

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07381-3 - Life of Benjamin Robert Haydon Historical Painter: From His Autobiography and Journals: Volume 3

Edited by Tom Taylor

Index

More information

I N D E X.

- ABERCORN, Marquis of, his hospitality, iii. 17; his reception of the Misses Porter, 18.
- Aberdeen, Earl of, underrates the Elgin Marbles, i. 328, 329; Essay on Greek Architecture, ii. 86.
- Abolitionists, portraits by Haydon of, iii. 155–159.
- Academicians, the Royal, their feeling towards the old masters, i. 292; unfair treatment of Dentatus, 125; Haydon's attacks on, in the Examiner, 178; and in the Annals of Art, 356; theirs upon him, 367; his overtures of reconciliation, ii. 138; their conduct as to the proposed Waterloo monument, i. 305; inquiry into their accounts, iii. 117.
- Academies of Art, Haydon's opinion of, i. 127. 213; summary of history of, iii. 39.
- Actresses, Haydon's opinion of, i. 288.
- Adam and Eve, Haydon's cartoon, commenced, iii. 250; progress, 235.
- Albinus, his work on Anatomy, i. 16.
- Alexander and Bucephalus, Haydon's picture of, commenced, ii. 129; finished, 164; criticisms on, by C. Lamb, 155; by Lawrence, 166.
- Alexander and the Lion, Haydon's picture, commenced, iii. 205; progress, 265; finished, 267.
- Alfred, Haydon's picture, commenced, iii. 339; progress, 341. 345.
- Allan, Sir William, i. 75.
- Althorp, Lord, sits to Haydon, ii. 355; remarks on Art and the Academy, 363; reception of Jeffrey's description of, after the resignation, 371; his goodness of heart, 380; remarks on Canning, 384.
- Angelo, Michel, criticism on, i. 231.
- Angerstein, Mr., purchase of his gallery by government, ii. 79.
- Annals of Art, Haydon's contributions to the, i. 356.
- Anti-slavery Convention, Haydon's picture, iii. 154; he sketches the leading members, 155–159; exhibited, 167.
- Antrobus, Sir Edmund, assists Haydon, i. 401.
- Armitage, his prize cartoon, iii. 255.
- Aristides, Haydon's picture, sketched, iii. 291; prayer for its success, 297; finished, 311; exhibited, 336.
- Ashburnham's, Lord, present to Haydon, i. 409.
- Auckland, Lord, sits to Haydon, ii. 366.
- Audley, Lord, his eccentric behaviour, iii. 31.
- Augustin, St., his Confessions, iii. 320.
- Bailey, E. H., angry interview with Wellington, iii. 281.
- Baillie, Joanna, letter to Haydon, ii. 12.
- Bankes, Miss, a conchologist, iii. 80.
- Bannister, J., ii. 153.
- Barry, James, his lying in state, i. 43; violence of his temper, iii. 199.
- Barry, Sir C., i. 397.
- Baskerville, Mary, Haydon's grandmother; her hatred of Americans, i. 4.
- Bassano, criticism on, iii. 91.
- Beaumont, Sir G., commissions Wilkie to paint the Blind Fiddler, i. 46; visits Haydon, 57; Haydon and Wilkie dine with him, 59; advises Haydon not to exhibit his first picture, 61; his letter to him on the study of art, 64; on painting from poets, 66; Haydon visits him at Coleorton, 133; paints Macbeth for him, 136; their disagreement thereon, 136–145. 176; he warns Haydon against writing, 307; assists him with money and advice, 368; his kindness, 400; polish of his manners, ii. 148; his death, 161; Haydon's remarks on his character, 162.
- Beaumont, J., an abolitionist, iii., 175.
- Bedford, Duke of, his death, iii. 129.
- Bell, Sir C., his lectures, i. 43; letter to Haydon, 190.
- Belzoni, Giovanni, Haydon's remarks on, ii. 14; his widow's destitution, 111.
- Bentham, Jeremy, Leigh Hunt's admiration of, i. 242.
- Bewick, the wood engraver, iii. 332.
- Bewicke, one of Haydon's pupils, i. 355; his picture, ii. 30. 34; copies from Michel Angelo, iii. 149; Haydon's account of, 151.
- Bidlake, Rev. Dr., description of, i. 3. 154.
- Bird, of Bristol, set up as Wilkie's rival, i. 154.
- Birney, Mr., an abolitionist, iii. 159.
- Black Prince, Haydon's cartoon of the, iii. 242.
- Blackwood's Magazine attacks Leigh Hunt, i. 379.
- Plessington, Lady, iii. 12. 17.
- Blind Fiddler, Wilkie's picture, i. 51. 52; its price, 53.
- Blucher, Field-Marshal, i. 282.
- Bone, Henry, R. A., Haydon's visit to, ii. 145.
- Boringdon, Lady, i. 80.
- Boswell's Johnson, Haydon's remarks on, i. 97. 98.
- Bridges', David, remarks on Haydon, i. 415.
- British Institution, the, prize awarded to Haydon by the directors of, i. 146; their treatment of his Macbeth, 190; their appreciation of his Solomon, 284; exhibition of works of the old masters at, 292; Haydon's plan for premiums, 349.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07381-3 - Life of Benjamin Robert Haydon Historical Painter: From His Autobiography and Journals: Volume 3

