

CONTENTS.

	PAGE		PAGE
CHAPTER I.
Birth and Family of Catharine Burton.
Parentage of Catharine Burton	1	St. Xaverius helps her	19
Piety of her parents	2	Mary Xaveria's state of soul when writing	20
Her father dies a Jesuit Lay-brother	3	CHAPTER IV.
God's immediate action on her	4	Early Years.
During her long sickness	5	Catharine's infancy and good training	22
CHAPTER II.		Her high spirit leads her into faults	23
The English Teresians at Antwerp.		She recovers her fervour	25
Catharine becomes a Teresian nun	6	She practises penances and prays much	26
Teresians settle at Antwerp	7	She feared to be in the dark	27
History of this foundation	8	She often prayed in the fields and kissed the earth	28
Its high religious spirit	9	In all this she had no guide—hence scruples	29
Marvellous vocation of Catharine	11	Her confessor changes the form of her penances	30
She is chosen Sub-Prioress	13	She practises meditation	31
CHAPTER III.		CHAPTER V.
Introduction to her Autobiography.		First Year of Illness.
St. Xaverius cures a nun miraculously	14	Beginning of seven years' sickness	33
And bids Mary Xaveria write her life	14	Her nurse mistakes her illness	34
She has great repugnance to do this	15	She offers up her sufferings to God	35
She begins under the orders of her director	16	The road to heaven is a road of thorns	36
Who soon bids her to burn the writing	17	Our Lord carrying His Cross appears to her	37
She is ordered to begin afresh	18	The doctors torture her	38
		God's will be done	39

PAGE	PAGE
CHAPTER VI.	CHAPTER X.
First Year of Illness.	First Devotion to St. Francis Xavier.
Change of doctors of no use 41	Catharine is given up by all doctors 64
She practises patience 42	First devotion to St. Xaverius 65
She is speechless for more than a month 43	Its object changed by an angel 66
Bodily torture, spiritual joy 43	Mental troubles 67
She can swallow the Blessed Eucharist alone 44	Short-lived relief 68
Her death is thought near 45	CHAPTER XI.
Our Lord cheers her in her suffering 45	The ten Fridays repeated.
CHAPTER VII.	She begins again the devotion to St. Xaverius 69
Continued Suffering.	The devil dissuades her 70
Four years more of illness 46	A child consoles her 71
Great desolation of soul 47	Her confessor's sudden arrival 72
Imposthumes appear 48	St. Xaverius appears to her 73
Continued suffering 49	'Child, I will be to you a father and physician' 73
On the point of death 50	She dreams that she is a nun 74
A death agony 51	CHAPTER XII.
Unexpected recovery 52	Miraculous Cure.
CHAPTER VIII.	The ten Fridays close 76
Consolations and patience.	Storm before the calm 77
Return of convulsions 53	Catharine vows to be a reli- gious if cured 78
An angel shows Catharine her crown 54	Great peace of soul 79
Another angelical visit 55	Miraculous cure after Com- munion 80
Corporeal and spiritual vision 56	Her friends counsel 'discretion' 81
Posies of sweet flowers 57	Her confessor advises faith 82
No suffering no reward 58	Her father's devotion to St. Xaverius increases 83
CHAPTER IX.	She proves the reality of the miracle 84
Favours and Trials.	She executes part of her vow 85
The devil on the scene 59	CHAPTER XIII.
Our Lady is pleased to nurse Catharine 60	A second miracle.
Bodily sufferings 61	Catharine dislocates her hip- bone 86
Vision of heaven 62	She has recourse to St. Xa- verius 87
She is struck with palsy 63

Contents.

