. 338.
Glausæ, added by Alexander to the dominions of Porus, vii. 24.

Glycera, celebrated Athenian courtesan, vii. 74.
Gongylus, the Corinthian commander, iii. 416.
Gorgias, celebrated as one of the earliest and the most eminent among the men who reduced oratory to an art and philosophy to a profession, iii. 232.
Gorgias, a captain of Alexander's, in the Indian war, vi. 299. vii. 18. 215.
Gorgo, daughter of Alcomenes, king of Sparta, ii. 212.
Gorgopa, stratagem and death of, iv. 440.
Granicus, the battle of, vi. 157.
Greece, declaration of the independence of, and the general rejoicings in consequence, viii. 318.
Greeks, the, and affairs of Greece, i. 1. Their relations with the Pelasgians, 51. Objects and forms of their worship derived from Egypt, 75. Tendency of, to personification, 79. Convivial usages of the, 178. Amusements of, during the heroic age, 180. Earliest form of natural religion, 183. Origin of the Greek mythology, 185. Qualifications required for the priesthood, 204. Oracles of the, 205. Exaggerated notions entertained by the, of Homer's learning, 209. Their ideas of the form of the earth, 215. Of the course of the sun, 216. Degree to which the useful arts appear to have been cultivated by, 222. The fine arts, 229. Earliest production of their statuary consecrated to the service of religion, 234. Origin of their alphabet, 238. National institutions and forms of government, 371. Effects of the Olympic festival, 391. Legends of the mythical colonies of the, ii. 81. Extension of their dominions, 93. Their dominion firmly established in Cyrenaica, 97. Their progress to civilisation, 105. Lyrical poetry of the, 122. Origin of prose composition, 127. First dawn of philosophy among the, 129. Legend of the golden tripod, 130. Philosophical literature of the, 138. Greek colonies in Bactria and Sogdiana, vii. 28. 75. 202. 204. Greek geographers but little conversant with the relative distances of India and the Indus, of Æthiopia and the Nile, 32. Recall of all citizens banished for political dissensions, decreed by Alexander,

90. 151. Consequences entailed by this royal command, 90. 190. 196, 197. The cities required to pay divine honours to the conqueror, 90. Temples of, 100. Greece considered as a province of Persia under Alexander, but deriving a counterbalance of solid advantages by the rise of her commerce with the East, 115. Grecian cities of Asia were founded by him as military and commercial outposts, 112. History of, from Alexander's death to the close of the Lamian war, 116—201. Revolution in their affairs, and what considered to have been a bulwark of the liberties of, 131. Public opinion respecting the dominion and conquests of Alexander, 131. Reflections on the demand for the surrender of the Athenian orators, and the bondage of Thebes, 132. The Greek confederacy, 166. Victory and death of Leosthenes, 171. 177. Antiphris succeeds to his command, 178. He raises the siege of Lamia, and defeats Leonatus in Thessaly, 180, 181. Dissolution of the confederacy, and submission of the states to Antipater, 181. 187. Capitulation of the Athenians to Antipater, 191. Death of Demosthenes, 197. From the end of the Lamian war to Cassander's occupation of Athens, 202—264. Death of Phocion, 255. Edict of Arridæus Philip favourable to the Grecian liberties, 246. Death of Philip and Eurydice, 285. Restoration of Thebes, 293. State of Greece in the time of Antigonus and Demetrius, 315. et seq. Designs of Demetrius on Greece, viii. 6. et seq. Neutrality of Sparta in the affairs of, 13. Antigonus in Greece, 48. Effect of the irruption of the Gauls and others on the affairs of Greece, 51. The Celtic invasion, 54. et seq. Defence of Thermopylæ, 57. et seq. Consequences to Greece of the restoration of Antigonus to the throne of Macedonia, 64. Death of Pyrrhus, an important epoch in Grecian history, 77. State of Greece from the death of Pyrrhus to the accession of Antigonus Doson, 78. et seq. Achæan League, its influence on the destinies of Greece, 79. et seq. Prevalence of democratical principles in the Greek cities, 103. The Bœotians, 107. Affairs of Greece from the accession of Antigonus Doson to the battle of Sellasia, 131. et seq. Weakness of Sparta, 133. et seq. Confederacy of the Greek states, 186. Fall of Mantinea, 187. Philopœmen, remarks on his character, in connection with the decline of Greece, 191. Death of Antigonus, and accession of Philip III., 201. From the battle of Sellasia to the end of the Social War, 206. et seq. The Ætolian League, 209. et seq. Designs of Apelles upon Greece, 233. From the end of the Social War to the proclamation of the liberty of Greece under Roman protection, 253. et seq. Philopœmen honoured as the protector of Grecian liberty, 277. Hostile intentions of Rome towards Greece, 279. et seq. Battle of Chios, 283. Declaration of war by Rome, 285. Movements of Flamininus on Greece, 289. et seq. Conference of Nicæa, 303. Flamininus at Thebes, 307. Battle of Cyncephalæ, 309. Rome grants peace to Philip, 315. End of the Macedonian war, 320. From the proclamation of the liberty of Greece to the embassy of Callicrates to Rome, 321. et seq. Ætolian intrigues, 331. Flamininus again in Greece, 335. Revolt of Demetrius, 339. Antiochus in Greece, 341. Battle of Thermopylæ, 347. Great extension of the Achæan League, 355. Subjugation of Sparta, 361. Roman encroachments, 365. Death of Philopœmen, 371. Embassy of Callicrates, 377. Events in Greece from the embassy of Callicrates to the reduction of Greece into a Roman province, 380. et seq. Demetrius at Rome, 382. Death of Philip, and accession of Perseus, 386. Good feeling of the body of the Greek nation towards him, 391. Hostile movements of Philip against the Roman power, 393. Operations of Rome, in carrying out its design of the subjugation of Greece, 405. et seq. Friendly tour of Paulus, Roman consul and general, in Greece, 415. Appointments of Roman commissioners in Greece, and their proceedings, 419. et seq. Declaration by the senate of its intentions respecting the Achæans detained in Rome, 427. They are subsequently sent home, 431.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

497

- Effects of their inveterate hatred of Rome, 433. et seq. Roman embassy to Greece, 441. Last efforts of Greece to maintain its independence, 447. et seq. Destruction of Corinth, 453. Subjugation of Greece to Rome, 455. et seq. Survey of the fortunes of Greece after its incorporation with the Roman empire, 459. et seq. Its gradual decay, 460. Modes of accounting for this, 461. Its true cause stated, 463. et seq. Grandeur of ancient Greece, 468. Its religion, 469. Effect of the Persian and other invasions, 470. Remarks on the present position and future prospects of Greece, 472. et seq.
- Guræans, Indian tribe, vii. 6. Traditions of the, 12.
- Guræus, river, vii. 7.
- Gryllus, the son of Xenophon, v. 151.
- Gyges, the first of the Mermnadæ, ii. 158.
- Gylippus, appointed to the command of the Sicilian expedition, iii. 408. Operations of, 417. His cruelty to his prisoners, 456. Death of, iv. 178.
- Gylis, slain in the battle of Coronea, iv. 415.
- Gymnosophists of India, vii. 14.
- Gythium, its surrender to Flamininus, the Roman general, viii. 325. Taken by assault by the Achæans, 334.
- H
- Hadrian, the emperor, vi. 154.
- Halicarnassus, siege of, vi. 165.
- Hannibal, Philip enters into negotiations with him, viii. 233. He undertakes to invade Italy, 340. Takes part in the conference at Demetrias, 344. His advice alarms the Romans, 345.
- Harmodius, ii. 66. Conspiracy of, 67.
- Harpagus, the Median general, ii. 162.
- Harpalus, vi. 82. Pardoned by Alexander, vii. 73. His magnificence as satrap of Babylonia, 73. His flight, 74. 93. 153. His treasures confided to the custody of Demosthenes, and reflections on the conduct of the orator with respect to him, 153. 155. Is committed to prison by the Athenians, but escapes, 159. His assassination by Thimbron in Crete, 159.
- Hecatomnus, prince of Caria, vi. 121.
- Hegesandridas, iv. 65. Actions of, in the Hellespont, 84.
- Hegesilaus, the Athenian general, v. 148.
- Hegesippus, his oration, vi. 22. Effect of his speech, 25.
- Hegesistratus, the soothsayer, ii. 339.
- Helen a mythological person, i. 152.
- Hellen, the reputed founder of the Hellenic race, i. 80.
- Helos, the plain of, i. 24.
- Hecatombæon, battle of, viii. 169.
- Helepolis, the, employed by Demetrius at the siege of Thebes, viii. 24.
- Helots, the, origin of, i. 309.
- Hephæstion, accompanies Alexander to the Indus, vii. 5. 9. His command upon the retreat of the Macedonians, 35. 37. 67. His nuptials with Drypetis, sister of Statira, 76. His rewards, 81. His death, 92. Obsequies of, 95. Construction of the great tower serving as his funeral pile, 101. Worshipped as a hero, 103. Temples of, 104.
- Heraclea, siege and surrender of, viii. 348.
- Heraclides, viii. 20. His connection with Philip, 282. 291.
- Heraco, vii. 63. Condemned to death, 64. Having plundered the temple at Susa, 72.
- Hercules, i. 16. His fabulous adventures, 125. His birth and parentage, 127. Legends of, 128. His expedition against Troy, 154. Reference to the tradition of his failure in the assault of the rock Aornus, vii. 8. 10. Alexander's invocation of, on his retreat from the Hyphasis, 34. His followers, and eastern tradition of, 36. The bowl of Hercules emptied by Alexander, 107.
- Hercules, son of Alexander by Barsinê, vii. 76. His pretensions to the succession supported by Nearchus, 118. Is murdered by Polyperchon, 321, 322.
- Hermionê, the city, i. 23.
- Hermocrates, iii. 261. His advice to the Syracusans, 402. Defeats the artifices of Tissaphernes, and returns to Asia, iv. 91.
- Herodotus, his opinion of the early inhabitants of Greece, i. 33. His observations on the Pelasgian language, i. 52. His description of India, vii. 2.

VOL. VIII.

