

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England
Edited by Charles Augustus Cole
Index
More information

---

~~~~~
INDEX.
~~~~~

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

---

INDEX.

[N.B.—Proper names within square brackets, or crotchets, are derived from other sources than the present volume.]

A.

Abbeville (Abvile, Abbatis Villa), the bridges broken at, 115.
 Abraham, his reception by Melchizedek, 127.
 Accius, the poet, quoted, 41.
 Acton, Roger :
     his conspiracy against Henry V., 22, 23.
     and execution, 23.
 Agincourt, the battle of:
     described, 45, 46, 47, 120, 121, 122, 123.
     English nobles slain there, 47.
     the numbers of the French slain and captured there, 122, 123.
     names of the French nobles slain and captured there, 123.
 Alba, its decay and ruin, 33.
 Alban's, St., Sir John Oldcastle takes refuge there, 17.
     escapes from the abbot's servants, 17.
     causes for the abbot's anger against him, 18.
 Albany, the duke of, his alleged confederacy with the Lollards, 151.

Alençon, the duke of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
 Alexander the Great, his extended empire, 93.
 Antelopes, represented in the arms of King Henry V., 125.
 Antiquity, the study of, recommended, 3.
 Antylope, the herald, sent over to France, 38.
 Aqueducts of London, their rise at Tyburn, 99.
 Aquitaine, the right of the kings of England to the dukedom of, asserted, 26, 153.
 Archus. See Arques.
 Armagnac (Armenac) the count of :
     made Constable of France, 48, 130.
     his hostility to the English, 48, 138.
     attacks the duke of Exeter, 48.
 Armenac. See Armagnac.
 Arques (Archus), Henry V. passes the town of, 114.
 Arundel, Thomas, archbishop of Canterbury :
     consults Henry V. in reference to Oldcastle, 15.
     pronounces Oldcastle a heretic, 16.
     his death, 101.
 Augustine, St. the monastery of, at Canterbury, visited by Henry V., 124.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

170

INDEX.

Author, anonymous, of the "Versus Rhythmici:"
states his intentions in writing, 63.
speaks of himself in the first person, 68. speaks of the monks of Westminster
as his "confratres," 70.
Axiochus of Plato, quoted, 19.

B.

Bangor. See Nicholls.
Bar, the duke of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
Bayeux, the capture of, by the English, 51.
Beauchamp. See Warwick.
Beaufort, Henry. See Winchester.
Beaufort, Thomas, earl of Dorset. See Exeter, duke of.
Beaumont, [John] Lord, his command at Agincourt, 43.
Bedford, John [Plantagenet], duke of:
Sir John Oldcastle is delivered to him as regent, 18.
consults Parliament as to Oldcastle's punishment, 22.
his creation as duke, 30.
is sent to relieve Harfleur, 49, 140.
defeats the French at the mouth of the Seine, 49, 139.
the emperor Sigismund's compliment respecting him, 49, 50.
receives the emperor at Rochester, 133.
is appointed commander of the fleet, 139.
relieves Harfleur, 140.
takes energetic measures against the Lollards and the Scots, 152.
holds a Parliament at London, 155.
feels compassion for Oldcastle, 158.
makes certain propositions to him, 158.
on his refusal of which, he condemns him to death, 159.

Behemoth, 158.
Benedict, St., the day of, 94, 95.
Bermondsey, the abbot of, meets Henry V.
on his return to England, 125.
Berwick attacked by the Scots, 151.
Beverley, John, joins Acton's conspiracy, 33.
Birds, tame, greet Henry V., upon his entry into London, after the victory of Agincourt, 126.
Black Friars, Hall of the, convocation of the clergy there, 16.
Blackheath (Blakheth), Henry V. is met by the citizens of London there, 125.
Blakheth. See Blackheath.
Bouratier. See Bourges.
Bourbon, the duke of:
his message to Henry V. before the battle of Agincourt, 117.
is taken prisoner at Agincourt, 117.
Bourcicault, Constable of France, is taken prisoner at Agincourt, 123.
Bourges, Bouratier, archbishop of:
is sent ambassador from France, 32.
his speech to Henry V., 32, 33, 34.
his reply to archbishop Chicheley, 36, 36.
is answered by King Henry, 36, 37.
Boves (Bowys), Henry V., passes the night at, 115.
Bowet, Henry, archbishop of York, his valour and public spirit displayed against the Scots, 51, 152.
Bowys. See Boves.
Brabant, the duke of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
Bret, the Lord de, slain at Agincourt, 123.
Brightwald, archbishop of Canterbury, remarks upon the significance of his name, 98, 99.
Browne, Sir John, joins Acton's conspiracy, 23.
Burghill, John. See Chester.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