XXIX

PAGE	PAGE
Her tender piety to her Saint 88	A great promise of our Lord 111
She is cured after Holy Com- munion 89	Her aversion to eggs removed 112
She is able to fast the same day 90	Her health greatly improves 112
Permanent mark of former ill- ness 91	Her wonderful self-control 113
CHAPTER XIV.
Passing the Sea.
Catharine's eagerness to take the veil 92	Her eagerness for her profes- sion 113
Our Lord bids her cross the sea at once 93	Anxiety about her slowness in Latin 114
St. Xaverius provides money for the passage 94	St. Xaverius sends a message to the Sub-Prioress 115
More difficulties 95	Great profit of the latter 116
Removed by St. Xaverius 96	Mary Xaveria begins to dis- close God's favours 116
Who protected the party in a storm 97	Her director makes no ac- count of them 117
Accident brings her to Antwerp 97	She makes her profession 117
And to join the Teresians there 98	Collector's note 118
The original of her dream 99	CHAPTER XVI.
She takes the habit 100	Advance in Prayer.
End of first part of life 101	Mary Xaveria advances in prayer 119
Remarks of Father Hunter 101	Her director makes light of her 120
Solidity of virtue is everything 102	Obedience in resisting our Lord's favours 121
Catharine's humility and piety 103	St. Xaverius comes to her aid 122
Her submission to others 104	A wondrous vision of heaven 123
CHAPTER XV.
In the Noviceship.
Continuation of Mary Xa- veria's narrative 105	Great consolation after trouble 124
She is clothed December 8th, 1693 106	Her director still tries her 125
She obtains her 'clothing' petition 106	St. Xaverius prepares her for crosses 126
Her first difficulties 107	Her state under ecstasy 127
She still hides the visions she had had 107	She has a picture of her Saint drawn 128
Death of an aged nun 108	Daily Communion is her sup- port 129
Who appears to Mary Xaveria 108	CHAPTER XVII.
What Purgatory is like 109	Second year in the Noviceship.
A prediction verified 110	A Sister mortifies Mary Xa- veria 130
She makes the Spiritual Ex- ercises 110	Her Saint bids her not mor- tify herself without leave 131

	PAGE		PAGE
She asks leave to suck an ulcer	131	CHAPTER XX.
St. Xaverius advises interior mortification	132	Sub-Prioress and Mistress of Novices.
Help in her Latin	133	Change of Superior	154
Our Lord teaches her obedience and humility	133	Mary Xaveria is Sub-Prioress	155
He demands the whole heart	134	And Mistress of Novices	156
News of her father	134	Her old Superior appears to her	157
End of her noviceship	136	Purgatory for indiscreet devotion	158
CHAPTER XVIII.		Further description of the vision	159
Among the Professed.		Note of the Collector	160
Orders to continue her history	137	A repetition of the vision	161
Election of Superior	138	CHAPTER XXI.
The devil tempts her to despair	139	Union with God.
The picture of her Saint puts him to flight	140	Prayer of union	163
News of her father's death	141	Anxiety for religious observance	164
She is deeply afflicted	142	Help and Comfort	165
She resigns herself to God's will	143	Her vows engraven on the Sacred Heart	166
Spiritual and natural love	144	The Infant Jesus gives her the kiss of peace	167
She sees her father in heaven as a Jesuit	145	Her love of God	168
St. Xaverius helps his clients	146	She betrays her state by her face	169
CHAPTER XIX.		St. Xaverius bids her write	170
Employments and Crosses.		CHAPTER XXII.
Mary Xaveria is assistant porteress	147	Anecdotes of Religious Life.
She feeds the poor, among them our Lord	148	A scrupulous religious	171
Our Lady appears to her	148	Exchange of Communion	172
Who bids her be open with her director	149	Mary Xaveria in trouble	173
Promotion of regularity	150	Her director encourages her	175
Prediction of the Superior's death	151	A novice	176
The stricken Superior exhorts to love of God	152	Who loses her senses	177
Beautiful death of this religious	153	Our Lord consoles Mary Xaveria	178
		Recovery and relapse of the novice	179
		She escapes momentarily from the convent	180

Contents.