Edited by Tom Taylor

Index

More information

- Bronstedt, Chevalier, conversation on Greek art, iii. 143, 145.
- Brougham, Lord, Haydon's visit to, ii. 195; description of, 370.
- Brown, Ford, his fresco, iii. 309.
- Browning, Mrs., sonnet by, iii. 237.
- Buonaparte, Lucien, his poem, i. 298.
- Buonaparte, Napoleon, anecdotes of, i. 165, 166; iii. 72; Haydon's remarks on him, i. 299; on his system, 304; on his death, ii. 26; his portrait, by Gerard, i. 271; his fascination, iii. 298; conduct at St. Helena, 259; Haydon's picture of, commenced, ii. 297; his description of it, 301; copies of it by himself, iii. 265, 272.
- Buonarroti family, their fête, iii. 275.
- Burdett, Sir F., description of, ii. 373.
- Burghes, Lady, iii. 89; her Alcestis, 112.
- Byron, Lady, Haydon's sketch of, iii. 158.
- Byron, Lord, his Memoirs, ii. 313.
- Calcott, Sir A., Haydon's visit to, ii. 139.
- Campbell, Thomas, intention of, iii. 69.
- Canning, G., Haydon's letters to, i. 391; ii. 121.
- Canova, his opinion of the Elgin Marbles, i. 319; his admiration of Haydon's picture of Jairus' daughter, 319; criticism on art, 320.
- Caracci, Giustiniani, criticism on, iii. 159.
- Carlos, Don, mention of, by Wellington, iii. 122.
- Cartoons, Haydon's, commenced, iii. 229, 242; sent to Westminster, 251.
- Cartoon's Raïelle's, copies of, exhibited by Haydon, i. 366.
- Cassandra, Haydon's picture, ii. 391, 405.
- Catalogue Raisonné, i. 375; Hazlitt's opinion of, 376.
- Chairing the Member, Haydon's picture, ii. 196; its progress, 211; exhibited, 224.
- Chantrey, Sir F., his success compared with Stothard's, ii. 107; Haydon's visit to, 142; remarks on, 161; his statue of Watt, iii. 195.
- Chatfield, Edwin, Haydon's pupil, i. 355.
- Chapman, W., a guardsman, his Waterloo letter, i. 310.
- Christie, Mr., Duel with Mr. Scott, ii. 7.
- Clarkson, Thomas, Haydon's sketch of, iii. 154; visit to, 170; his character 171.
- Cleaning of pictures, Wilkie on, i. 353.
- Cleghorn, Peter, kindness to Haydon, i. 153.
- Cobley, Mr., Haydon's uncle, his imprudence, i. 18.
- Cobley, Thomas, his feat at Ismailhoff, i. 5, 369.
- Cockburn, Sir G., argument on Nelson Monument, iii. 105.
- Coke, Mr., anecdote of Fox, ii. 376—379.
- Colbourne, Ridley, presents Haydon's petition to the Commons, ii. 124; conversation with him, iii. 19.
- Collins, William, R.A., his admiration of Wilkie, iii. 179.
- Colwell, —, a turnkey, his learning, iii. 51.
- Colman, G., the younger, i. 109.
- Condé, Prince de, ii. 263.
- Cooper, Mr., R.A., Haydon's visit to, ii. 149.
- Cooper, Sir Astley, at Walmer, iii. 121; love of his profession, 169.
- Copenhagen expedition, anecdote of the, i. 119.
- Coppard, Mrs., kindness to Wilkie, i. 155.
- Cornelius, the German artist, his remarks on fresco-painting, iii. 193.
- Coronation of George IV., Haydon's account of it, ii. 27.
- Cordier, M., an abolitionist, iii. 155.
- Coutts, Mr., assists Haydon, i. 382; Haydon's visit to his house, i. 383.
- Coutts, Mrs., i. 383.
- Cremieux, M., an abolitionist, iii. 155.
- Cross, Mr., his meeting with Mrs. Haydon at Exeter, i. 82.
- Crucifixion, Haydon's picture, ii. 53.
- Cunningham, A., Lives of the Painters, ii. 247.
- Curtius, Haydon's picture of, commenced, iii. 206; exhibited, 244; sold, 249.
- Dakin, a guardsman at Waterloo, i. 311.
- Danby, F., his Red Sea, ii. 104; criticism on, 209.
- David, J. Louis, maxim of, iii. 4.
- Davy, Sir H., his Napoleon prophecy, i. 59.
- Delaroche, Paul, Haydon's criticism on, iii. 76.
- D'Eubden, M., anecdotes of the French army, ii. 250.
- Dennys Mr., iii. 346.
- Demon, Baron, Conversation with Haydon, i. 283.
- Dentatus, Haydon's picture commenced, i. 79; its progress, 89, 108, 113; finished, 121; his opinion of it, 121; Fuseli's criticism 109; exhibited, 123; obtains the Institution's prize, 146.
- De Pradt, Abbé, anecdotes of, iii. 121.
- Design, Schools of, discussion on, iii. 64; Manchester Meeting on, 79; Haydon's opinion of, 304.
- Dickens, C., Lady Holland's advice to, iii. 319.
- Dieppe, Haydon's description of, i. 245.
- Domenichino, his St. Cecilia, iii. 160.
- D'Orsay, Count, Haydon's description of, iii. 95, 115.
- Douglas, Rev. Mr., his antiquarian taste, i. 314.
- Douglas, Lady, her reply to the Lord Mayor, iii. 4.
- Drayton, Haydon's visit to, iii. 81.
- Ducis, —, his translation of Hamlet, i. 266.
- Du Fresne, Mrs., i. 74; her marriage, i. 76.
- Du Fresne, Mr., i. 75, 77.
- Dyce, W., his fresco, iii. 306.
- Eastlake, Sir C., his early pictures, i. 117, 225; portrait of Napoleon, 313; letter to Haydon, ii. 96; elected Secretary to the Fine Arts Commission, iii. 194; conversation with Haydon in Westminster Hall, 251.
- Ebrington, Lord, anecdotes of public men by, ii. 370.
- Edinburgh, Haydon's impressions of, i. 416.
- Edgeworth, Miss, criticism on her stories, i. 288.
- Egremont, Lord, Alexander painted for him, ii. 130; aids Haydon, 137; his purchase of Bannister's picture, 153; his page, 154; Haydon's visit to him at Petworth, 155; gives Haydon a commission for Eucles, 167; Haydon's remarks on him, iii. 77.
- Elford, Sir W., anecdote of Reynolds, i. 132.
- Elmes, Mr., publisher of "Annals of Art," i. 355.
- Elgin, Lord, removal of the Marbles from Athens by, i. 293; his anxiety about the Marbles, 331; expense incurred by him, 341.
- Elgin Marbles, Haydon's first sight of them, i. 91; their effect upon Haydon, 92, 167; upon Fuseli, 93; and upon West, 94; copied

