

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

FIRST JOURNEY.

- Arrive at Alexandria, 1.
 Description of the plague, 2.
 Departure for and arrival at Cairo, 3.
 Visit the Pyramids—view from the top, 4.
 Excursion to the Pyramid of Dajior—return to Cairo, 5.
 Become acquainted with Mr. Burckhardt, 6.
 Wounded by a Turk on horseback—observations on the Moors from Mecca during my confinement, 7.
 Presented to the Bashaw—rebellion of part of his army, 8.
 Danger in proceeding to Cairo—confined to the house in consequence of the revolution—description of it, 11.
 Commenced hydraulic operations, 12.
 Soubra, chief residence of the Bashaw, 13.
 His manner of living, 14.
 He is electrified—description of Zulfur Carcaja, governor of Soubra, 16.
 His mode of curing diseases—marriage ceremonies and festivals of the Arabs in Soubra, 17.
 Arabian play and farce, 19.
 Shot at by a soldier, 20.
 A young lady shot by a soldier, 21.
 Complete the water machine, 22.
 The English consul arrives in Cairo, 22.
 Decision of the Bashaw on the hydraulic machine—his frolic with it—the Irish lad's thigh broke in consequence, 23.
 Decided on ascending the Nile, 24.
 Undertaking to remove the colossal bust, and received instruction, 26.
 Left Boolak for Thebes—saw Hermopolis—arrived at Monfaluth, 29.
 Siout, description of it, 31.
 Saw Gow—a curious interview with the Cacheff of Acmin, 32.
 Arrival at and description of Dendera, 33.
 Arrival at Kenneh—arrival at and description of Thebes, 37.
 Begin operations for removing the bust of young Memnon, 40.
 First interview with the Cacheff of Erments—his objection against the removal, 41.
 Farther difficulties encountered, 42.
 Begin the operation of removing it, 43.
 Removed from its original place and put upon a car, 44.
 Removed out of the ruins of the Memnonium—delay in consequence of indisposition—works resumed, 45.
 The Fellahs prevented from working by order of the Cacheff, 46.

- Insolence and duplicity of the Caimakan, 47.
- Account of a Turkish dinner in Ramadan time, 48.
- Obtain a firman and again proceed in the works, 49.
- Arrival of the great Colossus on the banks of the Nile, 50.
- First visit to a Mummy Cave, 51.
- Preparations for departing to the first Cataract of the Nile, 54.
- Visit to Khalil Bey at Esné, 55.
- Arrival at and description of the ruins of Edfu, 56.
- Distant view of Assouan—tradition relating to an ancient King, 59.
- Arrive at Assouan, or first Cataract, 60.
- Description of the Aga of Assouan—description of the island of Elephantine, 61.
- Difficulties in obtaining a boat to proceed to the second Cataract, 63.
- Set off for the isle of Philoe, 65.
- Continue the voyage—alarmed by the natives, 66. Continuation of the voyage, and arrival at El Kalabshé, 67.
- Description of it, 68. Arrive at Garba Dandour—proceed to Garba Merieh—arrival at Garba Gyrshé, and description of it, 71.
- Arrival at and description of Dakke—Greek inscription, 72.
- Arrive at Meharraka, or Offelina—Greek inscription—curious figures on an ancient wall, 73.
- Arrival at and description of Seboua—arrival at and account of Korosko, 74.
- Arrival at Deir—interview with Hassan Cacheff, 75.
- Leave Deir—arrive at Ibrim, 77.
- Continuation of the voyage, and description of the country, 78.
- Arrive at and description of Faras, and the temple of Ybsambul, 79.
- Arrival at the village of Ybsambul—interview with Davoud Cacheff—description of the natives, 81.
- First introduce money into the country, 83.
- Further description of the natives, 84.
- Proceed towards the second Cataract, 85.
- Arrive at Wady Halfa, 86.
- Excursion by land on camels up the Cataract—view of it—visit to the isle of Mainarty, 87.
- Frighten away the natives, 88.
- Ascend the Nile against the eddies and current—visit the Rock of Apsir, 89.
- View of the Cataract from it—go on to the island of Gulgé, 90.
- Foundation of a Greek church on the island—return to Mainarty—leave it and descend the Nile—arrive at Iskus, 91.
- Interview with Osseyne Cacheff, 92.
- Leave Iskus—return to the village of Ybsambul—description of a small temple opposite it—endeavour to persuade the natives to open the temple, 93.
- Begin operations at the temple, 94.
- Difficulties encountered from the natives, 95.
- Embarrassment of the Cacheff in fixing the price of a sheep, 97.
- He drinks wine for the first time, 98.
- The natives come to work in great numbers—their ideas on the treasure to be found, 99.
- Attempt to rob the boat, 100.
- Causes for quitting the works at the temple, and leave Ybsambul, 101.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xiii