K K

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- Heroic Age, definition of the, i. 123.
 Hesiod, i. 39. Remarks on his writings, ii. 118. Contrasted with Homer, 119.
 Hestiodorus, the Athenian commander, iii. 142.
 Hiera, the island of, i. 23.
 Hiera, the Spartan admiral, iv. 439.
 Hiero, king of Syracuse, iii. 221. Death of, 384.
 Hiero, sails along the shores of Arabia, vii. 71.
 Hieronymus of Cardia, biographer and friend of Eumenes, vii. 241. Appointed governor-general of Bœotia, viii. 20.
 Himera, battle of, ii. 319.
 Himeræus, brother of Demetrius Phalereus, vii. 195. His proscription by Antipater, 196.
 Hipparchus, his character, ii. 65. Murder of, 68.
 Hippias, his character, ii. 65. Quits Attica, 72. Proceeds to the court of Darius, 80.
 Hippocles, tyrant of Lampsacus, ii. 69.
 Hippocoon, king of Laconia, i. 129.
 Hippocrates, iii. 279. Slain in the battle of Delium, 281.
 Hippocrates, despatched to Eubœa to bring away the squadron of Hegiasandridas, iv. 79. Slain at the siege of Chalcedon, 96.
 Hippodamus, a Milesian architect, the first among the ancients who invented designs for new cities, and a theory of the best form of government to trace the plan, ii. 367.
 Hippomachus, the soothsayer, ii. 339.
 Hippomachus, killed in the battle of Mynychia, iv. 201.
 Hippomenes, story of, ii. 17.
 Hipponax, the poet, ii. 126.
 Hipponicus, iii. 207.
 Hippostratus, a captain under Antigonus, vii. 281.
 Histæus, the tyrant of Miletus, ii. 201. Carried prisoner to Susa, 206. His message to Aristagoras, 209. Intrigues of, 218. Is crucified by order of Artaphernes, 223.
 Homer, i. 24. His opinion of the early inhabitants of Greece, 33. Exaggerated notions entertained by the Greeks of his learning, 209. His ideas of the form of the earth, and of the course of the sun, 216. His poems first committed to writing, 243. Their origin wrapt up in mystery, 247. Cassander copied out, and could recite, his poems, vii. 325. Demetrius the Phalerian revives the public recitation of Homer at Athens, 325.
 Hydarnes, the commander of the Ten Thousand, ii. 286.
 Hydaspes, river, vii. 1. Dominions of Porus, 4. Alexander's passage of the, 15—18. Battle of the, 21. Fleet built on the, 16. 31. 34. Falls into the Indus, 34.
 Hydraotes, river, vii. 25. 38.
 Hydrea, the island of, i. 23.
 Hyllus, the Heraclian leader, i. 255.
 Hyperbolus, the rival of Alcibiades, his low extraction, iii. 334. Ostacism of, 368.
 Hyperides, orator, a friend of Demosthenes, vi. 25. vii. 167. His speech on the death of Leosthenes, 177. His flight to a sanctuary, 190. 195. Put to a cruel death by Antipater, 196.
 Hyperion, king of Megara, i. 427.
 Hyphasis, march of Alexander towards the, vii. 25. Its confluence with the Sutleje, vii. 27. Desert lying eastward, which the Macedonians refuse to enter upon, becomes the limit of Alexander's conquests, 27—31.
 Hyrnetho, i. 271. Her tragical fate, 272.

I.

- Iatrocles, appointed one of the embassy of Ten, v. 337.
 Ibycus, the poet, ii. 126.
 Ichthyophagi, of the Mekran coast, vii. 57.
 Icthyus, Cape, i. 27.
 Idæan Dactyls, the, i. 78.
 Idrieus, king of Caria, vi. 81. 136.
 Illyrians, the, in Epirus, viii. 187.
 Ilus, king of Troy, i. 70.
 Inarus, king of the Libyan tribes, iii. 25. His death, 32.
 Ion, supposed ancestor of the Ionians, i. 37. 87.
 Ionia, subjugation of, ii. 225.
 Ionians, the, obscurity attached to their early history, i. 112. Their establishment in Attica, 115. Their migrations, 121. Ionian war, ii. 219.
 India, invaded by Alexander the Great, vii. 1. How far known to the Greeks, 2. Satrapy of, and large tribute to Persia, 2.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

499

Its products, 2. The eastern Indians, 4. The highlands conquered by Alexander, 8—11. The Pendjab, 3—29. Alexander's victorious march from the Hydaspes to the Hyphasis, 18—27. Desert betwixt the latter river and the Ganges, 27. King of the Gangarides and Prasians reported to be more powerful than king Porus, 27, 28. Alexander's return to Susa, 30. 32. Maritime communication between Egypt and India, 71. 111.

Indus, conquests of Alexander on the Upper, vii. 3. 49. Delta of the, 49. 51. Fleet of Alexander on the Indus, 11. 32. He sails down the Hydaspes, Acesines, and Indus on his return, 30. 32. Colonies established on the Lower Indus, 30. Mouths of the river, 51, 52.

Iphicrates, the Athenian general, ii. 417. Defeats and kills Anaxibius, 439. His expedition to the West, v. 64. His trial and acquittal, 238.

Iphitus, king of Sparta, i. 385.

Ipsus, in Phrygia, death of Antigonos in the battle of, vii. 362. 364. Consequences of this action, 367. 369.

Isagoras, ii. 76.

Isaura besieged by Perdikkas, vii. 205. The Isaurians, after a brave defence, cast themselves into the flames of their city, 206.

Ischagoras, the Spartan general, iii. 299.

Ismenias, v. 14. His execution, 18.

Isocrates, v. 212. His written oration, 240. His view of the prospects of Athens, v. 245. vii. 115. His oration to Philip, v. 374. His death, vi. 70.

Issus, the battle of, vi. 187.

Italy, embassies of the nations of, to Alexander at Babylon, 99, 100.

Ithomé, i. 26. Resists the arms of Cassander, vii. 302.

J.

Jason and Medea, legend of, i. 148.

Jason of Pheræ, his treaty with Polydamus, v. 56. His death, 115.

Julius, Sextus, ambassador from Rome to the Achæan League, viii. 445.

K.

Kashgar, or Kamah, river, vii. 6.

Kerman, the ancient Carmania, vii. 50. 62.

Khoond mountains, a southern projection of the Caucasus, vii. 6.

Khyber, mountain range, vii. 6.

L.

Lacedæmonius, the son of Cimon, iii. 98.

Lachares, viii. 7. He becomes absolute master of Athens, 10. His cruelty and sacrilege, 11. His escape from Athens, and flight to Thebes, 11. Upon the surrender of the city, he escapes to Delphi, 19. Upon the defeat and capture of Lysimachus, he flees to Lysimachia, 23.

Laches, expedition of, to Sicily, iii. 233. Successes of, 234.

Laches, the Athenian admiral, v. 208.

Laco, proxenus of Sparta, iii. 193.

Laconia, various accounts of the subjugation of, i. 265.

Lade, the battle of, ii. 221.

Ladocea, battle of, viii. 159.

Lamachus, left in the command of a large and gallant armament, iii. 58. His character, 369. His death, 412.

Lamia, battle of, and termination of the Lamian war, vii. 171—201.

Lamius, the Spartan, vi. 140.

Lanassa, daughter of Agathocles, quits her husband, Pyrrhus, and seeks an opportunity of revenge, viii. 28.

Langarus, king, vi. 112.

Lanicè, nurse to Alexander the Great, vi. 158.

Laomedon, satrap of Syria, vi. 41. vii. 72. 128. Subdued by Ptolemy, 239.

Lapiths, the, their struggles with the Dorians, i. 103.

Laranda, in Pisidia, destroyed by Perdikkas, vii. 205.

Larissa, daughter of Pelasgus, i. 38.

Lasthenes, v. 316.

League of the Grecian states against the power of the Macedonians, vii. 162. Athens foremost in the cause of independence, 163. 165. Naval war, 183. Reverses, and

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

500

INDEX.

- dissolution of the confederacy, 177–187.
- Leleges, the, origin of, i. 43.
- Lelex, king of Laconia, i. 97.
- Leocrates, having deserted his country, is condemned on his return to Athens, vii. 140.
- Leogoras, imprisonment of, iii. 395.
- Leon and Diomedon re-establish the Athenian dominion in Lesbos, iv. 14. Execution of, 184.
- Leonidas, king of Sparta, ii. 265. His death, 288.
- Leonides, his opposition to the projected reforms of Agis IV. at Sparta, viii. 139. He is deprived of his office, and seeks safety by flight, 142. His recall, 144. Rigour of his proceedings, 145. He proceeds in the government alone, 146.
- Leonnatus, vi. 185. Is wounded by the Malli, vii. 41. 43. Marches along the coast of the Delta, 51. His victory over Apollophanes, 66. Is rewarded, 81. Appointed a regent of Asia jointly with Perdiccas, 119. Governs the Hellespontine Phrygia, 128. Is invited by Cleopatra to Pella, vii. 179, 180. His character, 179. His relations with Antipater, 179, 180. He marches against the Greek confederates under Antipater, 180. Is defeated and slain in Thessaly, 181, 182.
- Leontiades, v. 29. His death, 34.
- Leontiscus, son of Ptolemy, liberated by Demetrius, vii. 335.
- Leosthenes, the Athenian general, v. 209. He leads some of the mercenaries from Asia to Greece, vii. 163. Raises troops against Antipater, 164, 165. His campaign, 167. His victory, 171. Is slain in an action against Antipater, 177.
- Leotychides mounts the throne of Sparta on the deposition of Demaratus, ii. 229. Dies in exile at Tegea, 230.
- Leotychides at Mycalé, stratagem of, ii. 355.
- Leuctra, the battle of, one of the most decisive in the history of Greece, v. 75.
- Liberty, the feast of, ii. 352.
- Libys, created admiral, iv. 204.
- Lichas, ignominiously chastised by the Elean victors, iii. 340. His conference with Tissaphernes, iv. 24.
- Lipodorus, his treachery during battle, vii. 204.
- Locrus, the founder of the Locrians, i. 100.
- Lotus, the, of India and Egypt, vii. 32.
- Lucretius, C., Roman prætor, his operations against Greece, viii. 402. et seq. His destruction of Haliartus, and subjugation of Coronea, 403. His rapacity and violence, 403. He is called to account by the Senate, 404.
- Lycians, the, confederacy of, ii. 103.
- Lycidas, his tragical fate, ii. 326.
- Lyciscus, story of, i. 349.
- Lyciscus, governor of Epirus, vii. 288. 303.
- Lycomedes, project of, v. 85. His death, 125.
- Lycon, the Athenian commander, iv. 6. vii. 308.
- Lycophron, the Corinthian general, iii. 255.
- Lycortas, his election to fill the office of general to the Achæan League, viii. 371. His invasion of Messenia, 371.
- Lycurgus, legislation of, i. 291. His disinterested conduct at the birth of Charilaus, 294. His actions and death, 295. Nature of the revolution effected by him, 298. State of things which called for his interposition, 300. Outline of his measures, 302.
- Lycurgus, grandson of Lycophron, his prosecution of the exile Leocrates, vii. 140. His long and just administration of Athenian affairs, vii. 141. et seq.
- Lycurgus, a pretender, chosen king of Sparta, viii. 226. His inroad into Argolis, 227. His military movements, 242. et seq.
- Lygdamis, the tyrant of Naxos, ii. 178.
- Lysander, his birth, parentage, and education, iv. 104. Succeeds Cratesippidas in the office of admiral, 105. His naval preparations at Ephesus, 114. Defeats the Athenians at Ægos, and thus puts an end to the war which had lasted nearly seven and twenty years, 152. His interference at Sparta in behalf of Athens, 204. Intrigues of, 382. His breach with Agesilaus, 385. His death, 394.
- Lysandra, daughter of Ptolemy and Eurydice, viii. 3.
- Lysanoridas, v. 17. Sentence of banishment pronounced against him, 36.
- Lysias, case of, iv. 233. His speech at the prosecution of the son of

