

INDEX.

A		Page
ACHÆAN Port, -	75, 93, 94, 95, 96
— its distance from New Ilium, 71, 92, 94
— reported increase of land there since the Trojan War, 72—distinguished from the Naustathmus, -	92
Achilles, Tumulus of, its position, -	70
— his station in the Grecian line on the side of Sigæum 88, 89, 90.—Sullenly neutral, 90. Marches with the Greeks, 125,	135
Achillæum, -	70
Æantæum, its position, -	70
—(the present In-Tépé-Azmah)	72, 94
Ænea, the present Ene, -	22, 23
Æsepus River, springs from M. Cotylus, -	22, 23
Æsyetes, Tumulus of, 28, 105, & seq. Supposed to be that, at the former conflux of the Mender and Bounarbashi Rivers, 106, 107. Only mentioned on occasion of Polites' reconnoitering -	108
Agamemnon, his station in the line, 89. Mentioned, -	90, 101, 103, 123, 124
Ajax, Tumulus of, its position, 70. His station in the line, on the side of Rhœteum, 82, 88, 89, 90. Defends the fleet, 80
Alexander, a great admirer of the Iliad, 127
Alexandria Troas, -	22, 41, 93
Alluvions raise the old ground, whilst they create new, 73. Formation of, in the Sea, 73 & seq. 77
Anai Tepe -	137
Ancients, The, reckoned the Bay of the Scamander too wide, 79. In the habit of fortifying their fleets, when drawn up, on the shore, -	130
Ancient names of rivers, many of them remaining, in Asia Minor, -	44
Andrius River, an adjunct to the Scamander, 25, 31. Taken for the Lidgex of M. Kauffer, -	31
Atchekui, or Akshikui Hill, taken for the Kalli-colone, 45, & seq. Different names of it. ibid , Its position, -	113, & seq.
Atmosphere, mean temperatures of, 64, 65.
Auxiliaries, Trojan, where posted, 102, 132
B.
BATIAEA, or Myrinna, Tumulus of, 28, 40. Its position known, in the time of Demetrius, 112. Mentioned, 113, 114, 116, 121, 124, 143.
Battles of the Iliad, Fields of, 126, & seq
First battle, at the Tumulus of Myrinna, 128. Second battle, in the middle Plain, 131. Third battle, on the Throsmos, 132. Fourth and last battle, 135. Mr. Pope reckons eight battles, -	135
Beloe, Mr. -	11
Bounarbashi Hill and Village, too far distant from the sea-coast, to answer to Troy, 119, 120, 121. Proved by the quick arrival of the provisions, in the Trojan camp, on the Throsmos, 122, 123. All of its springs cold, -	61, & seq.
Bounarbashi River, appears not to have been mentioned by the Ancients, 2. Has no adjuncts, like the Scamander of Demetrius, 31, 55. Too inconsiderable for the Scamander; and unlike it, in character, 55, 56. Described by M. de Chevalier as a rivulet, although it is the Scamander of his system, 55. Described also by Captain Francklin, 56. Supposed to have ran on the right of the Grecian camp, 78. Could not have flowed between the Grecian camp and Troy, as the Scamander is described to do, -	91
Brun, M. Le, his route over Ida, 21, 22
C
CAMP and rampart (or wall) of the Greeks, 69, & seq. (See also Wall).