- by Haydon, 95, 115; their appearance by night, 150; Wilkie's non-appreciation of them, 151; Haydon's casts, 317; Canova's admiration of them, 319; depreciated by Payne Knight, 295; their inspection by a Committee of the House of Commons, 331; Haydon's letter about them in the Examiner, 332, 340; their purchase by Government, 341; copied by Haydon's pupils, 378; visited by the Grand Duke Nicholas, 369; Haydon commissioned to procure casts of them for the Russian Academy, 389.
- Eucles, Haydon's picture, commenced, ii. 157, 167; his description of it, 225; raffled, 266.
- Ewart, Mr., M. P., obtains his Select Committee on Art, iii. 20; its sittings, 36–44; conversations about the cartoons, 88.
- Examiner, Haydon's article on the Elgin Marbles, i. 332.
- Fairbairn, Mr., his engine works at Manchester, iii. 80.
- Falstaff, Haydon's picture, iii. 33.
- Fenzi, i. 9.
- Flaxman, J., Haydon's visit to, ii. 143.
- Flemish; School, ii. 69.
- Fontainebleau, Haydon's visit to, i. 276.
- Forster's Essay on Decision of Character, i. 176.
- Fox, Charles, anecdote of, ii. 376–379.
- Freeling, Sir F., ii. 159.
- French nation, description of the, i. 304.
- Fresco painting, hints on, iii. 199; its difficulties, 200.
- Fuseli, Haydon calls upon him, i. 27; he becomes keeper of the Academy, 29; Haydon's criticism on his style, 32; and description of his appearance and habits, 33; letter to Haydon, 36; his remark on the smoke of London, 55; attends to the hanging of Haydon's first picture, 63; testimonial presented to him by the students, 72; argument on Christianity, 99; criticises Dentatus, 109, 114; Canova's criticism on, 322; Wordsworth's remark on it, iii. 223; his death, ii. 100; Haydon's criticism on him, 101.
- Gainsborough, T., Wordsworth's anecdote of, iii. 221.
- Galt, J., his conduct when editor of the Courier, ii. 358.
- Garrison, Lloyd, an abolitionist, iii. 157.
- Gerard, Baron, his portrait of Napoleon; Haydon's criticism on his works, i. 271.
- Gifford, W., his critique on Endymion, i. 360.
- Giorgione, his colouring, iii. 187.
- Giotto, oil painting in his time, iii. 302.
- Goderich, Lord, sits to Haydon, ii. 359; opinion on art patronage, 360.
- Godwin, W., his pecuniary difficulties, ii. 41.
- Goethe orders a set of Elgin Marble casts, i. 378; his letter to Haydon, ii. 327.
- Goldsmith, Oliver, anecdote of, iii. 315.
- Greswell, Mr., his views as to Oxford art professorships, iii. 273.
- Grey, Earl, commissions Haydon to paint the Reform Banquet, ii. 345; Haydon's sketch of him, 347, 362; picture of him musing, 365; his amiability, 385; his opinion on art, 386; on pictures for the House of Lords, 391.
- Grand Duke of Russia, Haydon's interview with the, i. 369.
- Greenwich Hospital, the Painted Hall, ii. 248.
- Guercino, criticism on, iii. 73.
- Gurwood, Colonel, anecdotes of Wellington by him, iii. 156; his death, 320.
- Gwatkin, Mrs., Sir J. Reynolds's niece; letter on his Discourses, iii. 269; Haydon's visit to, 313; her reminiscences, 314.
- Gwilt, Mr., his Summary of the History of Art Academies, iii. 33.
- Hallam, Mr., conversation with Haydon on the frescos, iii. 304, 306; his opinion on the decorations of the Houses of Parliament, 286.
- Hamel, Dr., physician to the Grand Duke of Russia, i. 398.
- Hammond, Sir T., his anecdotes of George IV., ii. 261, 263, 332.
- Harman, Mr., his generosity to Haydon; their quarrel and reconciliation, iii. 194.
- Hart, S. A., iii. 323.
- Harvey, W., a pupil of Haydon, i. 354.
- H. B., Haydon's criticism on, ii. 323.
- Haydon, Benjamin Robert: birth, i. 3; family, 4–6; childhood, 7; his first attempts at drawing, 8; he is sent to the Plymouth Grammar School—his first drawing from nature, 10; his description of the Plymouth volunteers, 11; is sent to the Plympton Grammar School, 12; his drawings there, 13; is sent to Exeter—returns to Plymouth—is apprenticed to his father—his dislike for his occupation, 14; determines to become an artist—his illness and loss of sight, 15; he reads Reynolds's Discourses, 16; overcomes his father's opposition and goes to London, 21; his studies there, 22; he is introduced to Prince Hoare, 23; to Northcote, 24; to Opie, 25; to Smirke, 26; and to Fuseli, 27; his drawing from the Discobolas, 34; is summoned to Plymouth, 35; Fuseli's letter to him, 36; returns to London, 33; remarks on Nelson's character, 40; visits Wilkie, 41; attends Bell's Lectures on Anatomy, 43; account of Wilkie's success, 45–48; anecdotes of Wilkie, 49–52; he falls in love, 52; letter to him from Wilkie, 53; receives a commission for a historical picture from Lord Mulgrave, 53; commences "Joseph and Mary," 55; his earnestness of feeling, 56; he is visited by Sir G. Beaumont, 57; his delight and that of his family, 58; dines with Sir G. Beaumont, 59; is advised not to exhibit his picture, 61; his anxiety as to its fate, 62; its success, 63; Sir G. Beaumont's letters to him, 64, 66; account of the testimonial presented to Fuseli, 69–73; his friends in Rathbone Place, 74–78; goes down to Plymouth, 79; practises portrait painting, 79; his mother's illness, 80; her death, 85; returns to London, 88; his opinion of portrait painting, 88; engaged in painting Dentatus, 88; his difficulties, 89; his first sight of the Elgin Marbles, 91; his drawings from them, 95, 96; reads Homer and Virgil, 99; his remarks on his journals, 107; works at Dentatus, 108, 109; his anxiety, 113; writes upon art, 111, 113; his advance in society, 119; finishes Dentatus, 121; it is exhibited, 123; its unfair treatment, 127; goes to Devonshire with Wilkie, 128; visit to Sir G. Beaumont, 133; his picture of Macbeth commenced, 136; dispute with Sir G. Beaumont, 136–145; Dentatus gains the prize at the British Institution, 146; dissection of a lioness, 147; mould of a negro, 149; be.

