LIST OF PLATES

Plate VI.—A NORTHERN AUSTRALIAN, with curly hair, a broad nose, through the septum of which is inserted a long bone (probably a wing bone of a wild swan); the body and arms are decorated with cicatrices and cheloids	22
Plate VII.—A MAORI CHIEF (Polynesian), whose face is decorated with moko , or fine grooves chipped into the skin, pigment being inserted during the operation of cutting. In true tattooing the design is formed by minute punctures	28
Plate VIII.—A NGRILLO, or African Pygmy, from the Kasai Valley, Congo. Note the ulotrichous hair, broad flattish nose, and thick lips; the face and head are broad	34
Plate IX.—AN ESKIMO. Note the straight hair, and greater development of the "Mongolian fold" in the left eye	80
Plate X.—TWO PATAGONIANS, one holding a lasso and the other a bolas; the fillet is very characteristic	100

Plates I, IV, VIII, IX and X are from photographs taken at the St. Louis Exposition, 1904, by the staff of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, and given to me by my friend, Dr. G. A. Dorsey, with full permission to reproduce them.

Plate II is from a photograph taken on the Cambridge Expedition to Torres Straits, etc., 1898.

Plates III, VI, and VII are from purchased photographs.

Plate V is from a photograph taken by my friend, Mr. J. Thomson.