	Page		Page
Carasena, country of,	24, 25, 31	Dardanus	18
Carlyle, Professor, points out the River Shimar, 34, & seq. Distinguishes its summer and winter courses, 35. The name Shimar applied also to the confluent stream, formed by the Shimar and Thymbrek,	35	Demetrius of Scepsis, cotemporary with Scipio Africanus, 4. His character from Strabo, 4, From M. Heyne, 5. From Dr. Chandler, 5. From M. De Chevalier, 5. The only one amongst the ancients, whose observations in detail, on the Troad, have reached us, 9. His report on its topography, 28, & seq. Derives the Scamander, Æsepus, and Granicus from M. Cotylus, 22, 30. Possessed advantages over the modern travellers, 44. Gives the position of New Ilium, in respect of the sea coast, 72. Cited, 92, 94, 95, 96, 106. No just reason, why his authority should be questioned,	141
Cebrenia, country of,	29, 30, 31	Diomed, his night adventure, in company with Ulysses, 90, 91, 131. Wounded by Paris, from the Monument of Ilus,	133
Chandler, Doctor, saw the conflux of the Mender and Shimar, at Kalifatli, 39. Also the swell of ground which prevented a view of the upper Plain, from Jenishehr, 39; and two Tumuli, 40. Remarked also the Kalli-colone, 47. Cited, 86, 94, 115.		Dolon the Trojan spy, intercepted,	90
Channels, deserted, of the Scamander, 97, 146		Doric temple, ruins of, in the Valley of Thymbrek,	36, 116
Chevalier, M. de, his system founded on an erroneous topography, &c, 4, 33. Omits the ridge of high land described by Demetrius, 32. Mentioned,	115, 119, 120, 121	Dumbrek River, (meant for Thymbrek),	39
Chiblak,	35, 36, 38	Duo Tepé, or the two Tumuli of Achilles and Patroclus,	94
Clarke, Doctor, discovers a tumulus, supposed to be that of Myrinna, or Batizæa, 40. Also two other tumuli, and a swell of ground on the north of the Kalifatli River, or Shimar, 40, 85. Visits the ruins of New Ilium, (or Old Kalifatli), 42. Describes the Winter bed of the Shimar, 39. Mentioned,	20, 21, 24, 39, 60, 117	E.
Columns of an unknown, and very ancient order, seen by Messrs. Hope, Francklin, and Dallaway,	115, 116	ENE, ancient Ænea,	23
Conflux of the Scamander and Simois, the place of, in the time of Homer, not distinctly known, at present, 59, 60, 97, 129 — Near New Ilium, in the time of Demetrius, 28, 41. Two distinct ones, at different seasons, in modern times, 35, 43. Seen by Doctor Chandler, at Kalifatli, 39		Erineus, 53, 112. Its position appears to have been known to Demetrius,	112
Cotylus Mountain, the highest summit of Ida, 21, 22. (The same with Gargarus.) Its position, 22. Mentioned,	24, 25, 26	Eski-Skupchu (or Palæ Scepsis) placed,	22
Cowper, Mr. great obligations of the author to him, on the score of his translations of the Iliad and Odyssey — Preface and throughout the Memoir.		Mentioned,	23, 24
Cripps, Mr.	20	F.
D.		FRANKLIN, Capt. his Gargarus, the mountain over Bounarbashi; and not the true one, 25. His route, with Mr. Philip Hope, from the Dardanelles to Bounarbashi, 36, & seq. Discovers the ruins of a Doric temple at Thymbrek Muzarlik, 36, 116. His description of the Bounarbashi River, 54, 56. Mentioned,	114, 116, 117, 119
Dallaway, Doctor, ruins remarked by him,	115	G.
D'Anville, M. not correct in his idea of Mount Ida, 26. His Trojan rivers appear to be transposed,	44	GARGARA, city of,	22
Dardania,	31, 115	Gargarus, the same with Cotylus; the highest summit of Ida, 21, 22. Its position, 22. (The modern Kas-dagh.)
		Gell, Mr. his observations have enabled the author to form a general groundwork for the topography of the Troad, 33, (and throughout the Memoir.) His remark on the width of the Plain, east of the River

INDEX. 153

Mender, 33. Supposes the Tumulus seen by Dr. Clarke in that Plain, to be that of Myrinna or Batiaæa, 40. Cited, 18, 25, 35, 45, 47, 82, 83, 84, 97, 100, 101, 106, 113, 114, 115, 119, 121, 129, 137, 144, 147. His remarks on the springs at Bounarbashi, 147 And on the Throsmos, 148
Gillies, Doctor, - 62, 98, 100, 115
Granicus River, springs from Cotylus, 23, 24
Grecian wall, or rampart, - 69, & seq.
Greeks, retire to their wall for protection, 131
—— Port of. See Achæan Port.

H.