gins to incur debts, 152; difficulties, 153; is a candidate for admission to the Academy, 157; his literary controversy with Leigh Hunt, 172; finishes his Macbeth, 175; his liabilities, 175; he attacks Payne Knight and the Academy, 178; commences Solomon's Judgment, 184; his treatment by the directors of the British Gallery, 190; his pecuniary difficulties, 193; he visits Cheddar, 198; studies Italian, 200; his designs for the House of Lords, 207; remarks on public encouragement of art, 209; on beauty, 215; letter to Wilkie, 219; death of his father, 232; his health gives way, 233; success of his Judgment of Solomon, 237; he goes to Paris with Wilkie, 243; his impressions of France, 243–283; returns to England, 284; is voted a hundred guineas by the British Institution, 284; is presented with the freedom of Plymouth, 285; commences the Entry into Jerusalem, 289; receives a commission from Sir George Beaumont, 306; and another from Mr. G. Philipps, 308; visits Brighton, 314; his despondency, 317; employed in taking casts from the Elgin Marbles, 317; meets Canova, 319; his triumph over the depreciators of the Elgin Marbles, 323; his arguments in favour of borrowing, 324; receives Wordsworth's sonnets, 325; his reply to Payne Knight's Critique on the Phygaleian Marbles, 330; his letter "On the Judgment of Connoisseurs," &c., attacking Payne Knight, 332–340; its effect, 340; he falls in love, 343; his first visit to a money-lender, 345; he becomes involved in debts, 347; his proposal to the directors of the British Institution of a plan for premiums, 348; he sells Macbeth to Sir G. Beaumont, 349; notice of his pupils, 354; he writes in Elmes' "Annals of Art," 356; becomes acquainted with Keats, 359; argument with Shelley on Christianity, 362; his abhorrence of scepticism, 364; copies by him and his pupils of the Cartoons, 365; receives advice and pecuniary aid from Sir G. Beaumont, 368; is introduced to the Grand Duke of Russia, 369; Mr. Harman's kindness to him, 373; visits Oxford, 377; his pupils copy the Elgin Marbles, 379; he is attacked in the "Catalogue Raisonné," 375; and in Blackwood, 379; is assisted by Mr. Coutts, 382; Wordsworth meets Keats at his house, 384; their dinner party, 385; he receives a commission from Russia, 389; his pamphlet and arguments as to altarpieces, 390; writes to Canning on the subject, 391; correspondence with Keats, 392; refuses the offer of a free passage to Italy, 398; finishes his Jerusalem, 399; it is exhibited, 403; his introduction to Scott, 407; sends his Jerusalem to Scotland, 411; visits Edinburgh, 412; results of the Exhibition, 416; paints Christ in the Garden for Sir G. Philipps, 418; commences his Lazarus, 419; reflections on suicide, ii. 17; his idleness, 20. 22.; he is arrested, 23; his description of the Coronation, 27; his marriage, 29; fresh difficulties, 33; progress of his Lazarus, 34; an execution in his house, 42; birth of a child, 43; completion of Lazarus, 43; prepares to exhibit it, 49; its glazing, 50; the exhibition, 52; commences the Crucifixion, 53; is again arrested, 55; elected a member of the Russian Academy, 57; his petition to the Commons, 57; he passes through the

Insolvent Court, 64; his appeals to public men, 65; he paints portraits, 67; parts with his books, 72; his picture of Silenus, 74; another distraint for rent, 75; fresh efforts with Statesmen 77; his impression of Moore, 81; his hatred of portrait-painting, 84; thoughts on Homer, 86; his dejection, 88; he is assisted by Mr. Kearsey, on conditions, 91; his portraits criticised, 96; he receives a commission for Pharaoh, 98; contest between portraits and history, 99; criticism on Martin's paintings, 100; recollections of Fuseli, 101; exhibits Solomon at the British Institution, 104; reflections on rank and genius, 107; on conversation with a patron, 110; progress of his Pharaoh, 111; his opinion of Sheridan, 114; finishes Pharaoh, 119; application to Canning, 121; petitions the Commons, 124; finishes Venus and Anchises, 127; his unwillingness to exhibit it, 128; he begins Alexander taming Bucephalus, 129; its progress, 132; kindness of Lord Egremont, 130. 137.; change of his feelings towards the Academy, 135; his desire for a reconciliation, 138; he visits the Academicians, 139; fresh difficulties, 151; conversation with Reinagle on the fate of his pictures, 152; his visit to Petworth, 154; concludes Alexander, 157; begins Euclès, 157; law expenses, 160; finishes Alexander, 164; commissioned to paint Euclès for Lord Egremont, 167; another execution, 168; his kindness to Lough, 174; arrested for debt, 174; statement of his affairs, 176; a public meeting in his behalf, 179; anecdotes of the Queen's Bench, 180–187; picture of The Mock Election, 184; visit to Lord Brougham, 195; picture of Chairing the Member, 197; purchased by the King, 204; visit to Stratford-on-Avon, 215; exhibition of his Chairing the Member, 224; correspondence with the Duke of Wellington, 226; conversations with Wilkie, 232; commences Punch, 237; its completion, 243; his visit to Plymouth, 249; anecdotes of Napoleon's army, 250; his maxims for his step-son, 252; criticism on Sir J. Lawrence, 255; his remarks on the election of President of the Academy, 259; he commences his picture of Xenophon, 264; his Euclès raffled for, 266; statement of his affairs, 267; he is arrested again, 269; applies to Sir R. Peel, 270; King's Bench experiences, 271; again petitions the House of Commons, 274; again passes through the Insolvent Court, 280; remarks on the French Revolution of July, 281; correspondence with the Duke, 287; appeal to the directors of the British Institution, 292; receives a commission from Sir R. Peel, 295; commences Napoleon, 297; its completion, 303; Wordsworth's letter and sonnet to him, 307; visit to Oxford, 308; dejection, 313; letter to the Times on the Reform Bill, 317; his picture of Waiting for the Times, 319; death of his daughter, 325; he receives a letter from Goethe, 327; exhibition of his pictures, 331; picture of the Newhall Hill meeting, 341; anecdotes of the Trades' Unions, 342; his picture of the Reform Banquet, 346; his interview with the leaders of the Reform party, 347–387; death of a boy Alfred, 376; description of a debate in the Lords, 380; he is arrested, 381; death of a boy Harry, 390; he begins Cassandra, 391; exhibition

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07381-3 - Life of Benjamin Robert Haydon Historical Painter: From His Autobiography and Journals: Volume 3

Edited by Tom Taylor

Index

More information

INDEX.