- Hailed and received letters sent by a soldier from Deraou, 102.
- Proceed to Cardassy—return to the first Cataract—take possession of a small obelisk and various other blocks of stone in the island of Philoe, 103.
- Return to Assouan—visit the granite quarries in the mountains, 105.
- Discover a Latin inscription on a column in the quarry—the little knowledge they have of diamonds, 106.
- Prepare to depart, 107.
- Observation on the manners of the Arabs, 108.
- Leave Assouan and arrive at Luxor—proceedings taken to obtain a boat to convey the bust of Memnon to Alexandria, 109.
- Works recommenced in Carnak, 111.
- Secure a boat—beginning of discoveries, 112.
- Count de Forbin, 114.
- Description of the place where I first discovered the lion-headed statues, 115.
- Further proceedings in Carnak, 116.
- Meet Khalil Bey on the Nile, 117.
- Conversazione* with the Bey, and his court, 118.
- Account of a dinner with him, 119.
- Description of the sepulchres in Gournou and Medinet Aboo, 120.
- First excursion in the valley of Beban el Malook—first discover the tomb of a king, 123.
- Description of the mountains round the valley—water descends from the desert, 124.
- Further difficulties in obtaining a boat, 125.
- Curious incident by which the boat was obtained, 126.
- Trial respecting the boat, and decision in favour of the author, 129.
- Works recommenced in Gournou—embark the colossal bust of Memnon, 131.
- Preparations for departing to Cairo—Ophthalmia—leave Thebes for Cairo, 133.
- Arrival in Cairo—leave Cairo for Alexandria, 134.
- Arrive in Rosetta—Bogase—and in Alexandria—landed and lodged the colossal head in the Bashaw's magazine ready to be embarked for England—farther proposal to ascend the Nile, 135.
- Return to Cairo—account of Captain Cabillia's operations at the Pyramids, 136.

SECOND JOURNEY.

- Left Cairo for Thebes, 141.
- Stopped at Tabeen and Boorumbol, 142.
- Description of an Arabian dance—arrival at Minieh, 143.
- Arrival at Eshmounein, and sudden departure for Luxor, 144.
- A forced march to Thebes, 145.
- Account of Bedoween horsemen and their tents, 146.
- Disagreeable consequences occasioned by the interpreter omitting to send a letter to the Defterdar Bey, 148.