HAWKINS, Mr. 19, 24, 119. His remarks on the springs at Bounarbashi, 62, 66. Communicates a correct copy of M. Kauffer's map of the Troad to the Author. (Preface.)
Hayes, Captain, - - 62
Hector, carried wounded to the ford of the Scamander, 59. Holds a council of war, at the monument of Ilus, 84, 88, 101. Attacks and forces the left of the Grecian rampart, 89, 133. Observations on his Tumulus, 136, & seq. Improbable that his body was burnt within the city. ibid. The Tumulus more probably of earth, than of stones, - - 139, 140
Herodotus, his belief of the Trojan war; though not of Helen's being carried to Troy, 10, 11. Cited, - 20, 25
Heyne, M. his remarks, 52, 128. Mentioned, 89, 100, 135
Hobhouse, Mr. - - 61, 66
Homer derives the Scamander from Ida, 24. Appears to have studied the topography on the spot, and to have given a real field of action, 51, 127. Speaks only of two rivers of the Troad, 53. His topography compared with that of Demetrius, and with the ancient topography in general, 51, & seq. His number of ships agrees very nearly with that given by Thucydides, 80. Cited throughout.
Hope, Mr. Philip, with Capt. Francklin, discovers the ruins of a Doric temple, in the Valley of Thymbrek, or Thymbra, 36, 116
Hunter, Doctor John, - - 64, 65

I.

IDA, a mountainous region, 17. Its general extent, ibid. Composed of three principal ridges or ranges, which collectively form the letter A 18. Path of Juno, over Lectum, 20. Opinions of Herodotus, Xenophon, and Strabo, respecting Ida, 21. Mr. Walpole's route across a part of it, 21. Le Brun's, 21. Forests of, - 122, 136

Ida Gargarus, 18, 19. Height of, 21. The same as Cotylus, and Kas-dagh, - 25
Ida Lectum, - - 18, 19
Ida, Trojan, 18, 19. Often taken for the whole of Ida, - - 20
Jenikui, - - - 93
Jenishehr (Sigæum), - - 103
Iliad, the scene of, referable to no other place than the Plain of the Mender, - 2, 142
Iliæan Village (or Pagus Iliensium), where situated, according to Demetrius, 29, 46, 111, 112. Supposed to have occupied a part of the site of ancient Troy, 111, 112, 113. Its site, not precisely known, 113, 125
Ilium. See Troy.
Ilium Recens, or New Ilium, placed, 41 & seq. Visited by Dr. Clarke, 42. Its distance from the shore, in the time of Demetrius, 72. Port of 95. Its modern name, Old Kalifatli, - - 42
Ilus, Monument of, 28. Supposed to be the Mount at Koumkui, 82, 83. Situated in the way from Troy, to the Grecian camp, 83, 88. Trees said to grow on it, 86. Its position known to Demetrius, - 112
Inglis, Mr. - - - 39
In-Tepé, or Tumulus of Ajax, its position, 70
In Tepé Azmah, the Port of the Æantéum, 94, 96
Johnson, Doctor, an observation of his, 53

K.

Kalifatli, Village of, 35, 39, 40, 42, 97. Its inhabitants believe that it stands on a part of the site of Ancient Ilium, or Troy, 114
Kalifatli, Old, the present name of the ruins of New Ilium, - - 42
Kalli-colone, or beautiful hill, 29. Taken for the hill of Atche-kui, 45, & seq. 112, 113, 142
Kana-Tepé, - - - 137
Karanlik Port, - - - 96
Kas-dagh, the modern name of Gargarus, or Cotylus, 18, 25. The highest summit of Ida, - - - 24
Kauffer, M. his map of the Troad, (Preface). Cited, 23, 24, 26, 31, 35, 47, 114, 119
Koum-kala, distinguished from Koum-kui, (Preface.) Mentioned, 35.

154

INDEX.