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

501

- Alcibiades, iv. 239. His oration against Andocides, 241.
- Lysimachus, captain in Alexander's expeditions, iv. 203. vii. 19. Is wounded, 26. Governor of Thrace, 128. He assumes the regal style, 337. He crosses the Hellespont into Asia Minor, 356. In conjunction with Seleucus he gains the victory at Ipsus over Antigonus, 358. 362—364. His alliance with Ptolemy, viii. 1. His marriage with Arsinoë, Ptolemy's daughter, 2. His territories invaded by Demetrius, 2. His preparations for the North, 18. His expedition against the Getes, 21. He is obliged to surrender to Dromichaetes, 22. Who treats him honourably, and dismisses him and his officers, 23. Renews his alliance with Seleucus and Ptolemy against Demetrius, 31. Defection of his generals and troops, 36. His baseness, 39. Turns his arms against Pyrrhus, 40. Seeks the death of Demetrius, 40. He puts to death the murderers of Amastris, 42. Domestic calamities, 43. He is slain at the battle of Corupedium, 45.
- M.
- Macarius, slain in the battle of Olpæ, iii. 213.
- Macedonia, tributary to Persia, ii. 204. Internal condition of, iii. 165. Civil war in, viii. 15. Its results, 16. et seq. Invasion of, by the Celts, 52. Unsettled state of affairs, and contentions for the sovereignty, which followed the death of Ceraunus, 54. Invasion of, by Pyrrhus, 67. War of the Romans with, 411. et seq. Submission of, to the Roman arms, 414. Fresh war in, 441.
- Macedonian army, leading features of the, vi. 147. Its reluctance to march farther east obliges Alexander to retire from the Hypaphis towards Susa, vii. 28. List of the principal captains under the Macedonian conqueror, 32. Consternation of the army on the king being wounded by the Malli, 44. Remonstrances on his imprudent valour, 45. The master-spirits of, who effected the revolution in the Persian empire, 53. Return of the Macedonians to Persia, 67. Their marriages with Asiatic women, 76. Mutiny at Opis, 83—86. Veterans sent home, 83. 88. Conduct of the army in the election of a king and a regent on the death of Alexander, 117—126.
- Macedonian soldiers, their defection from Demetrius, and choice of Pyrrhus for king, viii. 33.
- Macedonian war, termination of, viii. 320.
- Magians, the, vii. 68.
- Malli, the, amount of their forces opposed to Alexander, vii. 35. et seq. Their capital, 39. Alexander severely wounded in the assault, 41. 43. Their submissive embassy to the conqueror, 45.
- Mandrocles, a Samian engineer, lays a bridge of boats over the Thracian Bosphorus, ii. 199.
- Mania, succeeds her husband in the government of Elass, iv. 362. Her active, prudent, and prosperous administration, 361. Is murdered by her son-in-law, 363.
- Mantias, the Athenian general, v. 171.
- Mantineia, the battle of, iii. 349. Siege and capitulation of, v. 7. Rebuilt, 81. Second battle of, 149. Results of the battle, 153. Fall of, viii. 187. She renounces the Achæan, and unites herself to the Ætolian League, 211. Philopœmen's attack upon, 273.
- Mantitheus, charges against him, iii. 393.
- Marathon, the battle of, ii. 239. Wonderful legends of, 243.
- Marcus of Cerynea, the first who was honoured with the dignity of the supreme command in the Achæan League, viii. 94.
- Mardonius, expedition of, ii. 226. His artful advice to Xerxes, 312. His proposals to the Greeks, 323. Gets possession of Athens, 326. Sends a taunting message to the Spartans, 343. His defeat and death, 346.
- Masistius, his defeat and death, ii. 336.
- Massaga stormed by Alexander, vii. 7.
- Mausolus, satrap of Caria, v. 231.
- Mausolus, prince of Caria, vi. 128.
- Mazaces, the Median general, ii. 169.
- Medes and Persians, ii. 164. Insurrection of, against Alexander, vii. 72. His royal progress through Media, 91.
- Medius, banquet of Alexander at

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- the house of, and his consequent fever, vii. 106.
- Megabates, excites the enmity of Aristagoras by his severity and cruelty, ii. 209.
- Magabazus, commissioned by Darius to complete the conquest of the Greek cities on the Hellespont, ii. 202. His expedition against Attica, iii. 27.
- Megacles, archon of Athens, ii. 22.
- Megalopolis, foundation of, v. 87. Its gallant defence by Damis, 257—260. Fall of, viii. 191. Dissensions in the new city, 247. Aratus appointed to adjust their differences, 247. et seq.
- Megistias, the Acarnanian soothsayer, ii. 288.
- Mekran, the, Alexander's march through the, vii. 56. Visit of modern travellers to, 57. Its coast, to Cape Jask, 57.
- Melampus, legend of, i. 96.
- Melanctridas, Spartan admiral, iv. 7.
- Melaneus, legend of, i. 97.
- Melanthus, king of Messina, i. 264.
- Meleager, vi. 299. vii. 18. He causes Arridæus to be proclaimed king, 119—122. Is distrusted by Perdiccas, 125. Is put to death by him, 127.
- Meleager and Meroëtas conspiring against Antigonos, are executed, vii. 281.
- Meleager; he seizes the government on the death of Ceraunus, his brother, viii. 54.
- Melesippus, the Spartan envoy, iii. 112.
- Melissus, of Samos, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 137.
- Mellon, v. 31. Placed at the head of the government of Thebes, with the title of Bœotarch, 35.
- Memnon, the Rhodian, vi. 155.
- Menander, the Athenian general, iii. 421. iv. 148.
- Menelaus, wanderings of, i. 211.
- Menelaus, brother of Ptolemy, vii. 304. 335.
- Menestheus, trial and acquittal of, v. 238.
- Meno, the Pharsalian, iii. 3.
- Meno, a Thessalian adventurer, iv. 289. Arrest of, 323. His death, 325.
- Meno, the Athenian general, v. 217. Together with Antiphilus, defeated at Crannon, vii. 186. They negotiate with Antipater, and dissolve the league of the Greek cities, 187. Is defeated by Polysperchon, and slain, 223.
- Menœtas, his revolt and death, vii. 281.
- Mentor, the Rhodian, vi. 137.
- Menyllus, Macedonian commandant in Munychia, an Athenian harbour, vii. 191.
- Meros or Meru, mountain, vii. 12.
- Messene, founded by Epaminondas, v. 103. The tyrants of, expelled, vii. 150. But re-established by Alexander, 151.
- Messenians, the, their submission to Rome, viii. 353. War declared against them by the Achæan League, 371. Their submission to Lycortas, 373. Their admission into the Achæan League, 373.
- Messenian War, beginning of the first, i. 346. The second, 559. The third, iii. 8.
- Metellus, Q. Cecilius, Roman consul, his proceedings with the Achæan League, viii. 365. His defeat of Andrisus, 443. His pacific mediation with the League, 449. He encounters the Achæan forces under Critolaus, and defeats them, 449.
- Methone, siege of, v. 279.
- Meton, the Athenian astronomer, iii. 440.
- Micio, with a Macedonian force, invading Attica, is defeated by Phocion and slain, vii. 184, 185.
- Midas, story of, vi. 171.
- Milesian colonies, ii. 106.
- Miletus, the battle of, iv. 17.
- Milo, disciple of Pythagoras, ii. 153.
- Miltiades, ii. 201. Flight of, 223. Elected one of the ten generals, 238. His trial, committal, and death, 246.
- Miltocythes, revolt of, v. 216. Execution of, 224.
- Mimnermus, the poet, i. 216. ii. 126.
- Mindarus, iv. 59. Operations of, in the Hellespont, 76. Is slain in battle, 86.
- Minyas, legend of, i. 92.
- Minos, his character, i. 133. Legend of his Dorian origin examined, 137. His political institutions, 141.
- Mithridates, his interview with the Greek generals, iv. 335.
- Mithridates, son of Ariobarzanes, about to be put to death by Antigonos, flies to Paphlagonia, and establishes the kingdom of Pontus, vii. 368. Is assassinated, and succeeded by his son, 368.
- Mitylene, siege of, iii. 173.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