415

- of the Reform Banquet, 392; increased difficulties, 397; conversations on art with Lord Melbourne, 398, 405; completes Cassandra for the Duke of Sutherland, 405; commences Achilles, iii. 3; commissioned to paint Wellington at Waterloo, 5; correspondence with the Duke, 5, 7—11; he again petitions the Commons, 13; picture of We are a Ruined Nation, 18; death of a daughter, 19; commences Christ Raising the Widow's Son, 21; lectures on art, 22; pecuniary distress, 22; meeting of his creditors, 23; conversation with Lord Melbourne on decorating the House of Lords, 24; sketches for that purpose, 25; begins a picture of The Magi, 28; second lecture, 29; an execution stayed by Lord Melbourne's aid, 29; receives a commission from Lord Audley, 31; anecdotes of Lord Audley, 32; remarks on Sunday-working, 34; lectures, 34; Xenophon raffled for, 35; death of his youngest child, 35; his style of lecturing described, 36; examined before the Fine Arts Committee, 41; again arrested, 47; letter from the King's Bench to Sir R. Peel, 49, 50, 51; passes again through the Insolvent Court, 54; another statement to his creditors, 55; correspondence with Mr. Newton, 57; conversation with Wilkie, 59; his lectures, 62; argument with Poulett Thomson about the School of Design, 64; lectures at Edinburgh, 68; at Manchester, 70; applies for the appointment of historical painter to the Queen, 70; commences his Maid of Saragossa, 71; writes in The Spectator, 73; commissioned to paint Christ Blessing little Children, for the Liverpool Blind Asylum, 74; lectures at Manchester, 79; his visit to Drayton, 81; his design for the Nelson Monument, 82; death of his step-son, Simon Hymen, 85; ride to Hounslow, 91; anecdotes of Wellington, 93; correspondence with the Duke on Wyatt's statue, 96; finishes the Liverpool picture, 97; lectures at Liverpool, 99; commissioned to paint Wellington at Waterloo, 100; letter from Sir R. Peel, 102; picture of Milton, 103; lecture at Newcastle; remarks on Chartism, 105; correspondence with the Duke, 107; progress of the Waterloo picture, 109; an evening with Wilkie, 110; his design for the Nelson Monument rejected, 111; difficulties about the Duke's clothes, 113; visit to Waterloo, 117; visit to Walmer, 120—129; political lucubrations, 135; lectures at Oxford, 137; correspondence with Wordsworth, 138; paints Napoleon Musing, for Mr. Rogers, 144; the Highland Lovers, for Mr. Miller, 146; remarks on West's pictures, 147; paints Romeo and Juliet, 148; account of his pupils, 151; accommodation bills, 152; his sketch of the Anti-slavery Convention, 154; the abolitionists, 157; Wordsworth's sonnet on his picture of Wellington, 160; lectures at Birmingham, 166; sketches: O'Connell, 169; visits Thos. Clarkson, 179; death of Wilkie, 176—184; definition of suicide, 185; notes on English art, l. 187; his first lesson in fresco, 189; first attempts, 190; letter to Sir R. Peel, 192; reconciliation with Mr. Harman, 194; engaged on fresco-paintings, 199; lecture on fresco, 203; commences Alexander and Curtius, 205, 206; pecuniary difficulties, 208; letters from Rumohr, 209; Report of the Fine Arts Commission, 214; remarks on cartoons, 215; visit to Woolwich, 219; to Windsor, 224; begins his cartoon, 229; pecuniary wants, 230; progress of his cartoon, 236; Miss Barrett's sonnet on his portrait of Wordsworth, 237; at work on Curtius, 239; begins his cartoon of the Black Prince, 242; procures armour from the Tower, 243; exhibits Curtius, 244; letter to Eastlake, 245; finishes his cartoons, 247; misery and relief, 249; exhibits Saragossa, 259; sends in his cartoons, 251; he is unsuccessful, 253; his disappointment, 254; remarks on the prize cartoons, 255; commences Nelson at Copenhagen, 255; his remarks on his failure, 256; remarks on his ill success, 259; letter to the Duke of Sutherland, 263; pictures of Napoleon, 266; finishes Alexander, 267; letter from Sir J. Reynolds's niece, 269; more Napoleons, 272; lectures at the Royal Institution, 275; letter from S. Kirkup, 275; raffles Saragossa, 280; letter on decorating the Exchange, 283; criticisms on the frescos exhibited at Westminster, 284; at work on his Uriel, 286; his son's college expenses, 287; remarks on competition, 289; publishes a volume of lectures, 289; sketches Aristides, 291; remarks on decoration, 295; on Conservatism, 295; prayer for success of Aristides, 297; picture of Satan, 299; plan for the Academy, 301; Uriel praised in the Times, 303; conversation with Mr. Hallam on the frescos, 304; letter to Wordsworth on his going to Court, 305; criticism on modern German art, 310; finishes Aristides, 311; a Napoleon purchased by the King of Hanover, 312; commences Nero, 313; visits Mrs. Gwatkin, 313; his son appointed to a Government office by Sir R. Peel, 317; prayer at the end of the year, 321; results of his exhibitions, 324; his advertisement, 325; letter from Wordsworth on his portrait, 327; pecuniary difficulties, 328; lectures at Edinburgh, 332; exhibition of Nero and Aristides, 336; its failure, 344; commences Alfred, 339; prayers for success, 347; assistance from Peel, 348; final difficulties, 349; his death, 360; his will, 351; the inquest, 353; his character, 355; character of his times as respects art, 357; his qualities as an artist, 360; Mr. Watt's estimate of them, 362—365, and remarks on the public employment of artists, 368—376. Haynes, Rev. W., head master of Plympton Grammar School, i. 12. Hazlitt, W., i. 226, 242; his child's christening, 227; effect produced on him by Napoleon's overthrow, 303; his article on the "Catalogue Raisonné," 376; his pecuniary difficulties, 411. Higginson, Lieut., story of Wilkie and the Blind Fiddler, iii. 293; anecdotes of Napoleon, 298. Hill, Lord, his reply to Haydon about Waterloo, ii. 383. Hilton, W., his generosity, i. 232; his picture at Liverpool, iii. 74; his want of success, 359. Hoare, Prince, notice of, i. 24; introduces Haydon to Northcote and Opie, 25; letter on Macbeth, 156; conversation with Haydon, 183. Holland, Lady, her advice to Dickens, iii. 319. Homer, i. 99. 161, 164; ii. 86.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07381-3 - Life of Benjamin Robert Haydon Historical Painter: From His Autobiography and Journals: Volume 3

Edited by Tom Taylor

Index

More information

416

INDEX.

