

Cambridge University Press
 978-1-108-01382-6 - A Winter in North China
 T. M. Morris and Richard Glover
 Table of Contents
More information

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER I.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO YOKOHAMA.

	PAGE
Chinese population in California—China-town—Mission work— Prohibitive legislation—The Pacific voyage—Reasons for calling at the Sandwich Islands—Honolulu—Marvellous change in these islands since their discovery by Captain Cook—Yokohama—Tokyo—The Pagoda of Towers—Shiba and its temples—Zojyoji—Vries Island—Kobe and Hiogo— Sunday in Kobe—Mission work—Productions—Civilization	21

CHAPTER II.

CHEFOO AND TIEN-TSIN.

The Inland Sea and Corea—Nagasaki—Buddhist temple—Mission school—Fusan—Jinsen, or Shemulpoo, a Corean village— Corean funeral customs—Voyage to China—Chefoo—Yentai —Chinese filth—Chinese curiosity—Market gardens—Ances- tral burial-places—Mission work—American Presbyterian Mission—China Inland Mission—Voyage to Tien-tsin—Taku —Railway-ride—Tien-tsin—Missionary work—Meeting of missionaries and mission workers—Flood and famine— Visit to famine villages—Extreme destitution—Chinese good- nature	42
---	----

CHAPTER III.

FROM TIEN-TSIN TO TSING-CHOW-FU.

Journey to Tsing-chow-fu—Chinese cart—Chinese roads—Chinese inns—Discomfort of Chinese travel—Approach to Tsing- chow-fu—Meeting with native Christians outside the gates— Cordial welcome	56
---	----

CHAPTER IV.

TSING-CHOW-FU.

City of Tsing-chow-fu—Baptist Mission—The province of Shan- tung—Birthplace of Confucius and Mencius—Tai-shan— Buddhist monastery—Funeral of the abbot—Confucian temple—Hill of the Cloudy Gate—Buddhist heaven and hell—Intercourse with native Christians—Sunday services at country stations—Chinese food—Respect for grey hairs	65
--	----

B

Cambridge University Press
 978-1-108-01382-6 - A Winter in North China
 T. M. Morris and Richard Glover
 Table of Contents
More information

CHAPTER V.

CHOW-PING.

PAGE

Chow-ping—Journey on Chinese wheel-barrow—Description of wheel-barrow—Arrival at Chow-ping—Christmas Day in China—Kao-Yuen—Detained by rain—Mule litter or shen-tzu—Po-sing—Chinese hospitality—Chinese feast—An interesting service—The last night of the year—An out-of-door service	75
--	----

CHAPTER VI.

CHI-NAN-FU.

A bonfire in an inn—Arrival at Chi-nan-fu—Good shops—Streets crowded with wheel-barrow—The lake—Mahomedan mosque—American Presbyterian Mission—Farewell to Shantung—Departure for Shansi—Pleasant experience of Chinese respect for age—Chi-nan-fu again—Refugees from Chouching-chou—Riot there, and expulsion of American Presbyterian missionaries—Pang-chuang—Station of American Board—Hsiao-Chang—London Mission—Welcome of unexpected guests—Perils of robbers—Missionaries mistaken for robbers	86
---	----

CHAPTER VII.

THE GREAT PLAIN OF CHINA.

Its size—Appearance—Monotony—Poverty—Industry and isolation of the people—The Hwang-ho—‘China’s sorrow’—Grand Canal—Roads of China—Donkeys and pack-mules—A Chinaman inquiring about the doctrine—Approach to Hwai-lu—China Inland Mission—A Chinese market—The To-chiao—A new conveyance—Multitude of donkeys—A pitiable spectacle—Mountain gorges—The great wall of China—Loëss villages and inns—A narrow escape—The province of Shansi—Mineral productions—Large coal-measures—The Loëss formation—Richtoven’s theory—Great productiveness of the soil	98
--	----

CHAPTER VIII.

T’AI-YUEN-FU.