503

- Mnasippus at Corcyra, v. 59. His death, 61.
- Mnesarchus, tyrant of Chalcis, v. 226.
- Mnesiphilus, the Athenian statesman, ii. 300.
- Mœris (Maha-rajah?), chief of Pattala, vii. 49.
- Monsoon, south-west, vii. 13. 17. 55.
- Multan, modern city of, vii. 36.
- Mummius, Roman general, his defeat of Diæus, and destruction of Corinth, viii. 453. His further acts of vengeance, 454. et seq.
- Munychia, the battle of, iv. 201.
- Munychia receives a Macedonian garrison, vii. 191. Is occupied by Nicanor for Cassander, 239. Is dismantled by Demetrius, son of Antigonos, 330.
- Munychion, the month, receives the name of Demetron, vii. 331.
- Musicanus, submits to Alexander, vii. 47. His capital near Bokhara, 48. Revolts, and is crucified, 49.
- Mycalé, the battle of, ii. 359.
- Myrmidons, the, of Achilles, i. 110.
- Myron of Priéné, his history of the first Messenian war, i. 346. His dynasty, 425.
- Myscon, the Syracusan general, iv. 91.
- Mythology of Greece, some traces of, in India, vii. 12.
- Myus, victory of Demetrius over Cillas, general of Ptolemy, at, vii. 312. 314.
- N.
- Nabis, his usurpation of the throne of Sparta, viii. 277. His excesses, 278. His warlike operations, 279.
- Nabis at Argos, 305. He assumes the character of Demagogue, 305. His perfidy, 306. War decreed against him by Rome and the Achæans, 323. His territories invaded by Flamininus, 324. His forces defeated, 325. His interview with Flamininus, 325. Terms of peace prescribed, 326. Renewal of hostilities, 327. He sends his son to sue for peace, 327. Which is granted, and the liberty of Argos solemnly proclaimed, 328. Renewed hostilities against the Achæans, 333. His assassination, 338.
- Naupactus, siege of, viii. 349.
- Naxos, the battle of, v. 49.
- Nearchus, vi. 82. He accompanies Alexander to the Indus, vii. 11, 128. Admiral of Alexander's fleet, 33. His voyage of discovery to the Persian Gulf, 53. et seq. He lands in Carmania and rejoins Alexander, 65. Details of his perilous visit to Arabia, and festival upon his return, 66. Renewed voyage of, 67. Honoured with a crown of gold, 81. Surveys the Tigris, 82. Supports the claim of Hercules, son of Alexander, 118.
- Nectanabis, king of Egypt, his defensive preparations, vi. 126.
- Nemean and Isthmian games, i. 389.
- Neocles, father of Themistocles, ii. 265.
- Neoptolemus, v. 326. His submission to Eumenes, vii. 206. His treachery and reverses, 214. Is defeated and slain together with Craterus, 216.
- Nicæa, ancient capital of the kingdom of Cabul, vii. 5.
- Nicæa, conference between Philip and Flamininus at, viii. 303. Its results, 304. et seq.
- Nicæa on the Hydaspes, founded, vii. 24.
- Nicanor, the Stagyræite, vii. 151. His dispute at Olympia with Demosthenes, 151. Publishes Alexander's decree to restore the Grecian exiles, 151.
- Nicanor seizes on Munychia for Cassander, vii. 239.
- Nicanor, son of Antipater, is put to death by Olympias, vii. 286.
- Nicanor, Macedonian general, vi. 151. vii. 5. 10. 2:9. Governor of Media, surprised in his camp by Seleucus, 313, 314.
- Niceratus, execution of, iv. 184.
- Nicias, his expedition against Melos, iii. 207. His character, 306. Peace of, 309. His further operations, 357-417. His letter to the people of Athens, 419. Preparations for a sea fight, 431. His superstitious fears at the eclipse of the moon, 440. His passionate and earnest address to the captain of the galley, 445. His execution, 455.
- Nicocles, put to death in Cyprus by Ptolemy for a correspondence with Antigonos, vii. 322. Tragic fate of his family, 323.
- Nicomachias, treachery of, iii. 271. Intrusted with the task of collect-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

504

INDEX.

ing and transcribing the laws of Solon, iv. 164. Prosecution of, 238.
 Nicomedes, king of Bithynia, viii. 65.

Nicostratus, the Athenian general, iii. 199. Operations of, 200.

Nile, the, ineffectual attempts of Perdiccas to cross, 218. Crocodiles of, devour 2000 of his soldiers, 219. Mutiny and death of Perdiccas, 220.

Nioclès, successor of Abantides in the throne of Sydon, viii. 96.

Nisea, siege and surrender of, iii. 269.

Notium, the battle of, iv. 108.

Nysa in India, founded by Bacchus, legends relative to, vii. 12.

Nysæan plain, horses and pastures of the, vii. 91.

O.

Ochus, accession of, vi. 130. His expedition against Sidon, 135. Indulges his revenge in the wild excesses of tyrannical cruelty and insolence, 142. His death by poison, 145.

Odessus, city of, vii. 307.

Odrisian monarchy, the, iii. 160.

Revolt of the Odrisians, vii. 128.

Œniadæ, town of Ætolia, vii. 166.

Œnophyta, the battle of, iii. 31.

Œobazus, his tragical fate, ii. 361.

Ogygian deluge, the tradition of the, i. 9.

Olpæ, the battle of, iii. 213.

Olympia, the battle of, v. 139.

Olympias, wife of Philip of Macedon, vi. 78. Suspected of murdering her husband, 83. Encroaching spirit of, 275. Sends Cleopatra into Asia, hoping to form an alliance with Perdiccas, vii. 210. Her cause supported by Polysperchon and Eumenes, 243, 244. She surrenders in Pydna to Cassander, who barbarously orders her execution, 289—291.

Olympic festival, i. 385.

Olympus, the Thessalian, i. 218.

Olympiodorus, the Athenian general, viii. 7. Seeks and obtains the help of the Ætolians against Cassander, 7. His bravery and success, 34.

Olynthian confederacy, v. 11.

Onomarchus, v. 275. His profusion and despotic acts, 277. His defeat and death, 282.

Opis, mutiny against Alexander at, vii. 83—85.

Ophellas defeats Thimbron, and reduces the Cyrenaica to obedience to Ptolemy, vii. 208.

Ora, fortress of, vii. 8.

Orchomenus, destruction of, by the Thebans, v. 121. Partisans of Alexander, son of Polysperchon, put to death near the temple of Artemis at, vii. 302.

Ordanes and Zariaspes, vii. 62.

Orestes, king of Macedonia, v. 160.

Orestes, M. Aurelius, chief of the commissioners appointed by Rome to settle the affairs of the Achæan League, viii. 444.

Oreus, siege and betrayal of, viii. 267. Reduction of, by the Romans, 294.

Orites, the, vii. 55, 56.

Oritis, coast of the, vii. 56, 66.

Ormuz, isle of, vii. 66.

Orneæ, the plans of, i. 21.

Orodates, satrap of Media, vi. 312.

Orœtes, satrap of Sardis, ii. 181.

Orontes, trial and execution of, iv. 308.

Orontes, satrap of Mysia, vi. 128.

Orontobates, the Persian, vi. 163.

Orontobates, satrap of Media, vii. 281.

Oropus, attack and plunder of, by the Athenians, viii. 436. Negotiations with the Roman senate in consequence, 437. et seq.

Orthagoras, his low extraction, i. 424. Long duration of his dynasty, 425.

Ortospana, or Nicæa, vii. 5.

Orxines, condemnation of, vii. 68.

Ossadians, the, vii. 46.

Otanes, his expedition, ii. 206.

Othman, the founder of the Ottoman dynasty, i. 263.

Othryades, the Spartan hero, i. 369. Oxathres, brother of Darius, vi. 280.

Oxycanus, or Porticanus, his death, vii. 48. Etymology of the name of this Indian prince, 48.

Oxydracæ, the, vii. 35.

Oxythemæ, a courtier of Demetrius, viii. 28.

Ozolian Locris, the, i. 16.

P.

Paches, sent by the Athenians to the siege of Mitylene, iii. 177. Treacherous conduct of, 184. His fate, 199.

Pagondas, the Theban Bæotarch, iii. 279.

Pallacopas, canal at the mouth of

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

505

- the Euphrates, explored by Alexander, vii. 102. Lakes receiving its waters, and ill omen to Alexander at, 103.
- Pammenes, v. 90. 153. 287.
- Panætolicon, or great council of the nation, among the Ætolians, viii. 207.
- Pantæucus, one of the generals of Demetrius, viii. 26. He challenges Pyrrhus to single combat, 27. Results of the encounter, 27. et seq.
- Paralus, son of Pericles, iii. 167.
- Parysatis, exerts her influence to save the lives of the Greek generals, iv. 324.
- Parmenides, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 137.
- Parmenio, the Macedonian general, v. 163. 352. vi. 43. 151. 271. His death, vii. 89.
- Paropamisadæ, satrapy of the, vii. 5. 47.
- Paropamisus, mountains near the, vii. 55. High valleys of, 203.
- Pasippidas, voluntary exile of, iv. 91.
- Pasitêlidas, intrusted with the government of Torone, iii. 300.
- Pattala, fortified by Alexander, vii. 50—54.
- Paulus, L. Æmilius, a Roman consul, and commander of the forces in the Macedonian war, viii. 411. His decisive victory over Perseus, 413. His journey into Greece, 415. Severity of his proceedings at Passaro, 421.
- Pausanias, ii. 327. His firmness, 352. His imperious character, 355. His guilty career, 377. His death, 379.
- Pausanias, expedition of, iv. 205. Condemned to death, and obliged to seek shelter in the sanctuary of Athena Alea at Tegea, where he ended his days, 397.
- Pausanias, king of Macedon, v. 161.
- Pausanias, the assassin of Philip of Macedon, vi. 86.
- Peithagoras, Grecian soothsayer, vii. 96.
- Peithon the satrap, vi. 303. vii. 39. 47. Captures Musicanus, 49. Colonies on the Lower Indus established by, 50. His conduct on the death of Alexander, 121. His victory over the Greek insurgents in Asia, vii. 204. He joins the army of Antipater in Syria, and requests him to hasten his arrival on the death of Perdiccas, 223.
224. Tried by order of Antigonos, and put to death, 281.
- Pellene, in Achaia, the democratical party overthrown in, vii. 151.
- Pelæsgus, king of Argos, i. 38.
- Pelopidas, v. 26. His friendship for Epaminondas, 28. Placed at the head of the government of Thebes, with the title of Bæotarch, 35. His trial and acquittal, 108. His expedition to Thessaly, 117. His death, 143.
- Peloponnesian, war causes and occasions of the, iii. 92. iv. 168.
- Peloponnesus, general view of, i. 18.
- Pelops, legend of, i. 70. Explanation of, 78.
- Pelusium, arrival of Perdiccas and his army at, vii. 217. He accuses Ptolemy before a military assembly at, 217, 218.
- Pendjab, the, or Punjab, pays tribute to Darius, vii. 1. Taxiles, king of, 3. Its state, and distribution of power in, 3. 23. 46. The northern Pendjab, 31.
- Perdiccas, king of Macedon, iii. 101. His quarrel with Brasidas, 273. Treats with Nicias, 299.
- Perdiccas II., state of Macedonia during his reign, v. 157.
- Perdiccas III., v. 165.
- Perdiccas, a general serving Alexander in his Indian expedition, vii. 5. 38. 44. His marriage, 76. Is presented by the dying Alexander with his ring, 109. 118. Regent on the demise of Alexander, 124. Puts Meleager to death, 127. Is invested with the power of regent conjointly with Meleager, 125. Puts Meleager and his partisans to death, 126. He represses an insurrection of the Greek colonists in Asia, 202. Orders them to be massacred after a battle in which they were betrayed, 204. His campaign against Ariarathes, 205. Having put that prince to death, he marches into Pisidia and destroys the towns of Laranda and Isaura, 205, 206. His political intrigues, 219. His hostility to Ptolemy, 209. Solicits and obtains the hand of Nicæa, daughter of Antipater, 209, 210. He keeps up correspondence with Olympias and Cleopatra, 210. Orders the death of Cynanè, 211. Summons Antigonos to take his trial, who flies with Demetrius to Antipater,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

