

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01965-1 - A Short Narrative of the Second Voyage of the Prince Albert, in Search of Sir John Franklin

William Kennedy

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION.

	PAGE
Variety of Opinions as to the direction taken by Sir John Franklin's Expedition—General want of accurate information as to Franklin's Instructions—The Admiralty Instructions to the Erebus and Terror in extenso —Last letters from Sir John Franklin, Capt. Fitz-James, and Mr. Blenky—The Erebus and Terror last seen by Capt. Martin and Capt. Dannett of the Whaler "Prince of Wales"—First intelligence of traces of the missing ships at Cape Riley brought home by the "Prince Albert" . . . . .	1

CHAPTER I.

FROM ABERDEEN TO CAPE FAREWELL.

"The Prince Albert" fitting out at Aberdeen for her Second Voyage to the Polar Seas—Strengthening for the ice—Description of the Crew, and statement of their ages and pay—Lieut. Bellot of the French Navy appointed second in command—Organ presented by H.R.H. Prince Albert—Leave Aberdeen—Arrival at the Orkneys—Carrier Pigeons—Departure for the Arctic Seas—Our instructions—Sight Cape Farewell . . . . .	27
--	----

CHAPTER II.

FROM CAPE FAREWELL TO PORT LEOPOLD.

Running up along the Coast of Greenland—Gaunt and sterile appearance of the cliffs—"The Ancient Mariner" in Baffin's Bay—Fall in with the American searching Squadron—Important intelligence—Arrival at Upernavik—The Danish colonies
---	--

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01965-1 - A Short Narrative of the Second Voyage of the Prince Albert, in Search of Sir John Franklin

William Kennedy

Table of Contents

More information

xiii

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
in Greenland—Progress arrested off Melville Bay—Strike the middle ice farther south—Off Pond's Bay—Visit of the Esquimaux—Extraordinary effects of the Organ—Enter Lancaster Sound—Incessant easterly gales—Beating up through the ice—Unsuccessful attempts to reach Leopold Harbour and Cape Riley—Driven about with the ice in Prince Regent's Inlet—Second attempt to reach Leopold Harbour in a boat—Get separated from the ship—Robinson Crusoe detention for six weeks at Whaler Point—Unexpected meeting with M. Bellot and a party from the vessel . . . . .	44

CHAPTER III.

FROM PORT LEOPOLD TO WINTER QUARTERS IN BATTY BAY, PRINCE REGENT'S INLET.

Preparations for rejoining the ship at her winter quarters in Batty Bay—Arctic travelling—First encampment—"Making a night of it"—Erecting Snow-houses—A cold Bath—Reach the ship—Arrangements for passing the winter—Occupations of the Men—Evening School—Fox-pie—Esquimaux dogs—Snow-shoes—Excursions from the ship—Absence of the sun—Christmas Day—Preparations for a winter journey to Fury Beach . . . . .	72
---	----

CHAPTER IV.

WINTER JOURNEY TO FURY BEACH.

Objects of the journey—Equipments of the travelling party—Leave Batty Bay—A scene in a snow bank—Slow progress—Traces of Sir John Ross's retreating party—Arrested by a snow-cliff—Reach Fury Beach—Feelings on approaching Somerset House—State of the Fury's stores—Return to Batty Bay—Continued snow storms—Excursions from the ship—Lost in a snow storm—Frost-bites—Preparations for the long journey—Parting with Hepburn—First stage to Fury Beach—Avalanche—Detention at Somerset House . . . . .	93
--	----

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-01965-1 - A Short Narrative of the Second Voyage of the Prince Albert, in Search of Sir John Franklin

William Kennedy

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS.

xiii

CHAPTER V.

THE LONG JOURNEY.

	PAGE
Leave Fury Beach for the south—Equipments for the journey
—Contrivances for the protection of the face and eyes—Masks
—Gutta-Percha noses—Goggles—Routine of a day's march—Progress along the coast—Reach Brentford Bay—Discovery of a passage leading to the western sea—Numerous traces of rein-deer, musk-oxen, etc.—Cross the western sea—Prince of Wales Land—Level plains—Snow storms—Snow blindness—
Change our course northward—Travel at night instead of day
—Strike Ommanney Bay—Change our course eastward—
Indian mode of hunting rein-deer—A supper on raw partridges
—Strike Peel's Inlet—Arrive at Cape Walker—Return
homeward round the north shore of North Somerset—Detention at Whaler Point—Breaking up of the ice—Return to the ship . . . . .	121

CHAPTER VI.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Exploration of Cresswell Bay, by Mr. Cowie—Preparations for leaving Winter Harbour—Sawing out—Leave Batty Bay—
Heavy drift of ice—Forced into Elwin Bay—Get a-ground—
Proceed towards Wellington Channel—Sir Edward Belcher's squadron—Proposal to remain with the North Star—Bear away for England—Arrival at Aberdeen—Results of the Expedition—Position and prospects of Sir John Franklin and the missing ships . . . . .	156

APPENDIX.

Correspondence with the Admiralty and the French Minister of Marine and Colonies . . . . .	179
Meteorological Journal . . . . .	189