171

- Burgundy [John], duke of :
 deceives the citizens of Rouen, 53.
 makes overtures for peace, 56, 143, 145.
 his duplicity, 56, 57.
 is apparently reconciled with the Dauphin, 57.
 makes oath of eternal concord with King Henry, 57.
 arrives at Calais, 143, 145.
 takes leave of King Henry, 146.
- C.
- Caen (Caine), siege and capture of the town of, by Henry V., 50, 153.
 capture of the fortress of, 51.
- Cæsar, Julius, his laconic despatch quoted, 6.
- Caine. See Caen.
- Calais, the town of :
 Henry V. marches thither after the battle of Agincourt, 48, 124.
 the emperor Sigismund arrives there, 49, 133.
 the people of, assist King Henry, 104.
 the Lord Gaucourt returns thither on his parole, 124.
 the emperor Sigismund and King Henry arrive there, 142.
 the French ambassadors arrive there, 142.
 the duke of Burgundy arrives there, 143, 145.
- Cambe, La, (Cambra), part of the English fleet takes refuge there, 139.
- Cambridge, Richard [Plantagenet], earl of :
 his conspiracy against King Henry V., 38, 39, 105.
 his punishment, 40, 105.
 opinions on his treason, 40.
- Canterbury ; King Henry IV. is buried there, 15.
 visited by King Henry V., 124.
 Henry V. visits the emperor Sigismund there, 140.
 liturgical services there, on occasion of the public rejoicings, 141.
See also Augustine, St., and Christ-church.
- Canterbury, archbishops of. See Arundel, Brightwald, and Chicheley.
- Carack, of Genoa, pursued by the earl of Warwick and others, 143.
 his combat with it, and its escape, 144, 145.
 another taken by the merchants of Dartmouth, 144.
- Carthage, its fall, 33.
- Catrik. See Katric.
- Charles, Dauphin of France. See Dauphin.
- Charles, king of France. See France.
- Chaundler, John, dean of Salisbury, made bishop of that diocese, 163.
- Cheapside (Chepe) in London :
 Henry V.'s passage through, on his return from France, 126.
 its Conduit flows with wine, 127.
 Henry V. passes the Cross there, 127.
- Chef de Caux (Kydeaus, Kydecaus) :
 Henry lands there, 106.
 the earl of Dorset retires thither, 131.
- Chepe. See Cheapside.
- Chester [i.e., Lichfield and Coventry] : [John Burghill] bishop of, his death, 103.
 succeeded by John Katric, 103.
- Chicheley, Henry, archbishop of Canterbury :
 his plan for averting the spoliation of the clergy, 25.
 his speech, advocating the invasion of France, 25, 26, 27.
 his talents commended, 34.
 his answer to the speech of the archbishop of Bourges, 34, 35.
 his promotion from St. David's to Canterbury, 101.
 entertains the emperor Sigismund, 133.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

- Chichester, the bishop of [Robert Reade]:
 his death, 132.
 Stephen Patryngtone, bishop of St. David's, succeeds him, 132.
- Christchurch, Canterbury, reconciled by Henry V. with the abbey of Westminster, 73.
- Cicero, his writings, quoted 10, 19.
- Clarence, Thomas [Plantagenet] duke of:
 supplants, for a time, prince Henry, 11.
 his valour at Caen, 50.
 takes Bayeux, 51.
 his services at Harfleur, 108, 109, 111.
- Clergy of England :
 a former proposal that the king should resume their possessions now revived, 24, 25, 26.
 how averted by archbishop Chicheley, 25.
 they offer a subsidy to the king, 27.
 proposition as to their land revenues made by Sir John Oldcastle, 148.
- Cobham, Lord. See Oldcastle.
- Codrus, his patriotism, 39.
- Colius, Walter, ambassador from the king of France, 32.
- Conduits of London mentioned:
 of Cornhill, 126.
 of Chepe, 127.
 of St. Paul's, 127.
- Constable of France, his speech at the siege of Harfleur, 42.
See also Armagnac and Bourcicault.
- Constance, the general Council of:
 attended by the abbot of Westminster, 73.
 envoys sent to, from England, 104.
 the bishops of Norwich and London sent as envoys, 149.
 Martin V. elected pope there, 155.
 the bishop of Salisbury dies there, 156.
- Corbie (Corby), Henry V. is attacked on his march there, 115.
- Cornhill, in London ; Henry V. passes the Conduit there, 126.
- Cornwall, John. See Fanhope.
- Corsey, John de, his command under the count of Armagnac, 48.
- Courteney. See Norwich.
- Crispin and Crispinian, Saints, the Day of, 120, 124.
- Cuthbert, Saint, the Day of, 94, 164.
- D.
- Dampmartin, the count of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
- Darius, cited as an example of cruelty, 33 ; head of the Median empire, 93.
- Dartford (Dertford), the duke of Clarence receives the emperor Sigismund at, 133.
- Dartmouth (Dertemouth), the merchants of, capture a carack, 144.
- D'Auffemont, (?) the count of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
- Dauphin of France [Louis]:
 his insulting message to Henry V., 24, 101.
 his death mentioned, 47.
 receives proposals from King Henry, 113.
 to which he gives no answer, 113.
- Dauphin of France [Charles], his apparent reconciliation with the duke of Burgundy, 57.
- David, King:
 his election to be king of Israel, 93.
 anointed by Samuel, 94.
 his return from the slaughter of Goliath, 127.
- David's, St., the see of:
 Henry Chicheley, bishop, 101.
 John Katric, bishop, 103.
 Stephen Patryngtone, bishop, 103.
 Benedict Nicholls, bishop of Bangor, appointed to, 132.
- De la Pole. See Suffolk.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

173

De Vere. See Oxford.
 Deep. See Dieppe.
 Dertemouth. See Dartmouth.
 Dertford. See Dartford.
 Dieppe (Deep), 130.
 Dordryght. See Dortrecht.
 Dorset, Thomas Beaufort, earl and marquis (?) of. See Exeter, duke of.
 Dortrecht (Dordryght), the emperor Sigismund returns home by way of, 146.
 Dover, the town of :
     Henry V. lands there after the battle of Agincourt, 124.
     reception of the emperor Sigismund at, 133.
 Dublin, Richard Talbot made archbishop of, 163.
 Durham, the bishop of [Thomas Langley] :
     as Lord Chancellor addresses Parliament, 155.

E.

Edmund Ironside, 95.
 Edward III., his example cited by King Henry V., 121.
 Edward, the Black Prince, his example cited by King Henry V., 121.
 Edward, St., the protector of the clergy, 69.
     his benefits to Westminster, 71.
 Election of sovereigns, remarks on the principle of, 93.
 Elijah, the prophet, Oldcastle alleged to have asserted himself to be, 151, 158.
 Elmham, Thomas, the author of the "Liber Metricus :"
     alludes to his prose history of Henry V., 79.
     states his reasons for the peculiar character of his style, 80.
     vouches for the trustworthiness of his narrative, 81.
     explains the plan of his present work, 166.
     concluding lines form an acrostic with his name, 166.