211. He invades Egypt, 217. He summons Ptolemy to appear before a council at Pelusium, 217. He attempts to cross the Nile at the fortress named Camel's Wall, 218. Is frustrated, and marches towards Memphis, 219. His men perish in the Nile and are devoured by crocodiles, 219. Mutiny in his camp, consequent on this discomfiture, 220. Python and Seleucus conspire against him, 220. He is slain by Antigenes, 221. His character and crimes considered, 221. His fall terminates the civil war.
- Periander, the tyrant of Corinth, i. 417. His tragical story, 421. End of his dynasty, 423.
- Pericles, his birth and early education, iii. 9. His first appearance in public, 11. Popular measures of, 16. His reluctance to become the prosecutor of Cimon, 18. Signalises himself by extraordinary feats of valour in the battle of Tanagra, 29. His expedition to Delphi, 40. Compared with Thucydides, 44. Objects of his policy described, 46. Establishes a democratical constitution at Samos, 49. Greeted with extraordinary honours on his return to Athens, 54. Leading features of his system, 54. His modes of expending the public money, 65. His intimacy with Phidias, 85. His connection with Aspasia, 87. Prosecutions against him, 89. Recovers his former high and firm position, 90. Malicious insinuations and popular clamour against him, 111. His provident measures, 130. His expedition to Peloponnesus, 139. Murmurs against him, 140. His defence of his policy, 141. Restored to his office, 142. His grief for the loss of his son, 167. His death, 168.
- Periclimenes, legend of, i. 97.
- Perilaus, vii. 124. 304.
- Perinthus, siege of, vi. 42.
- Persepolis, burning of the palace of, vi. 234. Regret of Alexander on viewing the ruins of the royal palace at, vii. 68, 69.
- Perseus, i. 111. His adventures, 125.
- Perseus, son of Philip III. of Macedonia. His jealousy of his brother Demetrius, viii. 384. His charges against him, 384. He accompanies the king in an expedition into Thrace, 385. His designs against Demetrius, 385.
- His accession, 386. His hatred of Rome, 386. General remarks on his position and character, 387. His first measures of government, 388. War in Thrace, 388. He sends an embassy to Rome, 389. His efforts to strengthen his position, 390. His prospects in Greece, 391. Seeks an alliance with the Achæans, 392. Treaty of alliance with Bœotia, 393. Impending rupture with Rome, 395. Charges alleged against him, 395. Preparations of war on the part of Rome, 398. Duplicity of Marcius, 398. Success of his scheme, 399. Perseus discovers, too late, the treachery of Marcius, 400. His means for carrying on the war with Rome, 401. His first engagement, and success, 401. He sues for peace, 402. His expedition against the Dardaniens, 405. His attack on the Roman fleet, 405. His expedition into Illyria, 407. His proceedings in Ætolia, 407. Approach of the Roman army under Q. Martius Philippus, 408. Perseus's fatal errors, 408. His infatuation and flight from Diium, 408. Advance of Marcius, 409. Negotiation of Perseus with Eumenes, 41. Treaty with Gentius, 411. His alarm at the approach of Paulus with the Roman army, 412. Engagement of the hostile armies, and defeat of the Macedonians, 413. Flight of Perseus to Pella, 414. He gives himself up to the Roman Prætor, 415.
- Persia, revolutions at the court of, ii. 183. Alexander's conquests in Persia, vi. 151., et seq. He subjugates the Indian satrapies, vii. 1. et seq. The conqueror's return from India into Persia, 67. Overthrow of the Persian empire beneficial to the commerce of ancient nations, 110.
- Persian troops of Alexander the Great, vii. 86. 103. Honour conferred on their officers, 86, 87.
- Persian Gulph, voyage of Nearchus to the, vii. 53. et seq. Climate, 67. Projected expedition from the, 71.
- Petra, expedition of Demetrius against, and his retreat, vii. 314.
- Peucela, city of the Peucelaotis, on the Indus, vii. 8.
- Peucestes, wounded in the assault of the Malli, vii. 41. 43. Rewarded with the satrapy of Per-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

507

- sis, 68. And a crown of gold, 81. Continued in his command on the partition at Alexander's death, 127. He joins the party of Antigonos, 280. His popularity among the people of Persis, 282.
- Phæas, embassy of, iii. 365.
- Phalanx, Macedonian, the institution of, v. 177.
- Phanomachus, the Athenian commander, iii. 142.
- Pharasmānes, king of the Chorasmiāns, vi. 296.
- Pharax, Spartan admiral, iv. 411.
- Parnabazus, iv. 7. His zeal and activity in supporting and aiding the Peloponnesians, 85. His generosity, 88. His interview with Agesilaus, 402. Movements of, 431.
- Parnabazus, commander of the Paphlagonians, under Eumenes, vii. 215.
- Pharsalus, and other cities of Thessaly, surrendered to Antipater, vii. 187.
- Phayllus, v. 281. His death, 285.
- Pheidon, king of Argos, i. 358.
- Pherecydes, the first prose writer of Greece, ii. 127.
- Phidias, the sculptor, iii. 68. His death, 87. Phila, wife of Demetrius, viii. 3. Joins her husband in his voyage to Syria, 4. Ends her life by poison, 33.
- Philesius, the Greek general, iv. 331.
- Philetærus, governor of the fortress of Pergamus, viii. 44.
- Philip of Macedon, his education at Thebes, v. 166. His character, 169. Makes peace with Athens, 174. Institutes the Phalanx, 177. The first to establish a standing army 180. His secret treaty with Athens, 192. Founds the city of Philippi, 200. His expedition to Thessaly, 281. Rupture between him and Olynthus, 289. Views entertained by the Greeks of his power, 321. Opens a negotiation with Athens, 333. Receives the embassy of ten, 343. His speech on this occasion, 344. His negotiations in Peloponnesus, vi. 9. His attempt on Megara is frustrated for a time, 16. Issues his manifesto, 46. His expedition to Scythia, 53. Anecdote of, 72. His marriage with Cleopatra, 78. His domestic troubles, 79. His murder, 83. His character, 86.
- Philip, eldest son of Cassander, succeeds his father in the government, viii. 8. His brief reign, 9. Is succeeded by his brother Antipater, 9.
- Philip III., successor of Antigonos, viii. 201. Gives evidence of his talent for governing, 222. He presides at the congress at Corinth, 223. He takes the field for the invasion of Ætolia, but is diverted from his purpose, 227. Philip at Ambracus, 228. In Ætolia, 229. At Larissa, 230. In Peloponnesus, 231. He lays siege to Psophis, which falls into his hands, 231. Other successful expeditions, 232. Philip at Argos, 233. Intrigues of Apelles, 234. Conspiracy formed against him, 237. His operations against the Ætolians, 238. Philip at Thermes, 239. He reduces the citadel, and burns the sacred buildings, 239. His return to Limnæa, 240. Further expeditions, 242. Treachery of Apelles, 241. The conspiracy crushed, 245. Moral effects of these events upon Philip, 245. He reduces Bylazora, 248. Philip at Argos, 249. Proposals of peace with Ætolia, 251. Termination of the Social war, 252. Philip sails to the Adriatic, 253. Sends an embassy to Hannibal, 254. Terms of the treaty, 255. He besieges Apollonia, 257. Is defeated, and seeks refuge by flight, 258. Passing observations on his character, 258. His designs on Peloponnesus, 258. His revenge on the Messenians, 258. Rome declares war against him, 260. He proceeds to the relief of Acarnania, 261. Philip at Argos, 265. His expedition against Elis, 265. His encounter with the Romans, 265. His defeat and flight 266. Threatening aspect of his affairs, 266. Rapidity of his movements, 268. Philip and Antiochus, 281. He takes Samos and Chios, 283. He returns into Macedonia, 284. Philip at Abydos, 287. His attack upon Athens, 289. His designs upon the Achæans, 290. Besieges Thaumaci, and throws Heraclides into prison, 294. His negotiations with Flamininus, 297. He rejects the offered terms, 297. Is attacked by the Romans, and routed, 298. He seeks a confer-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

508

INDEX.