	Page		Page
Koum-kui, 35. Its Tumulus taken for that of Ilus, 82, 83. Mr. Gell's description of it, - - -	83, 84	Patroclus, Tumulus of, its position, -	70
L.		Pergama of Troy, -	45, 53, 113, 114
LAKES at the mouth of the Mender River, 95		Pliny describes the bay of the Mender, 70. Over-rates its dimensions, 79. Speaks of trees growing on the Tumulus of Ilus, 86. Describes the coast of Troas, 93. Cited, 95
Leetum, or southern ridge of Ida, -	18, 19	Pocock, Doctor, right in his ideas concerning Ida, 24, 25. Passes over the Mender and Shimar Rivers, 38. Mentioned, 20, 22, 32
----- Promontory of, 17, 18, et seq. 20, 22, 25, 26		Polichna, probably Balonk-li, -	20, 22, 32
Left, The, meant for that of the Grecian wall and camp, - - -	88, et seq.	Polites explores the camp of the Greeks, from the Tumulus of Æsyetes, 105. A supposed object of it, - -	107
Lidgex River: of M. Kauffer, taken for the Andrius of Demetrius, -	31	Polydamus, a saying of his, -	122
Lower course of the Scamander, - 87, et seq.		Pope, Mr. reckons 8 battles before Troy, 134
Lucan, his observation on the ruins of Ilium, 13. May probably be justified, in saying that they had perished, -	13, 125	Port of the Greeks. See Achæan Port.
M.		Priam passes the Scamander, near the Monument of Ilus, - -	88
MACKENZIE, Dr. Murdoch, describes the lower part of the course of the Shimar River, under the name of Dumbrek, -	39	R.
Mal-Tépé, - - -	137	Rampart, or wall of the Greeks. See Wall.
Mender River, taken for the Scamander, has always been regarded as one of the two rivers that encompassed the Plain of Troy, 3. Is the Simois of M. de Chevalier, 3. Has its source in Kas-dagh (i. e. Gargarus or Cotylus), 24. In character, a mountain torrent, 55, 74. Breadth of its bed, 55. Its bed oftener filled, than that of the Shimar, 58. Has probably varied its course, in different ages, from one side of the Plain to the other, in the part towards the Bay, 67		Rhœteum Promontory, its position, 70. The station of Ajax on that side, -	88
Myrinna, Tumulus of. See Batiaæa.		Rivers, old and new ones, of the same name, -	96
N.		S.
NAUSTATHMUS, 73, 94, 95. Its distance from New Ilium, 92. Distinct from the Achæan Port, - - -	92	Sandys, Mr. - - -	37
Neachore, - - -	93	Scæan Gate of Troy, 40, 43, 61, 112, 115, 119. The Tomb of Myrinna, before it, -	40, 128
Nee, - - -	93	Scamander, one of the two rivers that encompassed the Trojan Plain, 2. The difference of opinion respecting the place of its source, has occasioned the chief difficulty of arranging the topography of the Troad, 6. Its source in M. Cotylus, according to Demetrius, 22, 30. Course, thence to the Plain of Troy, 30. Divides Cebrenia from Scepsis, 25, 30. Has the character of an impetuous mountain torrent, 54, 55, 56. The largest of Homer's two rivers, 54. Compared with the Mender, and contrasted with the river of Bounarbashi, 55, 56. Its fords, 59. Its deserted channels, 75, 97, 148. Lower Scamander, course of, 87, et seq. Discharged anciently at Rhœteum, 91, 95, 96, 97. Flowed between Troy and the Grecian camp, - - -	91
P.		Scamandria, - - -	93, 95
PAGUS Iliensium. See Iliæan Village.		Scamander amnis navigabilis of Pliny, 2, 95
Palæ Scamander (or Old Scamander) described by Pliny, - - -	93, 95	Scamandrian Plain, - - -	28
Palæ Scepsis, 22, 23. Position of, -	24	Scepsis, a country, -	31

INDEX.

155

	Page
Scepsis, a city, the residence of Demetrius,	3, 24
Scepsis, Palæ, - - -	22, 23, 24
Shaw, Doctor, - - -	65
Shimar River, (or Simores) not unknown in earlier times, 32; but pointed out, anew, by Professor Carlyle, 34, et seq. Has distinct summer and winter courses, 35, 97. Probably the Simois of Homer, and of Demetrius, 43. A mountain torrent, like the Mender, but smaller, 57. Described by Doctor Clarke, under the name of Kalifatli River, 39, 60. And by Dr. Mackenzie, by that of Dumbrek, - 39
Ships, their sterns placed towards the land, 78. Arrangement of, on the beach, 78, et seq. Propped, and placed close to each other, side by side, 80. Number of, in Homer's catalogue, - - -	80
Sibthorpe, Doctor, - - -	62, 119
Sidon, visited by Paris and Helen, - -	11
Sigæum, its position, 70. The Station of Achilles, on that side 88. Heights of 100. Not the Throsmos of Homer, 100, 103, 104. Mr. Gell's remark on it, -	148
Silver mine near the Trojan Ida, - -	23
Simois, one of the two rivers of the Troad, 2. Has the character of a mountain torrent, like the Scamander, 57. Called on by the Scamander, to join its floods, and overwhelm Achilles, - - -	58
Skupchu, Eski, (or Old Skupchu; taken for Palæ Scepsis), - - -	22, 23, 24
Smith, Doctor, the translator of Thucydides, - - -	10, 80
Sophocles (in Ajax) seems to suppose that the Scamander ran by the quarter of Ajax, - - -	97
Springs, before the Scæan Gate; the warm one not to be found, 61. Those at Bounarbashi, 8 in number, and all cold, 62, 66. One of them, called the warm spring, very imposing in its appearance, 66. Temperature of certain deep seated springs in England, 65. Springs easily destroyed by earthquakes, 118. A steam arises from one of those, at Bounarbashi, - - -	147
Stades, different standards of, - - -	71
Station of the Grecian fleet, in the Bay of the Scamander, - - -	75, 78
Stoma-limne, - - -	92
Strabo, appears to have misconceived Demetrius, in the matter of Ida: and the place of the sources of the Scamander, Æsepus, and Granicus, 21, et seq. Has preserved the report of Demetrius, on the Plain of

