Idmonis tumulus in foro urbis, II, 50, 57. Herculis in foro statua aurea, III, 554, 52. Agamestor heros ab Heracleotis colitur, III, 201, 3. Status reipublicæ mutationes, II, 162, 188. Heracleotæ fame pressi oraculum Delphicum adeunt. Heraclides, qui Pythiam corruperat, repentina morte abripitur, III, 46, 48. De antiquiore Heracleæ histor. cf. III, p. 526 not. Primus urbis tyrannus Clearchus per 12 annos, III, 526, 1. Deinde Clearchi frater Satyrus, per annos septem, III, 527, 2. Post hunc Timotheus, Clearchi filius, III, 528, 3; cui succedit frater Dionysius annis triginta, III, 529, 4. Cf. III, 15, 16. Post ejus mortem res administrat pro filiis Amastris, favente etiam Antigono, et deinde Lysimacho, qui Amastrim uxorem ducit, postea tamen deserit. Tum Amastris urbs ab ea in Paphlagonia conditur, III, 530, 4. Tyrannidem adultus suscipit Clearchus, Amastridis f.; is cum Oxathre fratre matrem necandam curat; quod scelus ulciscens Lysimachus utrumque de medio tollit, liberamque Heracleotis rempublicam restituit, III, 531, 5, 6. At paullo post Lysimachus Heracleam dono dat Arsinoæ uxori, quæ urbis præfectum constituit Heraclidem Cumanum; is vir rigidus in Heracleotas sævit, 531, 7. Morte Lysimachi cives metu soluti, Heraclidem in vincula conjiciunt, missaque ad Seleucum legatione, Phœritum civitatis principem et procuratorem faciunt, 532, 9. Zipoetæ, Bithyniæ reguli, incursionibus vexantur, III, 532, 10. Quum ap. Seleucum legati nihil proficerent, bellumque cives ab eo metuerent, sociorum copias colligunt missis legatis ad Mithridatem Ponticum, et Byzantios et Chalcedonios; porro exulibus (inter quos Nymphis erat) reditus copiam faciunt, III, 533, 11. Post mortem Seleuci, Heracliensium naves in prœlio navali, quo Ptolemæus Ceraunus Antigonum (Gonatam) vicit, primas tulerunt, III, 534, 13. Ptolemæi, Seleuci percussoris, socios infestare statuit Antiochi Soteris dux Patroclus; sed placant eum legati Heracleotarum, fœdusque amicitiæ cum eo ineunt, 534, 15. Mox autem Antiocho contra Bithynos expeditionem parante, cum Nicomede societatem ineunt, (ademptasque sibi a Bithynis) urbes Cierum et Tium et Thynidem regionem data pecunia recuperant; Amastrin vero urbem obtinere ab Eumene, Heracliensibus infestissimo, tentant frustra, III, 535, 16. Cum Zipoete, qui Thiniacam Thraciam tenebat, pugnant Marte ancipite, 535, 17. Antigono Gonatæ contra Antiochum Soterem se adjungunt, 535, 18. Byzantinis, qui a Gallis premebantur, aureos quater mille mittunt, III, 535, 19. Gallis in Asiam trajicientibus inter ceteras conditiones Nicomedes etiam hanc scripsit, ut cum Heracleotis societatem colerent, 536, 19. H. Byzantinorum et Calatianorum controversias pacifice componere tentant, frustra, III, 537, 21. Calatia Heracleotarum colonia erat, ib. Heracleotæ inter tutores sunt, quos Nicomedes filiis e secunda uxore natis reliquit. Hos strenue tuentur contra Zeilam. Quare Galli ditionem eorum invadunt, et ad Caletem usque fluvium vastant, III, 537, 22. Cum 40 triremibus Byzantinis H. auxiliantur contra Antiochum Theum, III, 538, 23. Mithridatem, Ponti regem, a Gallis bello pressum, frumento Amisum misso sustentant. Quare iterum a Gallis infestantur, quos tandem pecunia movent, ut a finibus retrocedant, III, 538, 24. Ptolemæus II triticum iis mittit et in arce Herculis templum exstruit e lapide Proconnesio, III, 538, 25. Romanis in Asiam transgressis, de amicitia legatos mittunt; postea societatis fœdus cum iis ineunt. Fœderis pacta tabulis æneis in Jovis templo incisa, III, 539, 26. Prusias iis ademit Cierum et Tium urbes; deinde ipsam Heracleam obsidet; sed crure fracto, obsidionem solvit, III, 540, 27. Debilitata jam urbs a Gallis obsidetur; sed hostem ingenti Heracleotæ clade afficiunt, III, 540, 28. Romanis duabus triremibus auxiliantur, III, 540, 29. Chios captivos, quos Mithridates in Pontum duci jussit, liberant, in urbem suam recipiunt, postmodum etiam in patriam restituunt, III, 543, 33. Auxilium eorum eodem tempore expetunt Romanorum dux Murena et Mithridates. Neutri parti se adjungunt, III, 544, 36. Captis ab Archelao duobus Heracleotis nobilissimis, Sileno et Satyro, inducuntur, ut Mithridati quinque triremes suppeditent, III, 545, 38. Hinc ipsis conflatur