- ence with the Roman general, 303.
 The conference at Nicæa, 303.
 The results, 304. et seq. He assembles his army for the final conflict with Rome, 308. Battle of Cynocephalæ, 309. et seq. Philip is defeated, 310. He seeks an interview with Flamininus, 312. Submits to the terms of Rome, 313. His victory over the Achæans, 314. Terms of the peace granted to him by Rome, 315. He unites with the Romans against Antiochus, 316. His military operations, 317. His conquests in Thessaly, 350. His loyalty to Rome, and its reward, 356. Mutual distrust between him and Rome, 380. Warlike preparations, 381. Provocations on the part of Rome, 382. Sends his son Demetrius to the senate, 382. His bitter mortification at their answer, 384. Suspects the defection of Demetrius, 384. His expedition into Thrace, 385. His motives, 385. His conviction of the guilt of Demetrius, whom he procures to be poisoned at a banquet, 385. His subsequent remorse on discovering his innocence, 386. His death, 386.
- Philippus, physician to Alexander the Great, vi. 173.
- Philippus, appointed satrap of the Upper Indus, vii. 14. 25. 34. 46. 127. Is murdered by his mercenaries, 62.
- Philippus, general of Cassander, defeats Æacides, the Epirote king, who falls in battle, vii. 309.
- Philocles, the Athenian general, iv. 127. His death, 153.
- Philocles, Athenian commander in Munychia, vii. 153.
- Philotas, vi. 151. Loses Alexander's favour, 263. His trial, 265. His defence, 268. He is put to the torture, 270. His death, 271.
- Philopœmen, viii. 191. He is appointed commander of the Achæan cavalry, 263. His military reforms, 263. His great services in the cause of the Achæan League, 268. Further reforms, 269. His victory at Mantinea, 274. His military renown, 278. He undertakes the war against Nabis, 333. His success and triumph, 334. et seq. Philopœ men at Sparta, 351. His disinterestedness, 352. Again at the head of the League, 359. His proceedings with respect to the Spartan exiles 365. He favours popular principles, 368. His illness and death, 370. Events immediately following it, 371. et seq.
- Philoxenus, requires the Athenians to give up Harpalus and seize his treasure, vii. 154.
- Phlius, siege of, v. 23.
- Phocæans, heroism of the, ii. 190.
- Phocion and Xenocrates, their convention with Antipater regarding the surrender of Munychia and of the Athenian orators, vii. 189, 190. His unpopularity, 239. He favours the Macedonian party, 248. Repairs to the Macedonian camp, 250. His return to Athens, 251. His victory at Marathon over Micio, 184, 185. Is sacrificed by Polysperchon, 252. His trial, 254. His death, 255. His politics and career examined, 256.
- Phœbidas, his expedition against Olynthus, v. 14. 46.
- Phœnicians, traces of the, in the Greek legends, under other names, i. 76. Their commerce with India, vii. 2.
- Phœnix, of Tenedos, an officer serving under Eumenes, vii. 215. He revolts with Ptolemæus against Antigonus, 320.
- Phormio, operations of, iii. 149. 159.
- Phoroneus, the Argive king, i. 78.
- Phrasaortes, vi. 235.
- Phrataphernes, satrap of Hyrcania and Parthia, vi. 246. vii. 127.
- Phrynichus, the poet, ii. 222. Influence of his writings, iii. 72.
- Phrynichus, iv. 17. Sagacity and judgment of, 32. Assassination of, 65.
- Phya, an Attic woman, personates Athene, ii. 59.
- Pindar, the Theban poet, iii. 71. Magnificence of Rhodes celebrated by, vii. 340.
- Piræus, fortification of, ii. 367.
- Pirithous, the Lapith chief, i. 103.
- Pisa, territory of, i. 27.
- Pisander, the Spartan admiral, iv. 35. Invested with full powers to negotiate with Tissaphernes and Alcibiades, 35. His party at Athens, 44. His defeat and death, 409.
- Pisistratus, ii. 25. Scheme by which he made himself master of Athens, 56. His foreign and domestic policy, 62. His death, 62. Is succeeded by his sons, 64.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

509

- Pisias, the Argive general, v. 126.
 Pisuthnes, the satrap, iii. 184.
 His rebellion and death, iv. 6.
 Pithias, arraignment and acquittal of, iii. 197. Murder of, 198.
 Pithon, son of Agenor, vii. 283. Is slain in the battle of Gaza, fought against Ptolemy, 312.
 Platæa, the battle of, ii. 347. Siege of, iii. 145. Punishment of the Platæans, 195.
 Plato, extract from his funeral oration, i. 49. His communication with Philip of Macedon, v. 167.
 Pleistarchus, brother of Cassander, loses his fleet in a storm, vii. 360. Joins Lysimachus, 360. His territories invaded by Demetrius, viii. 3.
 Plistoanax, king of Sparta, iii. 305. Successful expedition of, 318.
 Plutarch, his description of the Spartan twins, i. 293. His account of the revolution effected in the Spartan constitution by Lycurgus, 298. Anecdote preserved by, iv. 1. His details respecting the sickness of Alexander at Babylon, 105. et seq.
 Polemo, an officer of Perdiccas, vii. 209.
 Polles, king of the Odontian Thracians, iii. 302.
 Pollis, iii. 162. Appointed to command the fleet sent against Thebes, v. 49.
 Polybiades, the Olynthian war brought to a close by, v. 24.
 Polybius, his arrival in Greece after the fall of Corinth, viii. 455. His services to his country, 456. et seq. Grateful tributes to his memory, 458.
 Polychares, story of, i. 344.
 Polyeuctus, vi. 18. A friend of Demosthenes, vii. 161.
 Polycles, a Macedonian captain, his death in battle in Thessaly, vii. 222.
 Polycrotus, the tyrant of Samos, ii. 178. His sudden and ignominious fall, 181. His death, 182.
 Polydamus, v. 54. His treaty, 57. 115.
 Polysperchon, vi. 299. Serves Alexander in India, vii. 37. Is sent to Macedonia, 88. Defeats Meno in Thessaly, vii. 223. He succeeds Antipater by that regent's will, 238. Rivalry of Cassander and, 240. The countenance of Olympias solicited by, 242, 243. Is promised assistance by Eumenes in his policy of supporting the royal family, and in his views on Greece, 244. His authority in Greece, 247. He sacrifices Phocion at Athens to a political faction, 252. He attacks the Piræus, 257. Besieges Megalopolis, and is frustrated by Damis, 257—260. Ill consequences of this failure, 261. 263. He puts Hercules, son of Alexander the Great, by Barsinè, to death, 321, 322. His baseness, 322.
 Porus, his rival Taxiles, in the sovereignty of the states adjacent to the Indus, vii. 3, 4. His kingdom was east of the Hydaspes, 4. Sends an answer of defiance to Alexander, 14. Defends the passage of the Hydaspes, 15—18. Completely defeated and made captive, 20—22. Magnanimity of Alexander towards him, 23. Enlarges the dominions of the Indian king, 24. 31.
 Porus, the younger, vii. 4. 24, 25.
 Poseidon, the great national god of the Ionians, i. 116. Sanctuary of Posidonius, or Neptune, in the island of Calauria, vii. 196.
 Potamis, the Syracusan general, iv. 91.
 Potidæa, siege of, ii. 317. Battle of, iii. 103.
 Prasians, the, a powerful nation east of the Ganges, vii. 27.
 Praxitas, the Spartan admiral, iv. 417.
 Procles, i. 265. His death, iii. 210.
 Prodicus of Ceos, iv. 258.
 Prætus, king of Argos, i. 61.
 Proxenus, arrest and execution of, iv. 324.
 Protogoras, of Abdera, iv. 258.
 Psammeticus, king of Corinth, i. 423.
 Psammeticus, king of Egypt, ii. 109.
 Psophis, siege and surrender of, viii. 231.
 Ptolemæus, nephew of Antigonus, vi. 82. vii. 315. 319, 320. His death, 322.
 Ptolemis, daughter of Ptolemy and Eurydice, celebration of her marriage to Demetrius, viii. 35.
 Ptolemy and Lysimachus, alliance entered into between them, against Demetrius, viii. 1.
 Ptolemy Ceraunus (the Thunderbolt), son of Alexander and Eurydice, viii. 41. Upon his exclusion from the succession, he seeks refuge with Lysimachus, 41. He

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

510

INDEX.

- murders Agathocles, 43. He accompanies Lysimachus on his expedition, 44. He falls into the hands of Seleucus, 45. Whom he basely assassinates, and succeeds in the kingdom, 47. His perfidy towards Arsinoë, 50. He commands the murder of his two nephews, 51. His engagement with the Celts, 52. He is made prisoner, and slain, 53.
- Ptolemy of Aloras, v. 162.
- Ptolemy, his services in Alexander's Indian campaign, vii. 7. Espouses a daughter of Artabazus, 76. Obtains Egypt, &c., in the partition of the Macedonian empire, 117. 127. 207. He puts Cleomenes to death, and seizes his treasure, 207. He sends Ophellas to Cyrene to attack Thimbron, and acquires possession of the Cyrenaica, 207, 208. He defeats the invasion of Egypt by Perdiccas, 217—231. Gains a victory over Demetrius and Pithon at Gaza, and reduces Phœnicia, 312. His war against Antigonus, 314. 319. et seq. His vigorous measures, 322. He besieges Halicarnassus, 323. He takes Corinth and Sicyon, 323. His treaty with Cassander, 323. Solicits the hand of Cleopatra, and returns to Egypt, 324. Expedition of Antigonus and Demetrius against King Ptolemy, 337. et seq. Sidon besieged by Ptolemy, 360. He enters into an alliance with Lysimachus against Seleucus, viii. 1.
- Pura, capital of Gedrosia, vii. 61.
- Pydna, besieged by Cassander, and Olympias constrained by famine to surrender, vii. 287—289.
- Pylus, the bay of, celebrated in modern history under the name of Navarino, i. 26. Capitulation of, iv. 94.
- Pyrrhus, on the deposition of his father Æacides, is protected by Glaucias, king of Illyria, vii. 288. Is restored by Glaucias to the throne of Epirus, 353. Joins the army of his brother-in-law Demetrius Poliorcetes, 362. His impetuous valour displayed at Ipsus, in defence of Antigonus, 364. He is sent to the court of Alexandria as security for the execution of the treaty between Ptolemy and Demetrius, viii. 4. He seeks to ingratiate himself with Ptolemy, 5. He regains the throne of Epirus, 15. He consents, at the desire of Alexander, to march against Antipater, 15. He detects an attempt on the part of Lysimachus to deceive him, 15. Conditions of peace, 16. Invasion of his territory by the forces of Demetrius, 26. Pyrrhus is challenged by Pantauchus, the general of Demetrius, to single combat, and is victorious, 27. He gains a decisive victory over the invaders, 27. Perfidy of his wife, Lanassa, 28. Pyrrhus at Athens, 35. He concludes a treaty of peace with Demetrius, 35. He is attacked by Lysimachus near Edessa, and defeated, 40. He withdraws into Epirus, 40. Declares war against Antigonus, and invades Macedonia, 67. His successes, 68. He makes war on Sparta, 70. He is wounded, 71. He marches to Argos, 74. Is defeated, and slain, 75. Sketch of his general character, 76. et seq.
- Pythagoras, his birth and parentage, ii. 139. The first Greek who assumed the title of philosopher, 141. Character of his institutions, 143. Legends about his appearance at Olympia, 145. Religion of, 149. His political views, 150.
- Pythagoras, the Spartan admiral, iv. 294.
- Pytheas, the lion-hearted, ii. 309.
- Pytheas, his speech respecting Alexander's claim to divine honours, vii. 149, 150.
- Pythian games, vi. 4.
- Pythias, the wife of Aristotle, vi. 144.
- Pythodorus, his expedition, iii. 234. Satire attributed to him, vii. 93.
- Python, v. 220. His speech in vindication of Philip's conduct, vi. 10. 303.
- Pythonicus, his accusations against Alcibiades, iii. 378.
- Pyrrha, i. 81.
- Q.
- Quinda, fortress of, vii. 242. Taken possession of by Demetrius, viii. 4.
- R.
- Rambacia, vii. 56.
- Ramphias, the Spartan envoy, iii. 112. Expedition of, 304.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