Eltham, Henry V. celebrates Christmas at, 22, 23.
     Sir John Oldcastle contemplates attacking him there, 98.
 Ely, the bishop of [John Fordham], a commissioner for making terms with France, 57.
 Embassy, sent by Henry V. to France, 31.
     its members, 31.
     its proposals to the king of France, 31.
     from France to Henry V., 32, 37.
 Empires, the Four Great, 93.
 Epicharmus, his opinion on a long life, 20.
 Erpyngham, Sir Thomas, meets the duke of Burgundy, 145.
 Eu (Iwe), the town of, Henry V. at, 114.
 Eu, the count of, taken at Agincourt, 123.
 Euripides, mention of, by Oldcastle, in his speech, 19.
 Exeter, Thomas Beaufort, duke of, marquis (?) and earl of Dorset :
     his speech on the contemplated war with France, 28, 29, 30.
     its effect, 30.
     is created duke, 30, 147.
     is sent ambassador to France, 31.
     his command at Agincourt, 43.
     is appointed governor of Harfleur, 48, 112.
     is attacked by the count of Armagnac, near Fecamp and Dieppe, 48, 130.
     whom he repulses, 49, 131.
     defeats and pursues the Scots, 51, 151.

F.

Fabricius, his patriotism, 39.
 Falaise, the town of, taken by Henry V., 163.
 Fanhope, John Cornwall, Lord :
     his command at the siege of Harfleur, 42.
     his command at Agincourt, 43.
     is appointed a commissioner for making terms with France, 57.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

Fécamp (Fiscampe), the town of, 130.

Ficket Fields, Henry V. defeats Acton's confederates there, 23.

See also Giles's Fields, St.Fiscampe. See Fécamp.

Fitzhugh [Henry], Lord :

is appointed a commissioner at the siege of Rouen, 55.

is appointed a commissioner for making terms with France, 57.

"Flores Historiarum," Henry V. restores a copy of the, to the Abbey of Westminster, 72.

"Fons Petrosus," what, 99.

Fordham, John. See Ely.

France, the right of Henry V. to the crown of, examined and asserted, 26, 27, 154.

France [Charles], king of:

his anxiety for peace, 56.

receives letters from Henry V., 103.

who determines on war against him, 104.

makes overtures for peace, 136, 137.

See also Embassy, French, and Henry V.

French nation, an embassy is sent to the, 31.

promise to send an embassy to England, 31.

the beneficed clergy of that extraction expelled from England, 32.

send an embassy to England, 32.

its arguments, 33, 34, 35, 36.

and departure, 37.

their confidence before the battle of Agincourt, 45, 119.

cast lots for their anticipated prisoners, 45.

discuss King Henry's ransom, 45.

make a proposition to King Henry, 45.

are defeated at Agincourt, 45, 46, 47, 120, 121, 122, 123.

their great losses there, 47.

besiege Harfleur, 49, 134, 138.

French nation—cont.

are defeated in a naval battle at the mouth of the Seine, 49, 139.

ineffectually attack the forces under the duke of Exeter, 49, 50.

discord among them, 50.

their valour at the siege of Rouen, 52.

in despair desire peace, 56.

perfidiously attack the earl of Warwick, 56.

propose peace with Henry, 57.

the final terms, 57.

their duplicity, 103, 104, 105.

are repulsed by Henry's forces, 115, 117, 118.

attack the earl of Dorset near Dieppe, 130.

are defeated, 131.

their continued fraud and duplicity, 134, 137.

attempt to burn the English fleet at Southampton, 134.

make fresh proposals, for the purposes of delay, 135.

blockade Portsmouth, 137.

attack the Isle of Wight, 137.

maltreat the English ambassadors, 137.

send ambassadors to King Henry, 142.

obtain a truce, 142.

See also Agincourt, Armagnac, Bedford, Embassy, Exeter, France, Henry V., and Huntingdon.

Friars, alleged design of the Lollards to banish them, 69.

G.

Gabriel, the Angel, his Salutation to the Virgin Mary, 157, 161.

Garter, installation of Knights of the, at Windsor, 49.

Gascony, the right of Henry V. to, asserted by archbishop Chicheley, 26.

Gawain, Sir (Gawenus), alluded to, 70.

Gaucourt. See Gaucourt.

Gaucourt (Gaucourt), the Lord of :
 defends Harfleur, 108.
 his measures for its defence, 110.
 his surrender, 112, 113.
 is dismissed on his parole, 113.
 returns on his parole to Calais, 124.

George, St., is appealed to before the battle of Agincourt, 115, 121.
 is seen to take part in the battle by some, 123, 124.

Giles's Fields, St.:
 Sir John Oldcastle is executed there, 22.
 Oldcastle's adherents are defeated there, 98, 99.
 and put to death, 99.
See also Ficket Fields.

Gloucester, Humphrey [Plantagenet], duke of:
 his elevation to the dukedom, 30.
 his command at Agincourt, 43.
 wounded at Agincourt and rescued by his brother, King Henry, 47, 121.
 takes Lisieux, 51.
 receives the emperor Sigismund at Dover, 133.
 is given as a hostage in exchange for the duke of Burgundy, 143, 145.
 goes as a hostage to St. Omer's, 145.
 returns from St. Omer's, 146.

Goliath, his slaughter by David, 127.

Government, vindication of the rights of, 93.

Grantpré, the count of, slain at Agincourt, 123.

Gravil, Sir John, his excuse to King Henry, 118.

Graye, Sir Thomas, joins the earl of Cambridge's conspiracy, 39, 105.

Great men, examples to the humbler classes, 80.

Gregory, St., quoted, 80.

Greyndor, Henry, an emissary of Sir John Oldcastle, 148.
 imprisoned by order of the king, 148.

Greystock [Ralph], Lord, appointed to command against the Scots, 37.

H.

Hall, Sir Philip, appointed a commissioner to make terms with France, 57.

Hallum (Halum), Robert, bishop of Salisbury, dies at Constance, 156.

Harfleur (Harfieu, Harfin, Juliobona):
 the siege and capture of, by the English, described, 42, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112.
 besieged by the French, 49, 134, 138.
 measures taken by the English to relieve it, 49, 135.
 is relieved by the duke of Bedford, 140.
See also Exeter, duke of.