T’ai-yuen-fu—Capital of province—Centre of both Baptist and China Inland Mission work—Sunday services—The Chinese New Year—In what way celebrated—Kitchen-god—Ancestral worship—The worship of the emperor—Worship of Confucius—Start for Hsin-chow—Intercourse with native Christians—
---	--

Cambridge University Press
 978-1-108-01382-6 - A Winter in North China
 T. M. Morris and Richard Glover
 Table of Contents
More information

TABLE OF CONTENTS

19

	PAGE
Chi-tsuen—Visit to a Chinese house—Hsiao-tien-tzu—Pleasant time with native Christians—Chinese mottoes—The feast of lanterns—Noisy celebration—Curious legend—Most brilliant festival of the year—Grand display of lanterns and fireworks—Taouist temple—Oracular responses—Return journey—Snow on the mountains—Chinese mules—Opium largely consumed—The use of it increasing—Never defended by a Chinaman—Chinese agriculture—Pao-ting-fu—American Board Missions—Great stone bridge—Imperial stone road—Singing girls	117

CHAPTER IX.

PEKING.

Approach to the city—Multitude of camels—Busy spectacle—Description of the city—Chinese city—Tartar city—'Carnation prohibited city'—The 'unspeakably dirty city'—The 'land-ship of mercy'—Funeral processions—The Altar of Heaven—The Altar of Earth—The astronomical observatory—Examination Hall—Lama monastery—Great Bell Temple—Imperial college—Missionary and philanthropic work—Dr. Blodgett and the American Board—Methodist Episcopal Mission—London Missionary Society—American Presbyterian Mission—Society for the Propagation of the Gospel—Roman Catholic Missions—Portuguese cemetery	139
---	-----

CHAPTER X.

AN INTERVIEW WITH LI-HUNG-CHANG.

Return to Tien-tsin—A rough ride—Tung-chow—American Board Mission—Its educational work—Down the Peiho in a Chinese boat—Good Friday in Tien-tsin—Arrangements for interview with the viceroy—Courtesy of Lo-Fung-lu—Reception at the Yamen—Interview with Li-Hung-Chang—Cordial welcome—Careful and minute inquiries as to mission work—Reference to Roman Catholic Missions—Inquiries as to opium traffic, and the relations of the missionaries to it—The conduct of the British Government in respect of it—Medical missions—The viceroy's strong approval of them—His wish that more medical missionaries might be sent out—Departure from Tien-tsin	157
--	-----

CHAPTER XI.

SHANGHAI.

Shanghai—The Yang-tze-Kiang—The first view of Shanghai—Apparent wealth and prosperity—Municipal council—The Anglo-Chinese town—Important missionary centre—St. Luke's
---	--

Cambridge University Press
 978-1-108-01382-6 - A Winter in North China
 T. M. Morris and Richard Glover
 Table of Contents
More information

	PAGE
Hospital—Chinese Hospital—American Presbyterian Mission Press—Union Church—Native city—Departure for Hankow—The Yang-tze-Kiang—The changes in the river-bed—Nanking—River scenery—Water-buffaloes	168

CHAPTER XII.

HANKOW, HONG-KONG, AND CANTON.

The three cities—Hankow, Hanyang, and Wuchang—Hanyang Hill—The viceroy's iron-works and cotton factory—Native cities and foreign settlements—Tea-trade—Brick-tea—A Russian factory—Italian Roman Catholic Mission school—Wesleyan Mission at Hankow—Blind school—Hospital work—London Mission—Medical work—Margaret Hospital—Meeting of native preachers—Scottish Bible Society Press—Chin-Kiang—American Southern Baptist Missions—From Shanghai to Hong-Kong—Approach to Foo-chow—River Min—Foo-chow the capital of Fukien province—The native city—Foreign settlement called Nantai—Mission work of the Church Missionary Society and the American Board—Amoy—Fine harbour—London Mission—English Presbyterian Mission—Swatow—English Presbyterian Mission—American Southern Baptist—Hong-Kong to Canton—City of Victoria—Island of Hong-Kong—Beautiful situation—Kowloon—Mission work—Canton—Pearl River—The Fatshan—River scenery—Boat-population of Canton—Wesleyan Mission—Trade of Canton—Shameen—Narrow streets	179
--	-----

CHAPTER XIII.

THE RELIGIONS OF CHINA.

Chinamen blend all religions—Conduct of the Viceroy of Shansi—Ancestral worship—Chief features of this worship—The ancestral tablet—Significance of the worship—It is a great hindrance to Christianity—Confucianism—Taoism—Buddhism	202
--	-----

CHAPTER XIV.

FUNG-SHUI.

Description of the superstition	229
---	-----

CHAPTER XV.

MISSIONARY WORK AND METHODS IN CHINA.

Evangelistic work—Educational work—Medical work—Women's work among women	235
APPENDIX	256