511

- Rhapsodists, the, i. 246.
 Rhianus, the Cretan poet, i. 146.
 Rhodes, foundation of, iv. 111.
   Siege of, by Demetrius Poliorcetes, vii. 341. et seq. Magnificence of the city, its port and navy, art, sculpture, paintings, and edifices, 340.
 Rhœcus, the architect, builder of the temple of Herê at Samos, ii. 111.
 Romans, progress of their arms in Italy, viii. 260. War declared against Philip, 260. Conquest of Anticyra, 261. Proceedings against Macedonia, 286. et seq. Successes and reverses, 293. Their attack on Philip, under Flamininus, 297. The Romans in Eubœa, 299.
 Rome, ambassadors from, to Alexander at Babylon, vii. 99, 100. Its proposed mediation between Antiochus and Ptolemy rejected, viii. 322. Its treaty of peace with Nabis, 328. Its increasing influence in the affairs of Greece, 365. [For the various steps taken by Rome towards the subjugation of Greece into a province of the empire, see under the heads "Perseus," "Philip," &c. in this Index.]
 Roxana, her marriage with Alexander the Great, vi. 301. Expectation of her giving birth to a heir, at the time of his decease, vii. 118. Puts Statira and Drypetis to death, 130. Her son named Alexander Ægus, 131. Is imprisoned by Cassander, with the young Alexander, at Amphipolis, 292. Is murdered by Glaucias and Cassander, 319.
- S.
- Sacred war, v. 377.
 Sadocus, prince, iii. 162.
 Salathus, iii. 180. Execution of, 185.
 Salamis, the battle of, ii. 306. Its results as important as have been those of the modern action at Lepanto, vii. 131.
 Salamis, of Cyprus, naval action at, vii. 334, 335.
 Salynthius, king of the Agracus, iii. 277.
 Sambus, chief of Sindomana, vii. 48.
 Samian war, origin of the, iii. 49.
 Samius, admiral, iv. 288.
 Samos, insurrection at, iv. 15.
 Sangala, near the modern Lahore, vii. 25, 26.
 Sangæus, of Peucela, vii. 9.
 Sardis, the battle of, iv. 389. Its submission to Demetrius, viii. 36.
 Satibarzanes, satrap of Asia, vi. 260.
 Scione, siege and cruel punishment of, iii. 318.
 Scipio, Roman consul, viii. 356. He undertakes the war with Antiochus in Asia, 356.
 Scylax commences his voyage from the Hydaspes, vii. 1. 32.
 Scyllus, the Cretan artist, ii. 115.
 Scythians, manners, customs, and wars of the, ii. 196. vii. 308.
 Sebitas, satrap of Cappadocia, vi. 172.
 Seleucus I. serves under Alexander in India, vii. 19. Marries a daughter of Spitamenes, 76. At Babylon, 103. 109. He conspires against Perdiccas, 220. Is invested with the satrapy of Babylon, 225. Is summoned by Antigonus to answer for his conduct in his government, and flies towards Egypt, 283. Prediction by the Chaldeans of his future power, 283. He takes Babylon, 313. He surprises Nicanor in Media, 313, 314. His great victory, in conjunction with Lysimachus at Ipsus, wherein king Antigonus is slain, 362. et seq. He becomes an object of the jealousy both of Ptolemy and Lysimachus, who enter into an alliance to compass his overthrow, viii. 1. He seeks the assistance of Demetrius, 2. Meets and entertains Demetrius at Rhossus, 4. His anxiety to avoid a rupture with the rival powers, and the means taken for that end, 5. Temporising and ungenerous conduct of Seleucus, 6. Rupture between him and Demetrius, 6. He renews his alliance with Ptolemy and Lysimachus, 31. His operations against Demetrius, 37. His conduct towards Demetrius as a prisoner of war, 39. He rejects the offer made by Lysimachus of 2000 talents to put Demetrius to death, 40. Treats him with princely honours after death, 41. He makes war on Lysimachus, 44. Battle of the Plain of Corus, 45. His generous conduct to,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- wards Ptolemy Ceraunus, 45. By whom he is assassinated, 47. Important events following the death of Seleucus, 49. et seq.
- Sellasia, battle of, viii. 197. Its results on Sparta, 199. et seq.
- Sellians, the, i. 81.
- Selymbria, siege of, vi. 41.
- Serapis, the generals of Alexander resort to the temple and shrine of, at Babylon, inquiring if they should carry the sick king thither as a suppliant, vii. 108. The Serapeum built by Ptolemy, 108.
- Sestus, siege of, ii. 361.
- Seuthes, Odrysian king, particulars relating to, iii. 166. iv. 353. v. 211. vii. 128. 308.
- Siburtius, governor of Gedrosia and Arachostia, vii. 67. 127.
- Sicanus, the Syracusan general, iii. 436.
- Sicyon, i. 117. vii. 323. Surrenders to Demetrius Poliorcetes, 352.
- Sidon, siege of, vi. 137. Surprise of, by Aratus, viii. 99. Incorporation of, with the Achæan League, 101. Assembly of Roman and Macedonian ambassadors at, 301.
- Silanus, the Greek soothsayer, iv. 301.
- Simonides of Ceos, iii. 71.
- Sindomana, capital of Sambus, vii. 49.
- Sirras of Elymea, v. 158.
- Sisycottus attaches himself to Alexander, vii. 3. 10.
- Sisygambis, mother of Darius, vi. 179.
- Sisyphus, i. 90. His legendary, 94.
- Sitacles, king of the Odrysian Thracian, iii. 160.
- Sitalces, put to death by Alexander, vii. 63.
- Siva, worshipped by the Sivaites or Sibas, vii. 36.
- Social War, origin of the, v. 230. end of the, 236.
- Socrates, his interview with Alcibiades, iii. 327. His religious opinions, iv. 269. His death, 280.
- Socrates, the Greek general, iv. 323. Arrest and execution of, 324.
- Solon, his early history, ii. 23. Part which he took in the Sacred War, 25. Invested with full authority to frame a new constitution and a new code of laws, 33. His regulations concerning the education of the Athenian youths, 50. Lays the foundation of the Attic navy, 52. His last effort in the cause of liberty and the laws, 56. His death, 58.
- Somatophylax, generals of Alexander holding this rank at the decease of the king, vii. 117.
- Sophocles, character of his writings, iii. 77. Expedition of, 235. Operations of, in Sicily, 261. Returns to Athens, 263. Is banished, 264.
- Sosicles, the Corinthian deputy, i. 80.
- Sosthenes, a Macedonian nobleman, succeeds Ceraunus in the government, viii. 54. Declines the title of king, 54. He takes the field against Brennus, and is defeated, 55. Consequences following upon his death, 64. et seq.
- Sostratus, a pirate chief, vi. 21.
- Sparta, antiquity of the institutions of, i. 296. v. 135. Attack of, by Demetrius, viii. 13. Raising of the siege of, 14. Endeavours to form the states of Greece into a general confederacy to preserve their freedom, 49. Ill success of the first expedition, 49. Attack upon, by Pyrrhus, 73. Important part taken by, in the affairs of Greece, 131. Causes of its subsequent weakness, 133. Its state at the accession of Agis IV., 134. Efforts of Agis to bring about a thorough reform, 135. Temporary want of success, and triumph of the opposite party, 141. Reaction, 147. Revolution in Sparta, 161. et seq. Opinions of the ancients relative to the real character of the reforms introduced by Cleomenes, 165. Submission of Sparta to Antigonus, 199. Usurpation of Nabis, 278. His excesses, 279. et seq. Spartan aggressions, 360. Rupture with the Achæans, 360. Subjugation of Sparta, by Philopœmen, 361. Proceedings with respect to the Spartan exiles, 364. et seq. Parties in Sparta, 368.
- Sphodias, his trial and acquittal, v. 37. Slain in the battle of Leuctra, 75.
- Spitamenes, vi. 280. His defeat and death, 310.
- Stamenes, satrap of Babylon, vi. 312.
- Stasanor, satrap of Ariana, vii. 63.
- Statira, the favourite queen of Artaxerxes, iv. 344.
- Statira, consort of Darius, vi. 179.
- Statira, daughter of Darius, her marriage with Alexander, vii.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