Haule slain in the choir at Westminster, 86.

Hayle, the Lord, breaks his parole, 118.

Hegesias of Cyrene, his story alluded to, 19.

Henry IV., King of England: buried at Canterbury, 15.
 the day of his death, 94.

Henry V., King of England:
 his valour enlarged upon, 6.
 his decisive battles with the French, 6.
 early promise of his good qualities, 9, 10.
 his change of manners on coming to the throne, 11.
 his youthful indiscretions atoned for, 11.
 repudiates his old friendships which had been attended by certain evil results, 11.
 his insult to the Chief Justice, and consequent disgrace alluded to, 11.
 his sensitiveness, 11.
 his prudent measures, 12.
 his Coronation (9th April, 1413), 12.
 remarkable tempest on that day, 12.
 predictions thereon, 12.
 his address recapitulating the duties of a ruler, 12, 13, 14.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More informationHenry V., King of England—cont.

- his advice to all classes of his subjects, 14.
- great joy manifested by his subjects, 14.
- gives orders for his father's burial, 15.
- his anxiety as to Sir John Oldcastle, 15.
- interview with him, 16.
- Acton's conspiracy against him, 22, 23.
- which Henry defeats, 23.
- his singular clemency, 23.
- receives an insolent message from the Dauphin, while staying at Kenilworth, 24.
- his answer, 24.
- proposal to him to seize the possessions of the clergy, 25.
- his right to the throne of France asserted by archbishop Chicheley, 26, 27.
- he determines on war with France, 27, 28.
- is pressed to wage war with Scotland, 28.
- sends an embassy to France, 31.
- his proposals to the French king, 31.
- receives an embassy from the French, 32.
- compliments lavished on him by archbishop Chicheley, 34, 35.
- persists in his determination to wage war with France, 35.
- replies to the speech of the French ambassador, 36, 37.
- prepares for war, 37.
- sends a herald to demand satisfaction from the king of France, 38.
- but without success, 38.
- names a day for collecting his forces, 38.
- his speech on discovering the conspiracy of the earl of Cambridge, 39, 40.
- consigns his prisoners to punishment, 40.
- his address on so doing, 40.

Henry V., King of England—cont.

- the nobles assert their loyalty, 41.
- sets sail for France, 41.
- injunctions to his troops on landing, 41.
- besieges Harfleur, 42.
- assigns posts to the English generals and troops, 42, 43.
- exhorts his soldiers before the battle of Agincourt, 43, 44.
- rebukes those who wish for more troops from England, 44.
- the French discuss his anticipated ransom, 45.
- his answer to their proposition, 45.
- defeats the French at Agincourt, 45, 46, 47.
- his valour there, 46.
- returns thanks to God for the victory, 47.
- names the battle, 47.
- saves the life of the duke of Gloucester, 47.
- marches to Calais, 48.
- his moderation in victory, 48.
- visited in England by the emperor Sigismund, 49.
- who ineffectually attempts to establish peace, 49.
- the emperor's advice to Henry as to the relief of Harfleur, 49.
- his compliment paid to Henry, 49, 50.
- the emperor forms an alliance with Henry, 50.
- Henry crosses over to France, 50.
- besieges and takes the town of Caen, 50.
- takes the fortress of Caen, 51.
- moves from Caen, 51.
- besieges Rouen, 51.
- summons it to surrender, 52.
- receives aid from Ireland, 52.
- and from Portugal, 52.
- shows great ardour at the siege, 53.
- and a trait of humanity, 53.
- receives an advocate to plead the cause of the people of Rouen, 54.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

177

Henry V., King of England.—cont.

Henry's answer to his speech, 55.
 his humanity in granting a truce, 55.
 Rouen surrenders to him, 56.
 Henry returns thanks to God, 56.
 sends the earl of Warwick to treat with the duke of Burgundy, 56.
 negotiations are broken off, and the war continued, 57.
 Henry's final success, 57.
 peace proposed and commissioners appointed, 57.
 the final terms, 57.
 Henry's last illness, 58.
 his speech when dying, 58.
 his death, 59.
 complimentary language addressed to King Henry, 64.
 his birthplace and education, 64.
 his early virtues, 64.
 is favoured by Richard II., 65. is created earl of Chester and duke of Cornwall, 65.
 his Coronation at Westminster, 65.
 his person described, 65, 66.
 his manners and deeds celebrated, 66, 67.
 his charity shewn at Tewkesbury, 67.
 his hatred of swearing, 67.
 his skill in archery, 67.
 the praises of his household, 68.
 the designs of the Lollards to capture and slay him, 68.
 his deliverance, by divine interposition, 69.
 his defeat of the Lollards on the Epiphany alluded to, 69.
 his various benefits to the abbey of Westminster, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73.
 compared with former Saints and wise men, 70.
 restores to Westminster the ring given by Richard II., 71.
 presents to the abbey a thousand marks, 71.
 gives a deer slain by himself, 71.
 translates the body of Richard II. to Westminster, 72.

Henry V., King of England.—cont.

restores to it two books and a sceptre, 72.
 restores the right of sanctuary, 72.
 reconciles Christchurch, Canterbury, with the abbey of Westminster, 73.
 takes Westminster under his protection, 73.
 addresses the monks there, 73, 74.
 resolves to be buried at Westminster, 73.
 prayers offered for his welfare, 74, 75.
 Henry's determination not to allow his praises to be sung, 80.
 the day of his succession, 94, 95.
 the day of his coronation, 95.
 his ancestral rights, 95.
 his virtues, 95, 96.
 his aversion to shedding blood, 95.
 Oldcastle's alleged conspiracy against him, 96, 97.
 Henry expostulates with him, 97.
 his merciful feeling towards Oldcastle, 97.
 defeats the adherents of Oldcastle in St. Giles's Fields, 98, 99.
 orders thanks to be given on their defeat, 100.
 keeps Lent at Kenilworth, 100, 101.
 receives an insulting message from the Dauphin, 101.
 his answer, 101.
 confers favours on the Church, 102.
 and especially on the monastery of Westminster, 102.
 rebuilds the manor-house of Shene, 102.
 his marriage treated of by the Parliament, 102.
 writes to the emperor of Germany, and other princes, for the maintenance of peace and friendship, 103.
 sends letters to the king of France, 103.
 sends envoys to the General Council at Constance, 104.

