- 49 4 A passage of St. John (iii. 34) is erroneously cited instead of the parallel one of St. Paul, "it pleased the Father that in him all fulness should dwell," i. e. the fulness of the Godhead bodily: (Coloss. i. 19. coll. ii. 9.) He had just spoken of Christ as the image of God, born before the whole creation with manifest allusion to Philo. Compare the passages cited at p. 49.

- 412 29 'had', read, has.
- 413 16 from foot. 'Caius on Hippolytus,' read, C. or Hippolytus?