- Hope, Thomas, purchases Haydon's Joseph and Mary, i. 61.
- Hoppner, John, R. A., his style, i. 63; his portrait of Pitt, 64.
- Hoppner, Mrs., her interview with Gifford, i. 360.
- Howard, Henry, R. A., Haydon's visit to, ii. 145.
- Hume, Joseph, M. P., place-hunter's dread of him, ii. 122; feeling towards art, 368; inquiry into the affairs of the Academy, iii. 117.
- Hunt, J., his kindness to Haydon, i. 153.
- Hunt, Leigh, his opinions of Dentatus, i. 122; meets Haydon, 171; their literary controversy, 172; his imprisonment, 220. 224.; his opinions of Napoleon, 303; his meeting with Haydon in 1840, iii. 134.
- Huxley, notice of, iii. 100.
- Hyman, Orlando, Haydon's visit to him at Oxford, ii. 308.
- Hyman, Simon, his death, iii. 85.
- Jackson, John, R. A., account of, i. 30; anecdote of his indolence, i. 31.; Lord Mulgrave cuts off his income, i. 45; his portrait of Haydon, i. 111.
- Jameson, Mrs., iii. 158.
- Jeffrey, Lord, Haydon's description of him; his account of Lord Althorp's behaviour after resignation, ii. 371; his conversation, 373; east taken of him, 18; his opinion of Wordsworth, iii. 332.
- Jerusalem, the Entry into, Haydon's picture, i. 399; exhibited, 403; exhibited in Scotland, 415; its success, 416; sold, ii. 66; purchased by an American, 314.
- Johns, Mr., i. 15.
- Johnson, Dr., anecdotes of, iii. 315.
- Joseph and Mary, Haydon's picture, commenced, i. 55; its progress, 57; exhibited, 63; sold, 61; Juliet, Haydon's picture, ii. 96; iii. 148.
- Kearsey, Mr., letter to Haydon, ii. 89; his proposal of aid, 91; purchases Haydon's Puck, 93; Juliet painted for him, 96; his death, iii. 179.
- Keats, John, Haydon's description of him, i. 359; the critique on his Endymion, 360; sonnets by him, 360; anecdotes of him, 361; attacks on him in Blackwood, 379; dines at Haydon's with Wordsworth and Lamb, 384; his letter and lines from Devon, 393; his death, ii. 9.; Haydon's lament over him, 10.
- Kemble, J., compared with Mrs. Siddons, ii. 97.
- Kenp, Mr., kindness to Haydon, iii. 341, 342.
- Kirkup, Seymour, his description of the fête of the Buonarroti family, iii. 275.
- Knight, Payne, Haydon's attack on, in the Examiner, i. 178; his depreciation of the Elgin Marbles, i. 295.; his critique on the Phygaleian Marbles, i. 329; Haydon's reply, 330; Haydon's attack upon him in his letter on the Elgin Marbles, 332.
- Lamb, Charles, his remarks on Voltaire, i. 385; Haydon's dinner party, 384; his behaviour thereat, 386; offends a comptroller of taxes, 387; his Latin verses to Haydon, ii. 13; his criticism on Haydon's Alexander, 164; on his Chairing the Member, 224.
- Lambton, Mr. (Lord Durham), views on public encouragement of art, ii. 77.
- Lance, —, one of Haydon's pupils, iii. 153.
- Landseer, Sir E. and C., Haydon's pupils, i. 354.
- Lansdowne, Lady, Wilkie's portrait of, i. 99.
- Lawrence, Sir J., i. 179; elected president, 407; his portrait of Wellington, ii. 117; his criticism on Haydon's Alexander, 165; criticisms on him, 148. 209. 235. 254.; his house after his death, 339.
- Lazarus, Haydon's picture, commenced, i. 419; finished, ii. 43; exhibited, 52; sold, 66.
- Lazarus, Sebastiano del Piombo's picture, Haydon's criticism on, i. 157.
- Leake, Col. iii. 309.
- Leycester, Sir J., Haydon's commission from him, ii. 127.
- Lockart, Mr., his kindness to Haydon; his misunderstanding with Mr. J. Scott, ii. 7.
- London smoke, remarks of Haydon and Fuseli on, i. 54, 55.
- Long, Sir C., afterwards Lord Farnborough, addressed by Haydon on altar-pieces, i. 390; Haydon's interviews with, ii. 65, 122.
- Lough, the sculptor, his Milo, ii. 168; exhibited, 172; his boyhood, 169; early struggles, 172; his Musidora, 201.
- Macbeth, Haydon's picture, i. 136; finished, 175; exhibited, 190; purchased by Sir G. Beaumont, 340.
- Macdonald, Mr., Wilkie's patron, iii. 201.
- Mackay, Dr., his account of the Mexican treaty, ii. 180.
- Maclise, Daniel, R. A., iii. 188.
- Mahon, Lord, on decorating the Houses of Parliament, iii. 286.
- Majoribanks, Mr., assists Haydon, iii. 327.
- Mansfield, Lord, he gives Wilkie a commission for the Village Politicians, i. 43; his conduct about the price, 47, 49.
- Martin, J., criticisms on, ii. 91. 111. 209, 210.
- Mary, Queen of Scots, Haydon's picture, iii. 145, 184.
- Masaccio, copied by Raffaele, iii. 323.
- Meek, Mr., anecdotes of Napoleon, iii. 72.
- Melbourne, Lord, Haydon's sketch of him, ii. 353; his remarks on art, 354; Haydon's opinion of him, 356; his style of speaking, 350; remarks on Academies of Art, 382; his enjoyment of a City ball, 383; conversations with Haydon on art, and its claims on government, 398. 400. 403. 405; iii. 6. 13; conversation on decorating the House of Lords, 24; his criticism on Haydon's designs, 25; his present to Haydon, 29; approval of fresco, 206.
- Mellon, Miss, afterwards Mrs. Coutts, i. 383.
- Michel Angelo, criticism on, iii. 150.
- Millingen, Dr., i. 75.
- Milo, Lough's statue, ii. 170; exhibited, 173.
- Milton, Haydon's picture of, iii. 103.
- Mitford, Miss, sonnet to Haydon by, ii. 68.
- Mock Election, Haydon's description and picture of the, ii. 182, 184.
- Monkhouse, Mr., i. 337.
- Moore, T., Haydon's remarks on, ii. 81. 116.
- Mordwinoff, Captain, marries Haydon's aunt, i. 5; exiled, 6.
- Morley, Lord, i. 80.
- Mott, Lucretia, iii. 157.
- Mulgrave, Lord, i. 109, 110. 118; patronises Jackson, 30; gives Wilkie a commission, 46; commissions Haydon to paint a historical picture, 53; opinion of Milton, 67; be-