M

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More informationHenry V., King of England.—cont.

determines on war with France, 104.
 levies taxes for that purpose, 104.
 a conspiracy formed against him, 105.
 sets sail for France, 106.
 lands at Chef de Caux, 106.
 issues orders to his troops, 106, 107.
 lays siege to Harfleur, 107–112.
 proposes a surrender, 109, 112.
 takes Harfleur, 112.
 gives the keys to the earl of Dorset, 112.
 makes proposals to the Dauphin, 113.
 but receives no answer, 113.
 marches towards Calais, 113.
 his army is diminished by disease, 114.
 continues his march, 114.
 is impeded at Abbeville, 115.
 his provisions fall short, 115.
 is unsuccessfully attacked at Corbie, 115.
 hangs a robber who had stolen a pix, 116.
 takes measures to protect his archers, 116.
 crosses the Somme, 116, 117.
 defeats the French, 117, 118. receives a message from the dukes of Bourbon and Orleans, 117.
 arrives at Peronne, 118.
 crosses the river Swardis [Ternoise], 118.
 reconnoitres the French forces, 118, 119.
 rebukes one who wishes for more troops from England, 119.
 takes precautions against the French, 119.
 defeats them at Agincourt, 120–124.
 his speech before the battle, 120, 121.
 succours the duke of Gloucester, 121.
 his crown and helmet are shattered, 122.
 resumes his march, and arrives at Calais, 124.
 lands at Dover, 124.
 visits St. Augustine's at Canterbury, 124.

Henry V., King of England.—cont.

and the shrine of St. Thomas, 124.
 is received in London with great rejoicings, 125–128.
 enters St. Paul's to pray there, 129.
 proceeds to Westminster, 129.
 holds a Parliament at London, 129, 131, 132, 133.
 is visited by the emperor Sigismund, 133.
 meets the emperor, 133.
 renews the treaty of peace with him, 133.
 confers knighthood upon the emperor, 133.
 is visited by the duke of Holland, 133.
 dissolves Parliament, 135.
 prepares to relieve Harfleur, 135.
 listens to fresh proposals of the French, 135.
 but resumes arms, 135.
 sends a joint embassy, with the emperor, to Paris, 135.
 receives ambassadors from Scotland, 136.
 but refuses their request, 136.
 receives from the king of France overtures for peace, 136, 137.
 which fail of success, 137.
 hears that the French have maltreated his ambassadors, 137.
 prepares to relieve Harfleur, 138.
 returns thanks to God for its relief, 140, 141.
 visits the emperor at Canterbury, 140.
 crosses to Calais, 142.
 grants a truce to the French, 142.
 receives overtures from the duke of Burgundy, 143.
 summons a Parliament at London, 143.
 has an interview with the duke of Burgundy, 146.
 the duke takes leave of him, 146.
 all hopes of a peace are abandoned, 146.
 the emperor takes leave of him, 146.
 Henry returns to England in a great storm, 146, 147.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

179

- Henry V., King of England.—cont.
 meets Parliament, 147.
 and imposes taxes for the war, 147.
 Oldcastle proposes to him to resume the possessions of the clergy and re-grant the same, 148.
 his answer to Oldcastle's emissary, 148.
 whom he imprisons, 148.
 summons his fleet to meet at Southampton, 149.
 enters Normandy, 150.
 and takes Touques, 150.
 gains other victories in Normandy, 153.
 takes Caen, 153.
 continues his successes in Normandy, 161.
 selects a Jacobite Friar for his confessor, 162.
 recovers the city of Falaise, 163.
 sends to England for his chaplains,
 to celebrate Easter, 163.
 Hereford, the bishop of [Robert Mascall], dies, 149.
 Edmund Lacy is appointed to the bishopric, 149.
 Heresy, erroneous notions upon, 15.
 the priesthood asserted to be the only proper judges upon, 16.
 confusion imprecated upon, 94.
See also Lollards.
 Hoggis [La Hogue?], a battle fought between the two fleets at, 150.
 Holland [William], duke of:
 visits England, 49, 134.
 is made a Knight of the Garter, 49.
 returns home, 136.
 Holland, John. See Huntingdon.
 Horns, as worn by the English ladies, satirically alluded to, 128.
 Humphrey. See Gloucester.
 Hungerford (Hungarford), Sir Walter, a commissioner at the siege of Rouen, 55.
 Huntingdon, ——— Hastings, earl of :
 dedication to, by Redmayne, of his work, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.
 his rule in the North of England
 alluded to, 5.
 Huntingdon, ——— Hastings, earl of.—cont.
 his services to the author's father
 alluded to, 5.
 and to his family, 5.
 his ancestor's services in the wars with France, 6.
 Huntingdon [John Holland], earl of: commands at the siege of Harfleur, 42.
 is sent to relieve Harfleur, 49.
 his valour, 50.
 his measures against the pirates, 50.
 treats with the people of Rouen, 53.
 his valour at Pontoise, 57.
 his naval victory over the French, 150.
- I.
- Immortality of the soul, the doctrine of the, maintained, 19, 20.
 Irish, the :
 assistance given by them to the English at the siege of Rouen, 52.
 their successes against the French, 57.
 Israel, a review of its fortunes under various rules, 93, 94.
 Iwe. See Eu.
- J.
- Jacobite Friar, a, chosen by Henry for his confessor, 162.
 John, duke of Burgundy. See Burgundy.
- K.
- Katherine, the French princess:
 is offered in marriage to King Henry, 33.
 the marriage is agreed upon, 57.
 Katric (Catric), John, bishop of St. David's, is made bishop of Chester [Lichfield and Coventry], 103.