inimicitia Romanorum; qui missis publicanis argentum exigunt; Heracleotæ secreto publicanos e medio tollunt, ibid. Lamachi proditione urbs in Mithridatis potestatem venit; præsidiumque ei imponitur, cui Connacorix est præfectus, III, 548, 42. Urbs ab Aurelio Cotta obsidione cingitur, III, 548, 43. Obsessi hostem fortiter propulsant; annonam e coloniis advehunt, 550, 47. Ad Scythas Chersonesi et Theodosianos et Bosporicos dynastas de societate legatos mittunt, 551, 49; præsidiariorum et Connacorigis præfecti insolentia vexantur, ib. Deinde Triarius cum classe accedens a mari Heracleotas arcet; Triarii navibus accedunt Rhodiorum triremes. Navali prœlio conserto Heracleotæ vincuntur. Annonæ caritas; pestis, qua etiam Lamachus exstinguitur, 552, 50. De salute desperans Connacorix cum Damophilo, Lamachi successore, urbem per biennium obsessam prodit Triario; promiscue cives ingenti cæde mactantur, 553, 51. Post Triarium Cotta urbem intrat, expilat, vastat, incendit; at spolia navibus imposita procellis maximam partem demerguntur, 554, 52. Captivos Heracleotas dimittendos esse statuit senatus Rom.; ager, mare et portus Heracleotis restituitur, postquam Cottam Thrasymedes in senatu accusaverat, III, 557, 59. Idem Thrasymedes post paucos annos cum onerariis navibus in patriam rediens instaurare eam aggreditur; priscam libertatem urbis a Cæsare obtinere student Brithagoras ejusque filius Propylus, III, 557, 60. Theuderichus Valiæ in Visigothorum principatu succedit, IV, 65, 35
Teuderichus, Triarii f., Gothorum in Thracia dux a Leone imp. postulat bona quæ Aspar (matris Theud. frater) reliquerat; ut in Thracia habitare liceat, et dux Rom. in Asparis locum creetur. Imperatore non obtemperante, Thraciæ urbes oppugnat; tandem vero pacem init cum Leone, qui tributum pollicetur, et summi ducis Rom. munus ei concedit (473), IV, 113, 2. Heraclium, Zenonis ducem, quem ceperat, redimi sinit (475), IV, 115, 4 (Cf. IV, 619, 24). In aula Basilisci ægre fert Harmatum a Basilisco imp. omnibus præferri, IV, 117, 8. Basiliscum in tyrannidem ipse evexerat: deinde ad ejusdem cædem milites instigavit, IV, 119, 11. Ad Zenonem in regnum restitutum de reconciliatione legatos mittit; at hostis publicus ab imp. declaratur. Partium ejus fautores urbe Const. ejiciuntur, IV, 119, 11. Mox Zeno crescentem Theud. potentiam observans de amicitia ineunda legatos mittit; verum conditiones, quas imp. imponere volebat, Theoderichus repudiat; quare bello eum aggressurus Zeno est, IV, 121, 14. Cum Tendericho Valamiri filio, qui pro Zenone contra ipsum bellum suscepit, fœdus et amicitiam init, IV, 122 sq. 15. A Zenone præteritorum annorum stipendia solvi, et affines superstites sibi reddi poscit, IV, 123, 15. Pacem init cum Zenone, qui in summo discrimine versans omnia quæ postulata erant concedit. Inter alia ducis Romani dignitas, quæ antea Valamiri filii fuerat, in ipsum transfertur, IV, 124, 17. Honorichi legatos amicitiam ac pacem firmam pollicentes excipit liberaliter, IV, 120, 13. Quum Theuderichi, Valamiri f., qui socius Rom. erat, potentia minui videretur, contra vero Theuderichus Triarii f., Romanorum hostis, multas sibi gentes adjungeret, Zeno componere inimicitias studet. Deinde, conditionibus a Triarii filio repudiatis, bellum parat, IV, 121, 14, idque gerendum committit Theuderico Valamiri filio, cui auxiliares copias se suppeditaturum esse pollicetur. At non stat promissis. Quapropter iratus Valamiri filius fœdus init cum eo quem debellari imperator jusserat, IV, 121, 15, et per legatos a Zenone agros poscit et stipendia. Similiter Triarii filius præteritorum annorum tributa repetit et affines suos adhuc superstites reddi sibi jubet. Tum Valamiri filium Zeno pollicitationibus adducere tentat, ut fœdus illud solvat. Incassum. Igitur copias undique colligit, quas ipse contra hostem educturus est. At mox ad insitam relabitur ignaviam. Hinc militum rebelliones, adeo ut solvere castra Zeno cogatur, IV, 123, 16. Valamiri filio Thraciam vastante, pacem init cum filio Triarii. Pacis conditiones, IV, 124, 17. Valamiri filium a Macedoniæ vastatione precibus avertit, missis Artemidoro et Phoca legatis, IV, 125, 8. Alterum legatum qui cum eo transigat, mittit Adamantium, IV, 126.