- Another interview with the Cacheff of Erments—miracles performed by a Santon, 150.
- Further proceedings in Luxor, 151.
- Description of the temple of Carnak, 152.
- Further proceedings in Thebes, 154.
- Description of the natives, and tombs of Gournou, 155.
- Observations on the mode of discovery of the tombs, 158.
- Further account of the natives—manner of the Fellahs making their researches, 159.
- Purchase two metal vases from a chief of the Fellahs, 160.
- Further operations and discovery of lion-headed sphinxes in Carnak, 162.
- Iron sickle discovered under one of the sphinxes, 163.
- Further knowledge acquired on the discovery of tombs—Herodotus's description of mummies, 165.
- Observations on the various classes and descriptions of mummies, 167.
- Of animal mummies, 168.
- Of mummy priests, 170.
- Mummies discovered in their original position, 171.
- Further account of mummies, 172.
- Their decorations—linen manufactures—enamelling, gilding and other arts, 173.
- Art of painting, 174.
- Sculpture, 175.
- Architecture, and knowledge of arches with a key-stone, 176.
- Sculpture, 179.
- Uncover the foundation of a temple in the waste of Gournou—curious manner in discovering a tomb, 180.
- Description of a night's lodging in the tomb, 181.
- Happiness of the natives of Gournou, 182.
- Their preparations for a wedding, 183.
- Proceedings in Carnak—discovery of a colossal head—accumulate various articles, 184.
- Arrival of the Defterdar Bey at Gamola, and his orders—receive information from the Sheik of Gournou, 185.
- Present a letter from the Bashaw to the Defterdar Bey, 186.
- The Bey visits Thebes, 187.
- He visits Medinet Abou, 188.
- His barbarous conduct towards the Sheik of Gournou, 189.
- He ascends the Nile, and returns to Thebes, 191.
- Interview with the Bey on his return from Deraou, 192.
- Arrival of two of the fathers of the Propaganda at Thebes, 192.
- Description of a whirlwind, 195.
- Mirage, 196.
- Locusts—deception of Defterdar Bey in issuing a firman for men to work, 197.
- Preparations for and departure to the island of Philoe—further account of its monuments, 199.
- Preparations for Ybsambul—arrival of Captains Irby and Mangles, 202.
- Celebration of the birth-day of his Majesty George III.—leave Philoe, and arrive at Ybsambul, 203.
- Proceed to the second Cataract—combination of the natives and boatmen to extort money, 204.
- Return to Ybsambul—arrival of the Cacheffs, Daoud and Khalil—displeasure of Khalil—preparations for opening the temple, 205.
- Commence opening the temple, 206.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xv

- Works stopped by the Ramadan—resolve to work ourselves, 207.
- Visits from strange Cacheffs, said to be from Ibrim, 208.
- Their conduct, 209.
- Works continued—entry into the temple—description of the interior, 211.
- Description of the exterior, 213.
- Leave Ybsambul, 214.
- Arrive at Tomas—return to Deir, 215.
- Arrive at Almeida—return to Kalabshe—opposition of the natives to our entering the temple, 216.
- Arrival at Hindau, 217.
- Arrival at Debod, and return to Philoe—descend the cataract to Assouan—visit the granite quarries and the Latin inscription, 218.
- Departure from Assouan—pass Edfu—landed at Elethias—description of it, 219.
- Return to Luxor, 220.
- Return to Erments to obtain a firman for labourers to work at Gournou—the Cacheff is displaced by the Bey, 221.
- Commence searching for the kings' tombs, 222.
- Description of the valley of Beban el Malook, 224.
- Number and description of the tombs, 225.
- Further discovery of tombs, 227.
- Arrival of travellers, 228.
- Their visit to a newly discovered tomb, 229.
- Recommence operations, and point out the spot where the great tomb is found, 230.
- Further proceedings, 231.
- Enter the tomb, 232.
- Further entrance, and description of its various apartments, 234.
- Discovery of the sarcophagus of alabaster, 236.
- Description of the entrance into the tomb of Psammuthis, 237.
- Description of the various representations in the tomb, and figures in sculpture on the walls, 238.
- Painting—method taken for procuring a fac simile of the tomb, 239.
- Description of the various figures, 240.
- Dr. Young's discovery of the name of the tomb, 242.
- Continuation of the description of the figures, 243.
- Mahomet Aga visits the tomb, 246.
- Unfortunate fate of the stones prepared to be taken from the isle of Philoe, 248.
- Arrival of a noble family and the consul at Thebes—set off for and arrive at Boolak, 250.
- Meet with Count de Forbin, 251.
- Despatches arrive from India, 252.
- Farther account of Count de Forbin, 253.
- Transmit to Europe, by the Count, an account of his proceedings, 254.
- Visit the Pyramids—reflection on the possibility of penetrating that of Cephrenes, and motive which induced the author to undertake it, 255.
- Difficulties encountered, 256.
- Observations on the Pyramids, 257.
- Mode of obtaining permission for the operation, 258.
- Caution observed not to let the proceedings be known, 259.
- Begin the undertaking, 260.
- Foundation of a large temple discovered, 261.
- Tedious operations without any prospect of success—first discovery of an entrance, 262.
- Disappointment, and determination still to persevere, 265.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

xvi

CONTENTS.