M 2

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

180

INDEX.

Kenilworth (Kenylworth, Kinnelworth):
 Henry V. resides there, 24.
 keeps Lent there, 100, 101.
 effects various improvements there, 101.
 Kilmaine, Lord, brings Irish troops to assist the English at Rouen, 52.
 Kinnelworth. See Kenilworth.
 Kirkby, Sir John, is left in command at Lisieux, 51.
 Kydcaus, Kydecaus. See Chef de Caux.

L.

Lacy, Edmund. See Hereford.
 Lanaere, the wood of, 97.
 the water-pit of (gurgis), 98.
 Langley, Thomas. See Durham.
 Langley, (Langaleya), Richard II. originally buried there, 72.
 Le Maitre, John, taken at Agincourt, 123.
 Ledys. See Leeds.
 Leeds (Ledys) Castle in Kent, the emperor
 Sigismund stays there, 136.
 Leicester (Leycester), a Parliament is held there, 24, 102.
 Leviathan, 158.
 Leycester. See Leicester.
 Lichfield and Coventry, the see of. See Chester.
 Lisieux, Peter, bishop of, sent as ambassador from France, 32.
 Lisieux, the town of, taken by the English, 51.
 Lollards, the, alluded to, 68.
 their alleged designs against the king, 68, 69.
 their intention to kill him, 68.
 their intention to deprive certain prelates of their sight, 69.
 to set the religious at work at servile employments, 69.
 to banish the Friars, 69.
 reviled, 82.

Lollards, the.—cont.

confusion imprecated upon them, 94.
 severities against them, 99, 100.
 their alleged treasonable designs, 150, 151.
 their alleged confederacy with the Scots, 151.
 imprisoned by the duke of Bedford, 152.
 strange actions imputed to them, 159.
See also Acton, Greyndor, Heresy,
 and Oldcastle.

London, the city of:

the mayor and aldermen of, mentioned, 125.

Henry V.'s reception there after the battle of Agincourt, 125, 126, 127, 128.

the concourse of people there to witness Henry's entry, 128.

a Parliament held there after the battle of Agincourt, 129, 131, 132, 133.

a Parliament summoned there, 143.

Parliament meets there, 147.

a Parliament held there, 155.

London Bridge, Henry V.'s reception at, after the battle of Agincourt, 125.

Louis. See Dauphin.

M.

Maltravers (Matravers), Lord, left in command at Bayeux, 51.

Marle, the count of, slain at Agincourt,
 123.

Marrok [Morocco], 142.

Martin V. elected Pope at the Council of Constance, 155.

Mascall, Robert. See Hereford.

Matravers. See Maltravers.

Melchizedek, his reception of Abraham, 127.

Monmouth, the birth-place of Henry V., 64.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

181

"Mons Nodosus," what, 99.

Montacute. See Salisbury, earl of.

Montaney, the Sieur, surrenders Caen to the English, 50, 51.

Morley (Morle), [Thomas] Lord, his death, 144.

N.

Nel, see Nesle.

Nesle (Nel), the town of, Henry V. arrives there, 116.

Nembroth. See Nimrod.

Nevers, the count of, slain at Agincourt, 123.

Neville, Ralph. See Westmoreland.

Nicholls, Benedict, bishop of Bangor, is made bishop of St. David's, 162.

Nimrod (Nembroth), founder of the Assyrian empire, 93.

Normandy:

the right of Henry V. to the dukedom of, asserted by archbishop Chicheley, 26.

victories of Henry V. in, 153.

his right to it by inheritance, 153.

Norwich, conflagration at, 96.

Norwich, Richard Courteney (Courtenay), bishop of, dies, 114.

O.

Oldcastle, Sir John, Lord Cobham (Vetus Castrum):

is accused of heresy, 15.

interview of Henry V. with him, 16.

asserts his loyalty, 16.

is committed to the Tower, 16.

is pronounced a heretic by the clergy, 16.

escapes into Wales, 16, 17.

rewards are offered for his arrest or discovery, 17.

but to no purpose, 17.

Oldcastle, Sir John, Lord Cobham.—cont.

his refuge near St. Alban's, 17.

is attacked by the abbot's servants, 17.

and escapes, 17.

specific charges of heresy against him, 18.

his contempt for the Saints and the Virgin Mary, 18.

is delivered up to the duke of Bedford by Lord Powis, 18.

his speech before Parliament, 19, 20, 21, 22.

sentence of death upon him, and execution, 22.

the abominable nature of his heresy, 82.

his alleged conspiracy against the king, 96, 97.

the king expostulates with him, 97.

he is condemned as a heretic by the archbishop of Canterbury, 97.

escapes from prison by Satanic aid, 97.

lies in wait at Lanacre, 97.

contemplates assaulting the king at Eltham, 98.

lies in wait to attack the king, 98.

his adherents are defeated in St. Giles's Fields, 99.

an ancient prophecy fulfilled in his defeat, 99.

the interpretation of it, 99.

his escape, 99.

his adherents are defeated and put to death, 99, 100, 159.

secretly circulates seditious writings, 147, 148.

with certain Scriptural allusions, 148.

proposes to the king to resume the possessions of the clergy and regrant the same, 148.

said to have declared himself to be Elijah, 151, 158.

is taken by the people of Lord Powis, 156.

bitter invectives against him, 156, 157.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

Oldcastle, Sir John, Lord Cobham.—cont.
 refuses to pray to the Virgin Mary, 157.
 or to the Saints, 157.
 denies the right of property in land, 157.
 is struck by a woman when captured at Poole, 158.
 is conveyed to London, 158.
 asserts that King Richard is still living, 158.
 refuses to listen to the duke of Bedford's propositions, 159.
 refuses confession to more than one person, 159.
 promises that he will rise again, 159.
See also Acton, Greyndor, Heresy, and Lollards.
 Omer's, St., the duke of Gloucester at, 143, 145.
 Orleans, the duke of:
   his message to Henry V. before the battle of Agincourt, 117.
   is taken prisoner at Agincourt, 123.
 Ovid, his works quoted, 20, 32.
 Oxford [Richard de Vere], earl of:
   his command at Agincourt, 43.
   is sent to relieve Harfleur, 49.