- comes First Lord of the Admiralty, 68; anecdote of the Copenhagen Expedition, 119; remark on Wellington, 120; wishes to send Haydon to Italy, 340.
- Mulready, William, R. A., his picture of the Whistonian Controversy, iii. 278.
- Nelson, Lord, i. 112. 214–217; Haydon's opinion of, 40; his funeral, 41; design for his monument, iii. 82; Haydon's picture of him at Copenhagen, 255.
- Nero, Haydon's picture, commenced, iii. 313; progress, 319; exhibited, 336.
- Newhall Hill Meeting, Haydon's picture of the, ii. 341.
- Newton, Mr., his kindness to Haydon, iii. 17. 21. 27; correspondence with Haydon, 57–59.
- Nicholas, the Grand Duke of Russia, i. 369.
- Northcote, James, R. A., his reception of Haydon, i. 25; conduct as Exhibition Hanger, 63; his ill-nature, ii. 21; Haydon varnishes his picture, 105.
- Nugent, Lord, Haydon's sketch of, ii. 351.
- O'Connell, D., Haydon's description of him, ii. 387; his remarks on Repeal, 388, 389; conversation with Haydon, 390; iii. 169.
- Olenin, President of the Russian Academy, i. 390.
- Opie, Amelia, iii. 159.
- Opie, John, R. A.; his reception of Haydon, i. 25; his death, 73; Haydon's opinion of his lectures, 74.
- Palmerston, Lord, sits to Haydon, ii. 392.
- Paul, Sir J., his examination before the Fine Arts Committee, iii. 43.
- Peel, Sir R., his kindness to Haydon, ii. 270. 277; Napoleon painted for, 295; gives F. Haydon an appointment, iii. 317; assists Haydon, 348; letter to Haydon on his picture of Wellington, 102.
- Perkins, Mr., Haydon's landlord; his kindness, i. 195.
- Pharaoh, Haydon's picture, commissioned, ii. 98; finished, 119.
- Phillips, Sir G., Haydon's picture for, i. 308. 418; at Sir J. Reynolds's sale, ii. 21.
- Phillips, Thomas, R. A., visit to, ii. 146.
- Phygaliean Marbles, arrival of the, i. 329; depreciated by Payne Knight, 329; Haydon's reply, 330.
- Pickersgill, H. W., ii. 268.
- Picture cleaning, opinion on, by Wilkie, i. 363; by Haydon, iii. 289.
- Piombo, Sebastiano del, Haydon's remarks on his Lazarus, i. 157.
- Pitt, Right Hon. W., remark of George IV. on his portrait, i. 64; Wordsworth's opinion of, 298.
- Plunkett, Lord, sits to Haydon, ii. 374; remarks of, 375.
- Plymouth volunteers, i. 11.
- Plympton Grammar School, i. 12.
- Poictiers, Haydon's picture of, iii. 209.
- Porter, the Misses, their visit to Lord Abercorn, iii. 18.
- Puck, Haydon's picture, ii. 93.
- Punch, Haydon's picture, commenced, ii. 237; described, 243.
- Raeburn, Sir H., ii. 62.
- Raffaele, i. 210., ii. 15; his School of Athens, i. 275; the Cartoons, 186.
- Reform Banquet. Haydon's picture, ii. 346; exhibited, 392.
- Reinagle, conversation with Haydon, ii. 152.
- Rembrandt, remarks on, i. 301.
- Reynolds, Sir J., i. 132. 169. iii. 316; criticism on, ii. 20. iii. 84; effect of his Discourses on Haydon, i. 16; sale of his pictures, ii. 21; his portrait of Lord Heathfield, 79; irritability of, 149; changes in his style, iii. 89. 111; authorship of his Discourses, 269; his resignation of the Presidency, 270.
- Richmond, Duke of, remark on Waterloo, ii. 371; his opinion of fagging, 372.
- Richter, i. 187.
- Rigo, M., his anecdote of Napoleon, i. 165, 166.
- Riley, Mr., i. 119.
- Ritchie, the traveller, i. 388.
- Rogers, Mr., iii. 76; his court suit, 305; criticism on Haydon's Napoleon, 130.
- Rossi, J. C. Felix, R. A., Haydon rents his house, i. 374.
- Rosslyn, Lady, anecdote of, ii. 381.
- Rostopchin, Count, his account of the burning of Moscow, iii. 93.
- Royal Academy, examination of the president before the Fine Arts Committee, iii. 41; remarks on its formation, 44.
- Rubens, i. 273; his Lion Hunt, 161; his Rape of Proserpine, 378; his Antwerp pictures, iii. 118.
- Rumohr, letters to Haydon, iii. 209; on Modern Art, 210. 225; on German Art, 212. 215; on Allegory, 220; on Cartoons, 233; on German Art, 238.
- Russell, Lord J., sits to Haydon, ii. 356.
- Sam, Academy porter, Wilkie and Haydon's visit to, i. 102.
- Sammons, Corporal, i. 202. 311.
- Sauerweid, a Russian artist, introduces Haydon to the Grand Duke, i. 369; procures him a commission from Russia, 389.
- Saragossa, the Maid of, Haydon's picture, iii. 71. 214. 217. 219; raffled, 280.
- Satan, Haydon's picture of, commenced, iii. 299.
- Scobell, Mr., an abolitionist, iii. 157.
- Scott, J., editor of the Champion, his letter from Paris, i. 316; critique on the Elgin Marbles, 329; killed in a duel, ii. 7; his funeral, 8.
- Scott, Sir Walter, Haydon's introduction to, i. 407; meets him in Edinburgh, 414; compared with Wordsworth, ii. 12; assists Godwin, 41; letter to Haydon, 60; visits him, 207; his last visit to London, 321; anecdote of his childhood, iii. 144; his MSS. 333.
- Seguier, —, i. 168.
- Shaw, the life-guardsmen, i. 312.
- Sheridan, R. B., anecdotes of, ii. 115. 381.
- Shee, Sir Martin Archer, Haydon's visit to, ii. 139; elected president, 259; examined before the Fine Arts Committee, iii. 41. 42.
- Shelley, Percy Bysshe, argument against Christianity, i. 363.
- Shuttleworth, Dr., anecdotes of Wellington, iii. 138.
- Sibthorpe, Colonel, his advice to orators, iii. 143.
- Siddons, Mrs., remarks on her acting, i. 100; ii. 97; her Shakspeare readings, ii. 7; her criticism on Haydon's Jerusalem, i. 404; Haydon's letter to, 405.
- Silenus, Haydon's picture, ii. 67. 74.