Troy, &c. 28	Over-rates the extent of the Bay of the Mender, or Scamander, 79.
Cited, throughout.

T.

TEMPLES, ruins of, in the Valley of Thymbrek, - - -	116, 117
Throsmos, what may be supposed to be meant by the term, 99, et seq. The Trojans encamp on it, 131, 133. Battles on it, 132, 135. See also, - - -	148
Thucydides, believed that the war of Troy had happened, 10, 11. His statement of the number of ships, in the Grecian armament, agrees generally with that of Homer, - - -	80
Thymbra Valley, and Quarter, 84, 86, 90, 91, 102, 112, 116, 131, 132	Temples, remains of, - - -
Thymbrek Valley and Village (Thymbra), 33, 34, 36, 44, 116. Ruins of the great temple at Kalil-Eli, - - -	116, 117.
— Of the lesser temple at Thymbrek Muzarlik, - - -	36, 116, 117
Thymbrek River (or Dumbrek), 36, 37, - - -	38, 44
Thymbrius River, - - -	35, 53, 96
Tragesæa, a saline, - - -	18
Troad, prevailing ideas respecting its topography, 1, et seq. Its rivers, - - -	2
Trojan Ida, or western range of Ida, towards the Plain of Troy, &c. - - -	18, 19
— Plain, described by Demetrius, - -	28
— auxiliaries, where posted, - - -	102, 131
— army, forms its camp on the Throsmos, 102, 131, 133. Its object in taking that position, - - -	103
Troy, or Ilium, war of, believed by the ancients, generally, 9, 12. Its ruins had disappeared before the time of Demetrius, 13. Its supposed position, by Demetrius, 29. Plain of, where situated, 44. Stood generally in a plain, 114, 115. Bounarbashi too far from the sea, to answer to it, 118, 119, 123. Taken, at the summer solstice, 120. Its site, probably, between Kalifatli, and Atchekui, 125. Error in supposing that it stood opposite Tenedos, - - -	125
Tumulus of Achilles, 70. Of Æsyetes, 28, 105, et seq. Of Ajax, 70. Of Antilochus, 25, 30. Of the Greeks, 73, 76. Of Hector, 136. Of Ilus (supposed to be that at Koum-kui), 28, 82, 83. Of Kana Tepé, or Anai-Tepé, 137. Of Koum-kui, 83.

Of Mal Tepé, 137. Of Myrinna or Batiaæa, 28, 40, 112. Of Patroclus, - 70
Tumuli, two discovered by Dr. Clarke, 40, 85, 107. None found in the Plain between the Mender and Bounarbashi Rivers, 143
Tymbrek. See Thymbrek.

U.

УДЖЕК Tepé, not the Tumulus of Æsyetes, 106
Ulysses, his night adventure, in company with Diomed, 90, 91, 103, 131. Expresses his fears to Agamemnon, in the event of a precipitate retreat, - 103, 118

W.

WALL of the Greeks, observations on, 129, et seq. The fact of its construction, probable, 130. Believed by Thucydides, 130. The Greeks retire within it, 131. Attacked and stormed by the Trojans, 133. Hastily constructed and imperfect, 130. Supposed line of its course, - 131

Walpole, Mr. his route over Western and Southern Ida, - 21
War of Troy, believed to have happened by Herodotus, Thucydides, the historians of Alexander, &c. &c. - 8, et seq.

X.

ΧΑΝΤΗUS, another name given by Homer to the Scamander, - 2, 93, 96
Xenophon, - 20, 21, 25

Z.

ZELEIA, at the eastern foot of Ida, 17, 25