P.

"Papista," early use of the word, 18.
 Paris, the city of:
   reception of the English embassy there, 31.
   laments of the learned at, on hearing of the defeat at Agincourt, 48.
   recriminations there, 48.
 Parliament, meets to find monies for the war in France, 18.
   decides to hear Oldcastle's defence, 18.
   is held at Leicester, 24, 102.
   is held at London, after the battle of Agincourt, 129.
   proceedings there, 131, 132, 133.
   is dissolved, 135.

Parliament.—cont.
   after imposing taxes for the maintenance of the war, 135.
   is summoned to meet at London, 143.
   sits at London, 147.
   taxes imposed there, 147.
   held at London by the duke of Bedford, 155.
 Patryngtone, Stephen, is made bishop of St. David's, 103.
   is made bishop of Chichester, 132.
   his death, 162.
 Paul's, St., London, convocation of the clergy there, 16.
   Henry V. passes the Conduit of, 127.
   enters the church of, to pray, 129.
 Pharamond, King, the author of the French constitution, 27.
 Pirates defeated by the earl of Huntingdon, 50.
 Pix, punishment by Henry's orders for the theft of a, 116.
 Plantagenet. See Bedford, Cambridge, Clarence, Gloucester, and York.
 Plato, his writings quoted, 5, 19.
 Pleasant Mareys [Pleasant Marsh], 100.
 Plutarch alluded to, 19.
 Poitiers (Poyters), the victory at, alluded to, 131.
 Pontoise (Pontyse) taken by the English, 57.
 Pope, subserviency of the priesthood to the, 15.
   his ignorance of true religion, 15.
   See also Constance and Schism.
 Portismouth. See Portsmouth.
 Portsmouth (Portismouth) blockaded by the French, 137.
 Portugal, the king of, aids Henry in his war with France, 52.
 Powes, Powys. See Powis.
 Powis (Powes, Powys), Lord:
   his people seize Sir John Oldcastle, 18, 156.
   he delivers him to the duke of Bedford, 18.
 Poyters. See Poitiers.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

183

Prayers, formula of, at Westminster, for Henry V., 74, 75.
 Priam, his misfortunes, 19.
 Proemium of Elmham's "Liber Metricus," 93.
 Prophecy, an ancient, how fulfilled in the defeat of Oldcastle, 99.

R.

Reade, Robert. See Chichester.
 Redmayne, Robert, his dedication of his work, 3.
     See also Huntingdon,—Hastings.
 Richard II., King of England:
     favour shown by him to prince Henry, 65.
     a ring given by him to the abbey of Westminster, 71.
     is buried at Langley, 72.
     his body is translated to Westminster, 72.
     compared to Enoch, 151.
     alleged by Oldcastle to be still alive, 158.
 Richemont [Richmond], Arthur de Bretagne, count of, taken prisoner at Agincourt, 123.
 Richmond [in Surrey]. See Shene.
 Richmond [in Yorkshire], the archdeacon of, his bravery against the Scots, 152.
 Ring, given by Richard II. to Westminster, 71.
     restored by Henry V., 71.
 Robsart, Sir John, appointed a commissioner to make terms with France, 57.
 Rochester, reception of the emperor Sigismund at, 133.
 Rokesburgh, Rokysburgh. See Roxburgh.
 Romans, the ancient, their patriotism, 30.
 Roon. See Rouen.

Rouen (Roon), the siege of, by the English, 51.
     is summoned to surrender, 52.
     preparations for defence, 52.
     resolution of the inhabitants, 52.
     the siege is turned into a blockade, 52, 53.
     the poor are expelled from the city, 53.
     the besieged propose terms, 53.
     the inhabitants send a deputy to King Henry, 54.
     his imprudent speech to the king, 54.
     a truce is granted, preparatory to a final surrender, 55.
     commissioners are appointed to arrange the surrender, 55.
     the final surrender, 56.
     the inhabitants send aid to Harfleur, 108.
 Roxburgh (Rokesburgh, Rokysburgh), the Scots attack, 151.
 Ruler, Henry V.'s address on the duties of a, 13, 14.

S.

Salic Law, the, 27.
 Salisbury [Thomas Montacute], earl of:
     is sent to relieve Harfleur, 49.
     his successes in Normandy and France, 56.
 Salisbury, John Chaundler appointed bishop of, 163. See also Hallum.
 Samuel anoints Saul king of Israel, 93.
 Sanctuary, the right of, at Westminster, 72.
 Sardanapalus, his reprehensible life, 13.
 Saul anointed by Samuel, 93.
 Saures (?), the count of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
 Schism, the Papal, alluded to, 132.
 Scotland. See Scots.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