- Calculation by which the true entrance was discovered, 266.
- Again resume the work—Arrival of Chevalier Frediani, 267.
- Discovery of the blocks of granite belonging to the true entrance—discovery of the true entrance, 268.
- Difficulties in entering—description of the portcullis, 270.
- Description of the interior—the sarcophagus found in the great chamber, 271.
- Arabic inscription observed on the wall of the chamber—translation of it, 272.
- Bones found in the sarcophagus—place from whence the stones have been taken for building the Pyramids, 275.
- Accounts of the Pyramids, 276.
- The supposed purpose for which they were erected, 277.
- Their dimensions, 278.
- Opinion on there not being hieroglyphics on the Pyramids, 279.
- Their coating—on their being surrounded by the Nile—operation on the third Pyramid, 280.
- Preparations for a third journey to Thebes, 282.
- Set off for Thebes, 283.

THIRD JOURNEY.

- Visit to the Defterdar Bey of Siout—his amusements in military exercise and observations on fire-arms, 283.
- Mode of trying capital crimes, 284.
- The Bey's knowledge on architecture, 286.
- Proceed towards Thebes—visit my old friend Soliman, Cacheff of Erments, at Tacta, 288.
- Eclipse of the sun—arrival and proceedings at Thebes, 289.
- Discover a fine colossal statue—opinion on the right site of the temple of Memnon, 291.
- Hints to travellers where to dig for antiquities, 292.
- Take models of the tombs in wax, 294.
- The author's motives for undertaking a journey to the Red Sea, 295.
- Preparations for departure, 296.

JOURNEY TO THE RED SEA.

- Set sail—extraordinary inundation of the Nile, 299.
- Approach towards Wady el Meeah—its temple, 305.
- Arrive at Esné, and visit Ibrahim Bey—arrive at the island of Hovassee, 302.
- Continuation of journey, 307.
- Preparations for entering the desert, 303.
- Observe several hills of granite, 308.
- Set off for the desert towards the Red Sea—arrive at the first well in the desert, 304.
- Description of the Ababby tribes, 309.
- Continuation of the journey—sight of the Red Sea, 313.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xvii

- Sight of the Zubara or Emerald Mountains
—description of the miners, 314.
- And of the mines, 315.
- Preparations for journey to Sakiel, 316.
- Description of the road towards it—searches for Sakiel in consequence of Mr. Caliud's erroneous information, 317.
- View the Red Sea from the top of a mountain, 321.
- Continue our journey towards the Red Sea, 323.
- Arrival at the Red Sea, 324.
- Description of the coast, 325.
- Correctness of Mr. Bruce's account of that coast—sulphur mines, 326.
- Fishermen—their mode of fishing, 327.
- Island of Gambe—its situation with the Wady el Gemal, 328.
- Sulphur mines—effects of the south-east
wind—arrive at Cape Golahen, or Lept Estrama, 329.
- Arrive at the ruins of an ancient town—its situation, bay and harbour, 330.
- Dimensions of the town, 331.
- Farther account of the town and lands round it—proved to be the Berenice described by D'Anville, 332.
- Its supposed ancient population, &c. 334.
- Left Berenice on return to the Nile—arrived at the first well, 335.
- Arrive at Haboo Grey, station of the ancient caravan passing to and from Bere-nice, Coptos, and Amusuè—a spring of running water, 336.
- Arrive at Sakiel—returned to the Red Sea
—observations on the coast, 337.
- Return to Sakiel, 338.
- Greek inscription found there, 339.
- Arrive at Kafafeet, another caravan station
—arrive at Habookroog—description of a desert, 341.
- Arrive at Hamesh—arrive at Samout, another caravan station—arrive at Dan-gos, 344.
- Returned to Wady el Meeah—return to the Nile—interview with the Sheik of the Ababby, 345.
- Voyage from Elethias to Gournou, 346.

ACCOUNT OF THE TAKING THE OBELISK FROM THE ISLAND OF PHILOE TO ALEXANDRIA.