- Smirke, Robert, R. A., his kind reception of Haydon, i. 26; his election as keeper of the Academy annulled by George III. i. 27.
- Smith, Horace, i. 362, 378.
- Smith, Patience, the gipsy model, i. 229.
- Smith, Sydney, sermon by, i. 110; anecdotes of, i. 19; iii. 221.
- Soane, Sir J., his pamphlet, i. 178, 182; Haydon's visit to, ii. 146.
- Solomon, The Judgment of, Haydon's picture, i. 183; commenced, 184; finished, 235; its success, 237; its fate, 285; re-appearance, iii. 165.
- Sonnistor's Dream, Haydon's satire on the Academy, i. 366.
- Somersset, Lord Fitzroy, anecdotes of Wellington, iii. 114.
- Southey, R., reviews Haydon's pamphlet, i. 397.
- Stael, Madame de, her opinion of Coleridge, ii. 313.
- Stothard, Thos., R. A., compared with Chantrey, ii. 107; Haydon's visit to, 144.
- Stratford-on-Avon, Haydon's visit to, ii. 215.
- Strutt, Jos., ii. 224.
- Sturge, J., evening at his house, iii. 166.
- Suicide, Haydon's reflections on, ii. 17; iii. 320.
- Sussex, Duke of, description of the, ii. 365, 375; political remarks of, 383.
- Sutherland, Duchess of, kindness to Haydon, iii. 104.
- Sutherland, Duke of, assists Haydon, ii. 404.
- Talfourd, Sir T. N., aids Haydon, iii. 243.
- Talma, his Hamlet, i. 266.
- Talleyrand, anecdote of, ii. 372.
- Terry, the actor, articles in Blackwood by, i. 379.
- Thompson, Poulett, his opinion of Schools of Design, iii. 64.
- Titian, criticisms on pictures of, i. 44, 273; iii. 73; compared with Rubens, i. 223; his colouring, iii. 235.
- Turner, J. M. W., i. 356; Canova's admiration of his works, 322; his Trafalgar, ii. 78.
- Uriel, Haydon's picture of, iii. 296; exhibited, 299.
- Vandvke, criticism on, i. 160, 167; ii. 105.
- Van Holst, Theodore, his funeral, iii. 271.
- Vansittart, Right Hon. N., his answer to Haydon's suggestions on encouragement of art, i. 391.
- Venus and Anchises, Haydon's picture exhibited, ii. 127.
- Vernet, Horace, visits Haydon, iii. 280.
- Vinci, Leonardo da, his Struggle for the Standard, i. 161.
- Voltaire, introduced into Haydon's Jerusalem, i. 359; Charles Lamb's definition of, 385; Haydon's remarks on, ii. 71.
- Wagen, Dr., his opinion of academies, iii. 43.
- Washington, General, anecdote of, iii. 334.
- Waterloo, news of the battle arrives, i. 301; description of it by the life-guardsmen, 310, 311; the proposed monument, 305.
- Watts, G. F., iii. 361; his estimate of Haydon as an artist, 362; remarks on the public employment of artists, 368.
- Webb, —, an old pupil of Haydon, wins the Saragossa, iii. 280.
- Wellesley, Marquis of, i. 206.
- Wellington, Duke of, anecdotes of, iii. 93–95, 114, 120, 156; Lord Mulgrave's remark on, i. 120; Wilkie's visit from, 351; his remark on habit, 374; correspondence with Haydon, ii. 226, 287; his style of speaking, 350; correspondence with Haydon on his Waterloo picture, iii. 5–11, 107, 111; on Wyatt's statue, 96; Haydon's visit to him at Walmer, 120–129; his conduct in money matters, 138; Wordsworth's sonnet on his picture, 160; anecdote of a button-maker at Waterloo, 247; confidence of the army in, 277; scene with Bailey, 281; anecdote of, at Waterloo, 343.
- West, Benjamin, opinion on the Elgin Marbles of, i. 94; drawings from them by, 117; letter to Lord Elgin, 170; kindness to Haydon, 234; Canova's remark on, 322; his funeral, 409; criticism on, i. 185, ii. 242; sale of his Annunciation, iii. 146.
- Westminster Hall, the Cartoon Exhibition at, iii. 253; Haydon's remarks on it, 254; the premiums adjudged, 255; the fresco competition, 278.
- Wilkie, Sir David, i. 41, 55, 180, 201, 218., iii. 104; description of, i. 33; engaged to copy Barry's pictures, 42; his appearance in Haydon's coat, 43; commissioned to paint the Village Politicians, 43; his drawings for Bell's Anatomy of Expression, 44; hesitates about exhibiting the Village Politicians, 46; its success, and his delight, 47; Lord Mansfield's conduct towards him about the price, 47; his use of the word "really," 48; conduct after success, 50; his present to his family, 51; progress of his Blind Fiddler, 51; criticism on his colouring, 52; letter to Haydon, 53; coldness towards Haydon, 61, 125; success of his Blind Fiddler, 63; his friends in Rathbone Place 74–78; portrait of Lady Lansdowne, 99; visits Devonshire with Haydon, 128; goes to Sir G. Beaumont's seat, 133; want of appreciation of the Elgin Marbles, 151; finds a rival in Bird of Bristol, 154; withdraws his picture from the Exhibition, 155; his illness, 155; visits Sir G. Beaumont at Dummow, 156; visits Paris with Haydon, 243–275; his Distraining for Rent purchased by the British Institution, 306; paints the Chelsea Pensioners, 350, 351; his opinion of picture cleaning, 353; his first speech at the Academy, ii. 6; Haydon's opinion of his influence on English art, 76; portrait of George IV. at Holyrood, 84; his family troubles, 104; illness, 106; Haydon's thoughts on seeing the Blind Fiddler in the National Gallery, 151; Haydon's comparison of Wilkie with himself, 162; returns to England, 212; conversations on art with Haydon, 232; change of style, 245; proposed as President of the Academy, 258; appointed the king's serjeant painter, 258; his account of his early quarrel with Haydon, 406; conversation with Haydon after his knighthood, iii. 60; his pictures of General Baird and Cellini, 95; spends an evening with Haydon, 110; recollections of early days, 144; his death, 176; Haydon's sorrow, 177, 184; details as to his death, 227; his memoirs, 248; anecdote of him at Lawrence's funeral, 250; supposed original of the Blind Fiddler, 295.
- Wilson, Professor, of Edinburgh, i. 415.
- Wood, J., iii. 288.
- Woodburn, W., iii. 226.

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07381-3 - Life of Benjamin Robert Haydon Historical Painter: From
His Autobiography and Journals: Volume 3

Edited by Tom Taylor

Index

More information

INDEX.

419

- Wordsworth, W., i. 135, 297; Haydon's opinion of, 298; letter and sonnets to Haydon, 325; dines at Haydon's with Keats and Lamb, 384; his official admirer, 386; comparison with Scott, ii. 12; with Moore, 81; sonnet on Haydon's Napoleon, 307; correspondence with Haydon, iii. 139; sonnet on Haydon's Wellington, 160. 377; conversation with Haydon, 219. 221; sits to Haydon 223; his knowledge of art, 223; his early democratic bias, 302; goes to Court, 305; letter to Haydon on his portrait, 327.
- Wyatt, the Wellington statue, iii. 322.
- Xenophon, Haydon's picture, commenced, ii. 264; raffled, iii. 35.

THE END.