513

76. Is assassinated by command of Roxana, 130.
 Stilbides, the soothsayer, iii. 440.
 Strategus Autocrator, first institution of the office, viii. 178.
 Stratocles, Athenian orator, vii. 184. 332.
 Strombichides, iv. 12. Judicial murder of, 182.
 Struthas, the satrap of Sardis, iv. 435.
 Sudracæ, the, allies of the Malli against Alexander, vii. 36. 45. The Sudra caste, 37.
 Susa, conduct of Alexander at, vii. 72.
 Syloson, tyrant of Samos, ii. 194.
 Syme, battle of, iv. 24.
 Syria, voyage of Demetrius to, viii. 3.
 Syrmus, king of the Triballians, vi. 109.
 Syrtes and arid deserts of Gedrosia or the Mekran, remarks upon, in reference to the march of Alexander, vii. 59.
- T.
- Taxila, splendid city of the Upper Indus, vii. 3.
 Taxiles, king of the Punjab, seeks the alliance of Alexander against Porus, vii. 3. Rewarded by the Macedonian conqueror, 14. 23. 62. 127.
 Tegra, battle of, v. 52.
 Teians, the, ii. 171.
 Telchines, the fabled sons of the sea, i. 75.
 Teleclus, king of Sparta, i. 344.
 Teleutias, iv. 436. Surprises Piræus, 441. His expedition against Olynthus, v. 18. His second campaign and death, 20.
 Telesilla, the poetess, ii. 263.
 Telesphorus revolts against Antigonus, fortifies Elis, and plunders the temple at Olympia, vii. 315. His mission to Peloponnesus to restore freedom to its cities, 308.
 Telliads, the soothsayer, ii. 359.
 Tempe, description of, i. 5.
 Tennes, king of Sidon, vi. 137.
 Teres, his hostility to Philip, vi. 31.
 Teribazus, the satrap, iv. 343. vi. 122.
 Terillas, tyrant of Himera, ii. 318.
 Terpander, the poet, ii. 124.
 Teucheira, town of, vii. 208.
 Teuta, Queen of Illyria, succeeds Agron in the government, viii. 125. Her rapacity and warlike operations, 126. Submits to the Roman arms, 128.
 Thales of Miletus, distinguishing tenet of his philosophy, ii. 132.
 Thaumaci, siege of, viii. 294.
 Theagenes, the tyrant of Megora, i. 428.
 Theban wars, i. 142.
 Thebans, punishment of, ii. 355.
 Thebe, wife of Alexander of Pherea, v. 120.
 Thebes, i. 11. Deliverance of, v. 35. Institution of the sacred band at, 48. Coalition against, 143. Congress at, 125. Bondage of, vii. 132. Restoration of, 294, 295. Besieged by Demetrius, viii. 24.
 Themistocles of Delphi, ii. 145.
 Themistocles, son of Neocles, ii. 265. His advice to the Athenians, ii. 296. His conference with Mnesiphilus, 301. His interview with Cusybiades, 302. His interview with Aristides, 305. His address to the Greeks before the battle of Salamis, 306. His secret message to Xerxes, 314. His fame, 317. Honours paid him, 318. Stratagems of, 366. Services which he renders to Athens, 380. His opposition to Sparta, 382. His exile, 383. His journey to the court of Persia, 387. His death, 389.
 Theoclus, the seer, i. 365. His death, 366. ii. 90.
 Theodorus, the architect, ii. 112.
 Theognis, the aristocratical poet, i. 430. Extracts from his writings, 431.
 Theomestor, the tyrant of Samos, ii. 355.
 Theopompus, i. 344. iv. 310. v. 31. vii. 74.
 Theramenes, iv. 18. His death, 22.
 Theramenes, the prime leader of the oligarchical conspiracy at Athens, iv. 47. 64. Action of, in the Hellespont, 84. Operations of, 87. Appears foremost among the accusers of the Athenian generals, 129. His embassy, iv. 162. Impeachment of, 189. His defence, 191. His execution, 193. His character, 194.
 Theras, expedition of, i. 269.
 Thermopylæ, defence of, viii. 57. Decisive battle of, 347.
 Theron, tyrant of Agrigentum, ii. 318. iii. 221.
 Theseus, his birth and parentage, i. 132. Legend of his adventures in Crete, 134. Change effected by

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

- him in Attica, ii. 18. His institutions, 14.
- Thespis, the poet, ii. 126.
- Thespias, death of, in Persis, vii. 282.
- Thessalians, migrations of, i. 251.
- Thessalus, the fabulous progenitor of the Thessalians, i. 251. His character, ii. 65.
- Thessalus, a Greek player, vi. 81.
- Thessaly, i. 4. Divisions of, 7. State of, v. 54. Affairs of, vi. 13. Campaigns of the Macedonians in, vii. 186, 187. 223. Authority of Demetrius acknowledged by, viii. 19.
- Thimbron, expedition of, iv. 360. Death of, 435. Thimbron assassinates Harpalus in Crete, vii. 207. Is defeated at Cyrene by Ophellas, an officer of Ptolemy, 208.
- Thorax of Lorissa, ii. 325.
- Thorax, the Spartan general, iv. 152.
- Thracians, the origin of, i. 45, 46.
- Thrasylbulus of Miletus, i. 421. His death, ii. 161.
- Thrasylbulus, iii. 219. Succeeds Hiero as governor of Syracuse, 223. Operations of, iv. 19. His mission to Thrace, 99. Impeachment of, 129. Execution of, 136.
- Thrasylus, iv. 54. Takes the command of the Athenian fleet, 77. Raises a powerful armament at Athens, 91. Defeat of, 93.
- Thucydides, his opinion of the earliest inhabitants of Greece, i. 33.
- Thucydides, son of Melesias, his political and military talents, iii. 44. His account of the elaborate orations delivered by the Corcyrean and Corinthian ambassadors before the Athenian assembly, 26. His account of the plague at Athens, 135. Exile of, 287.
- Thymochares, iv. 69. His actions in the Hellespont, 84.
- Thymœtes, king of Attica, i. 274.
- Tigranes, the Samian general, ii. 359.
- Tigris, river, vii. 82.
- Timæa, queen, her intrigues with Alcibiades, iv. 26.
- Timagoras, iii. 162. iv. 7. v. 124.
- Timarchus, iv. 95. His trial, v. 129.
- Timocrates, his mission to Greece, iv. 391.
- Timocreon of Ialysus, a Rhodian poet, character of his writings, ii. 381.
- Timocrates, his mission to Greece, iv. 391.
- Timolaus, iv. 391. The Corinthian deputy, 405.
- Timomachus, the Athenian general, v. 217.
- Timotheus, his expedition to the West, v. 51. Trial of, 63. Repulsed at Amphipolis, 190. His trial and death, 239.
- Tiridates, governor of Persepolis, vi. 232.
- Tisamenus, the most celebrated diviner in Greece, ii. 339.
- Tissaphernes appointed to the government of the maritime provinces in the south-west of Asia Minor, iv. 5. His conferences with Lichas and the other Spartan commissioners, 24. His intimacy with Alcibiades, 28. His conference with Pisander, 38. His interview with the Peloponnesian commanders, 39. Policy of, towards the Peloponnesians, 61. His journey to the Hellespont, 81. Opens a fresh correspondence with the Peloponnesians, 86. Makes preparations for the defence of Ephesus, 92. Visits the Greeks with a message from Artaxerxes, 315. Accompanies the Greeks to Sitace, 318. His interview with Clearchus, 320. Concludes an armistice with Dercylidas, 368. Concludes a truce with Agesilaus, 384. Execution of, 389.
- Tisias, expedition of, to Melos, iii. 357. 361.
- Tithraustes, succeeds Tissaphernes in his satrapy, iv. 389.
- Tlepolemus, vi. 245. Satrap of Carmania, vii. 67, 127.
- Tolmides, expedition of, iii. 31. His death, 41.
- Traditions, coincidence between Greek and Egyptian, i. 73.
- Træzen, territory of, i. 23.
- Tricca, celebrated for the most ancient temple of Esculapius, i. 98.
- Tripardisus, mutiny at, vii. 224. Treaty known as the partition of, 225.
- Trojan war, i. 150. 159.
- Tydeus, the Athenian general, iv. 148.
- Tyranny, some remarks upon, in connection with the revolution brought about in Sparta by Cleomenes, viii. 166.
- Tyre, siege of, vi. 195. Storm of, 201. Entered by Attalus, 222.
- Tyriaspes, vii. 5. 25. 47.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01270-6 - A History of Greece, Volume 8

Connop Thirlwall

Index

More information

INDEX.

515

Tyro, legend of, i. 96.

Tyrrenians, Bruttians, and Lucanians send embassies to Alexander at Babylon, vii. 99, 100.

U.

Ulysses, his skill as an artificer, i. 225.

W.

War, the Achæan, termination of, viii. 453.

War, the Social, viii. 213. Its termination, 252.

War, the Macedonian, its termination, viii. 320.

Williams, Mr., Life of Alexander, vii. 33. 48. His attack on Tacitus, 108.

X.

Xanthicles, the Greek general, iv. 331.

Xanthippus, son of Arifphon, ii. 245. Lays siege to Sestos, 360.

Xenolides, the Athenian poet, vi. 92.

Xenias, iv. 284. His vigorous efforts to overpower the Eleans, and reduce their country under the subjection of Sparta, iv. 370.

Xenocrates, character of the philosopher, given by Plutarch, vii. 189.

His mission to and treaty with Antipater, continuing a Macedonian garrison in Munychia, 190, 191.

Xenophanes, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 136.

Xenophilus, his surrender to Seleucus, and submission to Antigonus, vii. 282.

Xenophon, the Athenian commander, iii. 142. Beginning of the Greek history, iv. 81. Accompanies the expedition of Cyrus, 327. His dream, 329. His address to the Greek army, 330. Endeavours to negotiate a truce with the Cerasuntians, 348. v. 4.

Xerxes, i. 90. Accession of, ii. 249. Resolves on the invasion of Greece, 250. 260. His expedition, 264. Murder of, 386.

Xerxes II., his accession and murder, iii. 256.

Z.

Zacynthus, claimed and given up to the Romans, viii. 353.

Zenis, governor of Æolis, iv. 362.

Zeno, tenets of his philosophy, ii. 137.

Zeucippus, proceedings of the Roman senate respecting him, viii. 364.

Zopyrus, treachery of, ii. 198.

Zoroaster, his code of sacred laws, ii. 189.

THE END.