- Arrival of various persons in Thebes, 347.
- Account of their proceedings, 348.
- Set off for the first Cataract—arrive at Elethias and Edfu, 351.
- Account of Silsili, 352.
- Arrive at Assouan, 353.
- Proceedings of the agents of Mr. Drouetti at Philoe, 355.
- Commencement of operations for removing the obelisk—difficulties encountered, 356.
- It falls into the Nile, 357.
- Preparations for taking it out—description of the operation, 358.
- Again embarked—preparations for launching it down the Cataract—observations on the various colours of the cut granite, 360.
- Launch the obelisk, 361.
- Arrive at Assouan, and voyage to Thebes, 363.

C

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

xviii

CONTENTS.

Account of a stranger, 364.

Visit Carnak, 365.

Assaulted by a band of Arabs, led on by two Piedmontese in Mr. Drouetti's employ, 366.

Preparations for returning to Europe, 370.

Reflections on the climate under the tropic of Cancer on the Nile, 371.

Left Thebes—arrive at Benisouef, and met with Mr. Pearce, the Abyssinian traveller, 373.

Difficulties and delay in embarking for Europe, 375.

Form a resolution of making a journey into the Oasis, 376.

JOURNEY TO THE OASIS OF AMMON.

Arrive at Benisouef—entrance into the Faioum, 377.

Description of the first pyramid of bricks, 378.

Visit to the second pyramid of bricks—arrive at Medinet el Faioum—set off for the lake Mœris, 379.

Arrive at the lake—description of the fishermen and their boat—embark for the town of Haron, 380.

Reflections on the shore, 381.

Visit to and description of the town and temple of Haron, 382.

Surprised by a hyæna—further account of the town, 383.

Opinion on the Labyrinth—re-embarked for the north side of the lake, 384.

Visit and description of the ancient town of Denay, the ancient Bacchus, 385.

Visit the island of El Hear, and return to the east of the lake—make a tour in various places in the neighbourhood—reflection and opinion on the situation of the Labyrinth, 387.

Account of Fedmin el Kunois, 389.

Arrive at the ruins of ancient Arsinoe, 390.

Description of it—preparations for a journey into the Oasis, 391.

Visit Khalil Bey at Benisouef, 393.

Obtain a guide for the desert, 394.

Residence at the Bedoweens' camp, 395.

Description of it, 396.

Set off for the desert—arrive at El Kharah—continue the journey, 397.

Arrive at Rejen el Cassar—proceed on, and discover various tumuli, 398.

Opinion on them, 399.

Arrive at Bahar Bela Me, 401.

Arrive in sight of the Elloah—description of it, 402.

Approach the village of Zaboo—introduction to the natives, 404.

Their reception, 405.

Excursion round the country in search of antiquities, 408.

Curious mineral fountain—their worship—mode of living, 410.

Information received respecting the village of El Cassar, 411.

Interview with the great Sheiks of El Cassar, 412.

Quit Zaboo for El Cassar—prevented from entering the village, 415.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01675-9 - The Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, and Excavations, in Egypt and Nubia

Giovanni Battista Belzoni

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xix

- | | |
|--|--|
| Enter the village, 416. | continuation of the journey towards the Nile—arrival at Benisouef, 433. |
| Visit the ruins at El Cassar, 418. | |
| Go to see the tombs, and the noted fountain mentioned by Herodotus, 421. | Return to Cairo—leave Cairo—return to Rosetta—proceeding and conclusion of the action carried on against the two Piedmontese in Mr. Drouetti's service, 434. |
| Set off for El Haix, 424. | |
| Return to El Cassar, 429. | |
| Return to Zaboo, 430. | |
| Proceeding there, 431. | Return to Europe, 437. |
| Left the Oasis for Moele, 432. | Short account of the women of Egypt, Nubia, and Syria, by Mrs. Belzoni, 441. |
| Arrival at that place—description of it— | |

APPENDIX.

- | | |
|--|--|
| An explanation of some of the principal hieroglyphics, extracted from the article Egypt, in the Supplement of the Encyclopædia Britannica, with additional notes, 487. | |
| Remarks on Mr. Belzoni's plates, 525. | |