- Scots, the nation of the :
 a war with, advised by the earl of Westmoreland, 28.
 their character depicted, 29.
 their indebtedness to the French, 29.
 precautions taken for defence against, 37.
 defeated by Sir Robert Umfreville, 37, 38.
 invade England, 51.
 and are defeated, 51.
 ambassadors are sent from, to King Henry, 136.
 but without success, 136.
 attack Roxburgh and Berwick, 151.
 retreat before the duke of Exeter, 151.
- Scrope, Henry, Lord, of Masham, joins the conspiracy of the earl of Cambridge, 39, 105.
- Scrope, [Richard] Lord, appointed to a command against the Scots, 37.
- Sebert, King, his benefits to the abbey of Westminster, 71.
- Seine, naval victory of the English at the mouth of, 49, 139.
- Sens, the archbishop of, slain at Agincourt, 123.
- Shene [Richmond, in Surrey], Henry V. rebuilds the manor-house there, 102.
- Sigismund, emperor of Germany :
 a relative of Henry V., 49.
 visits England, 49.
 arrives at Calais, 49, 133.
 attempts to establish peace, 49, 132, 133.
 but to no purpose, 49.
 is made Knight of the Garter, 49, 134.
 his compliment to King Henry, 50.
 forms an alliance with Henry, 51.
 Henry V. sends an embassy to him, 103.
 is received at Calais by the earl of Warwick, 133.
 at Dover by the duke of Gloucester, 133.
- Sigismund, Emperor of Germany.—cont.
 is entertained at Canterbury by the archbishop of Canterbury, 133.
 is received at Rochester by the duke of Bedford, 133.
 at Dartford by the duke of Clarence, 133.
 near London by King Henry, 133.
 renews with him the treaty of peace, 133.
 receives knighthood on St. George's Day, 134.
 sends a joint embassy with the king to Paris, 135.
 receives propositions of peace from the king of France, 136.
 resides at Leeds Castle in Kent, 136.
 returns to Calais by way of Dover, 141, 142.
 high compliments paid to England by his suite, 141.
 his praises recounted by the author, 142.
 despairs of effecting a peace, 146.
 returns home by way of Dortrecht, 146.
- Simonides, his doctrines alluded to, 19.
- Slus. See Sluys.
- Sluys (Slus), the naval victory of the English at, alluded to, 131.
 escape of a hostile carack to, 145.
- Socrates, his defence, 19.
- Solduri, their devotedness, 20.
- Somme, Henry V. crosses the river, 116, 117.
- Southampton, the town of, attempt of the French to burn Henry's fleet at, 134.
 the English fleet summoned to meet there, 149.
- Steuart, —, a commander at the siege of Harfleur, 42.
- Strange, Sir Baldwin, his death, 145.
- Suffolk [Michael de la Pole, the elder], earl of, his death at Harfleur, 114.
- Suffolk [Michael de la Pole, the younger], his command at Agincourt, 43. slain at Agincourt, 47, 122.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-04255-0 - Memorials of Henry the Fifth, King of England

Edited by Charles Augustus Cole

Index

More information

INDEX.

185

Supreme power, various modes of arriving at the, 93.

Swerdis [Ternoise], the river, Henry V. crosses it, 118.

T.

Talbot, Richard, is appointed archbishop of Dublin, 163.

"Te Deum," imitation of the, in praise of the Virgin Mary, 164, 165.

Tempest, remarkable, on the day of Henry V.'s Coronation (9th April, 1413), 12, 95.

Ternoise. See Swerdis.

Tewkesbury (Thewekesburia):
display of Henry V.'s charitable feelings at, 67.
great conflagration at, 96.

Themistocles, Henry V. compared to, 11.

Thomas, St., his shrine at Canterbury visited by Henry V., 124.

Tiburne. See Tyburn.

Tiburtius, St., the day of, 106.

Toke. See Touques.

Touques (Toke) taken by the English, 150.

Tower of London:

Sir John Oldcastle escapes thence, 16.

Henry V.'s speech there to the monks of Westminster, 73.

Trent (Trente), the river, 151.

Trumpyngtone, Thomas, the proposed envoy of the duke of Albany, 151.

Tyburn (Tiburne), the aqueducts at, 99.

U.

Ulysses, his love for his native land, 39.

Umfreville, Sir Gilbert:

treats with the inhabitants of Rouen, 53, 54.

is appointed a commissioner to receive their surrender, 55.

Umfreville, Sir Robert:

defeats the Scots, 37, 38.

is commended by King Henry, 38.

V.

Vandolme. See Vendosme.

Varro, his services to the Romans, 4.

Vasques de Allamond, Sir John de, appointed a commissioner at the surrender of Rouen, 55.

Vendosme (Vandolme), the count of: ambassador to England, from France, 32.

is taken prisoner at Agincourt, 123.

Vetus Castrum. See Oldcastle.

W.

Warwick [Richard Beauchamp], earl of: meets the Emperor Sigismund at Calais, 49, 133.

is sent to relieve Harfleur, 49.

his valour, 50.

is sent to treat with the duke of Burgundy, 56, 145.

is perfidiously attacked, 56.

pursues a hostile carack, 143.

and engages it, 144, 145.

it escapes to Sluys, 145.

he with difficulty regains Calais, 145.

West, Sir Thomas, his death, 145.

Westminster, the abbey of:

Henry V. crowned there, 65.

festivities there, 65.

Henry's benefits to, 69, 70, 71, 72.

King Richard's ring restored by him, 71.

Richard II.'s. body translated thither, 72,

Henry restores two books and a sceptre, 72.

restores its right of sanctuary, 72.

Christchurch, Canterbury, is reconciled with it, 73.

- Westminster, the Abbey of—cont.
    it is taken, in the absence of its abbot,
        under the king's protection, 73.
    the king addresses the monks, 73.
    formula of prayers at, for King Henry
        V., 74, 75,
        King Henry V.'s benefits to, 102, King Henry received there after the battle of Agincourt, 129.
Westminster Hall, a Parliament held at, 133.
Westmoreland, Ralph Neville, earl of :
    his advice as to war with France and Scotland, 27, 28.
    his motives impugned, 28. appointed to command against the Scots, 37.
Wight, the Isle of, attacked by the French, 137.
William, duke of Holland. See Holland.
William the Conqueror buried at Caen, 153.
Willoughby [Robert], Lord, his command at Agincourt, 43.
Winchester [Henry Beaufort], bishop of, Lord Chancellor, his proceedings in Parliament, 131.
Windsor, installation of Knights of the Garter at, 49.
"Wolde," the meaning of the word, 99.
Wounds, the Five, of Jesus, 161.
Wycliffe (Mala Vita), his heresy, 90, 156, 157. See also Heresy, Lollards,
        and Oldcastle.
- Y.
- York, archbishop of. See Bowet.
York, Edward [Plantagenet], duke of:
    his command at Agincourt, 43.
    is slain at Agincourt, 47, 122.
    his bravery there, 120.