CAMBRIDGE LIBRARY COLLECTION

Books of enduring scholarly value

Printing and Publishing History

The interface between authors and their readers is a fascinating subject in its own right, revealing a great deal about social attitudes, technological progress, aesthetic values, fashionable interests, political positions, economic constraints, and individual personalities. This part of the Cambridge Library Collection reissues classic studies in the area of printing and publishing history that shed light on developments in typography and book design, printing and binding, the rise and fall of publishing houses and periodicals, and the roles of authors and illustrators. It documents the ebb and flow of the book trade supplying a wide range of customers with products from almanacs to novels, bibles to erotica, and poetry to statistics.

Bibliotheca Farmeriana

The library of the literary scholar Richard Farmer (1735–97) was first and foremost a working reference collection, the books acquired not as treasures, but to be read and appreciated. Farmer's library included all four Shakespeare folios and was remarkable for its Elizabethan literature and black letter, which provided the source material for his scholarly work. Notable acquaintances such as Samuel Johnson, George Steevens, Edmond Malone and Isaac Reed all benefited from Farmer's knowledge, and Thomas Percy's Reliques of Ancient English Poetry drew directly on the library itself. In 1798, Farmer's books were sold at an auction attended by many of the next generation's greatest book collectors. Reissued here is a copy of the catalogue featuring handwritten annotations by an anonymous attendee who recorded the prices paid and the names of many buyers, uniquely capturing the dispersal of one of the eighteenth century's great libraries.

Cambridge University Press has long been a pioneer in the reissuing of out-of-print titles from its own backlist, producing digital reprints of books that are still sought after by scholars and students but could not be reprinted economically using traditional technology. The Cambridge Library Collection extends this activity to a wider range of books which are still of importance to researchers and professionals, either for the source material they contain, or as landmarks in the history of their academic discipline.

Drawing from the world-renowned collections in the Cambridge University Library and other partner libraries, and guided by the advice of experts in each subject area, Cambridge University Press is using state-of-the-art scanning machines in its own Printing House to capture the content of each book selected for inclusion. The files are processed to give a consistently clear, crisp image, and the books finished to the high quality standard for which the Press is recognised around the world. The latest print-on-demand technology ensures that the books will remain available indefinitely, and that orders for single or multiple copies can quickly be supplied.

The Cambridge Library Collection brings back to life books of enduring scholarly value (including out-of-copyright works originally issued by other publishers) across a wide range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences and in science and technology.

BY the following Paper in the hand-writing of DR. FARMER, it appears that he once proposed to have had a Catalogue taken of his Library, to which he intended to have prefixed the following Advertisement:

“ THIS Collection of Books is by no means to be considered as an Essay towards a perfect Library; the Circumstances and the Situation of the Collector made such an attempt both unnecessary and impracticable. Here are few Publications of great price, which were already to be found in the excellent Library of Emanuel College: but it is believed, that not many private Collections contain a greater Number of really curious and scarce Books; and perhaps no one is so rich in the ancient Philological English Literature,

R. FARMER.”

N. B. The original is in the possession of MR. KING.

FOR the Improvement of Sale Catalogues, it has been usual to exhibit such Manuscript Remarks as occurred in Volumes that had been the Property of distinguished characters.

So numerous, however, are the Observations of the late DR. FARMER, respecting the Curiosity or Value of his Books, that the Introduction of all his literary Memoranda would have increased the present Catalogue to more than twice its bulk. The majority of his Notices are consequently omitted here; and the Reader is requested to look for them at the beginning of almost every work enumerated in the following pages.

THOMAS KING.

Conditions of Sale.

- I. THE Highest Bidder to be the Buyer ; but if any Dispute arise, the Lot to be put up again.