xxxii

	PAGE		PAGE
CHAPTER XXIII.		Effect of the Precious Blood . . .	206
Visions of Purgatory, Hell, and Heaven. The Spiritual Exercises.		She is engulfed in God . . .	207
Picture of Purgatory . . .	181	End of the autobiography . . .	207
Mary Xaveria's place for her former faults . . .	182	CHAPTER XXV.
Hell and the lost souls . . .	183	Spiritual History.
Other descriptions . . .	184	Collector's additions . . .	208
Purgatory in this life . . .	185	Self-denial in infancy . . .	208
Further pictures . . .	186	Freedom from wilful fault . . .	209
Joy of God in His just . . .	187	Spirit of prayer and union with God . . .	210
Vision of heaven . . .	188	Progress in spiritual life . . .	211
Use of this writing . . .	189	Darkness of soul . . .	212
Her humility . . .	190	Life by faith . . .	213
Appeal to God . . .	191	Calm and peace . . .	214
Note of Father Hunter . . .	191	Cure of her bodily ailments . . .	215
Self-diffidence . . .	193	Desire to be a religious . . .	216
She writes purely for God's glory . . .	194	Affection for St. Xaverius . . .	216
Retreat—the Two Standards . . .	194	Her director tries her . . .	217
A typical flower garden . . .	195	Fruit of Divine favours—humility . . .	218
Meditation on the Incarnation . . .	196	Over-affection for her Mistress of Novices . . .	219
Meditation on the Nativity . . .	197	Purity of soul . . .	220
Fruit—Conformity to God's will . . .	197	More shadows and sunshine . . .	221
Union with God . . .	198	Complete trust in God . . .	222
Spiritual espousals with our Lord . . .	199	Our Lord takes perfect possession of her . . .	223
Prediction of her Superiorship . . .	200	Love of Holy Communion . . .	224
CHAPTER XXIV.		Her constant progress . . .	225
Mary Xaveria when Prioress.		She finds solitude in her heart . . .	226
Mary Xaveria is chosen Prioress . . .	201	She feels engulfed in God . . .	227
Her affliction at the event . . .	201	Fidelity and patience the means of progress . . .	228
Ill health ensues . . .	202	Her regularity and love of her rule . . .	228
Desolation during the period of her office . . .	202	Holy familiarity with St. Xaverius and our Lady . . .	229
Our Lord teaches her how to be recollected . . .	203	Solidity of her virtue . . .	230
Union with God produces true solitude . . .	204	CHAPTER XXVI.
Intimate union . . .	205	Recollections of the Religious.
St. Xaverius prepares her for trials . . .	206	The opinions of others about Mary Xaveria . . .	231

	PAGE		PAGE
Her religious Sisters unite in her praise	232	A terrible gangrene in her back	254
Her devotion to the Blessed Sacrament	233	It is often cut by the surgeon	255
Her humility about her fre- quent Communions	233	The testimony of the surgeon	256
Wonderful fact concerning Holy Communion	234	Her religious modesty in sick- ness	256
Her love of hearing Mass	235	Her evenness of temper in sickness	257
Her devotion to the Blessed Virgin	236	'To suffer or to die	258
To St. Joseph and St. Te- resa	237	Sign of her approaching end	258
To 'her Father,' St. Xaverius	238	Her consideration for her nurses	259
Whom she imitates in bearing crosses	239	She receives Extreme Unction And Holy Viaticum	260
CHAPTER XXVII. Confidence in God.		Her agony and death, Feb- ruary 9, 1714	261
Mary Xaveria's confidence in God	240	A Te Deum at her death	262
Miraculous supplies of alms	241	Her burial	263
Instances of Divine assistance	242	CHAPTER XXX. After Death.
Efficacy of her prayers	243	Mary Xaveria appears to a lady	263
In both bodily and spiritual infirmities	244	Miraculous cures through her	264
Power in calming troubled souls	245	She helps her religious Sisters	265
CHAPTER XXVIII. Religious Virtues.		Anecdotes about her	266
Mary Xaveria's religious com- portment	246	Mrs. Catharine Smythe	267
Her spirit of penance	247	A wonderful escape	268
She sucks a loathsome ulcer	248	An unexpected vocation	269
She hides her weak health	249	Safe arrival in port	270
Her instruction of others	249	Preternatural knowledge	271
CHAPTER XXIX. Last Sickness and Death.		APPENDIX.
Mary Xaveria's foresight of her death in 1713	250	The incorrupt body of Mar- garet Wake	272
Her great suffering	251	Doctors consulted on it	273
And unalterable patience	252	Examination by the Bishop	274
Resignation to God's will	252	The internal organs perfect	274
Another prediction of her death	253	Other facts	275
A violent fever, January, 1714	254	Great concourse of people	276
		Though dead she speaketh	277
		Margaret's life	278
		Her virtues in the religious state	279
		Her recollection of spirit	280
		Her exactness	281
		Her holy death	282